"On the other hand," Wyatt wrote in a Labor publicity journal, "there are 19 seats held by Labor with majorities of fewer than 1,000 . . . The utmost vigilance has to be maintained to prevent them being swung against us at the next election."

Like many other Labor M.P.'s, Wyatt looks to the middle classes as the party's hope for a better showing at the polls. He considers Socialism may already have polled its maximum working-class vote — same workers, "glued to an invincible political ignorance," refuse to change their allegiance.

Middle Class Not So Fixed

The middles classes are more malleable. The best way to appeal to them is to stress the moral rather than material aspects of Socialism. They could be "lifted out of themselves" if aware that their small hardships contributed to a higher standard for others.

He opposes any soft-pedalling on nationalization measures, saying that any doubts about the effects of public ownership should be openly discussed.

Wyatt, a barrister, has often startled Parliament by his somewhat unorthodox opinions. He was one of the first to urge that Canada should accept part payment in sterling for wheat. In his opinion, expressed in the House last September, Britain should "stop being squeamish" with Canada.

Public Schools To Swim For Trophy

The largest athletic event held annually for the Public School pupils, the Public School Swimming meet for the Examiner trophy, will be held Wednesday at the YMCA. All the schools have been practising for the past month in preparation for the meet.

The boys have been divided into three age groups, 11 years and under, 15 years and under, 14 yeas and over. In the rules of the meet one contestant in each age group will comprise a team although two contestants from each school will be allowed in each event except the relays. The swimmers will be limited to three events including the relays.

The lowest age group has three events, 40 yards free style, 20 yards back stroke, and 20 yards breast stroke. The other age groups will have three events, free style, back stroke and breast stroke, all 40 yards. The medley relay will have three swimmers going the 120 yards with the back, breast and free style strokes. The other event in swimming will be the 160-yard free style relay. There will be diving events for all the age groups.

In 1949 the Examiner trophy went to King George School. The other swimming trophies were taken by King George School in the junior and intermediate, Queen Alexandra in the senior. The diving championship was won by Prince of Wales School.

was 124 to 39 to continue debate on the Alberta Natural Gas measure.

A third division came after the dinner hour when H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) again moved for adjournment. His motion was rejected by a vote of 121 to 38.

In all three votes, Liberals and Social Credit supporters voted solidly against Progressive Conservative and CCF members.

The pipe-line debate built up an impressive list of speakers. It included Maj-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC-Nanaimo), Joseph Harris (PC-Toronto Danforth), J. L. Gibson (Ind.-Comox-Alberni), John Sinnott (L-Springfield), W. J. Browne (PC-St. John's West), Mr. Maybank, Mr. Herridge, Mr. Hodgson and Mr. Courtemanche.

Aside from Mr. Maybank, they all were opposed to passage of the Bills, discussed periodically since Parliament opened February 16.

Their arguments followed this common pattern: That Canadian resources should be used first for Canadian benefit and that the pipeline companies should guarantee that their line would routed through Canada to the Pacific Coast before it branches off into the United States.

Montreal Religious Chemist Dr. Cliffe Relates Miracles Of Conversion and Healing

Seeking a solution to the problems in their lives more than a thousand persons crowded George St. United Church Monday evening to hear Dr. Albert E. Cliffe of Montreal describe how he uses faith to bring about miraculous healings and changes. His text from St. John 14, verse 10, "Of my own self I can do nothing. The Father that dwelleth in me He doeth the works", is his self-explanatory formula. Dr. Cliffe, a successful Montreal analytical chemist, states that during 35 years of life he suffered hay fever, sinus trouble, endless colds, and then ulcers of the stomach which brought him to the operating table and the verdict, "three months to live." A devoted and strict adherent of the Anglican faith who followed the high church ritual and went to confession once a month, he states he felt himself to be a good Christian man. Only the ultimatum that his life would end shortly led him to read a book which "brought me to my knees one Sunday morning eight years ago and I saw the vision of God and knew His power to heal."

From that day he re-examined his "negative thinking" and artistic temperament, and became "receptive to God and His infinite power." As a result he states "I was freed from the past and the future and knew that every hour Christ was my mainstay and guide. My religion, my church then became a much greater source of power than I had ever dreamed of." Dr. Cliffe was wearing a cassock and surplice, indication of his own denominational affiliation, but he urged: "Go to the church that pleases you most." He further stated that since his conversion the communion has become a "reality" where before it was simply a service.

He told of healings he has seen take place, as a direct result of his prayers and faith among people who are adherents of the various Protestant religions. Many take place in his office and others take place hundreds of miles away when he prays for those who write to him for help. His mail at present averages 125 letters a day and each one is answered with the help of five secretaries.

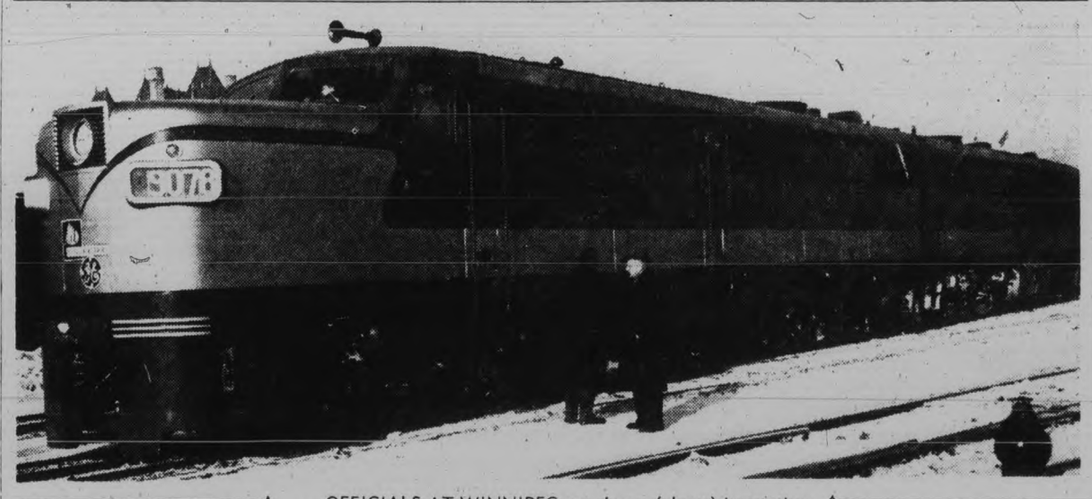
"Absent treatment works if you have faith," he says. "It is fear of what will happen to you that brings about your worries and ills." He quoted from the Book of Job, "Behold the things that I feared are come upon me."

A Lessons-in-living Bible Class has been conducted by Dr. Cliffe in the Church of St. Columba, Montreal, for the past three years. In that time he claims to have brought about 2,000 healings of incurable conditions. "In the class now are 149 men who were alcoholics and could not overcome their illness through medical treatment or AA." Another aspect of his work has been bringing about reconciliation of 85 married couples. Two years ago he gave up gainful employment and now devotes about 16 hours a day to bringing "fulness of life" to others through prayers and lectures.

He scored the people "calling themselves Christians and going to church every Sunday but not practising their religion on Monday or any other week-day." Every church should be the centre of healing but for 1,700 years nothing has been done about it and your clergymen are not taught to bring it about. You leave this work to the Christian Scientists and then ridicule them because they receive the healing."

Dr. Cliffe declares a miracle happened to him last week while conducting a mission in the "president's church" in Washington, DC. He was called by the Speaker and asked to give the prayers for the opening. A church filled to overflowing waited for his return from this appointment.

Basic teaching of Dr. Cliffe's "lessons in living" is "Find Christ within yourself." The tenth thousand printing of his book of this title is now selling in America, though published only a few months ago at his personal expense. Translated copies are selling in 27 foreign countries. Study of his writings is the "homework" he gives as director of a movement that has spread rapidly, and daily draws huge crowds to any place he may be conducting a mission. A ten minute broadcast is now allowed from Montreal each Sunday and a coast-to-coast hook-up is planned in the fall. Radio stations advised Dr. Cliffe "people do not want religious broadcasts during the week."



OFFICIALS AT WINNIPEG are shown (above) inspecting "Big Bertha", the mysterious green and gold streamlined diesel-electric locomotive which has been hauling the CNR Transcontinental Limited between Montreal and Manitoba's capital for the past seven weeks. Bucking blizzards and temperatures down to 50 below, the 4,000-h.p. demonstration diesel on loan from Montreal Locomotive Works has piled up more than 31,000 miles without once being late for any cause due to the locomotive.

Hon. Ray Lawson Will Open Swimming Pool

Plans are well under way for the opening of the Lions' Club outdoor swimming pool in Ashburnham. The club has set June 17 for the official opening by the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, the Hon. Earl Lawson who is an honorary member of the Peterborough Club.

Club officials said today they plan to hold afternoon and evening performances. Entertainment will be suppplied by swimming clubs from Hamilton, Toronto and Peterborough. Besides the ornamental and clowning swimming events the club plans to hold Ontario championship events. These have yet to be selected. Swimming clubs from Toronto West End YMCA, Toronto Central, Hamilton YMCA, Hamilton Aquatic Club, London and other Western Ontario cities are expected to send entries for the championships.

Cost of the pool and dressing rooms has now reached the $50,000 mark. It was first planned by the club to only have the pool but dressing rooms had to be added. The pool when completed will be one of the best in Ontario. Some of its features will be underwater lighting, floodlighting, a complete up-to-date filtration system, and a capacity for 1,200 to 1,500.

The construction of the pool was started a year ago but work was held up throughout the summer. Now nearly completed the club plans to fill the pool May 24.

Finances for the pool were raised through club projects such as the raffling of cars and bi-monthly bingos.

Monday night they plan to hold a similar bingo to that of two weeks ago when over 2,300 people attended.

Restaurant Owner Given Citizenship

Sih Sham Mac, Aylmer St., Monday afternoon received his citizenship certificate from His Honor Judge S. L. Smoke at the non-jury sittings of the county court.

Formerly a Chinese citizen, Mr. Mac speaks English well and is a popular member of the local Chinese community. He is co-proprietor of the Bluebird Grill, George St.

Swearing on the Bible, he undertook to bear true allegiance to King George VI and his successors and to obey the laws of Canada and fulfill the duties expected of a Canadian citizen.

In a short address Judge Smoke congratulated him and related a few of the rights and duties of citizenship. Afterwards he received the congratulations of Sheriff J. A. Harstone and two other county officials.

There were no spectators in the gallery.

City Asked To Floodlight Riverside For Night Ball

City council asked its executive committee Monday night to look into the possible financing of flood-lighting Riverside Park for baseball and other uses, and report to the committee of the whole next Monday night. Robert J. Bolton, chairman of the Recreation Commission, informed the council last night that promoters of the senior baseball club were undertaking to provide $15,000 of the estimated $35,000 cost of lights.

The additional $20,000 would be expected to be provided by the council after the helpful manner of assisting in the completion of the Civic Arena.

On a conservative estimate of park receipts from night games, Mr. Bolton said the income should pay the carrying charge of the city's financing of the project. The amount he mentioned was $4,500 a year revenue, collectible by the Recreation Commission, and payable to the city treasury.

Annual Revenue

Advocates of the plan have suggested "as a very conservative estimate," attendance of 1200 at each of the 30 games. Admission charge of 50c would provide a total of $18,000, and one-quarter of that to the Commission would be $4,500.

"Because they would contribute $15,000 to the cost of lights, I understand their first year payment would be one-quarter of the receipts, but after that it might be increased if the attendance warranted it," Mayor Swanston said.

Ald. Waddell commented that if the Council could depend on the $4,500 figure "I can't see that there would be any trouble in financing. The only risk would be in getting that annual revenue."

New Start

Ald. Herb. Young said there were broader benefits to the young people of the city which could not be estimated in dollars and cents. "We've got to start all over again and get the boys playing hard ball."

"I'm willing to go along with night ball," said Ald. Waddell, "but I think the Council should go into it carefully to see what the cost is likely to be."

Ald. Young: "It has been in our thinking for the last three years, and it will stay that way for the next five if we don't do something."

Ald. Braund: "What about using Morrow Park?"

Mayor Swanston said lights were set up for football at the Exhibition Grounds last fall, but the baseball group and the Recreation Commission preferred Riverside as the best spot for baseball.

Ald. Dodds: "The baseball team of years ago used to pay $2,000 a season for Riverside. They also paid the caretaker and took care of other expenses. Peterborough is the centre of quite a large area. We get a lot of their fans for hockey, and I think they would come in for night baseball. There are also many tourists in the area who would like to see ball games."

Question of Costs

Ald. Sands: "I agree with Ald. Dodds. Mr. Bolton is a good salesman, but I think he has left out some intangibles. He also said there would likely be some additional expense for putting the grounds in shape. We should know how much. And if they cannot get wooden poles from British Columbia, we would have to buy steel poles. That would mean another $8,000 as estimated. So, in that case, it would amount to $28,000 instead of $20,000. It is something we should go into thoroughly."

Ald. J. A. Dewart ended the discussion with a motion asking the executive committee to consider the cost details and report Monday night. It was seconded by Ald. Young.

One of the incidental remarks was an expression of a general wish that the interest of the schools as in other years when they were developing young hardball teams might be revived

City Bus Mired On Western Ave.

The bottom fell out of a stretch of Western Ave. this morning, stalling a Charlotte St. west bus on the slope south of the west end of Frank St. Frost had heaved and broken the surface, and the bus was skirting the soft spots as widely as possible. It became mired at 10 a.m., and the rescue truck had to be sent out to haul it into action again.

The service was then re-routed to Charlotte St. housing area, back to Monaghan Road and Romaine St., Ford and St. Mary's St. and back to Monaghan Road. It was believed that City Engineer Chalmers would have to close the road to general traffic.

IMPATIENT FOR PASTURAGE

The weather does not appear to understand the circumstances and exigencies of the farmers of Peterborough district. It seems to think they need more moisture and lots of it, and it keeps clouds hanging before the sun. The fact is that the solar intelligence is misty. What the farmers are wishing for, and not saying much about it, is sunshine to dry the fields and vitalize their dormant herbage—that means grass, pasture, nature's substitute for the high costing feed grain from western Canada that has kept climbing in price since the turn of the year.

Nat. Film Board May Feature Swimming Club

The National Film Board is investigating the possibilities of filming the Peterborough Swimming Club. Gordon Burwash, representative of the board, visited the city Monday to obtain information about the club and the pools in the city where shots could be taken.

Accompanied by Alex Sinclair, recreation director, and Cook Munro, manager of the club, Mr. Burwash inspected the YMCA pool and the new Lions outdoor pool at Riverside Park. He explained that, even though the ceiling in the "Y" pool is quite low, shots could be taken there. He considered, however, that the outdoor pool suited the purposes of the film better.

The board was prompted to look into the possibilities of screening the club by their showing in the National Synchronized Swimming championships in Chicago two weeks ago. The girls took third and seventh place in team events and fifth and seventh places in the doubles competition.

If Mr. Burwash's recommendation is in favor of the film, it is expected it will be made sometime this summer.

Dies Of Heart Failure After Chopping Wood

A little domestic chore at his home Monday evening may have hastened the death of Frederick Sidney Warren, 488 Edison Ave.

After chopping a few sticks of wood, Mr. Warren went inside and remarked to his wife that he wasn't feeling well. He complained of a pain. It was decided to call Dr. L. W. Thompson, who arrived in a short time, but only a few minutes before Mr. Warren died. The fatal heart attack finished its course in a scant twenty minutes from the first warning of onset.

Mr. Warren was born in Bristol, England, 68 years ago, son of Samuel Warren and his wife, Sarah Didcott. He enlisted with the RAF in Canada during the first war, and served in this country as a rigger of the old biplanes of that time.

Coming to Peterborough about 12 years ago from Oshawa where he worked for a time with General Motors, Mr. Warren was employed here as a cabinet maker with Peterborough Lumber Company. He was a member of the Canadian Legion and of St. George's Anglican Church. He leaves his wife the former Magdalene Kerr.

The funeral service will be at the Kaye Funeral Home Thursday at 2 p.m., conducted by Rev. E. C. Moore of St. George's Church. Burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

Council Favors Gas Station At Park Hill Rd.-Water St. Residents In Opposition

Mayor Swanston cast the deciding vote in council Monday night on a motion referring to the Ontario Municipal Board the question of authority to rescind the bylaw excluding gasoline service stations from the northeast corner of Park Hill Road and Water Street. At that corner Imperial Oil Company seeks to build a service station to replace, as they have submitted, the outlet which they recently closed on George St., opposite Confederation Square, when they sold that property to the city as part of the site for the new city hall.

The Water Street corner at Park Hill Road was zoned in town planning for neighborhood shopping. For that reason council turned the Imperial Oil application over to the town planning committee. Last Friday that committee approved the use of the corner for a gasoline station. That was the extent of its jurisdiction.

In the background, however, is a bylaw passed in 1931 expressly barring a service station from that corner. To rescind the restrictive bylaw the council must receive the assent of the Ontario Municipal Board.

Action of the council Monday night was to put the question in a form that would be referable to the Municipal Board.

A motion by Ald. Adam Sands, seconded by Ald. J. E. Gillespie, directed City Solicitor Huycke to prepare a bylaw amending the bylaw of 1931 so as to permit the use of the corner for a gasoline service station. The usual procedding would be to give the new bylaw two readings and then submit it to the Municipal Board whose members would hear any objections to the service station project.

For And Against

Voting for the motion were: Aldermen Gillespie, Millers, Sands, Anglesey and Young; and against it were: Aldermen Waddell, Dewart, Dodds, Braund and Burrows.

The tie thrust the decision into the hands of Mayor Swanston.

"I'll vote for it," said His Worship. "That is one of the things the Municipal Board exists for, and I have confidence in them. If they didn't give fair and independent decisions we might as well not have them."

W. B. Gordon spoke to the council in support of a petition from residents of Water St., Park Hill Road and Dennistoun Ave. who want the bylaw of 1931 to remain in effect. He said that the land in that block was subdivided into lots according to a registered plan which indicated that it was intended for residential purposes.

Would Be Detrimental

A service station at the northeast corner would be detrimental to the values of the residential properties in the block. Mr. Gordon emphasized the fact that within 150 to 200 feet from the corner there were already three gasoline stations doing business "so that the area is well attended to in that respect". Further north on Water St. there are two garages.

Mr. Gordon also argued that a gasoline station at the northeast corner "would greatly add to the traffic hazard, especially for children because the sidewalk would be used as a roadway by cars going into and out of the station".

"In the last five to seven years people have bought properties in that locality assuming that the city's bylaw gave them full protection against a service station there. Some of them were bought at $8,000 and on up to $14,0000 and $15,000. We say that the bylaw has afforded them protection in the value and use of the property in that area, and that it would be a breach of trust if the council now rescinded it."

Arose 20 Years Ago

Mr. Gordon recalled that the bylaw was passed in 1931 at the request of residents including the late Thomas Barrie and Ernest F. Mason. The petition from the residents of that time, almost 20 years ago, objected to "a threat of the corner property being used for a gasoline station". Roland Denne was mayor.

The bylaw was passed at their request as property owners, and Mr. Gordon said "that block has not so changed as to warrant the rescinding of the bylaw."

Herbert G. Mason told the council he was opposed to the Imperial Oil application as the owner of the house and lot immediately north of the corner lot. He said he had spent considerable money on it after his return from overseas. If the station was built it would have to be set close to the north side of the lot and near his house, because the property in question was not spacious enough for ample room for a service station.

In the subsequent discussion of the petition, 18 of whose signatories had been present with Mr. Gordon, Ald. Sands briefly mentioned the purposes for which the zoning bylaw was prepared and the zoning committee appointed.

Held Zoning Committee

"On similar question the council took the stand that the zoning committee had the last word and that we should abide by their decision," Ald. Sands said. "They defined that corner as a neighborhood shopping section, and I think it is on their doorstep, not ours. They have confirmed their plan. I am not saying how I feel

Blood Donors Urgently Needed

The Peterborough Branch, Canadian Red Cross Society has undertaken, through its donors to supply free blood to all patients in the two Peterborough hospitals, who are in need of it.

To do this, 40-50 donors are needed each week and the Branch does not wish to call any donor oftener than once in six months, which means a great number to be signed up if those who need blood are going to get it.

Donors in industry are going their share. Donors from the general public are most urgently requested to offer their services. This is a great cooperative plan for the well being of our community.

Are you healthy and strong and between the ages of 18-65? If you are so gifted, will you at this Easter time, remember those less fortunate? No time is more fitting to contribute such a gift to your neighbor, who may in turn perhaps some day return the gift, when you may be in need. If you are well, it will do you no harm and it may save his life. Phone 8633 or 20626 to register, or for further information.

Two poems were selected by the judges as being the best submitted and to be of equal merit. The judges decided to award two prizes of $250 each. Planning At Monty's HQ Fontainebleau Beset By Snags But Progress Made

(Ed. Note This is one of three special articles copyright to the Peterborough Examiner from the London Observer, written by Alan Moorehead, famous war correspondent and biographer of Field-Marshal Montgomery. The articles are the fruits of a thorough study made by Moorehead over the last two months, involving investigations in Britain, France and Germany. In making his enquiries Moorehead has had the opportunity of discussing the matter with numerous experts and authorities, and the articles can be taken as an authentic, fully-informed survey of the situation and the outlook.)

Montgomery's headquarters at Fontainebleau is rather a disappointing place at first glance. Except when the tourists come through in the summer holidays the town remains as calm as it ever was, and the military planners have tucked themselves very neatly into the landscape.

They have taken over the royal palace, and each service has settled into separate wing around the central courtyard; so you have Unimer, the Naval staff, on one side; Unioir, the Air Force, just opposite; Uniter, the Army, on the left; and Unilion, the Field-Marshal himself, is about to move into the last remaining wing on the right.

The Western Union flag—five yellow links of a circular chain on a blue ground—flies over it all.

The usual language is French, and the atmosphere is of some quiet university town, Grenoble, perhaps, or Exeter.

Some 500 officers and their families who make up the headquarters have billeted themselves around Fontainebleau, though most of the senior people tend to live outside. Montgomery, the chairman of the combined commanders' committee, lives in a dream-like chateau at Courances, several miles away, and Air Chief Marshal Sir James Robb, the British C-in-C of the combined air forces, is a little further off through the forest. The two senior French officers, General d'Armee Jean de Lattre de Tassigny who is the Land C-in-C, and Vice-Admiral Jaujard, the Flag Officer for the combined navies, both live in Paris.

Much Travelling

All these people do a great deal of travelling about Europe and Montgomery, indeed, keeps a second headquarters at Dover House, in London, besides a converted mill which is his private home in Hampshire. They meet just once or twice a month at Fontainebleau to settle the major points of policy.

There has been much talk of argument and disagreement at this headquarters, but actually the atmosphere is very like what it used to be at Shaef or Algiers during the war. That is to say, you find French, Dutch, Belgian, and British officers living very closely together and working out the details with more than the usual amount of disagreement. The real disputes occur at a higher level and spread over to Paris, London and Washington.

Montgomery himself made no bones about this when he was addressing the Royal United Service Institution in London last year. "It would be quite wrong," he said, "to give the impression that this organisation has and always does work with complete harmony and smoothness. It has not. It has been a difficult year."

Obvious Snags

There have been some obvious snags. How much, for example, should each nation commit to this joint defence? Clearly at this stage the main burden has got to be borne by Britain, since she emerged from the war more powerful and better organised than all the others. But under the American Military Aid agreements the plan is to put a very great deal of emphasis upon the rebuilding of the French Army, for Europe cannot be defended without it.

"The bulk of the American arms now being landed in Europe will now go to France. Later, when France is restored and the other Atlantic Pact countries, especially Italy, have got their forces re-equipped it is quite possible that something will be done to re-arm the Germans in the Western zones. That problem has already been discussed and shelved for about a year. There are no arms available for re-equipping the Germans now anyway.

"Again, where do the air priorities lie—do you put the bulk of your money and your best efforts into short-range fighter aircraft and ack-ack defence?" Or do you concentrate upon a tactical bomber with a 400-or 500-mile range that can strike at the Russian communications at the first moment of conflict? The bomber school argues that, no matter how good your defence, some aircraft are going to get through; and so you might as well decide to suffer your losses at home and simply hurt the enemy more than they hurt you. The defence school replies that you must have fighters or you will never get your bombers to the target anyway.

Practical Action

Underneath these controversies there has been a certain amount of practical action in the past twelve months. Combined manoeuvres have been held on land, sea and in the air, and are being repeated this year. A system of codes and signals has been agreed upon, together with standard training manuals printed in Dutch French and English. A scheme for exchanging officers between the various armies is in operation. Since the bulk of the air defence falls on Britain she has sent some 3,000 aircraft abroad, together with instructors, to form the nucleus of the new Allied Air Force on the Continent. It has also been arranged that aircraft and other weapons of British design shall be manufactured in Belgium Holland and France.

All this is something quite new in Europe in time of peace.

But the real importance of Fontainebleau is that a plan for the overall defence of Western Europe has been made and agreed upon there. No details of this plan have been announced or are likely to be. However, if war breaks out it must be presumed that the Russians will be met and fought in Germany and not west of the Rhine. In fact it is a fundamental of the Brussels Treaty that France, Belgium and Holland must not be abandoned; they must be defended as far east of their frontiers as possible.

Plan For Immediate Action

This requires that a ground force far greater than the one at present in existence must be spaced along the Lubeck-Trieste line to meet the first wave of the Russian advance, and there must be considerable reserves further back in the Rhine valley. It requires a scheme of sighted gun positions and minefields in Western Germany, and a plan for the demolition of bridges and all establishments that might be useful to an advancing enemy. Above all, it requires a tactical and strategic Air Force.

Since it hardly seems likely that a new war would open with a stalemate, like the last one, you have to plan for immediate action. A very great deal will depend upon the Allied Army withstanding the first shock of the opening battle until reinforcements arrive and the air offensive begins to take effect.

Left to itself, the headquarters at Fontainebleau could never have hoped to provide for all this. But then something like a revolution occurred in the European scene when the Atlantic Pact was signed last year, and seven more countries, including the United States, were committed to the defence of Europe. The Fontainebleau plan at once became a feasible plan. It is being incorporated now into the much wider arrangements required by the Atlantic Pact. It moves this year from the blueprint stage into practical action.

Religious Brother Writes Fine Novel About School

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT

QUEBEC, April 4 (CP).—Life in a Quebec Religious Order of Teaching Brothers comes to light in a humorous, finely-written book that promises to rank with "The Tin Flute" and "The Town Below" in the French province's growing literary production.

The deeply-moving drama of slum life in Montreal written by Gabrielle Roy in "Bonheur d'Occasion" (The Tin Flute) marked the beginning of this renaissance of French letters in Canada.

Drew Attention

With Roger Lemelin's youthful but life-packed novel of Quebec City's threadbare lower town, "Au Pied De La Pente Douce" (The Town Below), Canadians everywhere and United States readers sat up and took notice.

Now comes this revealing, delicate novel about Brother Bernard of Quebec, and his life in the congregation of the Brothers of Christian Schools in a local academy.

Its author is rotund, 42-year-old Brother Clement Locquell (pronounced Lockwell), Professor of the History of Philosophy at the Quebec Academy, whose novel is apparently the first in this province by a member of a religious order.

The book's title, "Les Elus Que Vous Etes" (You Are The Chosen Ones), refers to the black-robed brothers of so many Quebec schools and colleges, enigmatic figures of severity, piety and learning to thousands of Quebec children for generations.

Gets Rave Notices

The French press greeted the book with rave notices. Literary circles were taken aback with the book's there — the human life of men never thought quite human.

Brother Clement's novel tells the story of Brother Bernard with disarming simplicity. But it is only part of the story.

Interwoven into the action is the story of a typical upper-class Quebec boarding school for boys in the process of modernizing itself. There are glimpses of worldly mothers worried over their pampered sons, of stuffy fathers asking explanations for their boys' low marks, of poor students turned away at the school's door because they have no money or because there is no room for them.

Reveals Order Life.

Best of all is the story of the community life of 35 men, sworn to chastity, poverty and obedience, and the education of young men.

For the first time the closed-off life of religious brothers in this province comes to light.

Booming Crime In Britain Starts Rush For Locks

By DON GILBERT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Love laughs at locksmiths, goes the saying, but today it's the locksmith who can afford to laugh. Their business is booming.

It's a side product of the current hue and cry in Britain over crimes and violence. Front-page stories in the popular press of youths swinging "coshes" and other nasty weapons have sent gentle folk scurrying to the hardware store.

They demand chain locks, mortice locks, sturdy bolts— anything that will make their doors proof against unwelcome intruders. Many stores are said to be sold out. One result is that lock factories are working overtime to cope with the unexpected flood of orders.

Most in 40 Years

"The public demands during the last few weeks has been the biggest I ever remember— and I've been in the business more than 40 years," said the manager of one chain of hardware storees. "The biggest demand comes from householders in the London area and the suburbs of the big city."

An increasing number of armed burglaries has even shaken the calm of apartment house dwellers to feel protected behind doormen and building porters. Said a London locksmith who has a rush of orders to fit mortice locks: "In the old days people who lived in blocks of flats did not bother with extra locks. Now I have a waiting list."

Criminals Cleverer

Sir Hugh Turnball, retiring after 25 years as commissioner of police for the city of London had something to say about the current criminal element:

"The criminal of today is far different from the criminal of pre-war days," said Sir Hugh. He is far cleverer, far more highly organized. To combat this new type of criminal, the modern policeman must be far more highly trained."

But if criminal ways are changing, the lock industry can boast that its contributions to keeping down crime have the mark of permanency.

Old Lock Still Good

For example, the detector action devised in 1818 by Jeremiah Chubb is still used, in improved form, by the Cubb Company. This was the lock that for three months, in a special test, defied the constant efforts of the most notorious lock-pickers of the day.

As another example of longgevity a lock firm recently had a group of mail box locks sent in for their first overhaul. The average age of these locks was 63 years; the oldest had been in use since 1842, two years after the first street mailbox was introduced.

Burt Lancaster Next Film Jim Thorpe Life

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, April 4 —(AP) — Hard-working Burt Lancaster will be spending spring, summer and fall on the movie stages.

The acrobat-actor soon starts "Old 880" at 20th-Fox, playing the federal agent who tracks down counterfeiter Walter Huston. After that, Burt moves to MGM for a western "Vengeance Valley," which is described as "along 'Red River' lines." He then moves back to Warners to portray "Jim Thorpe — All-American." By that time he hopes to have his own production of "The Naked and the Dead" ready for filming.

Lancaster will get at least one respite between films. "I've asked for at least two months before I start playing Jim Thorpe," he told me. "Not only do I have to be in top shape, but I want to work with football and track coaches to make the althletics seem authentic."

Notes 'N' Stuff

My sharp-eyed AP colleague, Howard Heyn, noted this at the Circle Theatre's premier of William Saroyan's "The Son." Between acts, Charlie Chaplin stepped out into the street and started running. His wife Oona raced beside him and they disappeared around the corner. A few minutes later, they appeared at the other end of the block, racing back to the theatre and the second act. I guess there's nothing like a race around the block between acts.

Capsule Review

"The Lawless" (Par.) deserves an "A" for effort. It is a well-intentioned and sometimes moving tale of race prejudice in a California town. The victims are American of Mexican origin. The treatment has rough edges, but the lack of polish adds to the believable effect. McDonald Carey and Gail Russell head the cast.

First Power In June From Ottawa Project

TORONTO, April 4 — (CP)— Two of the eight new Hydro-Electric generating units at Des Joachims, Que., will start operating in June, Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, said Monday at the Canadian Association of Radio and Appliance Dealers convention.

Although the opening date had not been set, he said it was expected it would be either June 26 or June 27 with output of 120,000 horse-power increasing to the total capacity of 480,000 horsepower by the end of the year. Situated on the Ottawa River, the plant is 38 miles upstream from Pembroke, Ont., and will supply power to Southern Ontario.

Later in the meeting, delegates agreed that because of the lack of decision as to what means of broadcasting color television is best, color television is at least five to ten years distant.

Kerr Addison Reports Firm's Top Profit

TORONTO, April 4 (CP)—In the annual report released Monday, Kerr Addison Gold Mines, Limited, reported a net profit of $3,952,118, greatest in the mine's history.

Profit was more than double last year's figure of $1,640,358 mainly through a reduction of nearly 25 per cent in operating costs. Bullion production was $10,379,402 against $5,838,535 in 1948 while current assets were $3,147,271 against current liabilities of $1,602,279. Profits per share rose to 83.5 cents from 34.6 cents the previous year.

Mine Manager W. S. Rowe remarked in the report that operating costs were abnormally low because of the company's inability to obtain sufficient experienced men to carry out all the development and mining schedules planned.

The report also stated that after a couple of years of heavy capital expenditure the mine is now beginning to build up its working capital position which was reported at $1,544,992, not including materials on hand worth $905,369.

The Berkeleys were jointly charged in the death of the woman. Police charged that the woman underwent an illegal operation at the Berkeley residence Jan. 18. She was later taken to hospital, where she died.

Russia Aiming At War In Two Years?

MONTREAL, April 4 (CP). — Russia does not intend to make any physical move toward a Third World War for 24 months, by which time she thinks she will be so well prepared that the Atlantic system will give in to her rather than risk annihilation, Kenneth de Courcy, British writer and publisher of the Intelligence Digest, told the Canadian Club of Montreal on Monday.

In an address on "Towards Crisis and Renaissance in World Affairs," Mr. de Courcy said the only way to stop this threat to civilization was by the prompt building up of Turkey, so that Russian sources of oil supply would be cut off, without which she could not conduct war.

Mr. de Courcy minced no words in condemning Soviet methods or in urging what he described as the Atlantic system to cease talking strategy and get down to hard facts, asserting that the Soviet aim was to keep the members of the Atlantic Pact talking while they were extending their frontiers and thus rendering a great section of their land mass invulnerable.

Emotionally Disturbed Treated by Psychiatrist

"It is the thousands who are not insane but who are emotionally disturbed whom the psychiatrist is especially trained to diagnose and treat," said Dr. T. E. Currier Monday afternoon in an address to the members of the Civic Hospital Women's Auxiliary. He was speaking on "psychiatry" and endeavoring to dispel the widespread notion that this word refers to insane people.

"Nothing could be farther from the truth," he states. "The psychiatrist is sometimes called a nerve specialist and the people he treats called nervous. Psychiatry is that branch of medicine which deals with the mental, and to some degree, the social aspect, of the patient."

It must be clearly understood, he said, that the mind cannot be dealt with as a separate thing from the body for there is an interplay constantly of one on the other. Physical illness brings with it a greater or lesser degree of mental disturbance in the form of anxiety and depression and mental illness sooner or later brings about physical disturbances of one sort or another. He described the emotional disturbances as normal feelings which have become exaggerated or prolonged and persistent, or both.

The psychiatrist studies his patient as to personal make-up or personality, and the life history that has contributed to that personality and then endeavors to show him where his adjustment to his life situation is at fault and give help and advice in correcting it. They do not prescribe pills and medicine.

These patients find it difficult to accept this type of treatment, and so it is difficult for the relatives of frankly insane people to accept the view that they suffer an illness of the mind, just as others suffer appendicitis or pneumonia. While they do not hesitate for a moment to reveal diabetes or a tendency to high blood pressure in the family, they shrink away from the stigma attached to insanity and from a relative in the mental hospital.

The doctor asked consideration of the difficulties always entailed in treating mental patients, especially acutely disturbed, and stated that Ontario mental hospitals are equal to the best State Mental Hospitals in USA and a great deal better than many of them, and are the best hospitals of their kind in Canada. "You would be appalled to know what a high portion of your taxes already go to the upkeep of these hospitals," he added.

In the new Civic Hospital there will be a small psychiatric unit with two beds and it may be possible in future to treat a certain proportion of acutely disturbed patients here without having to admit them to an Ontario hospital.

Dr. Currier was introduced by Mrs. J. H. Matthews and was thanked by Mrs. Russell Morgan.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL

Guest speaker at Central Home and School Association meeting Monday evening was Mr. C. E. Potts, English master of the Normal School.

Speaking on "Character Building" he said "While character is immeasurable it is almost indefinable." Of the many factors contributing to development of character he mentioned intelligence, health and environment.

To control this development he advised exercise of good sense, knowing children, a good example and the providing of opportunities to practice good behaviour patterns. The school can help but his best recommendation for building character is "that parents spend more time with their children." He concluded his address by referring to the greatest teacher of all time of whom it was said that "increased in wisdom and stature and in favour with God and man."

Mr. Potts' address was followed by showing an appropriate film, "As the Twig is Bent."

Introduction was made by Mr. Quirt McKinney, also of the Normal School, who conducted a sing song, introducing several new numbers. Appreciation of the audience was expressed by principal Mr. D. Crawford.

Business was conducted by president, Mr. S. Malsch. Mrs. W. Gunn, publicity convener, had a fine display of literature and clippings which were available to members.

Civic Hospital Auxiliary Gives Two Life Memberships

Following a meeting of the board of directors of Civic Hospital Womens' Auxiliary Monday afternoon in the YWCA, when plans for the annual penny sale were discussed, an open general meeting took place with Mrs. Ernest Braund presiding.

Final approval was given a by-law which will be added to the constitution: That an advisory committee be composed of three members chosen by the president, on advice of her officers, for their knowledge of and experience in the organization and this committee to be a member of the executive.

First reading was given a notice of motion in regard to increasing the board of directors membership to above 30. It read: Executive committee of the Auxiliary should be in form of a board of directors composed of 45 members from the city of Peterborough and a number not exceeding 10 from the county, elected for three years, one third of the total retiring each year. Additional representatives from outside points to be admitted when application is made to the existing board.

Life memberships were presented to Mrs. F. Schneider, of Peterborough, and to Mrs. Reed, of Burleigh Falls, with membership convener Mrs. E. Chambers officiating.

An appeal for more knitted bootees to be presented to new babies in the hospital was made by sewing convener Mrs. I. F. McRae. The total turned in this year is 208 and 199 have been given out.

One hundred pairs of boottees knitted by Mrs. J. R. Marshall with yarn supplied by herself was presented at the meeting to form a backlog for the new hospital.

It was reported the travelling library had distributed 595 books in the past three months. Miss M. English spoke of the interesting contacts made through the travelling book shop, and Mrs. A Rosborough spoke of the apparent pleasure brought to patients each week by the visiting committee which also gives fruit to patients.

It was announced that graduation will take place on June 5 this year.

Entertainment was provided by the Barber Shop Quartette, "The Four Horsemen," Messrs. R. Baldwin, E. Murphy, V. Farrent and H. Coulson. The numbers they chose were The Old Song, Tell Me Why, Coney Island Babe, I Had a Dream, and Wait 'Till the Sun Shines Nellie.

The mayor asked council that more folders as produced by the town surveyor Mr. J. C. Birmingham, be made available, for distribution to points from which many inquiries have been received regarding the town. A proposal was made to have a number of these booklets distributed to American border cities to invite new industries. Mr. Ayrhart said he would like to see a number of pictures incorporated into the booklet so that interested parties may see Campbellford's schools, hospitals, public buildings and recreation centre. The mayor said he is hopeful of securing some new industries for the town, and that steps must be taken to provide some sort of inducement.

Chief Commended

The council, acting on a suggestion from the mayor, heartily commended the work of the local Chief of Police, George H. Hardy. Chief Hardy has shown outstanding diligence in cleaning up a couple of serious cases in the past month, the most serious being the brutal assault and robbery of a Seymour township resident. While the Provincial Police were in charge of the investigation on this particular case, it was Chief Hardy who uncovered the information that led to the arrest of the two guilty parties. Reeve Ralph Locke made the motion that Mr. Hardy receive the commendation of the council, and Councillor Nicholas seconded the motion.

A by-law providing the licensing and regulating of bowling alleys was read and passed. This included the fixing a $25 fee per alley per year, and will apply to the building to be erected in town by Mr. Lockwood of Picton.

Council decided to change the meetaing date of the next regular meeting to Friday, May 5, due to the inability of the mayor and a number of council members to be present at the meeting if it were to be held on Monday, May 1. The public are to be notified of this change of date in order that they may govern themselves accordingly. It is signficant to note that the trout season opens on the first of May.

DOROTHY DIX

Charm Can Be Acquired Even When Beauty Lacking

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you &PPPP PPPP !4!? VOZJ THS think that a woman who was not endowed by nature with charm can acquire it by thought and study? VIOLA.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Consider in what charm consists. As near as we can put it in one word, it is an individual's being agreeable. Pleasant to look at, to listen to, to be with. Any woman can accomplish these feats.

Dorothy Dix

Her fairy godmother may not have endowed her with beauty, but short of being a hideous monstrosity, that does not matter. Any woman can be easy on the eyes who is willing to take pains with her personal appearance.

Need Not Be Brilliant

Then any woman can make herself an interesting companion. She need not be brilliant or learned; indeed, some of the least charming people in the world are pedantic highbrows who are pompous and self-conceited and make everyone with whom they come in contact feel as if they were morons. A woman need not even be a good conversationalist to have people enjoy her society. She need only be a patient listener.

Any woman can learn how to do things. She can learn how to dance, how to play games, how to play a good game of contract. Thus will she be assured of a welcome wherever she goes for the woman we dread is the one who is a sort of a bull in the social china shop and who always smashes everybody's plans and arrangements.

Any woman can learn how to do and say the right things. Doing the right thing is merely taking a little trouble and using a few lobes of your brains. It is writing a note of thanks for courtesies received. It is sending notes and telegrams of condolence to those who are in trouble, and of congratulation to those who have achieved some object on which their hearts were set. It is sending flowers and making calls and leaving cards, and generally doing as you would be done by.

So, my dear Viola, if you learn how to dress so as to make yourself attractive looking and acquire the art of starting other people to talk about themselves while you listen with a rapt look upon your face, and if you learn how to say things to people that make them feel pleased with themselves, I think you will have a made-to-order brand of charm that only an expert can tell from the kind that Nature turns out in its most expansive moment.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 27 years old, educated, talented, attractive, popular, a good business woman. I am married to a man who will make no effort to improve himself in any way, not even in business. He does only what work is necessary in his job. Goes home in the afternoon and sleeps for two hours. Won't go anywhere unless I drag him along, and then is a wet blanket regardless of strangers or friends. I am still young enough to marry again someone who has ambition, and I am in a position to do that, while, if I wait a few more years, there may not be the possibility. Shall I live on this way, or consider divorce?

AN AMBITIOUS WOMAN.

ANSWER: Depends upon your own sense of the sacredness of the marriage contract and on how much you care for the man. After all, you know you took him for better or worse and, if the bargain turned out not so good as you expected it to be, you still haven't any right to welch on it unless the party of the other part has defaulted on his part of the contract.

Of course, there are some no-account men who are so tender and kind, so charming and gallant, so pleasant to live with that they atone for their inefficiency by their social charms, and justify their wives in supporting them as luxuries. But generally speaking, there is no other husband on earth harder for an ambitious woman to endure than one who is just plain lazy and shiftless, who has no energy or pepe and who is nothing but a ball and chain around her feet that keeps her from climbing.

Personally I think that laziness should be made a cause for divorce both for women and men.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young man of 21, in love with a girl of 18. She is studying to become a teacher. I am going to night school, hoping eventually to become a chemist. Now my girl and I love each other very much, but I hesitate to ask her to marry me because if she becomes a teacher she will be much better educated than I am. She says that will not make any difference, but I fear she will not be satisfied with me. What do you think?

JOSEPH.

ANSWER: I don't think there is any danger of the girl becoming excessively learned that it will put her out of your class. You are making the mistake of thinking that all education comes put up in schoolbook packages and with a college brand upon it. That is far from being the case. Many of the most intelligent and best-informed people we meet have never been to college at all and have got their education from reading and studying and from contact with life.

You are evidently ambitious if you are willing to go to night school and study after your hard day's work is over, and you need not be afraid that you cannot keep up with your little fiancee by reading, even if you cannot go to college.

6—In Memoriams

BUCHANAN—In loving memory of Mrs. John Buchanan, who passed away three years ago, April 4, 1947.
Oh happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Ever remembered by Doris, Jack and grandson.

FORD—In loving memory of Joan Laura Ford, who passed away April 4, 1949:
She was only a little white rosebud,
A sweet little flower from birth;
God took her home to Heaven,
Before she was spoiled on earth.
—Lovingly remembered by grandma, aunts, uncles and cousins.

FORD—In loving memory of Joan Marie Laura Ford.
She was only a little white rosebud,
A sweet little flower from birth;
God took her home to heaven
Before she was soiled on earth.
—Lovingly remembered by her father and mother.

KEATING—In loving memory of Mrs. George Keating, who passed away April 4, 1946:
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears in silence often flow,
Memory keeps you ever near us
Though you died four years ago.
—Ever remembered by husband and family.

HAWKINS—In dear memory of Sgt. Alfred Hawkins, killed in action in Germany, April 4, 1945:
He is gone, but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Ever remembered by mother, dad and family.

LA FAVE—In loving memory of June, who passed away April 2nd, 1948:
Peaceful be thy rest, dear June,
It is sweet to breathe thy name,
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
—Dad, Mother and Family.

WALL—In loving memory of Mrs. Alice Maude Wall, who passed away April 4, 1949:
Afflictions sore, long time you bore
Physicians aid proved vain,
'Til God above did hear you moan
And freed you from your pain.
—Ever remembered by husband George, and sons Leonard and Victor.

THE EASTER STORY — The Last Supper — Drawn by John J. Sunley

That evening Jesus and His twelve disciples sat down to the Passover feast. It was their Last Supper. Jesus said that one of them had betrayed Him. The eleven innocent apostles were shocked, and wondered who among them bore the guilt. And Judas that betrayed him, answering, said: Is it I, Rabbi? He saith to him: Thou hast said it. (Matt. 26:25)

After supper, Jesus and the disciples went to the Mount of Olives, where, in the garden of Gethsemane, Jesus prayed three times, while His disciples slept. Rise, let us go: behold he is at hand that will betray me. (Matt. 26:46)

It was Judas. Behind him were soldiers of the high priests. Judas made the agreed sign. And forthwith coming to Jesus, he said: Hail, Rabbi. And he kissed him. (Matt. 26:49)

Buck Boucher Didn't Fill Bill Says Art Ross

BOSTON, April 4.—(AP)— Art Ross was back in Montreal today to supervise National Hockey League playoffs after a special trip here to deny charges levelled against his Boston Bruins by coach George (Buck) Boucher.

Ross, vice-president and general manager of the Bruins and a member of the Sports Hall of Fame, told a meeting of hockey writers:

"Sure, we made a mistake in hiring Boucher to coach the Bruins and knew it a month after the season started. But we parted on friendly terms in Toronto after I told him: 'you're through'."

Ross, a 64-year-old veteran of the great winter sport, emphasized:

"Boucher was my friend, we played together. I brought him down here and if he had filled the bill he'd still be here. I'm not going to stay active much longer.

At First Angry

"At first when I told him we wouldn't have him back next season he became angry but then cooled down. I offered to try and get him another job if he wanted to stay in coaching and he said 'that's fine.'

"Then I read in the papers where he says he got a 'dirty deal.'

"We're not double-crossing here and we haven't lied to you people in 26 years here," Ross told 10 writers as club president Weston Adams and director Frank Ryan nodded in agreement.

Boucher "Baffled"

Boucher had told writers the night the season closed, "I'm baffled about my treatment here. It's the dirtiest deal I ever got in hockey. I thought I deserved another chance but Ross told me the club had other plans for next season."

Ross, with Adams agreeing verbally, asserted: "We had no plans for next season. We hired Boucher on a one year contract and he didn't fill the bill."

Ross cited several instances in which Boucher made what they considered "tactical mistakes, not using the right combinations at the proper time."

NHL PLAYOFF—This happened during the third game of the NHL semi-final playoff between Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings. Toronto's Sid Smith gets the puck while Teeder Kennedy takes a tumble with Jack Stewart of Detroit on top. Watching anxiously are Red Wings' goaler Harry Lumley and centre Jim McFadden. Leafs won the game 2-0 to take a 2-1 lead in games in the series.

KENNY REARDON of the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League lays injured on the ice in the second game played with the New York Rangers in Montreal. Reardon will be out of hockey for the remainder of the games with a dislocated shoulder. The Rangers won this game by a 3-2 score and they also won the third game played in New York by a 4-1 score and now lead Canadiens three games to nothing in the best of seven.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Their native game of lacrosse virtually forsaken, the Indians of British Columbia's north coast are working for a reputation in basketball.

Although they invented the sport which Canada adopted as its national game, the northern natives spend hours almost every day for four months practising basketball. They seldom touch the gutted stick.

Even in weather 50 below, they turn out religiously to get in shape for the annual tournament at Prince Rupert.

The event, held early in March is part of a plan. They're in town for supplies that time of year anyway, and the tournament provides a drawing card for buyers of their products.

Spectators aren't a paramount problem. Their families, which they bring along, keep the average attendance up to 1,000 by themselves.

Champions of the tournament for the third consecutive year were the Kitamat entrants.

"The worst pain in two years," is the way pitcher Dick Fowler described the arm pain that prompted Philadelphia Athletics to send him home to Philadelphia from Florida for treatment.

Fowler, the Canadian-born righthander from Toronto who won 15 games for Connie Mack last season, arrived Monday to undergo treatment by Dr. Ilarion Gopadza, A's physician. The pitcher was really down in the mouth.

He said he will follow the doctor's orders and probably will hold some workouts at Shibe Park until the remainder of the team arrives for the city series against the Phillies. His wife and son, Thomas, are motoring to their home in Oneonta, N. Y.

Arthur King of Toronto, British Empire lightweight champion and number one contender for the world crown, Monday night at Toronto scored a three-round knockout over Johnny Rowe of Rochester, N. Y., in the 10-round main bout of a professional boxing show at the Coliseum. Attendance was more than 3,500. King weighed 140, Rowe 139.

At Philadelphia, Robert Villemain, fast-punching French middleweight from Paris, Monday night won a unanimous 10-round decision from Otis Graham, as he gave the young Philadelphia Negro a lesson in the finer points of boxing he won't soon forget. Villemain weighed 158½ and Graham 156.

At Sydney, N. S., Sherbrooke Saints scored twice in overtime Monday night to defeat Sydney Millionaires 4-2 in the second game of the Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-finals. Saints also won the opening game Saturday 4-2.

Laurent Dauthuille, 157½, of Paris, knocked out Pittsburgh's Charley (Zivic) Affie, 160, in the ninth round of their scheduled 10-round fight in the Pittsburgh Gardens before a near-capacity crowd Monday night.

Sherbrooke Leads 2-0 Over Sydney In Series

SYDNEY, N. S., April 4 (CP) — Sydney Millionaires will have their last chance to win a home game tonight as they meet Sherbrooke St. Francis in the third game of the Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-finals.

Sherbrooke pounded out a 4-2 overtime victory here Sunday night in the second game of the best-of-seven series. Saints now have a 2-0 game lead. They won the first game 4-2 Saturday. Fourth and fifth games will be played at Sherbrooke.

The Millionaires had come from behind to sink two goals and tie the game late in the third period.

The winner of the series will meet the victor of the Toronto Marlboros - Cornwall Calumets semi-finals in the eastern Canada finals.

MONTREAL, April 4—(CP)— The Montreal Brotherhood of Policemen Monday night adopted a resolution asking federal authorities to challenge the validity of a private bill passed in the Quebec Legislative Assembly last week, disbanding the Canadian Brotherhood of Policemen. The MBP was formed Monday from the remnants of the CBP which was disbanded during the week-end following an emergency meeting of its executive.

Toronto Okays Sunday Ball Games

Without comment, Toronto city council Monday approved a board of control resolution permitting Sunday baseball games this summer at Maple Leaf Stadium, home of Toronto's entry in the International League.

This action paved the way for introduction of a by-law at an early meeting of council. It is being prepared in accordance with the Sunday sports bill now passing through the Ontario Legislature.

Joe Zeigler, general manager of the Leafs baseball club, in making formal application, told council the first of 11 Sunday games at the stadium was carded for May 7. Others would be played on May 14, 21; June 4, 18; July 2, 9, 23; Aug. 6, 13, and Sept. 3.

Action to permit other Sunday sports in Toronto will be originated later by the parks committee.

Former Barrie Flyer Prize Rookie Of AHL

NEW YORK, April 4 (CP) — Paul Meger, who made the jump to professional ranks from the Junior Barrie Flyers, has been voted the outstanding rookie in the American Hockey League.

The 21-year-old Buffalo Bison winger far outdistanced his rivals by amassing 36 out of a possible 45 points in voting by sports writers and broadcasters. His closest competition came from Kelly Burnett, of Springfield Indians, a graduate of the Sherbrooke St. Francis Club in the Quebec Senior League, who garnered 14 points.

Next in line came a pair of Pittsburgh Hornet freshmen, Ray Hannigan and Tim Horton, who earned 12 and nine points respectively.

Meger, named to the league's second all-star team last week, will receive the Dudley (Red) Garret Memorial Trophy and a bonus of $300 from the league for winning rookie honors. He received $200 for the all-star selection.

Alberta oil has changed his future

The boy doesn't know it yet. Many a grown-up doesn't realize it—but the new oil fields of Alberta brighten Canada's future.

Western oil is saving 100 million scarce U.S. dollars this year, dollars we don't have to pay out for oil imports. This means money to buy other imports we need—things that cannot be grown or made in Canada. Nex year Alberta oil should save 145 million U.S. dollars!

Then, too, the search for oil is making a big new market in Alberta for things the rest of Canada has to sell. The oil industry is spending $3 millions a week in the west. Across the nation this money is fostering new industries, expanding plants, creating jobs, paying wages, building homes.

And in the prairies petroleum product prices are lower than they would have been if oil had not been found. Prairie consumers saved more than $30 millions last year. Anything that helps prairie prosperity helps all Canada.

Oil is important to us all. More oil means a higher standard of living.

The search for oil is unending, a costly business, often disappointing. But the job is pressing forward. And new-found oil is changing our future . . . promising a better, brighter future for Canadians—man and boy alike!

Bringing you oil is a big job . . . and a costly one

About Canada's Oil—At the end of 1949 potential oil production in Alberta was more than one-third of Canada's requirements. Three years earlier, Canada produced less than one-tenth of the oil she used

More than 240 companies and syndicates are searching for or producing oil in western Canada

It is estimated that the oil industry will account for almost 10 per cent of all new business capital invested in Canada this year.

In 1949 Imperial Oil bought a total of nearly $40 millions of equipment and supplies from more than 3,000 Canadian firms.

Local Contractor City Hall Bid To Clerk's Office

Tenders for the city hall job will be opened at a meeting of the committee of the whole council Thursday afternoon. Representatives of the architects, Marani and Morris, will be present.

Acceptance of the Eastwood Construction Company's bond by City Clerk Outram, instead of at the office of the architects, was suggested by them in a letter to the council Monday night. Otherwise the Peterborough firm of builders would be deprived of some advantage in time by their distance from the Toronto office of Marani and Morris, as compared with contractors in that city who could delay bids and bonds until the last minute.

Mr. Outram said the architects considered it due to Eastwood Construction that some such arrangement should be made. Important in the items of tendering were prices and bids obtained from subcontractors. The tendency was to wait until close to the "deadline", for the benefit of the very latest prices.

Some of the contractors had offices in the same building with Marani and Morris. If Eastwood Construction had to deliver their bond in Toronto they would lose that benefit.

Flustering Suggestion

Ald. Ernest Braund raised a mild little flurry just before adjournment. He suggested that it might be better if City Clerk Outram had nothing to do with it. If anything wrong should develop he would be clear of it.

Ald. Braund then remarked that the bond might be accepted by City Solicitor Huycke.

Mr. Outram commented with smiling accompaniment, but in a perceptible sharpening of tension: "If the council has no confidence in me to that extent, you might as well have my resignation right now."

The incident was given the closure by a motion for adjournment.

Alfred Henry Irwin Buried In Lakefield

Kenneth Stewart officiated and pallbearers were Benjamin, Robert and Morris Irwin, all brothers, David and George Irwin, cousins, and Walter Mooney. Burial was at Lakefield cemetery.

Mr. Irwin died suddenly at his residence on Saturday. He was born in Harvey, son of the late Allan Irwin and Ada Reound, and had lived in the township all his life, where he farmed. He was not married.

He leaves two sisters, Mrs. Alex Tate, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Levi Kimble, near Bobcaygeon. There are three brothers, Benjamin Irwin, of Buckhorn, Robert of Lakefield, and Morris of Arntfield, P.Q. Mr. Irwin was a member of Rockcroft Presbyterian Church.

Bus And Truck Collide No Serious Damage

A bus and a truck were in collision on the River Road Monday when the car was backed on to the street as the bus was passing. Damage to the bus, driven by Edward G. Simmons, 274 Caddy St., was confined to the right rear fender and panel and was estimated at between $50 and $60.

The truck, driven by Orlando J. Huggins, 147 River Rd. N., was not damaged. Traffic Officer Harold Mesley investigated.

Careless Driving Fine Upheld By Judge

The appeal of Albert McCaw of Smith against a conviction of careless driving has been dismissed by Judge S. L. Smoke at the non-jury sittings of the County Court.

McCaw's appeal was heard Monday and was dismissed with $35 costs. The original penalty of $10 fine and $16.50 costs stands.

The charge resulted from an accident December 9, at Reid and Concession streets in Lakefield. McCaw's car collided with another driven by George Charlton of Lakefield.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said the appellant had gone through a stop-street without stopping and collided with the other vehicle. This was denied by McCaw who was represented by W. J. Arthur Fair, KC.

A witness not heard at the original trial appeared for the Crown. She was Shirley Graham of RR 2, Lakefield. Miss Graham testified that McCaw did not stop at the intersection.

The charge of careless driving was laid by Chief Constable Garnet Samis of Lakefield.

CLAUSE DELETED

The recommendation in the report of the board of works read by Ald. H. Dodds, chairman, Monday night: "That the resignation of Harry Gabbutt as market clerk, effective April 15, be accepted," was lifted out and referred to the property committee at the suggestion of Ald. E. C. Braund.

CLOSING AUTHORIZED

The Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington Monday authorized the Ontario Car Ferry Co. Ltd., of Canada to abandon its car ferry service between Rochester, N. Y., and Cobourg. The company said the service across 55 miles of Lake Ontario has been conducted at considerable loss for a number of years.

SPEAKS TO LIONS

James F. Dunn, Peterborough lawyer, was guest speaker at the Lions Club meeting at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club Monday night. His topic was "wills". P. D. Scollard, past president of the club introduced the speaker who was thanked by Floyd Murray.

VAGRANT SLEPT

Claude Hopkins, Lakefield, pleaded guilty today to vagrancy and was fined $10 with $2.50 costs or ten days in pail. Crown Attorney John Bradshaw told Magistrate W. R. Philp Hopkins had been found sleeping in a car on a garage lot.

Council Favors

on this question, but two years have gone by since this policy was adopted and planning was begun."

Ald. E. C. Braund interposed the comment that the town planning committee should be consistent too. He said that he and his brother owned a property near the east end of Lansdowne St.

"I don't know whether we went at it the right way, but when it was wanted for a service station I spoke to two members of town planning committee. They said they could not approve another service station because it was across the road from the Whittington garage, and the area was well served."

Ald. Sands said the committee was not changing its mind at all on the question of the use of the property at the inortheast corner of Water St. and Park Hill Road. They were simply expressing approval of its use for a service station type of business in an area that was defined for neighborhood shopping.

Ald. Doug. Miller said he could visualize a type of business building being erected at that corner, according to zoning, that would not be as acceptable as a service station, which would be set back as far as possible and give wide vision at the corner.

Protect Lot

Ald. Gillespie said there was something material in Mr. Mason's case. The company wanted to buy part of his property to give them more room, but that would have brought them up to 12 feet from his house, and would obviously devalue it. "I would like to see some assurance given that this lot could not be used as a garage or used car lot."

Ald. Dodds: "That impressed me too. If they want any of Mr. Mason's land why don't they take all?"

Ald. A. B. Burrows said the interested residents did not have an opportunity of presenting their objections to the town planning committee. "It seems to me the approval of the committee might carry some weight with the Ontario Municipal Board, and for that reason I feel that the property owners should have been heard by the committee."

Ald. Waddell interjected another idea into the discussion. The Oil Company could not build without the approval of City Engineer Chalmers. For that reason, why should the question be sent to the Municipal Board "before we know what the Engineer would do?"

Ald. Sands said the statute enabled the applicant company to appeal to the Municipal Board if the council neglected the matter or failed to take action in 30 days. "We might as well get there anyway."

Ald. Waddell: "If the Engineer said the property was not large enough for a service station, what would the situation be then?"

Mayor Swanston: "The applicants couldn't get a permit."

Ald. Burrows repeated his contention that if the property owners were heard by the planning committee, it was possible that the committee might reverse its approval.

And Ald. Sands returned to his point. "I still think it would be better if the council asked the Municipal Board to sit here, than if Imperial Oil asked them."

He phrased the motion, and Mayor Swanston had to make the decision of the council.

City Accidents On Streets Up 20 Per Cent

Accidents in Peterborough rose 20 per cent in 1949 and in Peterborough County by 15 per cent, Lt.-Col. W. A. Bryce, director, Division of Public Safety, University Extension of the University of Toronto, said Monday. He was guest speaker at the Rotary luncheon in the Empress Hotel.

In the city in 1949 there were 214 accidents as compared with 1948's figure. The county had 462 in 1949 and 400 in 1948. Two people were killed in the city in 1948 and one in 1949. In the county nine were killed in 1948 and six in 1949.

On transport facts Mr. Bryce said there was one motor vehicle for every five people in Ontario, one licensed driver for every four people in Ontario, more than 900,000 vehicles in Ontario. Twenty per cent of all trucks on the road were owned by farmers, the average transport unit, a tractor-trailer combination, paid 36 times more than the average car for the use of highways, the unladen weight of this unit was only four times that of a car; in 1949 commercial vehicles represented 18 per cent of the vehicles on the highway, yet paid more than 50 per cent of all the licence fees and approximately 40 per cent of the gas tax.

"Slowly and surely the whole economy of our nation is shifting from the fixed lines, established by our transcontinental railroad when it was projected in 1887," he said. Today highways were beginning to honeycomb the nation and airfields permitted the traveller to leapfrog from one fertile productive area to the next.

Peterborough is today in a fortunate position, he said. It is at the hub of a radiating group of highways leading to areas where agriculture, industry and a thriving vacation and tourist business should suggest stability and increased prosperity.

Attracts Industry

Mr. Bryce said Peterborough was in the position to invite and meet the requirements of new industry. The city fathers were able to plan a healthy and reasonable expansion program. They could zone industries, safeguard residential areas, provide park facilities and channel railroad, commercial vehicle and tourist transportation.

A safety problem in a community of this size involved the coordination of the five organisms, the elementary school, the secondary school, the citizen motorist, the commercial vehicle operators, and the pedestrian, he explained. If Peterborough could organize a program which would appeal to, and have influence upon these groups, the safety problem would never be acute.

The speaker was introduced by E. A. Outram and thanked by Ald. Douglas Miller.

Robert A. Dobbin Widely Mourned

An unusually large gathering of friends and township officials Saturday paid their last respects to Robert Adam Dobbin, 82, of Concession 11, North Monaghan. He died Wednesday after a long spell of ill health.

For more than 30 years he was prominent in North Monaghan municipal politics, serving as deputy reeve and councillor.

Honorary pallbearers were Melville Johnston, reeve; Bruce Johnston, township clerk, and councillors James Roberts, Archie Patterson, Lloyd Whittington and Walter Brown.

The active pallbearers were Ira Robson, Bert Sanderson, Bernard Preston, Percy Neals, John Lillico and John Clark.

Service was from the Bellegham Funeral Home with the Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon, of Trinity United Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. William MacDonald.

Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Workers Chose 43-Hr. Week Begin 7:24 a.m.

CGE production workers Monday voted to work a 43-hour week and thus maintain the take-home pay they had received previously for 45 hours.

They were given the option of working a 42½ or 42-hour week, as well as the 43. Had they chosen the first two they would have lost thirty minutes or a full hour's pay a week.

Result of the balloting:

43 hours—1,668; 42½ hours—989; 42 hours—219; spoiled—17; total—2,893.

The 43-hour week and new schedules will begin April 10, the union said today. This means the day shift will start at 7.24 a.m. instead of 7 a.m.

Terms of the new agreement signed between the CGE and the UE provided for the Toronto workers having a 42-hour week with the same take-home pay. Their reduction in hours was from 44 to 42; in Peterborough it was from 43 to 42.

Peterborough workers were given the choice of accepting the two-hour reduction with the same size pay envelope or more leisure with less pay.

Monday they chose the former.

Crash Telescopes Car Driver In Hospital

Allan G. Taylor, Argyle St., is in Civic Hospital with possible concussion resulting from a car accident Monday noon on Highway 7 three miles east of Norwood.

Hospital authorities say he is resting comfortably and that there is no fracture. His head injuries include a cut upper lip teeth knocked out and a bruised face.

Taylor telescoped his car into the rear of a York Trading truck parked on the side of the highway. The car is almost a total wreck, damage estimated at $1,200. And the truck sustained $800 damage.

The accident occurred when a Colonial Coach Lines bus stalled on the highway and the eastbound truck driven by Victor Homewood, Romaine St., also stopped while Homewood inquired if he could be of assistance.

Taylor's car crashed into the rear of the truck and he was thrown forward violently.

Provincial Constable George Henderson investigated.

Easter Seals Sale

Mr. L. Glover reported a total of $342.25 had been received for the Eastern Seal campaign, which the club has been sponsoring. This represented the total of contributions received up till Saturday noon, and the amount came from 226 contributors.

President Art Loucks spoke a few words, and thanked the club for the confidence they showed in electing him as their president.

The Aims and Objects committee are to have a special meeting to consider money-raising methods. The most favorable suggestion received was that all members take part in constructing a cottage, and holding a raffle on the cottage.

The club has sponsored the local Bantam hockey team. There has been much expense in connection with this and funds are running low.

Plans to have a bingo are under way and it is hoped to realize some money from this.

Each of the new officers spoke a few words, thanking the members for electing them.

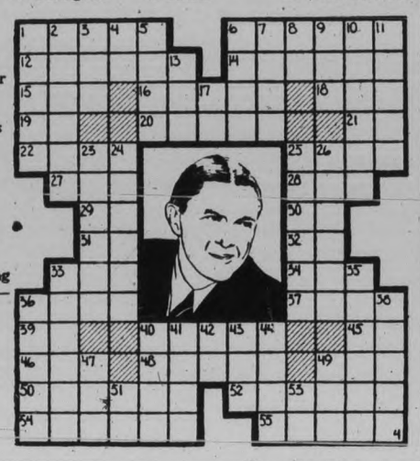
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Senators Seek Look At Papers Held By McCarthy

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON, April 4—(AP)—Senate investigators sought today to get a look at Senator Joseph McCarthy's secret documents dealing with his "spy-for-Russia" chargest against Owen Lattimore—charges hotly denied by Lattimore.

A Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee arranged a behind-closed-doors meeting to discuss getting access to the data which McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, has indicated he is not willing to give the group.

Threaten Subpoena

In advance of the session, Senator Theodore Green (Dem. R.I.), acting chairman of the Inquiry Committee, talked again of issuing a subpoena if McCarthy refuses to take the investigators into his confidence after a formal request for the material.

The committee has subpoenas out now trying to force the Federal Bureau of Investigation and other government agencies to let it see confidential loyalty files. An ironic twist of the investigation: McCarthy gave his information to the F.B.I. and withheld it from the committee, but has insisted the committee see the F.B.I. files, which presumably would include his papers.

McCarthy has charged that Lattimore, an American expert on Far Eastern affairs, is Russia's top spy in the State Department and the United States. In a Senate speech last Thursday McCarthy said he could produce proof to back up his contentions.

McCarthy "Madman"

Lattimore flew into New York Saturday from a United Nations mission in Afghanistan. He told a press conference then that McCarthy is a "madman" and that there is no truth in his accusations.

Lattimore, director of a School of International Relations at Johns Hopkins University, is scheduled to go before the inquiry committee tomorrow to make a formal reply to McCarthy.

At his press conference Saturday, Lattimore accused McCarthy of making "an obviously political attack" on the State Department.

"I am not and never have been a member of the Communist party or a Communist sympathizer, or affiliated or associated with the Communist party . . . "

Living Costs Hit Record, Rent Biggest

New High At 163.7
Reverse Of Trend
Begun September

OTTAWA, April 5—(CP)—An unparalleled advance in rents, combined with a sharp rise in food prices, pushed up February living costs by 2.1 points to a new record. The cost-of-living index touched 163.7 points; compared with 161.6 in January and the previous high of 162.8 in July, 1949, the Bureau of Statistics reported today. The index is calculated on the basis of 1935-39 costs equal 100. Initiated by the recent boosts in federal rent cealings, the rent sub-index made the biggest jump. It rose 7.7 points from the previous peak of 125.0 in January to 132.7 in February. The food sub-group, biggest single factor in the barometers movements climbed 2.7 points from 201.3 to 204.0, 5.2 points below the previous peak of 209.2 in July, 1949.

The combination of these two major advances told the story of a reversal of the index which started to come down last September. It dropped 1.2 points in the September-December period and then in two months climbed 2.7 points from December's level of 161.0.

Rent advances, taken from the bureau's quarterly survey, reflected the hikes in the federal rent ceilings, allowing increases of 18 per cent on unheated and 22 per cent on heated accommodation. Most of the increases went into effect in February.

Food hikes mirrored a general stiffening of food prices. Prices were stronger in February for beef, lamb, eggs, coffee and fresh vegetables, outweighing slight declines for canned vegetables.

Of the remaining four sub-indexes, only fuel and light showed an increase, but the four-tenths of a point advance put the sub-group to a new peak. The sub-index advanced from 135.9 to 136.3.

Bogus Money Produced By U.S. Gang

Mounted Police Claim
Canadian $10 Bills
Being Made In States

TORONTO, April 5—(CP)—Police said today they believe the presses on which a new flood of counterfeit Canadian $10 bills is being printed is in upper New York State.

RCMP officials said the bogus currency is being produced by the same gang that has distributed thousands of counterfeit United tates bills throughout the U. S.

The RCMP is working closely with the U. S. Federal Bureau of Investigation and the U. S. secret service in an all-out effort to find the gang's headquarters, it was learned.

A study of the paper used in the counterfeit $10 and $20 US bills revealed it is the same kind as used for the fake Canadian currency, police said.

High Grade Paper

Paper being used is known as "Coupon Bond". It is of a high grade but not difficult to obtain.

A man arrested recently in Buffalo had $20,000 Canadian and $25,000 U. S. counterfeit money. This strengthens the belief that both types come from the same plant, police said.

Authorities along the Ontario-New York border are keeping a close watch for proof that counterfeit bills flooding Canada are being made in the U. S.

They also are reported checking on a possibility that counterfeit sweepstakes tickets are being handled by the same gang.

Alex McDonald, 31, brother of Donald (Mickey) McDonald, escaped Canadian convict, was arrested here Tuesday night by a Toronto police squad assigned to work with the RCMP in the fight against counterfeiting.

Sweep Ticket Racket

McDonald, who denied knowledge of the counterfeit gang, was charged with vagrancy and possession of an Irish Sweepstake ticket.

Local police said today they believe thousands of citizens have been the victims of an Ontario-wide counuterfeit sweep ticket racket. They expressed this opinion after conviction Tuesday of Cecil Chernick, 27, and Elliott Shapiro, 34, on charges of selling sweep tickets.

Receipts seized when the two men were arrested are not the real thing, police said.

"We checked with the trustees of the hospital fund for the Irish Sweepstakes," said one official, "and found these blanks were phony and had not been sent from Ireland." Investigators said they think the receipts were printed in the U. S.

First Prize $500

MONTREAL, April 5 (CP)—Joseph Simard, school janitor, got a big hand and $500 bonus from the Montreal Catholic School Commission yesterday after the birth of his 18th child.

The Commission interrupted proceedings to offer congratulations and vote the bonus to the janitor who has been in the Commission's employ for 23 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Simard's oldest child is 21-year-old Albert. The youngest, Pierrette, arrived two weeks ago.

Cooler Weather Slows Floods In South Ontario

TORONTO, April 5.—(CP).—Cooler air eased flood conditions in some parts of Southern Ontario today. It stemmed the flow somewhat of the rampaging rivers that forced hundreds of families from their homes and caused thousands of dollars damage.

The flood-swollen Thames river dropped eight feet overnight, relieving the anxiety of thousands of Londoners who watched through the night. Tuesday the river was within inches of the top of the new earthen dikes.

At Guelph torrents of water rushed down streets in what was described as the city's worst flood in 23 years.

Already hit by the flood included Waterloo, Galt, Brampton, Orono, Woodstock, Palmerston, Dorchester, Breslau, Pickering and Freeman.

Guelph residents breathed easier as the Speed river subsided shortly after midnight. Streets in the river area, from which many persons had been forced to leave their homes, were drying up slowly today.

Health authorities in Preston ordered residents to boil all drinking water. The chlorination plant was affected by the floods and it was feared water might leak into storage tanks. The Grand river was 16 feet above normal summer level. A foot below the record 17 feet.

At nearby Galt the Grand river remained at flood level with no change from Tuesday. Some factories sent workers home and buildings on Water St. were unheated. Some stores remained closed. Families on Water St. south were still marooned with water swirling around their homes.

Cool weather helped conditions in Woodstock and throughout Oxford county. Stream levels were down considerably from yesterday peaks and no serious damage was reported.

At New Hamburg, the Nith river, which rose steadily during the day and isolated 40 homes, reached its crest during the night.

No one was reported drowned but several persons were rescued from the swirling waters. Max Armstrong, 26, fell in Duffin's Creek near Whitevale and was washed along the flood-swollen stream until fellow-workmen rescued him with a rope.

John Cathers was also rescued when he was plunged into the Maitland River at Wingham. Two boys were rescued from waist-

40-Hour Week, Same Pay A Must Says UAW, $3,500 Life Insurance

General Motors Makes No Reply Yet
Want Pension At 60, 25 Years Service
Old Contract Expires June 11 For 6,000

OSHAWA, April 5—(CP)—The United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) announced today it is seeking a $100-a-month retirement pension for its 6,000 members employed by General Motors of Canada Ltd. The pension request is one of several proposals made by the union as initial steps were taken toward a new contract with General Motors. The Company issued no statement in reply. The pension would be payable at age 60 to employees with 25 years' service at the big G.M. plant here.

A similar demand was made by the U.A.W. in contract talks this year with the Ford Motor Company of Canada Ltd., at Windsor. The Company rejected it and offered a $55 pension. The U.A.W. in Windsor has set April 12 as a deadline for strike action to enforce its demand.

The existing contract between the UAW and General Motors expires June 11. Under its terms, negotiations for a new contract cannot start until April 11.

The union's Oshawa proposals were ratified by UAW members last month, submitted to the company last week and disclosed publicly today by Malcolm Smith, chairman of the bargaining committee of Local 222.

Also Asks

In addition to the pension, the union asks:

1. Reduction of 44-hour work week to 40 hours, with no loss in take-home pay. This, said Mr. Smith, is a "must."

2. Three more paid holidays.

3. A five-cents-an-hour wage boost for employees in certain "lower paid" classifications.

4. A $3,500 company-paid life insurance policy for each worker, providing a $500 payment to the beneficiary at the time of the workers' death, plus $125 monthly payments for 24 months.

N. Scotia Cabinet Members To Get Pensions

By The Canadian Press

Something new in Canada, pensions for cabinet ministers, is proposed in Nova Scotia. Premier Macdonald introduced in the legislature at Halifax Tuesday a bill to give pensions to ministers after 10 years' service in the cabinet.

The Nova Scotia ministerial pension would parallel the system for civil servants' pensions, although the ministers would contribute eight per cent of their salary, a larger amount than the civil servants. Also, while civil servants may be refunded the amount they have paid when they leave the service, ministers could not collect a refund if they leave the cabinet within three years.

Length Of Service

The amount of the pension depends on the length of service in the cabinet. Maximum is 70 per cent of salary after 14 years in the cabinet. Premier Macdonald said he introduced the bill "with some embarrassment" but because it involved expenditure, it could only be introduced by the government and not by a private member. Nova Scotia cabinet ministers now receive $8,000 a year, and the premier gets $9,000.

Applause from all sides of the House greeted the premier when he finished his explanation of the bill.

Labor Party Whip Criticized For House Defeat

LONDON, April 5 — (CP). — William Whiteley, Chief Government Whip survived criticism by back-benchers at a meeting today of the Parlimentary Labor Party.

Whiteley, who has been described by Prime Minister Attlee as Labor's "best Whip ever," came under fire for not anticipating the parliamentary division which ended last Wednesday in the Government's defeat by 26 votes.

No motion of censure was placed and Whiteley's reply was cheered by most members.

Attlee and Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister, were both at the meeting, which stressed the importance of a full Labor muster in the finely-balanced House of Commons. Labor's overall majority now is down to three apart from illnesses and casualties.

As the members assembled in the Commons committee room the atmosphere was considerably different from that of the last Parliament when Labor had a more than comfortable majority.

After Easter Labor expects a strenuous time. Then the House starts late sittings on the budget and Finance Bill, due April 18.

Lack of Gov't Planning Opposition Parties Charge

OTTAWA, April 5—(CP)—A three-front attack on the Federal Budget was launched in the Commons Tuesday. It came from the Progressive Conservative, C.C.F. and Social Credit parties, all of whom agreed through their spokesmen—though their solutions differed— that the government has not done enough planning for the future in its fiscal policies.

The Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. parties promptly moved motions of non-confidence in the administration.

The Social Credit group was prevented by House rules from moving a similar motion, but its leader, Solon Low, urged the government to appoint a "National Survey Commission" to investigate the development of distribution of national production.

The Progressive Conservative motion came from J. M. Macdonnell (PC-Toronto Greenwood), chief opposition financial critic, and asked the House to express regret that government policies had:

1. Made higher taxes inevitable.

2. Included no adequate attempt to reduce expenditures.

3. Contained no program for national development without which there could be no hope of reducing taxes or the cost of living.

The CCF motion, introduced by M. J. Coldwell, party chieftain, based its bid for an expression of non-confidence on the ground government policies had:

1. Indicated the government was prepared to accept present production levels as adequate for the Canadian people, and was placing a limit on the services and security of the people.

2. Contained no adequate provision for increased production through planning, for making full use of natural resources, for public control of investment, or for

Canada, US Plan Coastal Defence

HALIFAX, April 5 — (CP) — East-coast defence chiefs of Canada and the United States are conferring in New York this week in the first meeting of its kind in the peacetime history of the two countries, it was learned today.

Attending the meeting are Maj.-Gen. Harry Foster, chief of Canada's Atlantic Command, and Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, commanding the U.S. 1st Army which is responsible for U.S. Atlantic defences.

It is the first direct peacetime meeting between area military commanders of the two countries, an Army spokesman said.

Normally, all communications between areas of command would be through diplomatic channels and Canadian and U.S. army headquarters.

Frost Will Discuss Taxes With Dominion

TORONTO, April 5 — (CP) — Premier Frost said Tuesday he is prepared to discuss with Dominion Government the entire question of dominion-provincial tax fields and social security in connection with Ontario's plan to impose a five-per-cent income tax.

The legislature gave second reading to four bills arising from Mr. Frost's budget address. They provide for imposition of a personal income tax amounting to five-per-cent of the income tax imposed in Ontario by the Dominion Government, authorize the government to enter into an agreement with the Dominion Government whereby the dominion will collect the tax for Ontario, impose a nine-per-cent tax on logging operations formerly imposed by the Dominion Government.

Timmins Snow Storm Worst Seen This Year

TIMMINS, Ont., April 5 (CP) —The winter's worst storm, raging down from James Bay last night, tied up traffic completely in this Northern Ontario district. Winds to 40 miles an hour piled snow in drifts 10 and 12 feet high across the highways.

About 700 miners on the night shift in district mines were stranded for two hours today, unable to get home. Rural schools were closed. Temperature fell to two degrees above zero during the night.

Chinese Protest Soviet Fighting

TAIPEI, Formosa, April 5 (AP) —Nationalist China today instrcted its delegates to protest to the United Nations "definite Soviet participation in China's civil war." The quotation is Foreign Minister George Yeh's.

The Nationalists charged earlier that two Soviet airmen, flying Russian planes, shot down two Nationalist pilots Sunday during a raid on Hangchow Bay shipping. Gen. Shih Chueh, defence commander, called the attack "a flagrant act of Soviet aggression" and "a prelude to an open march in southeast Asia."

There was no mention of the air action in Yeh's statement today. But he cited these alleged instances of Soviet interference:

1. Soviet fliers and air technicians are streaming to the aid of Chinese Communists in North and Central China.

2. Soviet technicians are setting up and running an air force signal corps for the Sino-Reds.

3. Many former Japanese planes and some former United States aircraft lend-leased to Russia "are now definitely in use by the Chinese Communists."

Dentist Wants ACTH For Son, 3

CHICAGO, April 5 (AP) — Three-year-old Gregory Pepin of Windsor flew to Chicago Tuesday for treatment of deadly acute lymphatic leukemia.

His father, Dr. Jack Pepin, 32, a Windsor dentist, told reporters he hopes the child will receive the benefit of experimental treatment with ACTH.

"This is the only thing left," he said. "I have heard that remarkable results have been obtained on leukemia cases with this drug."

A spokesman for the hospital said it has not been decided whether ACTH will be used on Gregory. Doctors will determine the treatment after a complete check of the boy's condition.

"We first noticed that Gregory was in trouble about three weeks ago," the father said. "He began limping, and we took him to a hospital at Windsor. The actual diagnosis was made Friday at Children's Hospital in Detroit."

Rescue Futile Girl 3, Burned

PEARSON, Ont., April 5 — (CP). — A farmhouse fire today claimed the life of three-year-old Giselle St. Armand in this tiny farming community. The tiny girl died of severe burns after her father carried her from the blazing home in a heroic rescue. The child died before reaching hospital in New Liskeard, 25 miles from here.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred St. Amand, were working out in the barn at the time the blaze broke out. The couple dashed into the blazing home. Three young children in the downstairs rooms were quickly carried out in below-freezing weather.

St. Amand was unable to penetrate the smoke and flame to reach the upper storey of the house where young Giselle was trapped. He ran for a ladder and placed it against an upstairs window. Then he broke through the window and reached his daughter. He carried her down the ladder to safety but the child had already suffered multiple burns on her face and body.

Found Innocent Of Strangling

IOWA CITY, Ia., Apriu 5 (AP) —Robert E. Bednasek today was found innocent of the charge that he strangled pretty Margaret Anne Jackson in a University of Iowa off-campus rooming house December 11.

The four women and eight men who decided against the State's theory that the beautiful blonde's death was "cold, calculated murder" motivated by jealousy had taken the case approximately 23 hours earlier.

The defence contended Bednasek and the blonde Miss Jackson were a "boy and girl in love," and that her death in the rooming house where Bednasek lived was accidental.

The defence said the couple were dancing, with their overcoats on, just before Miss Jackson was to go home. The couple kissed and then put their hands on each other's throats. After they started dancing again, Miss Jackson fell choking, and died a few minutes later.

Russia Does It Again

FLORENCE, Italy, April 5.—(Reuters).—The Soviet delegation last night walked out of the International High Frequency Radio Conference being held here to work out wave-lengths for world radio stations. Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Albania followed the Soviet delegation which had protested against the presence at the conference of a delegation from Nationalist China.

Must Be Way To Live Without Work, Theft

• LOS ANGELES, April 5.—(AP).—Sonny Wisecarver, who eloped with a married woman when he was 14, and with another when he was 16, now is 21 years old. So he ran this advertisement Tuesday in a newspaper:

"Sonny Wisecarver is looking for a way of living without working or doing very little. Please tell me how! If you have such a job or position, write."

He told a reporter: "I know that everybody doesn't work for a living and there must be a way to make a living without being crooked and without working."

Canada Deciding Next Move Keep Atomic Research Lead

OTTAWA, April 5.—(CP).— A desire to hit the atomic jackpot twice in a row is said by informed officials to be the underlying reason the government is not moving ahead with further atomic developments at this time.

Canadian government scientists would like to come up with a second radioactive pile or reactor that could continue what has been called the "phenomenal success" of the first, the core of the Chalk River project in the Ottawa Valley and a "unique" instrument of research so far not matched anywhere in the western world.

But they're not sure yet that they're ready, that they know just what they want to do. They could go ahead now with construction of a second pile, as recommended last year by a Commons committee, if the government gave the signal.

The present pile has placed Canada ahead in one important sector of the atomic front. It gives her a big bargaining position in exchange for information. Experiments can be made at Chalk River that can't be made elsewhere. The scientists want Reactor No. 2 to continue and project that lead.

Within a few years other countries will quite probably have overtaken Chalk River's pre-eminent position in its own phase of atomic research. More and more countries are building piles.

There is, too, the important fact that a project based on a single pile is always open to accidents that might put it out of commission at least temporarily.

Either development might largely destroy Canada's lead and her bargaining position.

Mountains of Potatoes Here May Be Opening To US Mart

OTTAWA, April 5 — (CP) — Canada is going to use 15,000,000 bushels of potatoes as an incentive to pry open a better potato agreement with the United States.

The new agreement, trade officials said, will be worked out between the two countries at the fourth round of international tariff negotiations to begin in Torquay, England, Sept. 28 next.

Although unsatisfied with the terms of the current agreement, Canada still declined to take advantage of a trade clause under which she could have shipped an additional 15,000,000 bushels of potatoes into the U.S. market at a specially reduced tariff.

Thus, at a "directors" meeting of the multilateral pact on tariffs, now under way at Geneva, Canada has approved, along with other countries, a United States request to ignore a clause in the 1947 Geneva tariff agreement.

That clause established that the annual U.S. potato consumption would be fixed for purposes of tariffs at 350,000,000 bushels a year. If U.S. home production fell below that amount, the United States would open the doors to additional imports at reduced tariffs to make up that amount.

This year the U.S. has decided to curtail acreage and cut production to 335,000,000 bushels. But for purposes of tariffs the consumption figure still is fixed at 350,000,000.

This would normally allow world exporters — which for practical purposes would in this case mean Canada only—to ship 15,000,000 bushels to meet the "deficiency."

Although Canada has a big supply of potatoes available for export, she nevertheless has agreed to forego the additional tariff reduction in the hopes of concluding a better deal with the U.S. as a result.

Three Ships Crash Off New York Harbor

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP). — At least two ships, and perhaps a third, were involved in accidents in the fog-shrouded Atlantic outside New York Harbor early today.

Coastguard rescue craft sped to their aid.

Distress messages from a 6,214-ton freighter, the Hurricane, said the vessel plowed aground near Fire Island, a summer resort off the southern coast of Long Island.

The 91-foot schooner Edith Boudreau radioed that she was in critical condition about 18 miles south-east of the harbor entrance.

Local By-law Can Reverse Code Ruling

Hot Debate Precedes Second Reading Security Lost—CCF

TORONTO, April 5—(CP)—After warm debate the Ontario Legislature Tuesday gave second reading to the new Provincial Labor Code.

Labor Minister Daley said he intended to introduce amendments to bring municipal employees under the bill.

Municipal employees formerly were included in the Provincial Code only when the municipality passed a by-law to that effect. Now the onus is in the other direction. Under the new Bill such employees will be included unless the municipality passes a by-law to exclude them.

The vote was 60 to 19, and on the same vote the legislature defeated an amendment by Eamon Park (CCF, Toronto Dovercourt) which disapproved the bill. Mr. Park said it "denied fundamental democratic processes" in its regulations for voting on certification of unions, and also "ignored the principle of union security."

The legislature also gave second reading to four bills arising from the budget and Premier Frost said he is prepared to discuss with federal authorities the entire question of dominion-provincial tax fields and social security, in connection with Ontario's plan to collect a five-per-cent income tax. The government has a bill before the House to collect five per cent of the amount paid by Ontario residents in federal taxes. No new tax is involved.

Hints Strike

In debate on the labor bill C. H. Millard (CCF, York West) hinted that labor would strike to win union security from a "substantial minority" of employers who refuse to grant it.

Mr. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) said he was referring to a "gentleman's agreement" among Northern Ontario gold mine operators not to grant the check-off system of union dues payment.

Sweep Ticket Sellers Fined $1,000 Each

TORONTO, April 5.—In an effort to make the penalty severe enough to stop the sale of sweepstake tickets in Toronto, Judge Shea, yesterday fined two men $1,000 each and sent one of them to jail for a month.

Elliot Shapiro, 34, of Rushton Rd., in whose room at a Queen St. W. hotel police found $15,000 worth of Irish Sweepstake ticket stubs, was fined and jailed. Cecil Chernick, 27, of Markham St., was fined $1,000. The option in both cases is six months in jail if the fine is not paid.

Demanding more stringent penalties in such cases, Crown Counsel H. H. Bull told the court: "The sale of these tickets is being conducted by former criminals. One of the main reasons for prohibiting the lottery is that it is fertile ground for breeding more serious crime," Both Shapiro and Chernick had records.

"A fine would be only a license fee," said Mr. Bull. "If it is to be stopped, the punishment has to be a definite deterrent."

.22 inches of rain.

The storm which brought heavy rain to Southern Ontario on Tuesday roared into the Kirkland Lake district early this morning and swept blizzards over the Cochrane-Timmins area. This storm is continuing northeastward into Quebec and in its wake much colder air had swept across the entire province. Kapuskasing was only four above zero at 7.30 a.m., this morning. Temperatures which rose to near 60 in the Lower Lakes region on Tuesday, will barely touch the 40 mark today.

This cold weather will continue tonight and Thursday. In Northern Ontario minimum temperatures will be near or below the zero mark tonight, while in Southern Ontario they will drop to between 10 and 20 above. Sunshine is expected to be fairly general on Thursday and this should help temperatures climb to around the 40 degree mark in Southern Ontario and to between 20 and 30 in the northern regions.

Forecasts:

Northern Georgian Bay, Haliburton regions, Sudbury city: Cloudy today, clearing this evening. Thursday sunny with occasional cloudy intervals. Continuing cold. Winds northwest 20, light tonight, northwest 15 Thursday. Low tonight and high Thursday at Sudbury zero and 25 above. Killaloe 10 and 30.

Cost-of-Living

The miscellaneous sub-group, reflecting prices for medical fees, street car fares, gasoline, newspaper prices and other items, remained unchanged at 132.1. It climbed to that peak as result of a half-point advance in January, inspired by price changes for newspapers, theatre tickets and gasoline.

Clothing and home furnishings both dropped. Clothing went down 1.6 points from 183.0 to 181.4 caused mainly by lower prices for men's and women's topcoats and men's suits. Home furnishings declined one tenth of a point, from 166.4 to 166.3.

These changes were shown at retail or consumer level. But on the wholesale side, prices looked upward, too.

The bureau's index of industrial material prices advanced from 152.8 for the week of Feb. 24 to 153.9 for the week of March 24—the 10th consecutively weekly increase since Jan. 13 when the index touched 149.7.

The index of Canadian farm product prices at wholesale level also moved higher, by 2.0 points, from 145.3 to 147.3.

This general advance of living costs in Canada appeared to reflect a trend prevalent in a great number of other countries.

The Labor Department, issuing figures compiled by the International Labor Office at Geneva, stated that a survey shows that the cost of living increased in 23 out of 34 countries during a 12-month period.

The increases ranged from a high of 27.5 per cent in Austria to a low of three tenths of a point in Sweden.

The ILO rated Canada's advance in 1949 at eight-tenths of a point, the same advance was noted in Norway. The United Kingdom went up 3.7 per cent.

Among the 11 countries showing declines was the United States. Living costs in 1949 declined 2.3 per cent. The biggest decline in costs occurred in war-ridden Indonesia where living costs in 1949 went down 15.1 per cent.

deep mud on the Thames River at London.

Under the force of thousands of tons of water, a dam on Hopewell Creek at Breslau suddenly burst, and the torrent washed away 75 feet of roadway.

The flooding Etobicoke Creek put Brampton's main street under water.

At Ottawa the rampaging Nation River, swollen to a level of 68 inches above normal, was causing serious flooding in the Chesterville, Ont., district, about 30 miles southeast of the capital. The river rose 11 inches Tuesday.

Meanwhile, in Timmins howling blizzard from James Bay hit the district Monday night, disrupting transportation service and bringing traffic to a halt. Nearly a foot of snow fell.

At Churchill, Ont., Mrs. W. Ward and her three children, marooned on their kitchen table for nine hours while Credit river flood waters swept through their home, were rescued Tuesday night by volunteers who pushed a boat through chin-deep water to reach the house. Churchill is 16 miles west of Toronto.

Mrs. Ward said she and her children "stood and shivered as the water rose inch by inch. At every moment we expected the water to reach the top and sweep us off."

Six men set out with a boat to rescue the family after a neighbor heard them calling for help across the water.

All of the town's 200 residents were cut off by the water, which rose to a depth of seven feet in some places.

Drug, Liquor Incidents Says Reform Minister

TORONTO, April 5 (CP) — A report that prisoners at Guelph Reformatory get "all the drugs and liquor" they want was denied Tuesday by Reform Institutions Minister Hamilton.

He was commenting on a statement by John Sutherland, 22, that "all the time I was in the reformatory, I could get any quantity of narcotics and liquor."

Sutherland made the statement in a Guelph court Tuesday when he was sentenced to 2½ years for assaulting a reformatory guard.

Mr. Hamilton said there is no widespread illegal traffic in narcotics or liquor in Ontario jails or reformatories, but "incidents" had occurred.

Convict Bridges Of Perjury In Denying Red

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5 —(AP)—Harry Bridges was convicted Tuesday in federal court of perjury. The eight men and four women on the jury didn't believe him when he swore he was not a Communist.

Bridges, president of the big Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (CIO) thus is subject to a term of seven years in prison, and a fine of $15,000. If the verdict is upheld on appeal, he can be deported to his native Australia.

Two other top men in the longshore union, convicted with Bridges, were Henry Schmidt, international representative, and J. R. Robertson, first vice-president.

They were witnesses for Bridges at his 1945 U.S. citizenship hearing, at which Bridges swore he wasn't a Communist. They were convicted of conspiracy to aid and abet perjury and to obstruct operations of the Naturalization Department. Each is subject to the same prison term and fine that applies to Bridges.

The tension generated by the long trial and the long deliberation of the jury, and exploding in the mass convictions, was still snapping through the courtroom as Federal Judge George B. Harris called the two defence lawyers before him.

He sentenced both lawyers to prison terms for contempt. Vincent Hallinan got six months, and his junior colleague, James MacInnis, three months.

Hospital Rates For Indigents Jump Jan. 1951

TORONTO, April 5 (CP)—An increase in hospital rates which municipalities will have to pay for indigent patients will not take effect until Jan. 1, 1951, Premier Frost gave this understanding in the legislature Tuesday night when CCF leader E. B. Jolliffe said main complaint was that municipalities had made no provision for the change in this year's budgets.

The debate on second reading of the Public Hospitals Act revealed that contrary to statements of some Toronto members of council, the city would benefit by the change. Toronto controllers had claimed that an additional expense of $200,000 would be incurred by the increase from $3 to $4 a day for indigent patients.

Mr. Jolliffe pointed out, and Acting Health Minister Goodfellow agreed, that this would be offset by reduction in the deficits which the city has to pay.

Premier Frost said the special 25 per cent grant to hospitals from the province would reduce deficits in Toronto from $1,295,000 to $500,000.

SEA MYSTERY — Theodore Donay, Detroit, Mich., importer who served 6½ years in a Federal prison for aiding an escaped Nazi prisoner of war, disappeared from a rented motorboat 150 miles from where a mysterious submarine was reported sighted. Street Flooded

COBOURG, April 5 (ENS)— Rain and water from melting snow to the north of Cobourg, filled storm sewers to capacity yesterday as the water made its way to the lake. Always a bad spot, James Street was in a bad state again and many cellars were flooded due to the sewer being unable to accommodate the flow of flood waters. The fire truck was called out to pump water out of the James Street manhole in order to speed up the flow and provide exit to water which had flooded cellars on that street.

Do Educational Officials Need A Shove?

A newly printed report on the affairs of the Department of Education reached the desks of the Members of the Ontario Legislature a few days ago. It was published sometime this year, although over the signature of the Minister of Education, the Honourable Dana Porter, dated December 1st, 1949. This 275-page well-printed document of considerable importance to provincial and municipal people who have anything to do with education, is the official Report of the Department of Education for the year, 1948. It comes to public light in the second quarter of the year 1950.

* * *

Why is the department so tardy? Is it afflicted with occupational lethargy? The Report's figures, graphs, charts and illustrations are interesting, but their value is greatly reduced by their untimeliness. The statistics are already outdated. They are now neither directly pertinent nor likely to be studied widely. An annual report is not supposed to be a leisurely historical survey. It is a report on the current state of affairs, so that legislators and the public may pass judgement. It is kinder, and more accurate to say that the Department of Education is late with its Report not because it fears that public judgement but because it is abnormally slow.

* * *

The Department officials have, of course, a superior model to follow: The Royal Commission on Education established in 1945. This Commission has not yet brought in its report. In fact, the Legislature has voted $50,000 towards its expenses for another year. When the Commission in its and the Government's good time gets around to finishing the job, much of its work done in the first three or four years since it was appointed will be obsolete, as Mr. Farquhar Oliver, Liberal leader, said in the Assembly Friday. We agree with the Ontario C.C.F. leader, who was sharp in his criticism, that "if the Commission cannot report now, it has no value". Perhaps the Commissioners (presided over by Mr. Justice Hope) are not entirely or mainly to blame. Commissions do get involved in Governmental machinery, and governmental machinery has ways of going into slow gear when there are hard nuts to crack. Could it be that the Royal Commission on Education is liable to produce a Report in which there are facts and recommendations embarrassing to the Government, or awkward for the Department of Education?

Persistent Belief In Magic

A woman in Victoria, B.C., is to face a charge of fraud in Buffalo; she persuaded another woman to let her have $3,900, which was wrapped in a "magic" handkerchief and placed in a safety deposit box; the promise was that in three months the money would be magically doubled.

It is strange that such a fraud should be successful, but it gives another piece of corroboration to our contention that the belief in magic still persists in the hearts of many people. Readers will recall that during the last days of the war a man in Quebec was discovered to be keeping an object which he declared to be the Devil in a bottle; the Devil answered questions which were put to him by rising or sinking in the bottle; this fraud had brought in a considerable sum. From time to time items of news make their way into the papers which show that belief in magic is by no means dead.

In our age it may be that simple people should be forgiven for believing in magic. So much of what happens in the scientific world is improbable when judged by ordinary standards that it is hard to say where the bounds of credulity should be set. Magic was the forerunner of science, for magic is nothing but the attempt of man to control the forces of nature. It is not surprising that some people cannot decide where magic ends and science begins.

Mr. Menzies And Australian Communism

The Liberal Prime Minister of Australia, Mr. R. G. Menzies, appears to have won a striking victory over Communism in his country. He was elected in part on his pledge to break the Communist grip on Australian trade unions, and he has prepared a careful campaign, but it has not yet come before Parliament. His sudden action last week was forced upon him by a sudden Communist move. The success of Mr. Menzies' action will undoubtedly help his anti-Communist campaign when it is ready for Parliament's consideration.

The crisis was provoked by the Waterside Workers Federation, this is the union which controls the men who load and unload ships. The Federation has organized a series of strikes demanding "rotation of hatches", a term which means that men working a ship take the holds in rotation from the Number One hold at the bows, in the order in which they are engaged; under the existing system the boss puts men to work in whatever hold he thinks best in order to do the job. Mr. Menzies took the view that these strikes were not the result of a genuine grievance, but were part of a Communist scheme to disrupt shipping and trade. Thousands of tons of goods, including much of the vitally important wool shipments to England and the U.S.A., were lying on the docks. Mr. Menzies invoked the Crimes Act, which renders strikers liable to a year's imprisonment. No action was taken at once, but the Federation immediately reconsidered its strike, and Mr. Menzies was upheld in his belief, for it proved that a majority of the workers did not want to strike and were ready to arbitrate on the "rotation of hatches" problem. The assistant Federal Secretary of the union, Mr. E. Roach was sharply rebuked from the floor at a meeting in which he attempted to persuade the dockers to prolong their strike. Mr. Roach is a prominent Communist. The upshot of the union meetings was that a majority of the dockers rejected the Communist element among their leaders.

The Crimes Act is still in effect. Mr. Menzies, having been pushed into his anti-Communist campaign before he was ready for it, does not mean to retreat from it now. He has won the first round.

Warning The Accused

The Brantford Expositor calls attention to the fact that in a number of court cases recently judges and magistrates have had to exclude from evidence statements made by the accused person, because the accused was not properly cautioned by the police when questioned. It is an old principle of our law that an accused person is not required to make any statement which may be damaging to himself unless he consents to do so. He is warned before he speaks, usually in some such form as this: "You are warned that anything you say may be taken down in writing and used in evidence". Sometimes this is loosely quoted as "Anything you say may be taken down in writing and used in evidence against you". These last two words are not part of any official warning, and the police do not use them.

The Expositor points out, however, that several variations on this formal warning are now in use, and it is apparent that in many cases it is forgotten, with the consequence that the statement obtained cannot be admitted as evidence in the subsequent trial. The Brantford paper makes the excellent suggestion that the form of the warning be fixed, and that it be printed upon a card, or included in a pocket police manual, so that every officer has it continually on his person, and is able to read it to anyone who is arrested or detained. It is easily understood that in a time of confusion a police officer might forget to deliver a verbal caution; if, however, he had the caution in writing, and knew that it was an invariable accompaniment to an arrest, such lapses of memory would be much less frequent, and might be ruled out completely.

NOTE AND COMMENT

California scientists say that they have evolved "an improved truth serum". Glad to hear it; the truth usually needs a lot of improvement.

A doctor says that nothing can be done about inherited baldness. Of course, you may also inherit one of Grandfather's saucy smoking caps.

A nanny goat at Tillsonburg has given birth to triplets. According to the Brockville Recorder the comment of the Billy Goat was "You're kidding, of course."

An Italian peasant has had his nose bitten off by a donkey. That will teach him to argue with a donkey at the proper end.

From The Critic's Notebook

THE STATE OF EUROPE by Howard K. Smith (Cresset, London; Ambassador Books, Toronto).

WHEN I first approached this book I thought: "Oh, another foreign correspondent blowing off steam for the prestige and dollars to be gained". It is nothing of the sort. Howard Smith is a journalist, presently head of the Columbia Broadcasting System in Europe. There the similarity between this book and fifty others on post-war Europe ends. If you have wanted, as I have, an accurate review of the main post-war events in Europe (after the confusing plethora of daily, weekly and monthly reports) and a steady, informed analysis, this is it. It is in the compass of 400 pages of plain prose, and for the modest price of three dollars. (The devalued pound brings the book within range of the ordinary purse.)

Howard Smith has a passion for Europe which he has been able to feed by almost continuous residence there since he became a Rhodes Scholar in 1936. But he brings to his continental view an American's ultramarine counter-balance, a scholar's disciplined historical judgement, and a reporter's wariness and concern for facts.

If there were no analysis this book would still be a valued reference. It is full of documented facts, the facts of a large and various situation which would pour into the desk and notebooks of a man in Smith's position through the decade; facts organized, assimilated, and reliable. Did you know, for instance, that Europe consists of thirty independent sovereign states; that there have been seven wars, civil and international, in Asia since the end of the Second World War; that in Roman Catholic Spain the more liberal encyclicals of the Pope are not read out?

"The State of Europe" is not a dull compilation of facts. Howard Smith is too good a journalist not to know how to write pungently as well as cogently. (His first and only other book, the famous "Last Train From Berlin" published in 1942, exemplifies his skill.) The nations he treats separately, and the Europe he studies as a whole, are related in quick, sure historical observances to the centuries from which they have sprung.

Here is his method. He first states the reasons for a study of Europe in the chapter "The Importance of Being Europe"; "the scrawny little gut of earth jutting out from the great Eurasian land mass remains the world's first continent, with a lien on the rest of mankind's interest and concern which no other part of the world enjoys". In Europe the invasion of a nation one-twentieth the size of China (i.e. Poland) was sufficient to start the last war. The seven wars in Asia since then have stirred the surface but not savaged the world's heart.

Next he deals with the various European nations and their parts in the shape of present things; from Britain, ("The Fallen Bastion"), to Yugoslavia ("The Great Schism"), to Poland ("Rape With Passion"). "The title of Mr. Mikolajczyk's book 'The Rape of Poland' (Mikolajczyk was wartime premier in London) is as accurate a figure of speech as one can think of to describe what the Communists did to Poland". He concludes with a final chapter: "Whose Century?".

The book is replete with on-the-spot and shrewd observations. Mr. Howard Smith has visited, within the last three years, all the countries of which he writes.

Here are some tid-bits. Of Britain: "The decline of Britain's wealth has left little slack for the social compromise that created her long record for peaceful change. From now on she will have to depend on the sheer good sense of her people". Of America in Europe (a brilliant chapter entitled "The Star-Spangled Bonanza"): "America truly possesses the whip-hand over the world. It is as easy as rolling off a log for America to become an imperialist country. With this preponderance of power, and most of the rest of the world in a crisis of scarcity, there need be no crude conquests; they can be carried out gently, invisibly, by the almost surreptitious means of wealth, by investments that bring silent control and by aid-grants accompanied by polite hints regarding the receiving nation's olicy". Of France: "Among the things left encrusted by the great Revolution is a pretty stubborn attachment to freedom". The chapter on Spain begins with an obiter dictum of the Marques de Lozoya, of Franco's Ministry of Education spoken in 1938: "All the misfortunes of Spain come from the stupid desire of the government to teach Spaniards to read. Teaching a man to read is only to oblige him to assume a position which will cause misfortune for himself and for his motherland".

The long section on Russia is remarkably clear-sighted and objective. The author attempts to separate what is Russian in the U.S.S.R. and what is Communist. The point is not academic. We must come to terms with what is purely Russian; we must confront with force what is Communist.

The author concludes with these "working hypotheses": "The maintenance of the system of private enterprise is not only becoming technically less possible; it is rapidly losing its last moral justifications.... The crisis of Commercialism is sorely aggravated in the world today by that other anachronism, the division of the world into sovereign states.... The blind spot of the Russians is due to their never having known democracy at home and their tendency to judge it from the worst possible example in the Western world—Germany before World War I.... The mission to lead Europe to a new life was made to order for Socialist, Democratic Britain, but so far Britain has not accepted the mantle History has offered her—due to the policies of Mr. Bevin, to Britain's dire dependence on American aid and to the British cabinet's fear of offending the predominantly Big Business administration which President Truman has put in charge of ERP. If British inaction persists, there is another possibility: let America assume the role. That is not as absurd as it sounds. It is a myth that America is a conservative, if not a reactionary nation".

However much one may disagree with the author's conclusions, they are not to be ignored, and the book as a summary of Europe in these times is an essential review. It is a book American critics have yet to discover; when they do, it will be with a bang.

CLAIMS VALIDITY FOR HIS SAUCERS

Sir: I am somewhat grieved by J.G.'s reply to my recent "take-off" on the flying saucer question.

In his statement that, "Mr. Tully chooses to be facetious," J.G. must evidently have contracted a slight touch of, shall we say, "professional jealousy"! However, may I thank him for the compliment?

One can well imagine J.G.'s pained expression on reading my humble effort, (pardon my modesty, I thought it was rather good myself)!, which reminds me (his pained expression does) of a small boy who has just been caught in the pantry by his mother, with one finger in the jam-pot and the rest of the jam all over his face!

After all, judging from his own letter on the subject, which I have here before me, was it not an attempt at pseudo-facetiousness?

As he so aptly admits it was during the year of the short corn, that this particular experience of his took place. Doubtless he was one of the sparrows with the sore knees, because the corn in his case must have been in extremely short supply, judging from a few kernels such as these, viz: "Georgian Bey," "Mustapha Nother," "sand mines in Morocco"!

Furthermore since he seems to align himself with "genuine saucer lovers," how can he love them, when, according to his own statement, he has not "yet seen any of these phenomena"?

Incidentally, I may say that the flying saucer I referred to has nothing to do with his, so it matters little to me when his type came into being.

However, one could no doubt go on arguing, ad infinitum, which prompts me to recall an old rhyme learned during school days and which I quote:

"Big fleas have little fleas upon their backs to bite 'em, Little fleas have lesser fleas, and so ad infinitum"!

If I might be allowed one more bite, may I suggest that J.G.'s latest letter is like the new French bathing suit—it covers very little! That's the bare fact of the matter!

Yours truly,
GERALD TULLY.

MORE ON SNOW REMOVAL

Sir: Having read the two letters also your editorial in reply to my letter — re snow ploughing.

In speaking to an ex-alderman last week, one who is now superannuated from C.G.E. and one who gave many years of service in our city council he informed me that when he was in Council if snow should come on during the night that Police Department got in touch with snow plow contractors either by phone or otherwise, and that sidewalks were all plowed before seven o'clock, which is not done now. Also if it snowed during the morning it was cleared before dinner. Now on our street if it snows during night we get it ploughed possibly by eight-thirty and if still necessary not again till sometimes five o'clock in the afternoon. Go back a few years we got service at the proper time of the day, result sidewalks were fairly clean and very little slush when a thaw came. As it is now — after a snow storm half of it is packed down before snow plow arrives and by time a thaw comes. There are many streets with from six to eight inches of snow and ice packed down and naturally lake of slush.

You state that Toronto streets in worse condition than even Peterborough streets are. I was in Toronto and Hamilton on March 18th and found streets in both places in far better shape than here. In fact I came home on C.P.R. local on Monday night March 20 and you could not walk down George St. on sidewalk opposite wharf for slush, in fact the people walking had made a new path up on snow banks on outside of walk and again between Lake and Westcott you had to do the same.

Was talking to a man this week now living here who kept store on O'Connor Street for I believe 12 years and he told me it cost him about $1,500 to have his walk kept clean in the winter time in Toronto.

Trusting our City Council and Street Commissioner will give us better service next year than we certainly did not get this year.

O. S. MATCHETT.

POLITICAL EDUCATION IN SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Sir: Virgo is not very consistent in his arguments. Recently he urged that all Canadians failing to vote should be severely penalized. When I pointed out that very few of them knew what they were voting for, I suggested that they should be politically educated before they attempted to vote.

Virgo, presumably, agrees with me and thus retracts his original statements. He then goes slightly irrelevant in his argument and states that Canadians in general are literate. In my opinion that is a moot point, but one which nevertheless will one day be rectified.

Virgo, then seems to be at a loss. He prescribes severe remedies for an illness of which he evidently knows very little, and finally appeals to me for the proper cure.

I refer him to that "decadent democracy" on the other side of the Atlantic, where there are hundreds of socialist Sunday Schools for the young, hundreds of branches of the Junior Imperialists (Conservatives) and the Young Liberals and Young Communist parties. There are, in addition numerous branches of Scots, Irish and Welsh Nationalist parties and all of these organizations are regularly attended by thousands of young persons each week. In this way people receive a thorough insight into all shades of political opinion. In the city of Glasgow there are branches of the Anarchist Federation and they too have their youthful followers or adherents.

The remedy for Canadian apathy to politics is in the hands of the political parties, not in the hands of the law.

WARMLY SUPPORTS MARGARINE

Sir: Canada First, in your letter about margarine you seem to imply, by your pen name, that anyone who prefers margarine to butter is not a good Canadian. Well lady, I am pro-margarine, anti-butter, pro-Quebec, anti-British, anti-Union Jack, pro-distinctive Canadian flag, pro-trade unions, pro-Negroes, pro-Jews, pro-Catholics, and pro- a number of other things that bigotted, self-righteous Canada Firsts such as you find obnoxious. Furthermore, I consider myself a first class Canadian.

How do you know butter is clean Mrs. Canada First? Have you ever seen some of the conditions under which cream is produced, cows with dung covered flanks and bellies, etc.? What is so unclean about white whales, and Hudson Bay. Perhaps you haven't heard of Eskimoes eating blubber.

This country has the mistaken idea that the national economy depends wholly on the farmer. Supposing all the miners in the country, or the industrial workers, refused to work. How long before the financial setup would be crippled? And how many farmers would you find giving away their products?

Why should we baby the farmer, subsidize for everything, ban this and that? The poor old fellow. Why there isn't a farmer in this area who doesn't own or couldn't afford a late model car. Do you own one Mrs. Canada First.

Following your line of reasoning, why don't you throw out your plumbing, dig a well, and buy a De Laval pump, just to keep your bread buttered.

Apparently your sense of taste lies in your biased reasoning. Try tasting some margarine with your tongue some time.

Last of all if a person wishes to air his or her opinions in a newspaper, why haven't they the backbone to endorse it with their name and reputation. I think perhaps they lack the guts that were so necessary to build this Canada for Canadians whether they eat margarine or butter. For goodness sake let us eat our margarine without sniping at us from behind a pen name.

CAMERON WASSON.

PERSONAL STREET CLEANING

Sir: I think that this is a very sound idea. Take for instance a city the size of Kingston scattered as it is yet the streets are always clean enough to walk on. And they likely use the extra money to repair their roads, which to my appearance are always in good shape. Which is more than I can say about the majority in this fair city of ours. Take for instance Edison Ave. It has had very little repair work done on it in the past two years. And the snow plowing is of little use as there are a number of hedges growing so close to the sidewalk that the plow has to go off the walk into the ditch to get around them. Which is no fault of the plow man. So let's do away with the snow plowing and spend this money on street repairs or have these people move their hedges back so the plow can do a decent job.

Yours truly,
R. O. GRAHAME.

Ed. Note: Our contemporary, the Kingston Whig-Standard, points out every year that the streets in that city are not kept clean by private citizens, as the law demanding such action is unenforcebale.

PAY THE EASY WAY

Sir: A number of times I have seen ladies of the Civic Hospital Auxiliary selling tickets on a penny sale. This seems to involve much work and time. Do the profits compensate the effort? I think tickets selling at twenty-five or fifty cents would sell more easily, if a worthwhile prize were offered. The profits for the hospital, much greater.

There could be a drawing every second week and the proceeds divided between the winner and the hospital. A small bonus could be given to the person selling the winning ticket. I can assure you there are very few residents of Peterborough who would refuse to buy or sell these tickets, not only for the chance of winning, but to help lower our outrageously high taxes.

MARY R. MANN.

LARGE CHEESERS

Sir: I see in tonight's (Thursday's), editorial you state that Canadians are not large cheese eaters.

This statement seems rather ambiguous to me, and I am at a loss to understand just what you mean.

Do you imply that large Canadians do not eat cheese, that Canadians as cheese eaters are not large people, or simply that Canadians do not eat large cheeses?

Still referring to the same subject, I am reminded of a verse of one of the lesser known Peterborough bards:

"A wondrous sight I do declare
The ripening fruits in vines and trees,
But naught in Nature can compare
The beauteous sight of ripening cheese".

Yours, etc.,
MACDUFF.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

O Lord, how long shall I cry, and thou wilt not hear! even cry out unto thee of violence, and thou wilt not save! Why dost thou shew me iniquity, and cause me to behold grievance? for spoiling and violence are before me: and there are that raise up strife and contention. Therefore the law is slacked, and judgement doth never go forth: for the wicked doth compass about the righteous; therefore wrong judgement proceedeth.

Behold ye among the heathen, and regard, and wonder marvellously: for I will work a work in your days, which ye will not believe, though it be told you. For, lo, I raise up the Chaldeans, that bitter and hasty nation, which shall march through the breadth of the land, to possess the dwellingplaces that are not their's.... They shall come all for violence: their faces shall sup up as the east wind, and they shall gather the captivity as the sand....

Art thou not from everlasting, O Lord my God, mine Holy One? we shall not die. O Lord, thou hast ordained them for judgement; and, O mighty God, thou hast established them for correction. Thou are of purer eyes than to behold evil, and canst not look on iniquity. (Hab. 1: 2-6, 9, 12, 13.)

It is good that a man should both hope and quietly wait for the salvation of the Lord....

Who is he that saith, and it cometh to pass, when the Lord commandeth it not? (Lam. 3: 26, 37.)

Missing Traitor Leaves Note; Possible Suicide

LOS ANGELES, April 5—The sheriff's office today listed the puzzling disappearance of a convicted wartime traitor as a possible suicide.

Theodore Donay, 51, a Detroit importer who served 6½ years in prison for failing to reveal the whereabouts in Detroit of an escaped Nazi flier, vanished Saturday from Catalina Island. The Nazi flier was Hans Peter Krug who escaped from a Canadian prison camp.

Donay's disappearance took a dramatic twist as it coincided with the sighting of a mysterious submarine in Southern California coastal waters.

However, authorities said they had no concrete evidence by which to tie the two events together.

Found at sea Sunday was the 18-foot motorboat the German-born Donay had rented from an Avalon dock. The boat was empty save for a suitcase full of clothing.

Sheriff's Capt. Garner Brown Monday released a note found in Donay's Avalon hotel room. Brown said it indicated suicide. It read in part:

"I am living under the constant fear of deportation through the Detroit immigration authorities . . . the outlook for my future is a very dark one . . goodbye my good friends and thank you so very much for all the good things you did to me. Theodore Donay."

On Good Friday a service will be held jointly with the Church of England and Presbyterian congregations. The service will be held in Saint Andrew's Church at 10.30 a.m.

Easter Sunday, morning worship will be at 11 a.m. Evening service will be at 7.30 p.m. and at the close of the service, a picture entitled "Beyond Our Own", will be shown by the Protestant Film Commission.

Wanted Her Cared For Did Nothing In Will

TORONTO, April 5 (CP)—The Ontario Supreme Court Tuesday turned down the appeal of Mrs Meroda A. Faulkner against the estate of James V. Grace, founder and president of Met-Wo Industries, Limited, who died suddenly in 1948 without making a will.

Mrs. Faulkner, secretary-treasurer of the company for several years, claimed that Grace had promised to divorce his wife, marry her and leave her all his shares in the company plus $250 a month for life.

Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly said there was no doubt in his mind Grace wanted Mrs. Faulkner taken care of but "he didn't do anything about it," he said.

Gov't Awaits Report From Lawyer On Cardy

OTTAWA, April 5 (CP)—Justice Minister Garson told the Commons Tuesday no decision has been reached on whether an appeal will be entered against the sentence of Vernon G. Cardy, Montreal hotel executive, who pleaded guilty to violating foreign exchange regulations. Mr Cardy was fined $40,000 in Montreal last week.

John Diefenbaker (Lake Centre), Progressive Conservative legal specialist, asked Mr. Garson today "whether it is contemplated to appeal the sentence imposed recently on an international hotel owner for various infractions of the Foreign Exchange Control Act on the ground that uniformity should be reasonably maintained."

The minister replied the Foreign Exchange Control Board had written counsel who handled the case, asking for a report. "Until that report is received," he added "no decision will be reached with regard to appealing the sentence."

Sherbrooke Wins 3rd In Eastern Finals

SYDNEY, N.S., April 5 (CP)—Sherbrooke Saints, Quebec Senior Hockey League champions, Tuesday night hung a 5-3 defeat on Sydney Millionaires to take a 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven, Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-final series.

The Saints took the first two games, Saturday and Monday night, with identical 4-2 scores.

The teams were scheduled to entrain for Sherbrooke for the fourth game Saturday, and the fifth, if necessary, Monday.

Right-winger Reg Sinclair sparked the Sherbrooke attack with two goals while Norm McAtee, Adjutor Cote and Jimmy Planche notched the other counters. Bob Gray, Cliff Roach and Bob Bowness tallied for the Millionaires.

Winner of the series will go against the winner of an Ontario semi-final between Cornwall Calumets and Toronto Marlboros for the right to represent Eastern Canada in Allan Cup playoffs.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Prexy Pat Calladine is calling an executive meeting of the men's City Softball League for next Tuesday night at 7.30 in the YMCA to clear the decks for summer action. Meantime, he wants team entries and umpire applications made as soon as possible to Secretary Bert Bailey. The latter is again running for the OASA executive and will attend the Owen Sound convention this week-end, along with Pat Calladine, George Dormer and Bob Batley, the three voting delegates from Peterborough. Convention is Friday and Saturday, the general meeting being on the former day. It's time the local Girls' Softball League began re-organization, also.

Oshawa scribe writes: "Viaduct Major Baseball League closed its entries and there'll be seven team in the league this season. Four Toronto senior clubs, along with New Toronto Simpson Fords, Oshawa and Peterborough. Eddie Murphy, Liftlock City baseball mogul, tells us that floodlights are expected to save baseball for Peterborough. They expect to open the Viaduct League schedule the middle of May, with Oshawa having requested their home opening game on May 24. Carman Bush is the umpire-in-chief of the Viaduct League and will appoint all umpires. Probably some Sunday afternoon games at Viaduct Park as well as Saturday twin bills and the floodlight mid-week games in Toronto."

OHA Semi-Finals Open

Tonight at 8.45 in Civic Arena, Balmy Beaches of Toronto open their best-of-three OHA senior "B" semi-finals against the local Legionnaires. Second game will be here, also, on Friday and third (if necessary) here Monday. No doubt, the arena will be filled for these important playoffs as both clubs will be fighting furiously to get a crack at provincial finals. Some grand hockey is sure to be served up between the Toronto champs and the senior "B" titleholders, and there won't be any dull moments in the two or three jousts in these semi-finals. No, sir.

* * * * * *

Legionnaires are playing hot hockey right now as they smell another title in the offing. Ross Nicholls is almost unbeatable in the cage since playdowns started. Every defenceman toils like a trooper every minute he is out there, and none of the forwards do any loitering. It's pretty hard lately to pick out the best front line, the second and third playing on just about equal terms with that fine first-string trio. Yes, the Ellis outfit is giving its all and will have to continue doing so as the field narrows down and only the best survive. Fans shouldn't pass up the few remaining playoffs this semester.

Lacrossers Build Up

Rumors persist that the Petes' senior "A" lacrossers are lining up plenty of strong talent as they build up for another heavy season. Lou Vitarelli has decided to retire and there'll be some other absentees from last year's lineup, but lots of first-class replacements, if all goes well. A report this morning from Vancouver says three good lacrossers there have been invited to strut their stuff in Peterborough. Jim Kinna and Russ Buchanan of last year's Minto Cup champions are two, and Burt Ticehurst, of Burrard seniors, is the other. And we hear a number of OLA senior "A" stars have been approached by local officials and are seriously considering coming. So, looks like we'll have a powerful squad this summer.

Curling season wound up last night on an enjoyable note at the Empress Hotel. Some 150 knights of the besom and stane sat down to dinner, followed by entertainment, pictures and presentation of prizes for the season's winners. President Stan Lowe said it was a highly successful season all around. Jack Allan was M.C. for the fun and frolic after the eats, and Maurice Cruthers showed Scottish pictures from the curlers' tour he was on, along with Al Parkhill and Lou Beaton of Oshawa, and Percy Skitch of Lindsay—all of whom were club guests last evening. Nice to see Chris Graham on hand, too. A big percentage of local curlers are young fellows.

Stewart Bowlers Win By 836 League Score

Toppling the pins for a 836-score Bill Stewart's bowling squad captured the Hi-Y Bowling League honors Tuesday noon. By a series of elimination the league was gradually whittled down to two teams, Stewart's and Dave Fanning's. The Fanning team had a healthy lead at the fifth frame but faded quickly while Stewart's bowlers started striking to take the honors. Fanning's team had a total pinnage of 788.

John Boorman with a 195 and Garry Patterson with 194 were the top bowlers for the day. Both are members of Stewart's team. Dave Fanning led his team with a 168.

Summary:

Stewart's—Bill Stewart 131, Don Ash 121, Larry Forbes 85, Vic Peters 110, Garry Patterson 194, John Boorman 195.

Fanning's—Dave Fanning 168, Bob Boorman 91, Terry Brown 113, Lou Marshall 156, Bob Hutchison 109, Barry Hollingsworth 151.

Flanagan-Morgan In Team Match Against Lee-Korman

The most riotous sport anywhere will be seen at the Brock Arena this Thursday night, a team wrestling match. Pat Flanagan and Toar Morgan team up against Hi Lee and Al Korman in the main bout, and the place should be packed for this one. Furious action every second marks these mass mayhem matches, with three and four powerful grapplers mixing at one time in the ring in "hey rube" fashion. The colorful Pat and scrappy Toar Morgan take on a villainous pair in towering Hi Lee and Krusher Korman, and the referee will have a hectic hour of it before one side or the other wins out. The odds seem to be in favor of the Flanagan-Morgan duo coming out on top.

Toar Morgan

Bill Stack

A fine semi-final supports this main bout, with Roy McClarity paired against strong Vern Baxter. The prelim, too, is a good one, having the husky and popular Bill Stack going against Bobby Nelson. It is one of the best wrestling cards offered here in the past year and should suit both city and district followers of the grapple game.

Collis Bowlers High Single In Girls' Loop

Collis had high single of 1064 while Brintons rolled top pinnage of 3051 this week in the Girls Bowling League F Kokesh led individuals in singles with a nifty 340 effort while M. Batley had high three of 726. Other good singles were M Batley 304 and D. Hendren 301, while B. Wasson and F. Kokesh each had a three count of 713. R Wilson's 481 won the blind score of 487. Curlers Finish Fine Season With Presentation of Prizes

The presentation of prizes for the season at the Empress Hotel last evening concluded the most successful season of curling in Peterborough's history. About 150 members of the Curling Club—half the male membership—sat down to the fine dinner, which was followed by entertainment and the prizes presentation. President Stan Lowe spoke briefly at the start, pointing out that it was a highly successful season for curlers and that the finances were good, though this would be presented in detail at another meeting. Later, following some entertainment, Mr. Lowe threw the session open for a short business discussion of the club's activities.

Fine Entertainment

Jack Allan took over for a time as master of ceremonies and drew a lot of laughs. He introduced Elsie Hill who did the Highland Fling, and also Mort Knox, club member, who sang two numbers. There was a general sing-song, as well as pipe music by a couple of Scots. Following the presentation of prizes to the various winners throughout the season, Maurice Cruthers showed slides of Scottish scenes.

Mr. Cruthers introduced three other district curlers who were with him on the eight-week tour of Scotland the past season, Al Parkhill and Lou Beaton of Oshawa and Percy Skitch of Lindsay. Chris Graham was another popular member on hand for the windup dinner. The large gathering was notable for the fact that there were so many young members of the curling club on hand. Following are the winners of the season.

Wings Tie Series 2-2 After 20 Minutes Overtime

TORONTO, April 5 (CP)—Six-foot Leo Reise, blond son of a famous hockey playing father, put the Detroit Red Wings back in the Stanley Cup hunt Tuesday night.

The 27-year-old defenceman broke up a gruelling struggle with Toronto Maple Leafs after 20 minutes and 38 seconds of sudden death overtime play. His backhand slap shot from the boards hit a Toronto player's leg and caromed into the goal to give the Wings a 2-1 victory and tie up the best-of-seven cup semi-final 2-2.

The crowd of 13,888 fans had barely settled into their seats for the second overtime period when Reise stunned them into silence with his goal. It climaxed a Detroit ganging attack during a slashing penalty to Toronto's Bill Barilko who went off with two seconds left to play in the first overtime session.

Magnificent Defence

Reise had a hand, too, in a magnificent Detroit defensive stand in the first period. He joined with Sid Abel and Red Kelly, backed by a sensational performance by Harry Lumley in the Detroit goal in holding off the Leafs for one minute and 26 seconds while two Detroit players served penalties.

That defensive display marked a turning point in the game. Until then, the Leafs had the edge and it appeared they might come through with their third victory of the series. It put fresh heart into the Red Wings who charged into the game from then on with zest.

Bentley Scores

The game was only three minutes and 34 seconds old when the Leafs scored. Max Bentley got the goal, whipping in a passout from left winger Ray Timgren.

Just past the midway mark of the first period, Marty Pavelich got the tying goal for Detroit. The dark-haired left winger from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., backhanded a pass from Gerry Couture into the open side of the net.

Full Scale Fight

The game was played in wilting heat and the rink was stuffy before it ended. The heavy going brought a rash of penalties and one full-scale fight in the first period. Main participants in the battle were Steve Black of Detroit and Bill Juzda of Toronto who got in a tangle behind the Toronto goal. They got majors for staging the main bout. Barilko drew a minor for roughing and Lee Fogolin of Detroit a minor for high-sticking.

The Red Wings left immediately after the game for Detroit where the fifth game of the series will be played Thursday night. The Leafs left by bus for St. Catharines and will head for Detroit tomorrow afternoon. The sixth game will be played in Toronto Saturday night and the seventh, if necessary, in Detroit next Sunday night.

Lumley Handled 39

Reise's father, who played with the old New York Americans more than 20 years ago, was not on hand to see his son break up the game. "He was here Saturday night, he's never around when I score a goal," laughed Leo, Jr., who tallied one goal against the Leafs in the 14 games between the two teams during the National Hockey League schedule.

Lumley played a spectacular game in goal for the Wings, handling 39 shots while the Wings fired 35 at Toronto's Turk Broda.

Canadiens Grab First Win Lach Scores In Overtime

MONTREAL, April 5 (CP) — Montreal Canadiens today have a new lease on life and Tuesday night's 3-2 overtime decision over New York Rangers may prove to be the shot-in-the-arm the doctor ordered.

It was Elmer Lach's goal at the 15:19 minute mark of the overtime session that gave the Montrealers their victory—their first in four starts in their National Hockey League semi-final playoff series—but much of the credit went to substitute goalie Gerry McNeil.

McNeil took over from veteran Bill Durnan—at Durnan's request—and although he had fewer shots to handle than Rangers' Chuck Rayner, he turned in a masterful performance. McNeil came up from Cincinnati before the end of the season.

Hard Way

For a while it looked as though the Rangers would take the series in four straight games but the Montrealers surged through to victory. They did it the hard way too. They tied the score twice in the earlier periods before Lach put the game on ice before a wildly-cheering throng of 14,089 fans.

Pentti Lund and Don Raleigh scored for the New Yorkers while Norm Dussault and Maurice Richard kept Canadiens on even terms until Lach produced.

The game, played at a fast clip, featured brilliant goal-tending and generally wide-open play despite the fact Canadiens realized a single false step could well shift them out of the 1949-50 playoff picture.

12 Penalties

Montreal drew seven of the 12 penalties handed out, including a misconduct to Glen Harmon for back talk to referee Butch Keeling.

Doug Harvey set the stage for the game-winning marker when he passed up the ice to Dussault who whipped a pass to Lach Lach moved only a few feet before letting drive with a backhander that caught the far upper corner of the net, passing under Rayner's arm.

The teams go at it again Thursday night and although there has been no official announcement, it is believed McNeil will once more be on hand for the game.

Canadians Little Affected By U.S. Ruling

OTTAWA, April 5 — (CP).— A change in United States regulations for aliens in transit through that country will have little effect on Canadians, a US Embassy official said Tuesday.

Under the changed regulations aliens in transit through the US will be allowed only 29 days to complete their passage instead of the 60 days permitted them for some years.

However, it will not apply to Canadians leaving Canada for other countries and passing through the US on the way, the official said.

Home Journey

It will apply to Canadians returning home from other countries by way of the United States.

The change, posted in the official Government US Federal Register, also refers to a $500 bond which may be demanded to guarantee that aliens in transit go through the US in the allotted time. This regulation has been in effect for many years.

It was emphasized here that the change in the law had to do only with the time of transit through the US, and not with the posting of the bond.

It was published in the March 29 issue of the Federal Register, with a notification to interested parties that representations would be received up to April 11 for the customary hearings which the US holds on such changes in the law.

NORWOOD, April 5 (ENS) — Norwood High School were hosts to Havelock High for a game of volleyball on Thursday afternoon. Though close in the first half, Havelock leading by only one point, Havelock soared ahead to win the game 29-17. All the buses from Norwood High waited so Norwood High School girls did not lack a cheering section. Line-up:

Havelock—Joan Graham, Muriel Gough, Barbara Vanderburgh, Betty Post, Nancy Curtis, Muriel Whitney, Lois McKay, Marlene Seabrook, Dorothy Holdcroft.

Norwood—Laura Horne, Lois Stackhouse, Frances Hogg, Louella Lee, Nola Nelson, Shirley Clysdale, Grace Horne, Bridget Rooney, Shirley Rusaw.

Gordie Howe, injured left wing of Detroit Red Wings, may be able to leave Detroit hospital in a week or 10 days. He hopes, too, to see a home game, if the Wings can string out the Stanley Cup playoffs that long. Physicians Tuesday removed a "No Visitors Allowed" sign from Howe's room. Up to now, only immediate members of his family have been allowed to talk to him.

Howe was injured in a collision with Ted Kennedy, Toronto captain, in the first game of the playoffs.

"I don't hold Kennedy to blame," Howe said. "He is too fine a player to intentionally hurt anyone.

"All I remember is chasing him towards the boards. I don't recall being struck or hitting the boards."

Citizens of Sherbrooke, Que., will be asked to finance their hockey team further along the Allan Cup trail if the Sherbrooke Saints eliminate Sydney Millionaires in their present best-of-seven games Eastern Canada semi-final. It was decided at a meeting Monday night to have club officials ask the Chamber of Commerce to direct a public drive for funds to keep Sherbrooke in the cup playdowns if they defeat Sydney.

Signing of 22-year-old Don Narrell, star tackle with Texas Christian University last year, was announced Tuesday by President Walter Sprague of Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

At Somerville, Mass., Kenny Smith, Boston Bruins' left winger, Tuesday was operated on for a thyroid cyst by Dr. Thomas Kelley, team physician. Smith, whose play was affected by his thyroid trouble, is expected to remain in Somerville hospital about a week.

At Minneapolis, Bill Richardson scored after 9:37 of sudden death overtime play Tuesday night to give Minneapolis Millers a 4-3 victory over the Omaha Knights, and their first United States Hockey League championship. It was the Millers' third straight victory in the title series after Omaha won the opener.

No OASA Affiliation Planned By The TVL

HASTINGS, April 5 (ENS) — A meeting of the Trent Valley Softball League was held in Stirling. Representatives whose teams have entered for 1950 were: Hastings, Alton Thompson, Fred Crate; Stirling, Doug Patterson, Don Rogers; Campbellford, Bun Crossen, Bruce McComb; Frankford, Bill Bersch, Herb Rankin; Wooler, Lorne Radcliffe, Buck Stacey.

It was left to the president, Carl Austin, to seek a sixth team nearby with the understanding it is not of Intermediate "B" classification.

Motion was made that league games be played on Mondays and Fridays, starting May 22. Postponed games to be played the Wednesday following postponements, or as soon as possible. Games to commence at 8:00 p.m. with 15 minutes grace allowed.

Motion that OASA ruling regarding all signed players must qualify for Intermediate "C" excepting Barney McCall.

It was decided that the league would not affiliate with the OASA in order to have a larger schedule and proper playoffs. However, should a team desire to affiliate separately, arrangements would be made to facilitate teams concerned.

June 15 is the deadline for players to be signed on OASA certificates and to be in the hands of the secretary.

The next meeting is to be held April 16 at 2:00 p.m. in the Legion Hall, Stirling.

50 Years Printer Began At $1.50 Week

GRAVENHURST, April 5 (CP) —Alfred Dass, celebrating his 50th anniversary in the printing and weekly newspaper field, said Tuesday that a fishing trip made him a publisher.

On his way west in 1920, he stopped off here for a day's fishing with his brother. He didn't catch any fish, but by nightfall he was the new owner of the Gravenhurst Banner.

He still is editor and publisher of that Muskoka district weekly and is a charter member of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association.

He started work as a printer's devil, a printing-office helper and errand boy, with the Fergus News-Record at $1.50 a week. His first tasks were polishing glasses for coal-oil lamps and making lye to wash composing-room forms. He graduated as a full-fledged printer at $14 a week with the old Guelph Herald.

British Paper Blasts U.S. Over Strachey

MANCHESTER, England, April 5 — (Reuters). — The Liberal Manchester Guardian says today it is about time some "highly-placed American sources, not to say some new agencies, tried to develop a sense of responsibility."

In an editorial the Guardian refers to an American news agency report that War Minister John Strachey would be by-passed on Western defence secrets. Strachey was accused recently by Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard of not having renounced Communist views.

(The Associated Press reported from The Hague Saturday night that Strachey would be by-passed. The dispatch also contained a denial of that report from War Minister Emanuel Shinwell.

(The International News Service had reported Friday that US military secrets were being withheld from Britain because of Strachey. When the AP correspondent approached a well-informed US source Saturday, he was told the situation had changed overnight and was given the information which the AP distributed. The US source asked that his name be withheld and the report was attributed to a high American official.)

Jittery Mood

The Guardian feels that soon Americans may "get over their jittery mood and begin to think."

"They ma ythen realize that, as British newspapers all know, our public men have a higher affection for secrecy than theirs: They might even give us the credit for believing that the Prime Minister (Attlee) would not keep in any major office a man on whose absolute loyalty he could not rely.

"'Any Americans who want to join in the dirtier games of British party politicians should reflect what they would think if we were to spring to the aid of Senator McCarthy, bringing our tar brushes with us."

(Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) has accused the United States State Department of harboring Communists and being influenced by Russian spies. The US Senate is investigating his charges.)

Comedy-Tragedy

The Guardian finds the Strachey rumpus a mixture of comed and tragedy.

Comedy — "in the picture of an agency man, fearing he had been 'scooped' by a rival, wrestling with his conscience about an 'off-the-record' talk, chasing officials and press officers, and finally getting heavily snubbed by everybody. To what incredible lengths can a nose for news take a man."

Tragedy—"the state of ignorance in which some high American officials go about the world and their readiness to open their mouths without studying facts.

"But perhaps we should not be too hard on them. They have always the fear of Senator McCarthy behind them. They never know when their most secret defence plans may not be published in an enterprising Chicago newspaper or turn up in a pumpkin in somebody's garden."

Excuse Failed

WOKING, Surrey, England — (CP)—Log merchant Ben Eastwood was fined five shillings (78 cents) for not keeping a record of his work. His excuse was: "I can't read or write and I leave it to my daughter-in-law."

Canada Receives Knowledge, Help Of Britain, U.S.

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canada's industrial expansion in recent years has been greatly helped by the fact that she has been able to draw upon the technical knowledge and trained personnel of the United States and Britain.

These have given her quickly a "know-how" and virtually ready-made tradition in many lines which would have required years for her to obtain by herself.

This has been some compensation for the thousands of trained men she herself has exported in the past.

Trade Minister Howe deals with this phase in the current Commerce Journal, published annually by the University of Toronto Commerce Club. He says in part:

Exchange Of Research

"We in Canada benefit from the graduate studies or scientific discoveries made by a Canadian in Britain, university or in an American research laboratory, Canadian industry, and Canada generally, has benefited from American advances in the field of applied science, which were in turn made possible through the fundamental research originally done in the countries of the old world.

"There is an exchange of scientific information between our countries, whether it is passed on from an American or British company to a plant in Canada or through the dissemination of scientific personnel . . .

Experienced Men

"There is another important side to the question. Most of the professional people going across the border are recent graduates—well-trained it is true, but often lacking in experience. On the other hand we are receiving the benefit of some of the most expert advice to be found anywhere in the world.

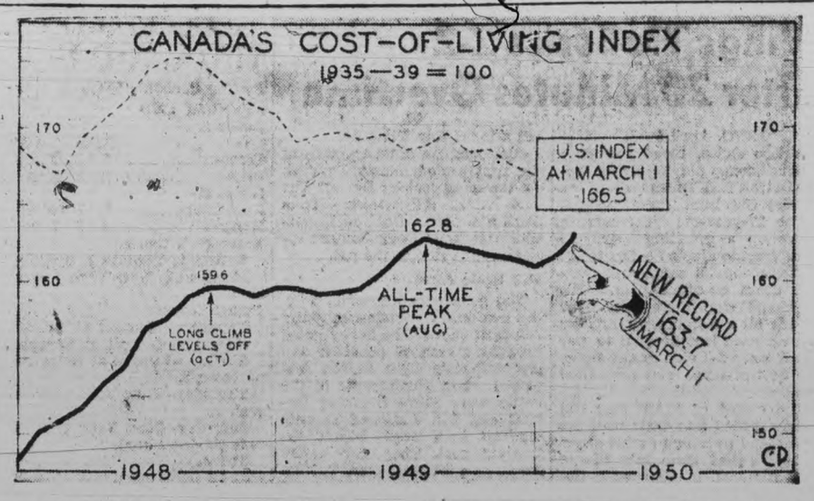
"In pointing out gains to Canada from the flow of American capital, technical knowledge and experienced personnel, I am not advocating it as a permanent or even long-term trend. I am merely trying to show that it has not been a one-way road.

"From a national point of view there have been gains as well as losses from a continental point of view the free exchange of brains, skills and experience has been of inestimable value."

Opportunities At Home

Mr. Howe stated that it now is possible for professional workers to find good employment opportunities at home. Investigations on the distribution of graduates from four large Canadian universities show a declining trend in the number leaving the country.

He stated that in the case of the institution with the largest graduating classes, about 13 per cent of the science graduates went to the United States 25 years ago; today, less than two per cent of recent graduate classes are reported as living in the States.



COST-OF-LIVING — Canada's cost-of-living index, compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, reached an all-time high during February, jumping to 163.7. Sharp increases in rents and foodstuffs shot the index at March 1 up 2.1 points over the 161.6 mark reached Feb. 1. The previous high was 162.8 at Aug. 1, 1949. The solid line shows the course of Canada's index during recent months. The dotted line shows the trend of the Consumers' Price Index for moderate income families in large cities of the United States during the same period. It stood at 166.5 as of March 1. The two lines do not represent the relative costs of living in the two countries but merely shows the trends of the two figures.

Teachers Federation Balks At New Terms

GANANOQUE, April 5 (CP) — Claiming that the new salary schedule discriminates against senior teachers and offers a lower maximum than that approved by the Federation, the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation has advised 11 Gananoque school teachers who refused the schedule to seek employment elsewhere.

I. M. Robb, secretary of the Federation, in a letter to the Gananoque school board Tuesday said any further applicants for teaching jobs would be advised the schedule is unsatisfactory. It offers an annual increment of $200 until a salary of $2,700 has been reached, and then an annual increment of $100 to the maximum.

Not Noronic Victims

TORONTO, April 5 (CP) — Dr. W. L. Robinson, chief pathologist of the Banting Institute here, said Monday night it is virtually impossible that two decomposed bodies washed ashore at Rochester, N. Y., Saturday could be those of victims of the Noronic steamship disaster. Under prevailing conditions since the disaster at a Toronto pier on Sept. 17 in which 119 persons lost their lives, he said it was virtually impossible bodies could have drifted the roughly 100 miles southeast of Rochester.

Find Ship's Hulk In Bay May Hold Spanish Treasure

By NEIL KENNEDY.

TOBERMORY, Island of Mull, Scotland, April 5 (Reuters)—Excitement gripped this rugged Scottish island today as the Royal Navy planned new dives to see if an ancient hulk located in Tobermory Bay last week is the fabulous £30,000,000 ($93,000,000) Spanish treasure galleon, Duque De Florenica.

The navy divers discovery of wooden timbers in the silt of the bay has given substance to the often scorned idea that Tobermory waters conceal wealth greater than a king's ransom in doubloons, pieces of eight, gold plate and jewels.

When They See It

Local sceptics will be convinced of the treasure when they see it, but some of the divers of the two naval craft on the job appear convinced that they have found the 350-year-old secret of the Florenica's grave.

Whether they will also find the treasure is the bigger question.

For the Florenica was reputed to have been blown up here shortly after the battle in which Sir Francis Drake defeated the Spanish Armada. Her violent end was the result of trouble between her officers and local Scottish chieftains.

Navy progress to date was contained in a laconic signal to the Admiralty:

"Have located relic of wooden ship about 50 feet long and about 20 feet wide."

The King's sailors deal neither in doubloons nor ducats, and Cmdr. Reay Parkinson, in charge of operations, would not commit himself farther.

"All I can say at the moment is we have discovered the remains of a wooden ship and that we are working on the hulk. The question of identification must await further discoveries and research," he said.

Divers Optimistic

But divers under his command were optimistic.

"We have hit the jack pot," declared Allan Carr, 19-year-old sailor.

The present operations are the climax to a treasure hunt which has lured people to the island of Mull for hundreds of years.

The navy has been searching for nearly a month under a contract between the Admiralty and the Duke of Argyll. The Duke holds the salvage rights in Tobermory Bay and is entitled to any treasure discovered. He will pay the costs of salvage.

Logs Ride Current

MILLBROOK, April 5 (ENS) —Logs from Attwooll and Shepperd's mill have been carried down the creek on the swift flowing current and some have been found half a mile and more away from the mill, strewn on the banks.

At the mill a particularly rough knobby log is on display. It is believed this huge log rushed down by the spring freshets was responsible, at least in part, for the dam being broken.

Logs have been found strewn on the lawn of the Arnold Armstrong property at the foot of Bank St. where the Robert Ridges are living.

Business Good For '50 Seen In Market Strength

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Recent stock market strength reflects growing confidence that good 1950 conditions will extend at least into the third quarter of the year.

Observers these days don't like to forecast for more than six months at a time, and most early-year forecasters were afraid to commit themselves beyond mid-year. Now, however, at least a few feel assured of good business conditions into the fall.

Production Up

In the United States the Federal Reserve Board believes that industrial production has overcome a February sinking spell, blamed on the coal strike.

In Canada capital investment seems likely to remain around the booming figures of the last couple of years, and the export situation, though causing concern, will be better than most years of the past.

Foreign Markets

Internationally, too, economic news has a brighter tinge. The United States government, under President Truman's direction, is studying ways in which to give other countries a chance to earn more dollars so that international trade may be in reasonably good shape when the European recovery program runs out in 1952. And Britain at the moment is fairly optimistic in regard to overcoming her dollar deficit.

Economic news tends to run in short circles. Sometimes the trend is pessimistic; sometimes, as now, optimistic. Underlying it at all times, however, is the fact that it is necessary, in an international political sense, that the economy of the western world be upheld.

Pension Scheme

Burns and Co., Ltd., meat packing and food distributing firm, announces an enlargement of its pension and group insurance plan, effective April 1, applicable to itself and five subsidiaries, and available to 5,000 employees.

Subsidiaries affected are Burns and Co. Eastern Ltd., Kitchener; Consolidated Fruit Co., Ltd., Palm and Woodland Dairy Co., Ltd., all Dairies, Lt., Crystal Dairies, Ltd., operating in Western Canada.

Saguenay Saga

Y. Cousineau, secretary of the Saguenay Industrial Development Association, Arvida, Que., forwards "The Kingdom of the Saguenay," a beautifully-illustrated 50 page booklet showing the industrial development of the Lake St. John area of Quebec. In the words of the booklet:

"The Saguenay district has the greatest concentration of developed Hydro-Electric power in the world and more is available for development. It has deep-water ports which handle the raw materials and products of the world's largest aluminum plants and of pulp and paper mills with a capacity of more than 800,000 tons a year.

Port Alfred, the region's chief port, is 60 miles up the Saguenay river from the St. Lawrence, has enough sheltered anchorage for the royal navy and in place its harbor is more than 600 feet deep.

FIRST DAIRY INDUSTRY

The production of cheese was the earliest form of dairy manufacturing.

BC POLICE DISAPPEARING—The British Columbia Provincial Police, organized in 1858 and the oldest provincial force in Canada, soon will disappear. The province signed an agreement under which Royal Canadian Mounted Police will take over. Here Corporal P. B. Smith, left, and Sergeant O. L. Hall are on guard duty as a session of the BC Legislature prorogues. It probably was the last time the provincial forces will handle such a function.

Atomic Energy To Help Develop India And China

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, April 5 (CP) —The atom is bound to work fundamental changes in Canada's way of life in the last half of this century, says Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, head of both the National Research Council and the Atomic Energy Control Board.

But it's anybody's guess what form those changes will take. Dr. Mackenzie's imagination doesn't work well out on a limb.

Lists Developments

In a cautious, largely general look at the next 50 years, Dr. Mackenzie said in an interview:

1. Development of the "technically-undeveloped" areas of the world, such as India and China, is the big job facing humanity in those decades. "That way lies the hope of peace."

2. Atomic fuels should open up great new vistas of development as new sources of power always have. They probably will supplement rather than replace coal, oil and hydro-electric power.

3. Science is keenly alive on all fronts and there is no reason to believe the next 50 years should not see the equals in advancement of the last 50, with their jet aircraft, penicillin and insulin, radio, television, atomic energy, vast fleets of automobiles cruising along paved highways.

Crude And Primitive

By 2000 A.D., Dr. Mackenzie says, the present stage of atomic development will be considered crude and primitive.

Who, for instance, could foresee in the crude, early days of the internal combustion engine that it would lead to miles of paved highways, hordes of automobiles, fleets of bombers?

Broadly, the atom had opened up two main approaches to new horizons. One was a reservoir of energy and new sources of energy had always brought tremendous developments in their train. There was no need to consider the atomic fuels a danger or menace to coal, oil or electricity. Those sources had not eliminated one another. They had proved complementary. Nuclear or atomic fuels probably would do likewise.

Research In Medicine

The second approach was through research. The atom could lead to medical and biological discoveries that would transform those sciences. It could bring big industrial changes, might even unlock the mystery of life itself.

Dr. Mackenzie foresaw technological advancements doing much to raise the standards of living of the Asiatic masses and he considered that a vital factor in maintaining peace. But he couldn't foresee that either technology or the atom should create any large settlement in the Canadian north.

"People go where they can make a living and where they can live comfortably," he said. "Why should they want to go into the Arctic when they can live and work, say, in Southern Ontario?"

As for science generally, all branches were "very active." Fifty years ago a great scientist [illegible] science had gone as far as it could go in discovery of fundamental truths. Yet almost as he spoke advances were being made which were to drive humanity forward farther than it had ever gone.

No Limitation

There was no such feeling of limitation today. The search for new truths was eager and wide. Surgery, medicine, aviation, chemistry, nuclear and other arms of physics were plunging forward with other sciences.

"With present progress, it shouldn't be long, for example, before man has the ability to make artificially almost anything, from drugs to fur coats.

The fact that advancements in one area of science tend to flow over and lead to advancements in others made the picture subject to rapid and sometimes vital alteration.

Cortisone, for instance, was discovered in a Canadian laboratory but lay fallow for years until a development somewhere else brought the discovery of its abilities to combat arthritis.

VICTIM OF WAR — Jacob Friesen, a Russian-born Mennonite, is on his way to Winnipeg after what was intended to be a short vacation turned into an 11-year-old exile and cost him his sight. He came to Canada in 1924 with his wife and daughter. Shortly before the second world war began, he went to Germany for a short vacation. The war began and he was unable to return to Canada. He lost his sight during a bombing raid. The homeward voyage for Friesen, his family and seeing-eye dog Asta was sponsored by The Christian Council for Rehabilitation of Immigrants.

It may sound odd but actually it is true. Use one drop of Angostura Bitters to every measuring cup of water used in the coffee pot or coffee machine or coffee maker. Decrease the coffee by one-quarter. You'll have an excellent pot of coffee with a particularly good flavor.

He said the government could have solved the situation by including in the new bill "even a modicum of union security" such as a voluntary, revocable check-off.

Premier Frost said the underlying principle of the bill is to give labor the right to bargain collectively, appoint bargaining agents and have access to means of conciliating legislation, governing hours of work, minimum wages and vacations, much of it the outgrowth of collective bargaining. The government policy was not to interfere in matters that properly were subjects of collective bargaining.

Premier Frost also said the government thought it advisable not to legislate even a minimum of union security because the needs of particular industries and sections varied throughout the province. The bill provides that in a certification vote, the bargaining agent will be chosen by a majority of those eligible to vote, rather than a majority of those actually voting. There are exceptions for employees unable to take part in the vote because of illness, or other reasons.

CCF leader E. B. Joliffe (York South) said the principle of a majority of all eligible to vote "loaded the dice" in favor of unions already certified as bargaining agents, hindering employees from changing their affiliation. He also attacked what he called the "inflexible" conciliation machinery which required months to produce results.

No Chain Store Tax

The legislature in the night sitting Tuesday defeated without a formal vote an amendment by Reid Scott (CCF, Toronto Beaches) to the assessment act.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar said the section of the bill affecting chain stores, to which the amendment referred, had been deleted by the standing committee on municipal law.

The clause that was deleted would have increased assessment of chain stores for business tax purposes to 50 per cent of land value, while reducing the assessment of wholesale merchants from 75 to 50 per cent.

William Dennison (CCF, Toronto St. David) said it was obsolete to allow municipalities to make an assessment of 75 per cent on wholesalers and only 25 per cent on chain stores that do "four to 10 times the business."

SUB SEARCH — U.S. Navy search planes are combing the area around Arguello light station (1) where Coast Guardsmen reported seeing a surfaced submarine eight miles offshore. Catalina Harbor (2) is where convicted traitor Theodore Donay disappeared after renting a motorboat and sailing seaward. Earlier, subs had been reported sighted 40 miles off Cape Mendocino (3) and off Eureka (4).

Lack Of Government

public control of industries to provide a rising standard of living for the people.

The motions were introduced as the chamber opened the traditional budget debate.

Launching the budget debate, Mr. Macdonnell repeated a Progressive Conservative suggestion for the appointment of a national advisory council to co-operate with the provinces in the conservation and development of natural resources. There were resources across the country awaiting development.

"Purely Negative"

He attacked the budget as "purely negative" in character and urged the government to work actively for the abolition of currency restrictions to promote world trade and quiet the uneasiness in the public minds about future export sales.

Mr. Coldwell said his main criticism was that "the government seems prepared to accept whatever levels of production, employment and economic activity the uncontrolled, undirected, unplanned operation of the private enterprise system may bring."

The government should present a plan "for the maximum employment of our manpower, our industries, our resources and for the maximum production of goods."

He proposed that the government appoint two national bodies —a national planning commission and a national investment board —to make and help carry out the plans needed to assure full employment, full production and high incomes. Both should be responsible to parliament through the government.

Investigate Capacity

Mr. Low said the national survey commission which he suggested should investigate the country's real and potential productive capacity and the relation-gross national production. It ship between national income and should be made up of at least 40 technicians, engineers, economists and business men who would report on "the true state of affairs within our country."

He had faith in Canada's ability to produce enough of almost everything necessary for abundant living for every Canadian.

But the government must accept as one of its major responsibilities the removal of "those barriers and artificial restrictions which prevent individuals from enjoying a larger share of the production of their own hands." Financial restriction constituted one of those barriers.

Julian Ferguson (PC-Simcoe North), said the budget gave no direction for the country.

The budget speech traditionally gave direction to industry as to what course should be followed in the ensuing year. This budget had been awaited but it gave no signal for the country's development and no tax relief for the working man.

Mr. Ferguson said there was something radically wrong when Canadians had to pay $160 for a washing machine costing $60 in the United States; when it cost one third more for a motor car produced in Canada by an American firm.

Saturday Shows For Norwood An Experiment

NORWOOD, April 5 (ENS).—Saturday evening film shows for the children of Norwood are to be sponsored by Norwood Board of Trade. The proposal was discussed Monday and it was decided to hold a series of four weekly shows commencing April 15 as an experiment.

There will be no charge for admittance and the Board decided to allot a sum of not more than $80.00 to cover the cost of the first four films.

The proposal became a controversial issue when it came before the meeting Monday. Main purpose of the plan was to create interest in Norwood in the hope that the people of the village would spend Saturday in Norwood instead of travelling to Peterborough.

Some of those present felt that as the merchants of Norwood would benefit from such an arrangement, they should bear the cost of the film project instead of the Board of Trade.

A proposal to raise the fees from $2 to $5 was opposed by several, and as a result a notice of motion to raise the fees at the next meeting was made.

Membership has dropped in the past two years. In 1948 there were 60 members. The figure dropped to 43 in 1949 and approximately 12 have paid fees for 1950. The meeting was attended by 24 people.

The president, K. E. Pakenham presented a list of conveners of committees, which was approved as follows: Lyle McMillan, agriculture; Earl Hamblin, recreation; Bert Lochhead, civic affairs; W. H. Hudson, commercial; Rod Webb, industrial; J. J. Stewart, social welfare; Stan Flett, transportation; W. H. Giffen, membership; L. G. Obee, business and professional. Members of the executive are: Dr. A. R. Atkinson immediate past president; K. E. Pakenham, president; Perrin Rork, vice-president; Earl Armstrong, secretary; David McNeil, treasurer.

Two Youths Get Reform Terms Bond Theft Case

Theft of $800 in bonds from George Alexander and his daughter Marjorie, 551 King St., last month, resulted in two youths being sent to reformatory this week. Magistrate W. R. Philp KC, convicted Gerald Clancy, Driscoll Terrace, in city police court today, of receiving one of the bonds and sent him to reformatory for a term of six months definite and two indefinite.

James Atkins, Perry St., pleaded guilty to receiving six of the bonds and was sentenced Monday to five months definite and three indefinite.

Detective Sergeant Stevenson told the court Tuesday that Clancy had told him he had hidden one of the $100 bonds in a men's wash room in a Peterborough restaurant.

Clancy denied having had "any conversation at all with Mr. Stevenson." He also denied making any statement to Detective Sergeant Clarke.

Denied Knowledge

Miss Mavis Alexander, who said she had given the bonds to Atkins, told the court that while the three were driving to Toronto to dispose of them Clancy must have known, from conversation, that they were stolen.

Clancy said he had paid no attention to the conversation and had slept part of the way to Toronto.

Delivering sentence today, Magistrate Philp said he attached little value or credence to the evidence which Atkins gave in defence of Clancy, nor to Clancy's own evidence.

THIS LARGE BRICK HOUSE in the background is scheduled to disappear if the plans now underway are approved for the erection of a service station on the northeast corner of Water St. and Parkhill Rd. Strenuous Opposition Registered To Erection of Gasoline Station Making Fourth On Double Intersection

Ratepayers in the area bounded by Parkhill Rd., Water, Dennistoun and Inverlea Sts. today were highly incensed at the action of the city council in passing on to the Ontario Municipal Board the question of authority to rescind the bylaw excluding gasoline service stations. At the corner of Parkhill Rd. and Water St. the Imperial Oil Co. seeks to erect a service station, thus making four on the double intersection. However an old bylaw passed in 1931 makes a restricted area of the northeast corner. The Imperial Oil Co. recently closed its outlet across from Confederation Square when they sold the property to the city as part of the site for the new city hall.

It was about 20 years ago that the service station across from Confederation Square was built and at that time strenuous objection was made to the city council by groups of ratepayers about the advisability of building a station there. It was then claimed that the site was most suitable for the new city hall. However a permit was granted to build and the city 20 years later finds itself with the same oil company seeking another site which is again meeting with opposition.

Some of the residents interviewed today said:

W. B. Gordon: "In the council's decision to rescind the bylaw the city has created a breach of promise with the ratepayers in our area. It has already caused an immediate blanket depreciation of property values. A service station is the most hazardous type of business to establish in our neighborhood which is highly populated by young children."

Mrs. Jane Langhorne: "I have been a playground supervisor at Inverlea Park for two years and I know from the traffic flow of children from the Parkhill-Water corner that another service station would create a greater hazard."

Lewis Grant: "We do not need a fourth gas station in our area. There just might be barely room for a service station on the corner. In any case, if one were established it would be a foot-in-the-door for other neighborhood commercial enterprises which we do not want."

Ald. E. C. Braund: "The Imperial Oil Company produced a letter to the city council some time ago stating that the closing of their station on the new city hall site resulted in the loss of business amounting to 100,000 gallons of gas per year. This is pretty small business, and as a business man, I would close out instead of building another station at the Parkhill corner. It would not be wise to tear down the existing private home on the corner, which contains two or three apartments, while housing is so acute in the city."

Mrs. R. W. Stewart: "We bought the property three years ago as a permanent home with the nearness of Inverlea Park as an attraction. If a service station is built our property value is depreciated."

Percy Harrison: "The council sold the north-end residents down the river. Enough gas stations now and one more would only be chiselling business on the three already established."

Sam Bickell, proprietor Parkhill Lunch: "Don't care one way or the other. Won't do my business any harm."

Mrs. Mary Caddy: "We feel let down by the council's decision."

The Rev. William McDonald: "Property owners are fully justified in their stand on the matter."

Mrs. Chas. K. Fraser: "Another gas station? Very unnecessary."

Mrs. Thomas Barrie: "Are we paying taxes for nothing, so that our property value is cut down? The council voted in favour of the site. Well, there is another election coming along . . ."

Mrs. W. A. Elliott: "It would make the corner more unsafe than it is at present."

"It's a disgrace," was the sharp comment of Thomas E. Hall, 109 Parkhill Road.

"We're overcrowded with gas stations now . . . and it's a dangerous corner. The whole thing is a shame from the viewpoint of the people who have invested money in homes near the corner."

Bogus $10 Bill Turns Up At Local Bank; Watch Spots

A counterfeit ten dollar bill with several green spots on it, further simulating the genuine bank note, was shown to the Examiner today by Mr. Alistair Cameron of the Bank of Montreal. It was turned in as a deposit at the teller's wicket the other day.

To assist the public in screening their money against the phoney product, Mr. Cameron mentioned some weeks ago that the legal bill could be identified by little green dots here and there on either side. It was a detail the counterfeiter had overlooked. Apparently he is still in business, for the bill at the bank now shows several of these marks which would probably be accepted by the average man as assurance his money was sound.

What Mr. Cameron says is: Don't depend entirely on the green spot. The counterfeit counterpart is a paler color than the green of the genuine issue. The slight difference in pastel depth would perhaps be noticed only by those who are handling heaps of money every day. It is also suggested that you might still be vigilant about your ten dollar bills. The small type—"will pay to the bearer on demand"—under the large letters Bank of Canada is blurred in the bogus product, the printing smudges under finger rubbing, and the quality of the paper is of soft and textile texture, instead of the crackling of good bank note paper.

The bill was noticed by a teller in a recent deposit at the local Bank of Montreal, and was retained by the bank, as required by law, to be forwarded to the Ottawa authorities, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. No other bogus tens have so far been reported locally.

It is reported that these forgeries which have been taken out of circulation have identical numbers, indicating that they are probably a photographic job.

Tots Had Matches Fire Started

Small children playing with matches are believed to have started a $75 fire Tuesday at the home of Robert Kelly, Maniece Ave.

Children's clothing, part of the floor and a section of one wall were burned in an upstairs bedroom. Mrs. Kelly estimates that destroyed clothing amounts to $25. The rest of the damage is to the floor, half of which will have to be ripped up, and to the wall which requires a couple of new sheets of gyproc.

"We're lucky," says Mrs. Kelly. "I just saw it in time. I had gone out to the phone in the hall and saw smoke in the back bedroom upstairs."

She crawled along on her hands and knees smothering much of the fire herself before the firemen arrived. Some paper on the floor helped the flames spread.

Firemen used one handpump to snuff out the blaze.

1,777 Seek Jobs But Peak Over In City, District

Jobless persons in the Peterborough district receiving unemployment insurance totalled 1,673 during March, an increase of 647 over March, 1949, William Mellis, manager of the National Employment Service office, said today. Persons seeking jobs through the office totalled 1,777, of whom 1,398 were men. This is an increase of 548 persons over March, 1949, when 919 men and 310 women sought positions through the NES office.

Although last month's figure shows an increase over March, 1949, it is a decrease on other winter months this year. During February unemployment reached the peak with 1,756 drawing funds as compared with 1,594 in January and 1,321 in December.

In the city and suburbs 865 men and women received unemployment insurance through the government, while 469 persons were on postal claims. Short-time payments increased by three over February's figure of 138. During December 61 were on short-time claims and 119 in January. These claimants are persons drawing one week and working one, two or three weeks.

Special Benefits

Supplementary benefit claims accounted for 198 of the March figure. Started only at the beginning of the month under the changes in the Unemployment Insurance Act the number of these claims gradually increased during the month. All of these claims will be discontinued April 15. In following years the supplementary benefits will be paid only between January 1 and March 31.

Persons entitled to benefit claims are: persons who have exhausted their benefits; persons who have worked in insurable employment for too short a time to qualify for benefit; lumbermen who have worked for at least 90 days in any 12-month period in the 18 months prior to the bill's enforcement; persons who have recently been brought under the Unemployment act and have not accumulated the necessary contribution credits to qualify for ordinary benefits.

Employment by some small construction projects and by the railroads relieved the unemployment tension in the Peterborough area during March, said Mr. Mellis. A large number of the persons on claims are construction workers he said, and as the weather improves the number of claimants should decrease.

One-Quarter Women

Throughout Canada at the end of March over 5,000,000 people were working in Canadian industries, according to government figures. This is an increase of 50,000 over the same period last year and 1,000,000 more than in 1948.

The ratio of female to male employees is now one to four as compared with the ratio in 1900 of one to 10.

On March 2 there were 375,900 persons seeking jobs through the National Employment Service offices. This was a decrease of 5,000 on February's figure and 114,000 more than at the same time last year.

Dodds At Bat For Pot-Holes Can't Do Miracles; Go Slow

Speed of local motor traffic should be reduced for a few weeks until the board of works department catches up with the seasonal job of repairing the surface damage caused by winter and the coming of spring, Ald. Hurrell Dodds, chairman of the board, suggested this morning.

His comment was by way of afterthought to his reply to the Examiner's question as to whether his telephone was doing a spring overtime jingle these days.

"So many calls, they give you the jitters," he said. "Our streets are no different from any others up and down the country. The frost heaves the roads, winter causes a lot of breaks in the surface, and there is a great deal of repair work to be done all at once.

ravel Fill Useless

"We've got an efficient streets department, but they can't perform miracles. I'm sure we have not anything like the spring troubles you read about in many other sections of the province. Motorists want to know why we don't send trucks around filling up the surface breaks with gravel. That is a most unsatisfactory method. Trucks and cars bounce the gravel out of the holes shortly after you put it in. We have been all through that.

"This weather has been against the department in the effect of frost heaving and also in the snow and rain that prevented getting on with the repair work.

"Cars bump into the ruts that are not yet filled, drivers get angry, and they start telephoning.

"If they would cut down their speed they could reduce the shock of that kind of jolting. It is a matter of a little patience and co-operation for a while."

New Subdivision To Get Sewers

Sewers for the old Crawford property on the Otonabee River at the foot of Monaghan Road are included in the season's work which City Engineer Chalmers is laying out.

The streets in that triangle are: Cameron, Bruce, Riverside Drive, Monaghan Road and Steele Ave. The bylaw authorizing the work was given two readings Monday night, and is being sent to the Ontario Municipal Board for its approval, as a condition to the final reading.

This property is on the east side of Monaghan Road, and is bounded by that road, Cameron St. and the river. It was the old homesite of the Crawford family of years ago, whose name is continued in the designation of Crawford's Grove.

The triangle was subdivided after it was purchased by Bruce Johnston and Alex W. Archibald. An attractive feature of the property is its Riverside street, parallel with the river and along its bank. Lots were sold before annexation and several houses were built in the area, but it was the postwar expansion that reached out over Cameron St. Houses were built there by Arnold Steele and Don Ephgrave.

APPOINTED TO COMMISSION

Murray Irwin, Ashburnham druggist and member of the Board of Education, was appointed to the Recreation Commission Monday night, taking the place of the late J. Gordon Armstrong. The appointment in council was proposed by Aldermen Braund and Sands.

Etchings, Linos In Fine Show

An engaging, refreshing and—should it be whispered?—instructive small exhibition is now hanging in the upstair gallery of the Public Library. Some two dozen works by members of the Canadian Society of Painters, Etchers and Engravers are being shown. They include a wide variety of styles and treatment—etchings, colour linoleum cuts, aquatints, lithographs, wood engravings, colour aquatints, and engragings.

Outstanding among the colour aquatints are Nicholas Hornyansky's Port Royal Habitation and Dawn Doings, and Frederick B. Taylor's St. James' Cathedral, Montreal.

Sylvia Hahn's "Night", a symbolic head with a tress of stars, is a striking and lyric evocation.

David Anderson has a fluid rhythm in his etchings—the Potato Harvest, and the summer storm scene. Janine Charpentier etches with simplicity and economy of line ("Clown"). C. H. A. Chaplin's, the delightful Wood Mouse, and the Robin, are etched with the exquisite fineness of 19th century copperplate. Charles Capps' aquatints, with their masses and depths are very satisfying. ("Taos", "Into The Hills").

Athers exhibiting are Sybil Andrews, Keith Scott, William Dickerson, C. J. Travers (two Haliburton scenes), G. A. Smith, George Turner, I. MacKinnon-Pearson, B. J. Bobak, Chris Adeney, Helen M. Nixon, G. Weisman, Katherine Ross, Dr. E. B. Sisley, W. J. Wood, W. Lawson.

It is a delightful show, and the engravings, etchings aquatints and others would be of real value to any room. They are for sale at modest prices ranging from two or three dollars to twenty-five.

The exhibition comes down at the end of the week. Discriminating people should not miss it.

Two Ships Stuck In Lake Ice Jam

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 5 (AP) —The freighter James Watt and the United States coast guard cutter Tupelo rested Tuesday night between rounds in a battle with a Lake Erie ice field.

"We'll just have to wait another day to see what develops in the way of weather," radioed Capt. A. Henry Walton of the James Watt. "It's really tough out here and there's just no use trying any more until daylight, at least."

The two vessels Tuesday night were about 4½ miles from the south entrance to Buffalo harbor. The James Watt, bound from Detroit with scrap iron, has been battering ice formations since Friday. The Tupelo came from Toledo, O., to aid the freighter and encountered trouble itself.

"Right now," Walton said, "there's a heavy fog over the lake and I can barely make out the smokestack of the Watt. It's raining hard and the wind is picking up every minute, packing the ice in tighter. The windrowed ice appears to go right down to the bottom."

Cabinet Silent On Senate Retirement Plan

OTTAWA, April 5 (CP)—Cabinet ministers in the Commons threw no light today on statements in the Senate last week that compulsory retirement ages may be set up for future appointees to that chamber and to provincial superior courts.

Questioning developed around statements made last Friday by Senator Wishart Robertson, government leader in the Upper House, that retirement ages may be laid down for future appointees.

Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel) first asked Trade Minister Howe, acting prime minister, if Senator Robertson's remarks were to be "taken to mean that the government is embarking upon a plan for Senate reform, to be submitted to the Dominion-provincial conference in the fall."

Doesn't Follow

"I do not follow the debates in the 'other place' (the name by which the Senate must be referred to in the Commons), and I am not aware of what my honorable friend is talking about," Mr. Howe replied.

John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) then tackled Justice Minister Garson—with no more success—on whether Senator Robertson's statement meant provincial judges were to be retired at 75, the retirement age for Supreme Court of Canada justices.

BNA Act

Mr. Garson's reply was that the lawyer-member for Lake Centre "must know that the reason why judges of provincial courts cannot be called upon to retire at the age of 75 years is that there is a provision in the British North America Act which prevents it."

"May I ask if the British North America Act is to be amended by parliament to provide that?" Mr. Diefenbaker asked.

The Minister did not answer.

MATCH BEEFSTEAEK

BRITISH JOURNALIST — Harold Collett Dent, editor of the London Times educational supplement, will be principal speaker at the Manitoba Education convention in Winnipeg April 10-12. He also will address educational groups and service clubs in larger Canadian cities.

Quebec Groups Among Best

MONTREAL, April 5 (CP) — British adjudicator Maxwell Wray Tuesday replied to criticism against him Monday by Rev. Emile Legault, director of the French-speaking Drama Group, Les Compagnons De St. Laurent.

Answering a remark made on Monday by Father Legault who said the adjudicator's decision to "ignore" Montreal in selections for the Dominion Drama Festival finals was "funnier than tragic," Mr. Wray said he regarded this attitude as "more tragic than funny."

The finals are scheduled for the week of May 8 at Calgary when eight of 11 regions across Canada will compete.

Father Legault also said that the festival "has ceased to represent a standard of Canadian drama," and that Les Compagnons "have no further interest" in the festival under the present set-up.

Asked why Montreal had not been included in the festival, Mr. Wray said both Les Compagnons and the McGill Arena Players were among the 11 regional winners considered the best in Canada, but that an executive committee had not included them among the eight winners.

Cancer May Be Result Of Industry Jobs, Sun

TORONTO, April 4— (CP) — Dr. Jonathan C. Meakins, president of the Canadian Cancer Society, said Monday a suspicion is growing that cancer is brought on by some industrial conditions.

In an address to the society, he said "we have no proof yet" but he listed some possible sources of the disease.

These included: heat, such as the smoking of clay pipes; chemical such as hydrocarbons to which shale-oil workers and chimney sweeps are exposed; radio-activity, as radium and X-ray workers and uranium miners are exposed to; exposure of the skin to excessive sun, as among fishermen and farmers.

In Ontario, the normal rate will see 10,000 persons develop cancer in 1950, he said. A high percentage will be curable.

Apple Growers Get Gov't Help

OTTAWA, April 5 (CP)—Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, told the Commons on Tuesday that the agricultural prices support act will apply to the apples of British Columbia as well as those of Nova Scotia.

He gave this information for E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops).

Monday, announcing special financial assistance for apple growers of both provinces, he told a Nova Scotia member that the provisions of the act, which gives authority for floor prices, could be applied to Nova Scotia apples.

Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel) asked whether it meant Ontario-grown apples would be entitled to price support.

Mr. McCubbin nodded assent.

March Below Normal

TORONTO, April 5 (CP) — Average temperatures during March were three to six degrees below normal throughout Ontario but snowfall was above average, the public weather office reported Tuesday. The weather station at nearby Malton recorded one 20-below reading, lowest March temperature in the station's 10-year history.

Building Saucers

CANBERRA, April 5 (Reuters) —Australia has six "flying saucers" in blueprint stage it was learned authoritatively here today. Plans for them have been in Australian patents offices since 1930. Aeronautical specialists who have examined plans say all plans embody the same fundamental principles. If craft were produced from them they would fly well.

Failed Again!

LONDON, April 5 (CP)—Sir Basil Brooke, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, came back to London today just four hours after he started his trip to the United States and Canada. One engine of the British Overseas Airways Stratocruiser in which he was flying conked out west of Prestwick, Scotland, and the plane turned back.

Strike Averted

TORONTO, April 5 — (CP) — Threat of an immediate strike by 500 employees of de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., was averted Tuesday. Officials of the company and the United Automobile Workers (CIO) agreed to meet again to discuss a contract dispute. No date was set. The union had planned to strike Wednesday morning.

May Halt Subway

TORONTO, April 5 — (CP) — William Mills, president of the Truck Drivers' Union (AFL), said Tuesday the union may ask stoppage of work on Toronto's $60,000,000 subway project. The union charges that Joseph Walker, a subway trucking sub-contractor was guilty of an unfair labor practice in discharging four drivers.

University Lacks Student Residences

LONDON, Ont., April 5 (CP)—Lack of college residence facilities is the University of Western Ontario's "biggest shortcoming," Robert Stanbury of St. Catharines told the arts and science graduation banquet in his valedictorian address Tuesday night.

"When lectures are over for the day," he said, "the student body literally disintegrates. The result has been a cubby-holed campus straining to fill the students' social needs and often losing sight of the common purpose.

"No university is complete without the broadening informal discussion that a residence stimulates."

"Green Thumb" Nets $300,000 For Bulb King

By ARCH MACKENZIE

CORDOVA BAY, B. C., April 5 — (CP) — A green thumb he brought along from Saskatchewan's wheat fields 27 years ago has made William (Bill) Mattick the bulb king of Canada.

His annual harvest of 4,500,000 to 5,000,000 bulbs top Vancouver Island and lower Fraser Valley sales across Canada, worth $300,000 annually.

Thanks to British Columbia's climate, outdoor-grown bulbs flourish for greenhouse growth elsewhere in Canada. And south Vancouver Island, where Mr. Mattick's 340-acre farm is located has a growing season a full 10 days earlier than the mainland.

What the former wheat farmer from Qu'Appelle, Sask., says is a $60,000-a-year business springs from the low, fertile soil eight miles from Victoria on the lip of the Pacific Ocean.

Already some of the 750,000 dozen daffodil, iris, hyacinthe and tulip blooms he also grows are being sold in retail stores from Victoria to eastern Ontario. He grows tons of cauliflower, cabbage and squash and cultivates some medicinal herbs as well.

Because of the harshest winter he's ever experienced here, Mr. Mattick this year faces an early easter with flower crops three weeks late.

It means, he fears, that he won't be able to meet demand when it's biggest.

This year, while demand from chain distributing agencies on the prairies and in Ontario is as big as ever, eastern orders will go begging in all likelihood.

Mr. Mattick has worked an original 6½-acre plot into his present holding. It employs more than 10 men steadily and as many as 45 at peak seasons.

A report tabled in the Legislature Tuesday showed the 17 are almost of age and have decided to stay in Canada.

The Defence of Western Europe (III)

Change of Atmosphere Since Last Spring Unanimous Resistance To USSR Stiffened

(Ed. Note This is the last of three special articles copyright to the Peterborough Examiner from the London Observer, written by Alan Moorehead, famous war correspondent and biographer of Field Marshal Montgomery. The articles are the fruits of a thorough study made by Moorehead over the last two months, involving investigations in Britain, France and Germany. In making his enquiries Moorehead has had the opportunity of discussing the matter with numerous experts and authorities, and the articles can be taken as an authentic, fully-informed survey of the situation and the outlook.)

By ALAN MOOREHEAD

A remarkable change overtook the European defence scene in the spring of 1949. One might regard the present situation as critical, but it is nothing compared to what was happening then.

Britain, France and Holland were all engaged in colonial wars. Of the 1,500,000 men normally employed in the Western Union peace-time forces, only 1,000,000 were available for the defence of Europe; and the bulk of these were neither equipped nor fully organised. The Berlin airlift was a touch-and-go affair and its failure would have precipitated a crisis in Germany. There was another war in Greece, and Tito was being slowly strangled by the Soviet blockade.

America was committed to nothing beyond Marshall Aid. Up to that time, indeed, the defence of Europe was based upon just two treaties, one of which was already out of date. The Treaty of Dunkirk, signed by Britain and France in 1947, placed the emphasis not upon Russia but upon Germany. Both nations agreed that, in the event of their being attacked by Germany in the next fifty years, they would go to one another's assistance.

The Brussels Treaty, signed twelve months later by Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg, was a little more realistic. This time the text was widened to provide that the nations would assist one another against any aggressor. For the purpose of practical politics this meant Russia. But it was clear that if Russia did attack, she could overrun the Continent with ease. An atmosphere of fatalism and inertia spread westward from Germany across all Europe.

Conflicts Passed

Now, in the spring of 1950, the Greek and Indonesian wars are over and the Dutch troops are returning home. The Berlin blockade collapsed and a Western German Government is established at Bonn. Tito is being rescued by American supplies. Marshall Aid has pumped another year's economic life-blood into the 200,000,000 people of Western Europe. Allied steel production has risen to 40,000,000 tons, which is a third more than that of Russia and her satellites. Add to this the United States' 90,000,000 tons, and you get a capacity four times that of Russia. The figures for oil are even more striking.

More important than all this, the Atlantic Pact has been signed, making it clear that if the Russians attack in Europe they will be involved also in war with the United States. True, the Atlantic Pact does not go as far as the Brussels Treaty. It is of shorter duration, and each of the twelve members—Britain, United States, Canada, France, Italy, Iceland, Norway, Denmark, Belgium, Holland, Portugal, Luxembourg—agrees only to take "such action as it deems necessary." But in practice it is almost certain that every one would be involved in a major crisis.

U.S. In Britain' Place

The United States, in fact, has taken the place occupied by Britain before the last war in guaranteeing and stiffening the resistance of the West. As an earnest of this she signed a series of agreements in January this year by which she undertook to dispatch a billion dollars' worth of arms and money to Europe.

Those arms are arriving now. They are not the latest type of arms, and their total value is not more than one-sixth of what the European Allies are spending on their own defence budgets. (Britain, indeed, asked for very little: an initial force of seventy B29 bombers, some machine tools and raw materials.) But this gift makes a vital difference to the Continent, where there were practically no modern arms at all, even for training.

For the past nine months, five regional groups have been planning the overall defence of the 340,000,000 people included in the Atlantic Pact. The Northern European Group meets in London and is concerned with the defence of Britain, Norway and Denmark. Also in London is the Western European Group, which concerns Britain, France and the Benelux countries and so duplicates the work of the Brussels Treaty Powers. The Southern European-Western Mediterranean Group meets in Paris and consists of representatives of France, Italy and Britain. The other two groups meet in Washington and deal with the North Atlantic Ocean and the defence of Canada and the United States.

Brussels And Atlantic Pacts

It is a little difficult to see just where these Atlantic Pact committees overtake the work of the Brussels Treaty planners and just what the future of the Brussels Treaty will be. However, it can be assumed that, in the event of war, Montgomery would become the supreme commander in Europe, with, possibly, an American deputy, while the United States controlled the air, very largely from England, where already exists a nucleus of the American air force, a heritage of the Berlin airlift.

None of this really restores the balance of power, since Russia's armed forces far exceed those of the rest of the world and are likely to do so for some years to come. For defence purposes, it must be assumed that she is determined upon the Marxist conquest of the world and will listen to no compromise. But one thing at least has become apparent in the past twelve months, largely through the experience of the Berlin airlift; Russia will not precipitate a world war at this time. Where she meets determined opposition, she will retire in favor of continuing her infiltration in other ways and in other places. Where the Allies have clearly drawn a line from which they will not retreat, there is no immediate likelihood of Russian attack.

Line Drawn

Such a line has now been drawn from Lubeck on the Baltic to Trieste on the Mediterranean, where 10,000 British and American troops are in garrison.

Where the line is not so clear—and where it will have to be made clear within the next year or two—is in the Middle East, Pakistan, India, Burma, Malaya and Indo-China. Ironically, part of the present quietude in Europe—this lull within the continuing crisis—is due to the fact that there may still be opportunities for the Russians to advance in those countries without bringing on a major war.

Despite its immense size, the Red Army is still a defensive one. It does not have the overwhelming offensive superiority of the Nazis in 1940. Whereas the Nazis were often far ahead in industrial efficiency, the Russians are still far behind. In the air they might be able to launch a series of raids upon American across the Pole, but they could not sustain an offensive. Nor can they, with so little experience, hope to be a match for the Western navies.

In their initial strike the Russians might succeed if they attacked now, and this would be a disaster for Europe; but it would not win the war against America. And it would mean, perhaps within the first few days of the opening of hostilities, the destruction by bombing of all their major oilfields and their industrial plants beyond the Urals.

Rapid Work Needed

On the other hand, the defence of Europe has still a long way to go before it reaches even a reasonable security, and some rapid work is required to prevent the present stalemate from developing into another crisis in Russia's favor.

There is the question of new allies. It is perhaps desirable that Switzerland should remain neutral. But Spain and Western Germany with their 80,000,000 people and their fighting abilities, are still outside the alliance. A determined attack still remains to be made upon Europe's two major fifth columns—the Communist parties in France and Italy. Something has yet to be done to combat the persistent apathy and fatalism on the Continent—the feeling that the atomic bomb is something bigger than the human brain itself, which is not true. And the fearful disorganization and weakness of the Continental armies has still to be straightened out.

One is left then with the possibility of at least several years of uneasy peace in Europe, while the Russians, believing fanatically that capitalism must collapse of itself in the end, attempt to manoeuvre themselves into more favorable positions elsewhere. Unless some miracle happens to change their ideas or ours, the prospect before us is to go on steadily arming ourselves in the believe that only by being stronger than the Russians can you deter them from open war.

Implicating Others

MONTREAL, April 5 (CP) — The Star said in a newspage story Tuesday that Albert Guay, Quebec jeweler sentenced to be hanged for the murder of his wife in an airliner crash, is believed making attempts to implicate other persons in the diabolical scheme that sent 23 persons to their deaths at Sault Au Cochon last Sept. 9.

A Lady's A Lady For A' That, Even Bartenders

By ED CREAGH

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP)—An AFL union has uncorked a 100-proof campaign today to keep women on their own side—the cutomer side—of the bar.

But five lady bartenders and their lady boss have refused to come out from behind the mahogany. They say they'll fight all summer if necessary, to defend the principle that the hand which rocks the cradle may pour the rock-and-rye.

Larry's bar and grill is the bottleneck. It's a busy tavern on Eighth Avenue, in a fairly hard-bitten neighborhood a block west of Times Square. A lady bouncer, Rose Marie Miller, bought the place five years ago.

To wait on table and tend bar, she recently hired five women. Local 16 of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers' Union, mostly made up of bartenders, said she'd have to replace them with men. Miss Miller replied that she'd hire anybody she pleased.

Picket Line

The union put a picket line in front of Larry's. And Tuesday local president David Siegal said the union would ask a city ordnance outlawing barmaids. Promptly, the lady bartender charged discrimination.

Union officials said that wasn't true—the women can join. But they'd have to work as waitresses only, secretary-treasurer Joseph Rodriguez said.

"We have 600 men out of work," Rodriguez said. "Besides, it is not healthy for women to be behind the bar."

"That's absolute nonsense," retorted Ann Lawrence, one of the barmaids. "A girl has every bit as much right to do this work as a man . . . As far as the moral aspect is concerned, a lady is a lady wherever she may be—if she was a lady in the first place."

Russians Build Force

MONTREAL, April 5 (CP) — Kenneth de Courcy, British editor of the Intelligence Digest, on Tuesday reiterated that the Russians are determined to gain two or three years in building a powerful war machine. Addressing a large gathering in suburban Westmount, he said that Atlantic Pact countries face a great threat unless they prepared immediately to head off the growth of Russian power.

BONARLAW, April 5 (ENS)—Funeral for the late Susan McComb, who died suddenly at her home in Springbrook Thursday evening, was held Saturday in St. Mark's Anglican Church of which she was a lifelong member.

Pallbearers were Orie Barton, Percy Bateman, George Thompson, Delbert Fleming, Hiram Momby and Reg. McKeown and the flower bearers, Roy Shortt, Elwood Bateman, Leslie Kingston and Gordon Webb. Burial was in 12th line cemetery.

"Agony Column" In Times Absorbing Record Of Life

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, April 5 — (CP) — Reading the personal column of the Times is almost a hobby with thousands of Britons — a hobby that was especially popular with the famous storybook detective, Sherlock Holmes.

Some say the "agony Column," as it is often called, is the most fascinating in contemporary literature and nearly as exciting as a detective thriller.

There are bits and pieces in it about everyone from dukes to junk store dealers and temperance reformers to needy gentlewomen; ladies who want to sell mink coats and tiaras, young men with a future but no money; lovers making up quarrels and nursemaids wanting to go abroad.

Lake Ad

In recent issues there have been notices about a missing heir, a man wanting a cure for alopecia, a Swedish woman desiring to live in England and a man advertising for a lake in Hampshire, Kent or Sussex.

Two French sportsmen appealed for tickets for the Grand National a bishop asked for old clothes for a distress fund, the 34-year-old director of a west end business, "rather impoverished," appealed for a congenial home.

Then there was a man describing himself as "an English painter with traditional vision." He asked for a loan of £1,000 ($3,100) "to gain time to complete my technique free from distraction."

He offered to pay back the money in five years and by way of interest suggested "the possibility of an honored place beside the edgcumbes and thicknesses of art history."

The references were to Baron Edgcumbe who discovered Sir Joshua Reynolds and Philip Thickness, an art collector, who was governor of Virginia, U. S. A.

Melodious Voice

A young man who wanted to "see the world" offered to go into partnership with other similarly inclined in the purchase of a steam yacht. A girl "with a melodious voice" offered to read aloud to anyone requiring her services.

Even a veteran newspaperman had his plea. He wanted a job as librarian in a "dignified home situated in congenial surroundings."

The scope and variety of the announcements published in the Time "agony column" probably without parallel anywhere in the world.

Canada Coast Guard

VANCOUVER, April 5 (CP)—Canada's embryo coast guard will be in "partial operation" off the British Columbia coast sometime this year, Fisheries Minister Mayhew said Tuesday on his arrival from Ottawa. New weather ships also will take their positions in Pacific waters soon, he said.

Mrs. S. Blake Winner

MOUNT PLEASANT, April 5—(ENS)—Mrs. Stewart Blake was winner of the hand-embroidered pillow cases made and donated to Group Four of the Women's Institute by Mrs. Newton Fee. The draw was made Wednesday at a progressive Euchre party. in the Women's Institute Hall.

Ice Blocks Sailing

GODERICH, April 5—(CP)—Heavy ice and foggy weather Tuesday night was delaying the return to Sarnia of the tanker Imperial Windsor which opened the local navigation season by docking here Sunday with a load of gasoline.

Joan Crawford Still Poses For Cheesecake

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, April 5 —(AP) — Joan Crawford was at it again this week—posing for cheesecake.

In fact, she calculated that she was posing for leg art for the 8,000th time. I don't know how she arrives at this total, but as any photo editor will tell you, that is a lot of cheesecake.

"As long as the public wants it," she volunteered, "I'll give it to them."

This has been going on since Miss Crawford arrived in Hollywood, back in the days when the Charleston and the ukulele were going around the first time.

"I was posed being shot out of firecrackers for the fourth of July," she recalled. "I was a female Santa Claus coming out of a chimney. I was in a track uniform running the 100-yard dash. I thought I would never get before a movie camera."

Finally Made It

She finally made the movies, although she was sometimes as scantily-clad as she was in the publicity pictures. She became the symbol of the flaming flapper.

Now, many years and an Academy Award later, she is still willing to display her form. And with men who know cheesecake best, she's as good as ever.

Let'er Go

Since she is an experienced hand (or should I say leg?) at cheesecake, I asked her if there are any tricks to the trade.

"No," she replied. "I just pull in my tummy, throw out my chest, and let 'er go."

"Actually there are two kinds of cheesecake," she expounded. "There is the upstairs kind, which can be shown in costume pictures, and there is the downstairs kind, in musicals and comedies."

Upstairs or downstairs, La Crawford can still hold her own with the starlets of today.

CONFESSES FIRE—Nicholas Verna, 26, confessed in Philadelphia, police say, that he set fire to the Belle Vista Sanatorium there. Verna is a patient in the institution.

Commission Meets

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) —The International Joint Commission which is concerned with water and similar problems between the United States and Canada, Tuesday opened a three-day session here. Members said after the closed session that they heard routine reports from the commission's air pollution board, which is studying pollution problems of mutual concern in the Detroit-Windsor area.

Trout Fishing To Open Apr. 29

OTTAWA, April 5 (CP) — Fisheries Department officials said Tuesday that an Ontario Government request that the trout season in the province open April 29 instead of May 1 is expected to be filled shortly.

A spokesman described the procedure as "a formality." While control of fisheries is vested in the Dominion under the British North America Act, in practice, Ontario sets her own dates.

Ontario fisheries department officials said the season would be opened April 29 instead of May 1 to provide an extra week-end's fishing.

Lawford Visits London

LONDON, April 5 — (AP) — British-born film actor Peter Lawford arrived in London Tuesday and denied reports he is engaged to Sharman Douglas—or intends to propose to her.

The United States Embassy shortly afterward made it unanimous. A spokesman said Sharman, blonde, much-publicized daughter of American Ambassador Lewis Douglas, isn't engaged to anyone.

Lawford is expected, said the embassy, to visit the Douglas family while he is in London, but he is not here as their guest.

The Douglases were guests of Lawford's parents recently in Hollywood.

The 26-year-old actor explained after arriving by plane from New York that he is in Britain on a holiday and is going to "look up some aunts and cousins in London."

Since his parents entertained the Douglases, the romance rumor mill, which works overtime where Sharman is concerned, has linked their names.

Golden Miler's Have Party

The Easter bunny made a hurried trip to the city Tuesday and left eggs galore in assorted sizes to make the Golden Mile Club's party all the more festive. Twenty three of the members were on hand in the recreation room of Grafton's store where meetings take place alternate Tuesday afternoons. The home-made decorations were altogether charming, completed with a gay outdoor scene for the table centrepiece. At each place setting there was a cream filled chocolate egg with flower decoration and a small nest of colored eggs, guarded by a fuzzy little chicken. Sandwiches, cakes and tea were enjoyed as usual. President Mrs. E. Chatten called upon secretary Mrs. N. Stranger for minutes of the last meeting. A quilt top which has been completed by members was on display, and arrangements for quilting are being made. Party arrangements were carried out by Miss Ethel Miller with assistance of Soroptimists' welfare convener Miss Gene Clark.

Morwood, of Mark St. Church, delivered an address based on the surrender of Christ and the powerful decision he made which led to his resurrection and thence to life everlasting. The speaker said each individual must surrender completely, else the fulness of Easter means little to them. The guests were thanked by Mrs. Fred Horton. A business period followed.

Norwood Pair Married 1900 Festive Anniversary Cake

NORWOOD, April 5.—(ENS).—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rogers, Queen St., Norwood, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Tuesday. Both have lived in the village since early childhood and are still active in the community.

Mrs. Rogers' chief hobby is following the Trent Valley Hockey League. There is probably no elderly woman with a greater record of attendance at hockey games.

Until this winter, when she has taken life a little easier, Mrs. Rogers had not missed a Trent Valley League game. She attended home and away matches and is a popular figure among the younger section of the community.

With Findlay Company

For more than 40 years, Mr. Rogers was employed as a woodworker by the Findlay Manufacturing Company. The building was burnt two years ago and he then worked at Carbrey Wood Specialties.

The couple was married April 4, 1900, at the home of Dan Rogers in Norwood. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. John Bushell and bridesmaid and groomsman were Annie Rogers and Frederick Knopps.

Mrs. Rogers, who was Catherine May Currie, is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Curry. The family came to Norwood from Quebec when Mrs. Rogers was a girl.

Mr. Rogers was born in London, England, and came to Norwood with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Dan Rogers, while a young boy.

A member of Christ Church, Norwood, Mrs. Rogers is an active worker in the Ladies' Guild.

Seven Children

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers had seven children, five of whom are living. They are Harry, Wilfred and Gerald of Detroit; Mrs. Harry McConnell (Della) of Chatham and Mrs. Charles Puffer (Mildred) at home.

Their eight grandchildren are Richard, Melville, Sylvia and George Rogers of Detroit; Douglas and Diane McConnell of Chatham and Sharon and Judith Puffer of Norwood. They also have two great grandchildren in Indiana.

On Tuesday neighbors visited at the Rogers' home and an anniversary cake, made by Mrs. Arthur Sprung was cut. The cake was in two parts. Two heart shape cakes touched at the bottom and were joined at the top with yellow ribbon. It was iced in yellow and white and on one heart candles were arranged in the shape of the figure five and on the other, a zero, denoting 50 years married.

Gifts included many bouquets of flowers, and cups and saucers. Cards of congratulations are still being received by the couple.

McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

I have received several references recently to the so-called "official 4-6-7 rule" for the initial meld. After a little head-scratching on my part, I have concluded that my quick little thumbnail guide for the number of cards that may be used in making an initial meld has been mistaken for an official rule in some quarters.

Actually the 4-6-7 theory is nothing but a handy way to remind yourself to use as few cards as possible in making your initial meld. For a meld of 50, use no more than 4 cards; for a meld of 90, use no more than 6 cards; and never use more than 7 cards to lay down an initial meld of 120.

Here are some other points I should like to clear up:

Q—Our side needs 120 for an initial meld. Our opponents need 90. One of our opponents melds 3 sixes, a joker and 2 deuces. Is this a proper meld to make?

A—It is a legal meld, and certainly meets the count requirement for their initial meld. However, it appears to be an undue waste of wild cards just to complete an initial meld. While it is proper legally, there are few cases in which it would be wise.

Q—In counting the melds on the table, after scoring the bonuses for canastas and red treys, do you again count the red treys as 5 points each?

A—No. Red treys are figured only in your basic score, counting for you if you have made an initial meld and against you if you have not made an initial meld. Unlike black treys, they are not again counted in the point score at 5 points each.

Q—A player holds 2 natural cards and 5 wild cards. May he meld the 2 natural cards with 2 wild cards, and meld the other 3 wild cards by themselves?

A—No. You cannot ever meld wild cards by themselves. However, the player could put down 2 natural cards with as many as 3 of the wild cards, and add his other wild cards to his canasta in order to go out.

Q—I have been told that the rules for two-handed Canasta have been changed, and that they are now drawing 2 cards and discarding only one. Is this true?

A.—No. The rules have not been changed, but this form of play has been tried out in various cities. Mrs. Ottilie R. Reilly and Charles Lochridge suggest this form of two-handed Canasta in their new book entitled "Canasta 1950". For my own part, I prefer to deal 17 cards to each player instead of 15, and require 2 canastas to go out. This makes a very good two-handed game.

Don't Go Up In The Air If Husband Has Flirtation

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married seven years to a man of good character. We have two adorable children and have been very happy together. Lately he has become attracted to a beautiful young woman with whom he is thrown much in church work. I feel sure that so far he has never made love to her but his infatuation is obvious. Others have noticed it and are beginning to talk about it. Naturally it brings up a jealous flare in my heart. I have tried to laugh it off, tried to think it was nothing to worry about but, in reality I know better. I don't know what to do. Shall I talk it over with him, or shall I ignore it and let it take its course? I still think he loves me, but his conduct fills me with such disgust I am cool with him.

A WIFE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I suppose that men are as prone to flirtations as the sparks are to fly upward because they are built that way. You remember that Willian Dean Howells once said that after centuries of civilization men are still imperfectly monogamous.

Women Can't Understand

This is something we women can never understand. We can never comprehend how a man can still love his wife still think her the finest woman in the world and the one he admires above all others, and yet be attracted by another woman. We can't understand why he is not satisfied with the one he likes best, why he wants to roam away from the fireside that we work so hard to keep the most comfortable spot on earth for him.

I am not justifying the philandering husband. Far from it. I think just the mere fact that he knows that his flirtations torture his wife should make a husband refrain from them, no matter how really innocent they are. But I do think, also, that the woman is wise who tries to see this matter from her husband's standpoint as nearly as she can, and who does not rush to the divorce court because he has a passing infatuation for some other woman.

Let them alone, so far as any interference is concerned, and the chances are that the girl will realize there is no percentage in having an affair with a married man, and he will get satiated with his ice cream soda and come back home for a good square meal.

But you are making a mistake in treating your husband coolly letting him see that you disapprove of him and think he is making a fool of himself. Just remember the girl is flattering him to death and telling him how handsome he is, and what an oracle he is. Outsmart her. Go off on a trip somewhere and stay until he misses you and begs you to come home. The wife who makes home disagreeable just plays into the other woman's hands.

DEAR MISS DIX: On my 16th birthday I was given a car, for which I had been crazy for two or three years. I have not been getting good marks in school, because of my slowness in catching on to things, and my father told me that if I failed in one subject he would take the car away from me. This semester I have worked as I never have before so as to be able to keep what I so yearn for. Nevertheless, I have failed in one of my five subjects. Therefore, the car has been taken away from me: I do not think it possible to convert myself into a human dynamo. I know that it is not asking much for my father to expect me to pass in all my subjects, but I think I should be given a little time. I would appreciate it if you would give me your views on the subject.

HENRY

ANSWER: Well, Henry you must look at your father's side of the subpect as well as your own. He gaves you the car on certain conditions that you have not fulfilled. You have not done your part in making good.

But I think that he is, perhaps not quite so understanding as he should be, nor so patient, and that he may be expecting a little too much of you. If you really have studied hard, he might give you credit for your good intentions and not judge you as much by what you have done as by what you have honestly tried to do.

Not all youngsters have the same ability to learn easily, but the slow plodders very often are the ones who retain what they have learned and who make the most successful men. So my suggestion is that you and your father effect a compromise. Convince him that you are doing your level best to get good marks at school and let him take the will for the deed and let you have your car now and then.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a perfect brunette, and am engaged to a young man who is a brunette, too. People have told us that two brunettes should never marry. What is wrong about it?

PAT

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Nothing. Whole nations of brunette people marry each other with the happiest results. The color of people' eyes and hair and skin has nothing whatever to do with whether they will be congenial life mates or not. It is the temper and the disposition and the character of the man or woman you marry that makes marriage a success or a failure, not whether he or she is blond or brunette.

Election Methods Up For Study

TORONTO, April 5 (CP) — A committee of the Ontario legislature will investigate election practices including the compiling of voters' lists.

An 11-man committee, representative of all parties, was appointed by the legislature Tuesday on a motion by Harry Nixon (Lib.-Brant).

The study will be made in conjunction with chief election officer Alex Lewis.

Attorney-General Porter is chairman. The Progressive Conservative members are Reforms Minister W. W. Hamilton, Stanley Hall (Halton), O. E. Rea (Toronto St. Patrick), W. B. Harvey (Nipissing) and George Parry (Kent, West). Opposition leader E. B. Jolliffe and W. J. Grummett (Cochrane South) will represent the CCF, Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver and Aurele Chartrand (Ottawa East) the Liberals and A. A. MacLeod (Toronto Bellwoods) Labor-Progressives.

The committee will sit after the legislature is prorogued and will report to the 1951 session.

Baby Hangs From Car Scratched After Block

NATIONAL CITY, Calif., April 5.—(AP).—The motorist stopped and just like the man said, there was a baby hanging on his front bumper.

Glen E. Snodgrass, the motorist, was flagged down by H. V. Puthuff, a milkman.

They found Charles Edward Potter, two years old, dangling—his clothing caught between the bumper and license plate.

A traffic officer's report of the incident Tuesday said Snodgrass apparently snagged the neighbor child when starting his car. He drove a block before he was stopped. The child was only scratched.

Scientist's Talk Disapproved By Government

OTTAWA, April 5 (CP)—Government disapproval of a Chalk River scientist's public discussions of further federal expenditures on atomic energy was indicated in th Commons Tuesday by Trade Minister Howe, Acting Prime Minister.

Answering a question about a speech by Dr. L. G. Cook, chemistry research director at the Chalk River atomic project, Mr. Howe said he was "surprised to find one of my scientists discussing financial problems."

Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew asked about the speech yesterday by Dr. Cook before the Ottawa Rotary Club.

Mr. Drew quoted press reports of Dr. Cook's statement that Chalf River "is at the crossroads" and the people should decide through parliamen, whether Canada "should ante up with money and men and stay" in the world atomic race of whether "we should let our little fire run its course and flicker out."

Chalk River

The fire is Chalk River's one radioactive pile or reactor. A Commons committee recommended last year that the project be expanded and a second reactor built. There are no plans to start one this year.

Under the British and Canadian systems of government, civil servants are supposed to advise their superiors on questions of policy but not to discuss them publicly. Informed quarters said Dr. Cook will probably be told of this view.

Mr. Drew quoted press reports of the speech and asked if the government, because of Dr. Cook's "crossroads" statement, would reconsider its earlier decision against establishment of another Commons committee on atomic energy.

My Scientist

Mr. Howe replied: "I read the article referred to this morning. I was surprised to find one of my scientists discussing financial problems.

"But I may say that last year the committee reported on that particular subject. The committee recommended that further development take place. It seems to me that to report a few months after they have reported on the subject would hardly clarify matters and I see no reason for setting up the committee again."

Holy Week And Easter Keene United Church

Good Friday service will be held at Keene United Church on April 7th, at 8 p.m., topic of address "Having obtained eternal redemption for us."

Palm Sunday was observed on April 2nd when the theme 'The Messiah Acclaimed" was presented in hymns, scripture, music and sermon. One of the biggest problems in life is not the lack of temporal and spiritual blessings from God but our lack of appreciation or thanksgiving. The crowd, said the Rev. G. Murray, turned out to honor Jesus in giving Him a triumphant entry to the city of the great kings.

The choir sang the anthem by Paul Eastman, "Trúst in the Lord with all thine heart."

At the Easter service next Sunday, at 11 a.m. special music will be given by the choir, the sermon topic will be "The Triumphant Christ."

"Use Rod" Says Judge

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., April 5 (CP)—Use of a whip on young hoodlums—"on the place where their brains seem to be"—was recommended Tuesday by County Court Judge Harry Sullivan. "What these kids need is a good whipping," said the judge when he condemned "all this mollycoddling and psychology."

DALLAS, Tex., April 5 (AP)—High winds Tuesday blew down two walls and the roof section of an unfinished auditorium of the First Baptist Church. The pastor, Rev. B. E. Smith, was in the nearby parsonage reading the Bible — the sixth chapter of Joshua, which tells of the walls of Jericho falling.

Tim Buck Helps Hungarians Fete Liberation

By PETER FURST

BUDAPEST, April 5 (Reuters)—Soviet Marshal Klementi Voroshilov and Communist leaders from 20 countries, including Britain and Canada, Tuesday reviewed a giant military and civilian parade in celebration of the fifth anniversary of the Red army's liberation of Hungary from the Germans.

Attending the parade were Tim Buck, national leader of the Canadian Labor - Progressive (Communist) party, and R. Palme Dutt, vice-chairman of the British Communist party.

These Communist chiefs Monday night heard Voroshilov, a member of the Politburo, predict the overthrow of Premier Tito of Yugoslavia.

Imperialists Doomed

"The plans of the Imperialists are doomed," the marshal declared, "and all the threats of atomic or hydrogen bombs will not deter us from continuing the fight for peace."

Voroshilov, who is deputy chairman of the Soviet Council of Ministers, said:

"The Western powers are mistaken if they believe that the Yugoslav people will support them or can be incited to war against the Soviet Union.

"The Yugoslav people know their place is within the camp of peace, and the working class of Yugoslavia will undoubtedly overthrow Tito and regain its place within the ranks of the people's democracies."

Pirie, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pirie, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Pirie, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Al Garden, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Justice of Peace Kills

SOMERSET, Pa., April 5 (AP)—A justice of the peace Tuesday night shot and killed a coal operator against whom he had issued an assault warrant a few hours earlier. Joseph M. Deist, 47, of Boswell, Pa., died of a .32-calibre bullet through the heart. Sheriff Karl I. Hare said the shot was fired, apparently in self defence, by Charles J. Harrison, Jr., 65, who suffered a heart attack immediately afterwards.

TCA Has Eye On New Types Of Jet Aircraft

OTTAWA, April 5 —(CP)—Trans Canada Air Lines is watching closely the development of new types of commercial transport planes, including jets, with an eye to replacement of its present fleet of 27 DC-3s.

G. R. McGregor, president of the nationally-owned, 16,000-mile air system, told the railways committee Tuesday that TCA has a replacement fund of $2,500,000 ready when suitable replacements are found.

Interesting Development

There were "interesting developments" in new types of planes, including those fully jet propelled, those with turbo-jet motors and even new designs with piston engines.

He said the line's 20 North Stars, powered by British Rolls Royce Merlin engines, was a "competitive" plane.

The committee heard criticism by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, of TCA's accounting system before it approved the Air Line's annual statement and auditor's report. Mr. Drew, learning that TCA's estimates did not come under the sphere of the committee, moved to ask Parliament to grant the committee this power in future years.

Suggest Request

Davie Fulton (PC-Kamloops) indicated he would support TCA's request to the Post Office for an increase from $450,000 to $520,000 monthly on its air mail contract. He said he was prepared to recommend this when the committee considers its report.

During the day the committee heard Trade Minister Howe say he was not prepared to recommend abandonment of Atlantic air line services. It was a "thin traffic line" but other services, such as the British, were not talking of abandoning it despite the position.

Two Rose Island Men Caused Disturbance

Two men who came into Peterborough Tuesday from Rose Island, northeast of Apsley, were each fined $15 with $2.50 costs with an alternative of 20 days in jail today for causing a disturbance at Glen Lunch, King St.

In city police court, William Nesbitt and Charles H. Bailey pleaded guilty. Crown Attorney Bradshaw said they were strangers here with no money and they had been drinking. They were shouting and swearing and pushing each other around in the lunch room.

Remarking that the police were trying to curtail that type of behaviour, Mr. Bradshaw asked for sentences of a month each.

OTTAWA, April 5—(CP)—RESOURCES Minister Winters Tuesday in the Commons denied a magazine (New Liberty) report that A. W. Irwin, government Film Commissioner, is slated to get a diplomatic posting within three years.

G. K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough West) asked if there was any truth in the report that Mr. Irwin had driven a "hard bargain" before taking the National Film Board post and was to get a diplomatic appointment.

The answer, said Mr. Winters, is "no".

Supreme Court To Decide N.S. Election

HALIFAX, April 5 — (CP) — Nova Scotia Supreme Court hearing to decide the future of the Hants West seat in the provincial legislature was adjourned Tuesday until April 17.

The adjournment was ordered soon after the five-man court under Chief Justice J. L. Ilsley met to hear George Cole's appeal against a court decision which gave the seat to George Wilson. Chief Justice Ilsley ordered the adjournment to permit the factums in the case to be filed with the court.

The final hearing will mark another step in the long dispute that has gone on continuously since the provincial election last June, when returns showed Mr. Wilson, a Progressive Conservative, had a four-vote lead over Mr. Cole, a Liberal.

Decision Upset

Later, a recount gave Mr. Cole the seat. But a judicial decision upset the recount and Mr. Wilson was declared elected.

Mr. Wilson, manager of a Falmouth, N.S., fruit- co-operative, has been attending the legislature as member for Hants West.

The problem to be settled is whether any aliens voted in Hants West on election day and if so, how many voted.

The recount resulted in a tie. Then the returning officer—who is allowed to vote only in such cases—cast a ballot for Mr. Cole who was declared elected by one vote.

The Supreme Court then reversed that decision. Mr. Wilson claimed several ballots were improperly counted.

Former Airmen Hope To Form Wing In City

Former members of the Royal Canadian Air Force today announced plans for the formation of the Peterborough Wing of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association.

The first organization meeting will be held at 7.30 p.m., on April 11, in the Canadian Legion Hall, it was announced today by Ross Thompson.

The Royal Canadian Air Force Association, under the provisional presidency of Air Chief Marshal L. S. Breadner (Retired), former Chief of the Air Staff and AOC in C, R.C.A.F. Overseas, has its national headquarters at Ottawa. It is now engaged in sponsoring formation of Provincial Groups and local Wings.

Three Points

Air Chief Marshal Breadner has stressed that "three points should be made clear" in connection with the Association.

"First: This is a non-profit organization. It was created for the benefit of its members and the Air Force they served so loyally.

"Second: No attempt will be made to duplicate the legislative and financial benefits which membership in veterans' organizations affords. Neither will the Royal Canadian Air Force Association cross the lines of the national organizations operating in the public interest in behalf of aviation and air power such as the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association It will work through such organizations in matters of national and mutual interest.

"Third: Policy will be determined by the voting members of this Association. R.C.A.F. Regular personnel are cordially invited to become associate members which will entitle them to all the privileges of regular membership except the right to vote and to hold office."

Aims And Objects

The stated aims and objects of the R.C.A.F. Association are.

(a) To unite retired, reserve, auxiliary, and former members of the R.C.A.F. and so preserve and foster the spirit of fellowship among all who have served in the R.C.A.F.

(b) To support the R.C.A.F. (Regular), the Auxiliary Air Force, the Reserve, the Air Cadets, and other components of the R.C.A.F. which may be formed.

(c) To perpetuate the glorious traditions of the R.C.A.F.

(d) To co-operate with the R.C.A.F. Benevolent Fund, the Canadian Legion, and any other organization devoted to or assisting in the welfare of ex-Air Force personnel.

(e) To support the maintenance of an adequate and efficient Air Force in Canada.

(f) To sponsor and encourage aeronautics in all its branches, and to provide a means by which ex-Air Force Personnel and the public may be kept abreast of the changes in aviation and all that they imply both from the military and civil standpoints.

(g) To strive for peace, goodwill and friendship among all nations.

All former men and women of His Majesty's Air Forces, as well as present members of the Auxiliary and the Reserve, who are now eligible for membership in the Association, are invited and urged to attend this meeting.

Commit Six Bakeries For "Fixing" Prices

CALGARY, April 5 (CP) — Six western baking concerns and one trade association today were remanded for trial on a charge of combining to lessen competition in the baking industry in Western Canada, at the conclusion of a 13-day preliminary hearing.

Magistrate G. H. Rose held there was "ample evidence" from which a trial judge could conclude, "that agreements existed between the defendants and others to control the baking industry and to fix the prices."

Will Vote For Union

BROCKVILLE, April 5.—(CP)—The 600 employees of Phillips Electrical Works Ltd., will vote April 17 and 18 to determine which of two rival unions will be their bargaining agent.

Scotia Coal Miners Sign No Wage Increase Contract

GLACE BAY, N. S., April 5 — (CP)—A new era in labor relations appeared on the horizon in industrial Cape Breton today after the province's coal miners voted closely to sign a new work contract without a pay increase.

In addition to the unprecedented no-increase clause the contract between the United Mine Workers (CCL) District 26 and Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation will run for two years instead of the one year called for in past agreements.

Small Majority

President Freeman Jenkins said about 68 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots in Tuesday's referendum. The vote was 3,401 in favor of the contract and 3,223 against.

The contract will provide some minor changes but the basic daily rate of $8.14 will be unchanged.

Many labor leaders here predicted that the miners' decision would influence in wage talks One large such union, the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) now are negotiating with Dosco for a new agreement.

When the UMW first opened contract talks with Dosco this year they asked an increase of 26 cents an hour, a 50 per cent increase on long-wall loading rates, double time for work on Sundays and statutory holidays and straight time for statutory holidays not worked. It also asked a 33 1-3 per cent boost of contract rates.

Counter Proposal

The company countered with a proposal which included a $1.50 daily reduction for employees of Acadia Coal Company, a Dosco subsidiary, and 15 per cent contract rate reduction at the same mines.

The union rejected this.

After a lull in the talks, Mr. Jenkins announced March 10 that the district executive board had recommended acceptance of a no-increase agreement to the membership. About 10,000 of the union's 13,000 members work for Dosco. Others are employed by private operators in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Strenuous Opposition

But Mr. Hall did more than just knock the proposed site for the new service station. He suggested the station would be more useful to the community and would still get excellent business if located at Elcome Crescent and Water Street.

"It would be both cheaper and better," he said.

Herbert G. Mason, 740 Water Street, lives immediately to the north of the site. He said he had put forward his point of view in full at Monday night's Council meeting; and there was nothing he could add to it.

As the matter stands now Mr. Mason is against the application unless the service station is of "reasonable size." This means it would be necessary to buy the adjoining Mason property and under those conditions he is willing to both support the application and sell his property.

He described that corner as "commercial section," and inferred that those thinking the property was restricted were mistaken. Similar building could not go on up the block, however, he said.

Robert Abbott, 754 Water Street, came out flatly against the application. He has just returned from the United States, and when queried by the Examiner had not studied in full press reports of Monday's Council meeting.

"It's a surprise to me," he said. "I discussed the matter some time ago with several members of Council and I was told this was a restricted area. Water Street has become pretty much of a highway already."

Harry J. Tudhope, proprietor of the Parkhill Service Station, said some people might think his opinion biased, but from a business point of view he did not care.

"One thing is certain, though, the proopsed station would not be serving any business shortage," he said. "There are three stations within 100 yards of each other now."

Council's action had seemed like a breach of contract, Mr. Tudhope stated. "It will certainly depreciate property."

Mrs. Richard Ferguson, owner of the property in question, declined to comment. She pointed out that she was in a peculiar position, being both a resident and the seller.

She stated that Imperial Oil had been after her "for a long time" to sell

GUELPH, April 5.—(CP).—Described as "the most revolting case" ever heard in his court, Magistrate Watt today sentenced William A. Wilson of Maryboro township to 60 days in jail for ill-treating a blind horse. Wilson was also ordered to pay costs of the case or spend an additional 3 days in jail.

Says Fuchs Name In Notebook Given To British

LONDON, April 5. — (CP).—Viscount Jowitt, the Lord Chancellor, admitted today that the name of atomic scientist Dr. Klaus Fuchs appeared in a notebook "belonging to a man who was one of those examined" by the Canadian Royal Commission on Espionage set up in 1946.

He said the notebook and all other relevant material were made available to Britain at the time.

"Subsequent events, of course, have attached a significance to that name (Fuchs) which it did not then bear," Viscount Jowitt told the House of Lords.

The Lord Chancellor thus corrected a statement he made in the House of Lords last Thursday, referring to press statements about the German-born British scientist who was sentenced March 1 to 14 years in prison for betraying atomic secrets to Russia.

THE EASTER STORY — The People Turn on Their Saviour — Drawn by John J. Sunley

Jesus was taken to the house of Caiaphas, where false witnesses convicted Him of blasphemy. Then did they spit in his face and buffeted him: and others struck his face with the palms of their hands. (Matt. 26:67)

In the morning, the priests delivered Jesus to Pontius Pilate, the Roman governor. Pilate questioned Jesus and heard testimony, but found no case against Him. And he answered him to never a word: so that the governor wondered exceedingly. (Matt. 27:14)

Pilate had a Passover custom of giving one prisoner his freedom. So he asked the crowd whom should he free—Jesus or Barabbas, a popular outlaw. They demanded Barabbas. Pilate said to them: What shall I do then with Jesus that is called Christ? They say all: Let him be crucified. (Matt. 27:22)

New Development Seen At Espanola

ESPANOLA, April 5 (CP)—R A. Hayward, president of the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment Company, said today that dissolution of an anti-pollution injunction barring dumping of mill wastes in the Spanish River here enables the company to "move forward with the community development program" it has launched here.

The injunction was obtained by a group of property owners on the river near this community of 3,500 persons, 40 miles west of Sudbury. It should have been effective today, but the Ontario Legislature dissolved the injunction by an act which received Royal assent last Friday.

Mr. Hayward said in a statement: "During the four years that we have operated in Espanola, we have completely rehabilitated all of the dwellings and we have built 73 new homes and apartments. Our housing in Espanola has been substantially improved." Other improvements included a motion picture theatre, new stores and new town hall.

80 Miners Jobless As BC Mine Closes

PRINCETON, B. C., April 5 — (CP)—Shutdown of Tulameen Collieries Monday threw 80 miners and truckers out of work. Mine officials said they had lost their chief customer, Granby Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, to a prairie mine. Tulameen had been supplying 100,000 tons a year to this company. Officials said prairie coal could be laid down here for $1 a ton less than it could be mined here.

SIX CHILDREN DIE IN SCARBORO FIRE

Floods Ebb, Damage In Thousands

One Baby Drowns Officials Warn Must Boil Water

By The Canadian Press

Flood troubles eased today in southern and eastern Ontario as a surge of cool Arctic air slowed the spring runoff.

The rain-swollen Nation River in Eastern Ontario dropped more than two inches overnight. Some of the flood water drained off inundated sections of farmland in Prescott, Grenville, Dundas and Stormont and Glengarry counties.

The Rideau River, over its banks in the Ottawa suburb of Eastview, also receded during the night.

The Speed River was almost back to normal at Guelph today after flooding low-lying sections of the city for two days. At Galt, the river was down eight feet from the peak it reached early Wednesday and flood danger appeared past. However, at Hespeler the river was blamed for the collapse Wednesday night of a section of an enamelware factory wall.

As the cooler weather moved into Quebec province, residents of the industrial centre of Beauce county on the St. Lawrence south shore got temporary relief from the winding Chaudiere River, unusually high this year owing to an ice jam in its upper reaches. Public prayers were called to avert a serious flood.

North of Brockville, at Jasper and Bellamy, two sections of CPR railway track on the Ottawa-Brockville line were washed out by the swollen waters of Irish creek.

Guild Enters Canadian Press

OTTAWA, April 6 —(CP)— The Canada Labor Relations Board announced today the American Newspaper Guild (CIO) has been certified as collective bargaining agent for a unit of editorial employees of the Canadian Press, Canada's national news service.

The unit consists of editorial employees within Canada, including office boys but excepting the general manager, general superintendent, general news editor, chief of Ontario services, general night editor, Bureau chiefs and news editors.

Certification followed a public hearing and the taking of a government - supervised representative vote among the eligible employees.

The board did not announce the vote tally, but, of the 89 eligible employees, 54 voted in favor of having the Guild as bargaining agent and 35 against. The Guild needed 45 votes, 51 per cent of those eligible to ballot.

It was the first time since the board was set up in 1948 that every eligible employee has balloted in a certification vote.

The certification applies to the Canadian Press, supplying news to daily newspapers, but not to its subsidiary, Press News, Ltd., which services radio stations.

100 Have Irish Up Gather To Boo Brooke

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP) — More than 100 of New York City's Irish gathered at New York International airport today under the leadership of a city judge to "boo" Sir Basil Brooke, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland.

Matthew J. Troy, Special Sessions Justice, head of an organization called American Irish Minute Men of 1949, said 50 men were at the airport by 5 a.m. and more than 100 by 8 a.m. He anticipated a total of 1,000 before long.

A force of 20 detectives was placed on duty in the area in mid-morning.

Meanwhile, Sir Basil's plane was delayed at Goose Bay, Labrador, because of trouble in its hydraulic system.

Top Spy Charge 'Base Lies'—Lattimore

"McCarthy Makes United States Laughing Stock Of Red Governments"

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Owen Lattimore, accused by Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep., Wis.) of being Russia's top spy in the United States, swore today that the charges are "base and contemptible lies."

He said McCarthy has "flagrantly violated" his responsibility as a senator and has made unauthorized use of secret government documents.

Lattimore, an authority on far eastern affairs, took note of McCarthy's contention that he can prove Lattimore is or was a Communist and declared: "I was not and have not been a Communist . . . and I am not a Communist now."

Lattimore made his denial in testimony prepared for a senate foreign relations sub-committee investigating McCarthy's charges that Communists and Red sympathizers have infested the state department.

Hitting back hard in a 10,000-word statement, Lattimore said McCarthy has violated his responsibility "by making the government of the United States an object of suspicion in the eyes of the anti-Communist world, and undoubtedly the laughing stock of the Communist governments."

He accused the Wisconsin senator of "instituting a reign of terror among officials and employees in the United States government, none of whom can be sure of safety from attack by the machine gun of irresponsible publicity in Joseph McCarthy's hands."

Lattimore is Director of a School of Intetrnational Relations at Johns Hopkins University.

Lattimore noted the Senator had promised the Senate that any charges he made under "the cloak of immunity" he would repeat off the floor so, as Lattimore put it, "their falseness could be tested in a court of the United States." Lattimore added:

"He said that if he should fail to do this he would resign. He has been called to repeat his charges so that they could be tested in a court of action. He has failed to do so. And he has not resigned."

Youth Confesses Strangled Girl In Jealous Rage

OAKLAND, Calif., April 6 — (AP)—Arthur Prindle, 19, shaking off the effects of 12 sleeping pills, mumbled a dramatic bedside confession to his policeman-father Wednesday night: he strangled his pretty 18-year-old sweetheart in a jealous rage.

"What did you do son?" asked officer Leslie Prindle when the youth opened his eyes.

"I killed Sally. . . I choked her. . . We quarrelled. . She was going out with other boys," he said haltingly.

The youth and his former fiancee, Sally Ann Humphreys, were found Wednesday in a car parked in a lovers' lane.

The girl's body was slumped in the front seat, a man's belt tightened about her neck.

In the back seat, minus his belt was young Prindle, his wrist bleeding from the jagged lass of the girl's compact. He was unconscious from the effect of the sleeping pills.

Wakefield Taylor, Deputy District Attorney, announced the youth will be charged with murder.

"I had planned it for months," Taylor quoted young Prindle as saying.

"I found out she went around with another guy. I wish I had taken my father's police pistol to do the job."

"I began hitting her," he continued. "I kept hitting her, trying to knock her out. . . Then I strangled her. I strangled her.

"I took off my belt and wrapped it around her neck. . . I must have strangled her 45 minutes."

Officers said the girl had shattered the car windshield during the ferocious struggle. She had a tooth knocked out.

Then, the youth continued, he climbed into the back seat, swallowed 12 sleeping tablets and slashed his wrist.

Plea To Teen-Agers For Club President

OSHAWA, April 6 — (CP) — Some 400 teen-agers attending an Oshawa Teen Club dance Wednesday night heard a plea for all-out support of former president Donald McGarry, charged under the Lord's Day Act with charging admission for Sunday dances. Owen McRohan, operator of the hall where the dances were staged, was remanded Wednesday to April 20 along with McGarry.

Broader Divorce Laws Rejected By Ottawa MP's

OTTAWA, April 6—(CP)—The Commons turned thumbs down Wednesday on a suggestion that divorce grounds be broadened. The debate developed on a private member's resolution, introduced and later withdrawn by David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina), asking the Chamber to consider the setting up of a special House committee on divorce and enlarging the grounds beyond that of adultery.

The discussion was an almost unanimous expression of disapproval.

Mr. Croll, closing the debate, said he had sought a cross-section of house opinion. He had obtained that and would withdraw the motion. He wanted divorce grounds enlarged to include desertion of more than three years, gross cruelty, incurable mental disease after five years, and legal presumption of death.

He won support only from G. S. White (PC—Hastings-Peterborough).

Condemnation came from Rev. Dan McIvor (L—Fort William), W. J. Browne (PC—St. John's West), J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood), W. F. Carroll (L—Inverness - Richmond) and Dr. Pierre Gauthier (L—Portneuf).

Mr. Croll, introducing his legislation, said he wanted to put divorce on an honest basis because there was no legal field in which the law "is a greater hypocrite than in the divorce courts." His suggestions would not produce a flood of divorces.

Divorce judges were doing the best they could, because they were bound by law and precedent. But he wanted to see the law amended to "grant relief in all circumstances where it appears wrong not to do so."

Sick Man Carried From Blazing Home

FERNDALE, Ont., April 6. (CP)—A family of six narrowly escaped with their lives today at Ferndale when fire swept through their home and an adjoining garage, burning both buildings to the ground.

Alec Brough, ill in bed with influenza, was carried from his blazing home seconds before flames engulfed it, and his wife and four children were aided to safety.

The fire believed to have started in the garage section of the home, spread so quickly that the Broughs were unable to save any of their belongings.

Glass Combine Case Sent On For Trial

TORONTO, April 6 — (CP) — A grand jury decided today there is enough evidence to warrant prosecution of nine Ontario and Quebec glass companies for operation of a price-fixing combine.

The jury made the decision after a study of a report by F. A. McGregor, former combines investigator. Justice Minister Garson announced Feb. 7 the federal government would proceed with prosecution if a grand jury returned true bills of indictment against the nine firms.

The nine:

Hobbs Glass Ltd., Pilkington (Canada) Ltd., Consolidated Glass Ltd., Advance Glass and Mirror Company Ltd., Excelsior Plate Glass Company Ltd., J. B. O'Shea and Company Ltd., Queen City Glass Company Ltd., Llewellyn Maurice Lloyd (carrying on business under the name Lloyd Glass from 1929 to 1949) and Canadian Plate and Window Glass Ltd.

They are charged with conspiring among themselves and with various other companies throughout the world to prevent and lessen competition in manufacture and sale of glass products in Ontario and Quebec.

Trial is expected to proceed during the current assizes of the Ontario Supreme Court. T. N. Phelan will be Crown prosecutor.

Unlike a recent combines trial, during which a number of Canadian dental firms were acquitted of similar price-fixing charges, the glass trial will be without jury, Mr. Phelan said.

In his report to the government, Mr. McGregor said a glass combine had operated for 20 years to fix prices and restrain competition in Canada's multi-million-dollar flat-glass trade.

Painless Child Birth Program Really Works

OROVILLE, Calif., April 6 — (AP)—Mrs. Joyce Chapman, 17, was listening to a radio program on painless child birth.

"All of a sudden I heard a cry and there he was," she said.

The young mother wrapped her premature baby in a heavy coat, laid him on the bed. Then she walked two miles to a mine to break the news to her husband, Jack, 22.

This story of painless childbirth last Sunday was told today by Dr. Charles G. Gribbs, who attended Mrs. Chapman in her seven months of pregnancy.

Asked if the long hike through the mountains immediately after the birth hadn't tired her, Mrs Chapman exclaimed:

"Oh no. I frequently walk over to meet my husband at work. Having the baby was nothing."

More European Refugees Allowed To Enter States

WASHINGTON, April 6 —(AP)—Legislation to let additional thousands of European refugees come to the United States to make their homes passed the Senate late Wednesday night.

The bill, liberalizing the 1948 displaced persons law by raising the number that can be admitted to 359,000, caps a long and bitter struggle in the Senate. Republicans and Democrats in almost equal number joined to put it over, by a final vote of 58 to 15.

As passed, after stormy session that lasted nearly 12 hours and set a record on the number of roll call votes (20) it conforms in its essentials to a measure passed by the House of Representatives last June.

The measure now goes to a joint Senate-House committee to iron out minor differences.

The argument was largely over terms on which various members felt strongly—there was general agreement all along on the basic idea of admitting more refugees.

The Senate bill eliminated provisions of the 1948 act which President Truman assailed in his election campaign as discriminatory against Roman Catholics and Jews.

The bill would extend the present program for a year beyond June 30 and increase the number of refugees eligible for admission to the US from 205,000 to 359,000, including orphans and adopted children.

It also would wipe out requirements that 40 per cent of the DPs admitted be from the Baltic States and 30 per cent be farmers. It would advance the eligibility "cut-off" date from Dec. 22, 1945, to Jan. 1, 1949.

5 Tragedies Take Toll Of 185 Lives

Three Train Wrecks, Fire, Barge Sinking Reported During Day

By The Associated Press

At least 185 persons were killed and more than 300 injured Wednesday night and today in three train wrecks, a fire and a barge sinking.

Sixty textile workers were missing from a motor barge which capsized in the Douro River at Oporto, Portugal.

At least 19 persons were killed and more than 100 injured in the derailment of the Oviedo-Madrid Express at Pola de Lena in Spain.

A train loaded with Easter holidayers plunged into the flooded Indian River at Tangua, Brazil, when a weakened bridge collapsed, and jammed coaches were reported to have carried 100 persons to their deaths. The injured totalled 200.

An early morning blaze in a home at Toronto trapped six children who were burned to death. The parents and two other children escaped.

Several passengers were slightly injured in a Mexican train derailment near Nanchi, 200 miles northwest of Guadalajara.

Gov't May Relax Austerity In UK

LONDON, April 6 (Reuters)—The Cabinet met today and there were indications it considered some concessions in the austerity budget due April 18.

Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will give the Cabinet a full outline of his financial proposals at a special meeting shortly before budget day.

The cabinet is watching public and trade union reaction to the food price increases—fourpence (about five cents) more for a pound of butter and twopence extra for a pound of bacon — announced Wednesday by Food Minister Maurice Webb.

Psychological effect of these changes, many observers think, will be to increase pressure for more pay by 5,000,000 trade unionists now resisting the government's official wage freeze.

Sir Stafford, who will spend his Easter holiday working on the budget, is anxious to lighten the burden of lower bracket wage-earners.

But despite the big forward strides made towards economic recovery he can make no slashing budget concession.

However, the food price increases and his surplus on last year's estimates give the Chancellor of the Exchequer a little room to manoeuvre in a budget which is expected to be the only one before the next general election.

Woman Jailed 7 Days For Drunk Driving

HAMILTON, April 6 (CP) — Magistrate B. W. Hopkins today told Mrs. Hilda Gray that she was the first woman whom he had sent to jail for intoxicated driving when he sentenced her to seven days.

He also imposed a seven day sentence for driving recklessly, the terms to run concurrently. Mrs. Gray's driver's licence was suspended for nine months.

"I have no doubts whatsoever that you were intoxicated when on April 2 you drove through the signal at the City Hall, forcing Constable William Bell to jump aside and causing pedestrians to scatter in order to avoid being hit," said the magistrate.

Man Fined $3,500

SUDBURY, April 6 (CP)—Arthur A. Duncan, Sudbury real estate agent and insurance broker, today was fined $3,500 and costs or 12 months in prison by Magistrate W. M. Cooper today following conviction on five charges of evading income tax payments. He pleaded guilty. He was given a week to pay.

Helicopter Kills 2

NORFOLK, Va., April 6—(AP)—A United States Navy helicopter toppled over after a carrier landing at sea and its churning blades killed two men and injured four others, the navy announced today. The accident occurred aboard the carrier Wright, Tuesday, the navy said and details here were sketchy.

AFL, CIO Merger Chances 'Better' Says Bill Green

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP) —A possible merger of the AFL and CIO has suddenly become a serious topic of conversation in labor circles.

The reason: AFL president William Green's observation that the chances for such a move are "better today than they have been in the past six years."

Green was commenting on a proposal put forward by Philip Murray, president of the CIO.

Murray invited the AFL, John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers, the International Association of Machinists, and the Railroad Brotherhoods to join in a grand program of co-operation on legislation, politics, and economic problems.

Once that is done, Murray said, the groups could work toward unification into a single organization of some 16,000,000 members. The AFL claims 8,000,000 on its rolls, the CIO 6,000,000 and the other organizations about 2,000,000 together.

Split Over Method

Green and Murray have split in the past over how unification should be accomplished, and their differences still seemed to exist.

The AFL chief favors immediate consolidation—as contrasted with the step-by-step procedure suggested by Murray. Green made clear in an interview Wednesday in New Orleans that he hasn't changed his mind.

"The interest of labor could best be served by the establishment of one strong, united organization," he said. "Anything less would be temporary."

Murray said he would be available at any time to discuss the unity question with Green.

The CIO was created in 1935 and 1936 by an AFL group led by mine leader Lewis. Murray and others. Lewis later quit the CIO, for a time the United Mine Workers returned to the AFL, but now they are independent, like the machinists and railroad brotherhoods.

Lewis said he had received Murray's letter but had not yet looked it over.

John F. Dulles Named Acheson Consultant

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP) —The state department said today John Foster Dulles, New York lawyer and foreign policy expert, had agreed to serve as consultant to State Secretary Dean Acheson.

A formal announcement said the Republican leader was asked to take the position by both President Truman and Acheson.

House Blazes "Like Torch" Burned Bodies In Beds Bucket Hot Coals Blamed

Boy Heard Sister Trying To Wake Others Died Herself In Attempt Victims Ranged In Age From Eight To 16

TORONTO, April 6—(CP)—Six children died in their beds early today when fire blamed on hot coals in a bucket on a back porch roared through a stucco cottage in suburban Scarboro Junction. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harding, the parents, who slept on the ground floor, escaped with two other children. The mother carried the youngest child, Harold, 3, to safety from his downstairs crib; Paul, 14, jumped from the only upstairs window.

Ages of the other children ranged from eight to 16 years.

Harding, 43, a coal delivery man, said the fire apparently started in a bucket of red embers he set out in the back porch and forgot to empty. He had cleaned out a stove because it was smoking.

"Just before I fell asleep, I thought I should get up and put the pail of coals outside," he said. "But I didn't do it. I thought there were only a few coals in the pail and, because it was the heavy kind like a lot of people use for garbage, figured everything would be all right."

Plans are under way for a mass funeral for the six victims.

As firemen combed the ruins of the little house to determine the cause of the blaze, Reeve O. E. Crockford of Scarboro township said a fund had been started for the Harding family.

He visited the parents at the home of neighbors and told them the township would pay the expense of the six children's funeral. School children were asked to give clothing for the two children who survived. Other donations were being accepted at the township municipal office.

Mr. Harding said he carried no insurance on the house, his furniture or automobile, all of which were destroyed.

Paul said, "I heard my sister Ruth calling to the others to 'Wake up, wake up,' but I guess they didn't make it."

Dead are Ruth, 16; Davis, 15; John, 13; Tim, 11; Earl, 10, and Edith, 8.

Not Real Fitz Gerald Judge Grants Divorce

DETROIT, April 6—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Fitz Gerald, 24, came before Judge Frank Fitz Gerald Wednesday seeking a divorce.

The Judge jestingly considers the Fitz Geralds a notch above the Fitzgeralds. The Fitzgeralds, he explains, are lace-curtain Irish; the Fitz Geralds, venetian-blinds Irish.

His Honor was taken aback when Mrs. Fitz Gerald described her husband as a wife beater, drunk and deserter. He asked indignantly:

"How did he ever get into the Fitz Gerald clan?"

"By adoption," Mrs. Fitz Gerald answered.

"Divorce granted," said Judge Fitz Gerald.

Howe Cuts Wheat Price To West Farmers To $1.40

OTTAWA, April 6 —(CP)— Guarding against wheat-board bankruptcy, Trade Minister Howe has announced a drop in initial prices to be paid to western wheat farmers.

Beginning with the new crop year, Aug. 1, the initial price, under a three-year pool renewable annually, will be $1.40 a bushel, instead of the current initial price of $1.75.

Trade Minister Howe, announcing this change in initial payments in the Commons Wednesday, said the new price will cover the 1950-51 crop year on deliveries to the board of No. 1 Northern Wheat in storage points at Port Arthur, Fort William and Vancouver.

He also said that the initial prices for oats and barley in the 1950-51 crop year will be the same as in the current year—93 cents a bushel for No. 3 Canada western six-row barley and 65 cents for No. 2 Canada western oats, both prices based on deliveries to Fort William and Port Arthur.

Because of the poor reception the wheat board's flax pool got from growers during the current crop year, the government still was undecided whether it will conduct another flax pool in the 1950-51 period.

However, if it did, the initial price paid will be $2.50 a bushel, the same price the wheat board paid on flax deliveries during the current year.

Manitoba agricultural leaders, commenting on the announcement, said the initial prices on oats and barley is "fair," but termed the wheat price "disappointing."

World wheat prices and the possibilities of a Canadian wheat surplus were the two main reasons given by Mr. Howe for the lower initial price.

2,000 Policemen Fight Reds In Paris Streets

PARIS, April 6 (Reuters) — Paris police headquarters announced today that 128 policemen were injured in Wednesday night's "battle of the Champs Elysses" between 2,000 police and about as many demonstrators.

Thirty of the injured police were unable to be on duty today. Four were in hospital.

Of 150 persons arrested, police kept 14 in prison but released the others.

The clash resulted from a Communist demonstration in front of the offices of the Conservative newspaper Figaro which is publishing the memoirs of former SS Colonel Otto Skorzeny, chief of Hitler's bodyguard.

He led the airborne commando group which "spirited" Mussolini away from Italy after the Allied victory there in 1943.

About 10 policemen were injured last week in a similar but less-riotous protest meeting at the Figaro offices.

A police cordon kept the crowd away from the newspaper Wednesday night, but fights developed along the Champs Elysees.

Using nightsticks and folded capes, police battered the demonstrators back into side streets to disperse them.

Communists have been urged by the French Communist Congress, now in session here, to let go more in their demonstrations. Party members were accused of being unwilling to take part in shows of force.

Five Canadians Trouble Shooters

OTTAWA, April 6 (CP)—Canada, acting on a request from the United Nations, has set up a panel of international trouble-shooters, it was announced today.

Five well-known Canadians have been designated to serve on a U.N. panel "for inquiry and conciliation," making them available to act as conciliators or mediators in any international dispute.

They are Chief Justice J. L. Ilsley of Nova Scotia, former cabinet minister. Chief Justice Sir Albert Walsh of Newfoundland, Senators L. M. Gouin (L—Quebec) and Norman Lambert (L—Ontario) and Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, chancellor of the University of Toronto.

They serve for five years and during that time are on call to go anywhere in any sort of dispute. One case in point is the Kashmir dispute between India and Pakistan.

There is no immediate business for them so far as is known. Not only Canada but other U.N. countries are appointing men to the panel.

Chrysler Considering Union Peace Offer

DETROIT, April 6 (AP) — A new and different union pension proposal Wednesday brought the biggest break to date in the Chrysler strike which began 71 days ago.

The company admitted it is "considering" the peace offer by the United Auto Workers (CIO).

This statement immediately boosted hopes for a quick return to work of 89,000 Chrysler strikers and some 50,000 other persons made idle indirectly by the long shutdown.

Labor Party Wins By-Election, Fewer Voters

LONDON, April 6 (Reuters)—Labor today won the first by-election of the new parliament, raising its precarious over-all majority to four by retaining the seat at Neepsend, Sheffield.

However, Labor's majority was reduced to 12,996 over its opponents from the winning margin of 19,006 in the Feb. 23 general election.

There were 9,444 fewer votes in the by-election than in the general election, and both sides showed a drop. Total electorate for Neepsend is about 49,700.

Sir Frank Soskice, Labor candidate, polled 22,080 in the traditionally Labor constituency in the big steel city. The Conservative-Liberal candidate, James P. Hunt, got 8,365 while E. L. Moore, school teacher, running as Communist candidate, could muster only 729.

Labor's majority in the House—not counting casualties—had been three before today's by-election, held due to the resignation of Harry Morris, who won the seat for Labor in the Feb. 23 election. Morris resigned to open a seat for Sir Frank, who was appointed solicitor-general although he suffered a personal defeat in the Feb. 23 election.

The standing in the Commons now is: Labor, 313; Conservatives, 297; Liberals, 9; Irish Nationalists, 2; Independent, 1; vacant, 2. The neutral Speaker completes the 625-seat House.

Drama Groups Accept

CALGARY, April 6 (CP). — The eight Canadian drama groups who were invited to compete in the Dominion drama festival here May 8-13 have all accepted, R. L. Bailey, chairman of the Calgary Festival Committee, announced Wednesday night. The groups chosen from 15 contenders across Canada included the Brockville Theatre Guild.

80-Ton Flying Boat Explodes; 7 Escape

HONOLULU, April 6 (AP) — The Marshall Mars, $7,500,000 worth of flying boat, was destroyed today by explosion and fire a mile off shore. Its seven crew members barely escaped.

The 80-ton flying boat had gone up for a test flight after engine trouble yesterday.

Lt.-Cmdr. Glenn Simmons, the pilot, said No. 3 engine caught fire shortly after the takeoff, when he had gained 1,000 feet. Simmons turned the Mars back toward Kechi Island, the seaplane landing off the Honolulu airport.

Watchers at the airport saw the giant craft, its engine blazing, land on the lagoon.

Once down, Simmons and the other six jumped clear in two life rafts. A crash boat picked them up.

Minutes later the 6,000 gallons of high-octane gasoline in the fuel tanks exploded.

OBITUARIES

JAMES CONROY

James Conroy, 83, of 547 Armour Rd. died today in hospital in Peterborough. He had been in failing health for some time.

Born in Otonabee Twp., Mr. Conroy came to Peterborough more than 50 years ago and was a teamster most of his life. He is survived by his wife.

He was son of the late John Conroy and Elizabeth McGrath. He leaves five daughters: Mrs. William Jones (Josephine); Mrs. Gerald McGrath (Teresa); Miss Rita Conroy, all of Peterborough; Miss Agnes Conroy, Toronto and Mrs. Mac O'Reilly (Elizabeth) of Edmonton, Alberta; two sons, Frederick of Peterborough and Roy of Edmonton, Alberta.

He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Patrick Quinlan and Mrs. Margaret Brisbois and a brother, Alec, all of Peterborough.

He was a member of the Immaculate Conception Church. The body will be taken from the Duffus Funeral Home Saturday at 2:40 p.m. for blessing at the church at 3 p.m. followed by burial in St. Peter's Cemetery.

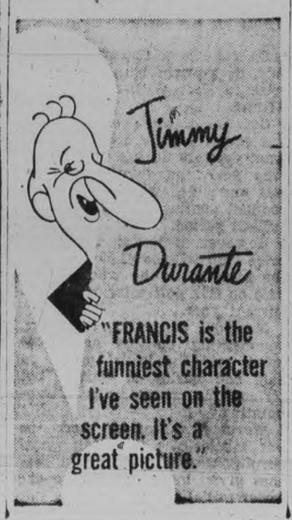
ARCHIBALD DAVIDSON

After an illness of several months, the late Archibald Davidson passed away on Thursday at St. Joseph's Hospital. A native of Otonabee township, Mr. Davidson was of Scottish descent, the son of Archibald Davidson and Janet Weir.

The deceased was the husband of the late Mary Tucker, of Keene. Their children were Roderick McCallum, of Portland, Oregon, and Archie Donald, of Peterborough, Ont. By a second marriage to Isabella Charlotte Hall he was the father of Hugh Bertram and James Weir, of this city. Besides his widow and four sons he leaves to mourn his loss one sister, Mrs. Sam Armstrong, of Indian River.

Mr. Davidson, well known in the city as a contractor and carpenter, has left behind him many silent memorials of his handiwork. He was a life-long attendant of the Presbyterian Church, holding the office of elder for a number of years before his death. He was also a member of Corinthian Lodge, AF and AM.

The service was held Saturday, April 1st, from the Comstock Funeral Home, the Rev. C. G. Boyd, of St. Paul's Church, officiating. Pallbearers were: James Anderson, Jr., John Anderson, Dr. D. W. Clark, Dr. C. M. Lawrence, George Lockington and G. A. Macdonald. Interment was at



Ontario Arena Executives Meet Monthly

The spirit and practice of organization has become so broadly accepted, helpful and generally worth while that even the executive of ice arenas in this province have their own association. It is known as the Ontario Arena Association.

Meetings are held monthly, usually on Sundays, with an average attendance of 50 to 60 including Al Cameron and Walter Smiley of Peterborough.

Its purpose is to exchange ideas based on operating experience. For instance last month Lindsay sent five of the members of its board of management to the meeting in Toronto to get some information about a problem which had arisen in the working of their ice-making plant. Lakefield is joining next month.

Associates range from the swank community centre at Schumacher and the million dollar arena completed last year, Sudbury with ambitions and plans for another northern million dollar plant down to village and small town rinks such as those at Milton, Dixie, Tillsonburg and so on

Take in Wide Area

"We have representatives from Sault. Ste. Marie, Windsor and Sarnia on the west side of the province to Cornwall on the east," Mr. Cameron told the Ekaminer. "Meetings invariably turn up the answer to every question. What one group does not know from experience another does. The members pool their information and apply it to their mutual problems.

"If any community is thinking of building an arena, I think they would profit by first joining this association and sitting in on some of the meetings. Helpful ideas are available to everybody. They are the lessons of practical tests in providing accommodation for the public, results of what is popularly mentioned as trial and error.

Such subjects as ice-making public address systems, lighting ventilation, ticket-taking, goodwill, organization, refreshment booths, are just a few of the larger questions that members enquire about.

Membership includes representatives of ice-making equipment manufacturers, public address system companies, and virtually all those who are interested in arenas, their construction and furnishing for the comfort of the public."

Million Dollar Palaces

Mr. Cameron said the arena at Sault Ste. Marie cost more than $1,000,000 and is "just an arena with seating capacity for 5,000". Sudbury is hoping to have their plant ready by this fall. It is nothing more than an ice-arena, no frills, and accommodation for 5,000 spectators.

When Mr. Cameron mentions the amount of those investments, he inadvertently and by comparison nudges into the local foreground of thinking Peterborough's ageing problem of the Memorial Community Centre, its site, size and financing.

As for opinion, he remarks that he attends the Arena Association sessions in the interests of the Peterborough Community Arena.

U.S. Cracks Down On Cigarette Claims

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP). —The United States Government today ordered a crack-down on what is called "false and misleading advertising" by some major cigaret makers.

The Federal Trade Commission directed two of the largest companies to halt certain claims that one brand of cigarets is superior to another as far as the amount of nicotine and throat irritants.

The so-called "cease and desist" orders were against R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, makers of Camels cigaret, and the P. Lorillard Company, producers of Old Gold.

The FTC said it also is considering similar action against the American Tobacco Company and its Lucky Strike cigarets as well as Philip Morris, Limited, and the cigarets which bear that company's name.

Western Oils Big Demand

TORONTO, April 6—(CP)—Oil stocks stole the limelight as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Heavy buying sent leading western oil issues booming upwards and Imperial Oil paced Refining Oils. Volume for the first three hours was 1,544,000 shares.

The strong demand in western oils again lifted the list to the highest average price level since the boom days of Turner Valley in 1937. Royalite featured on a gain of 1¼ at 14¼ and Calgary and Edmonton was ahead 60 cents at $8.25. This is the fifth successive week of advance for western oils.

Imperial Oil, largest operator in the western oil fields, boomed ahead to a new high at 25½; up 1½. Wednesday the stock added a full point. Brokers report considerable New York interest in oil stocks.

Other industrials were also in good demand, rising steadily on fractional advances.

Junior gold producers showed gains ranging up to 10 cents and small prospects continued busy traders. Steep Rock iron mines gained 10 cents at $2.88 in a stronger Base Metal list following release of the annual report showing a large increase in earnings.

Political Age Differences Start World Wars

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

People may be all the same—but they can be and are at different stages of development and probably that is the real reason why peoples in the form of nations are virtually at each other's throats.

It is easy enough for Canadians to say: "Look, we are only 80-odd years old as a country, but we can think maturely—why can't other people?"

But we are not only 80 years old in our national thinking, in our ability to get along with one another, in our ability in some way to take the opinions of all individually and come up with a national opinion which comes close to expressing all of us.

Long History

Actually, we are at least as old as the Witenagemot, the national council of Anglo-Saxon times; as old as Simon De Montfort in the 13th century; as Britain's great rebellion; the American and French revolutions, not to mention our own early struggles.

Without those things and all that came between them could we think and do as we do? Not very likely.

These things happened where peoples live relatively close together and had a few hundred years to think between events; and we, with the Western nations, are the inheritors.

But we must live in a world of peoples whose forebears may indeed have had similar ideas but whose ideas had little chance to develop in the condition of their surroundings, whether because of space, or lack of driving force, or overwhelming tyranny.

Politically Babies

At the same time we live in a world where the scientific advances which accompanied political freedom are the property of the most immature politically. And that is our threatening problem, for they are no longer in far corners working out their own destinies, but are our neighbors.

What brings all this to mind is one of the Royal Bank's usually thoughtful monthly letters entitled "Citizens of the World." And it gives this way of hope to people who may feel discouraged about things as they are:

"No efforts made by a person or an organization to achieve international understanding is wasted . . . There seems to be the same way out of his predicament as out of the many that confront us as individuals every week in our family or business life: Use the little that you have in the best way you can toward getting what you want."

House Blazes

Paul Harding escaped by leaping from an upper window to an adjoining roof, while three-year-old Harold was carried through flames to safety by his mother.

Firemen early today said they had not ascertained the cause of the blaze which turned the house into a mass of flames within minutes. The house was destroyed within less than an hour and eye-witnesses said "it went up like a torch."

Roy Harding, father of the family, awoke shortly after 1 a.m. to find the rear of the house on fire. He aroused his wife and they tried to awaken the children by shouting while Mrs. Harding struggled through flames to the doorway with the youngest child.

Both parents collapsed as they reached safety and are under a doctor's care.

Neighbors were forced to stand by helplessly as firemen, quickly on the scene, found the entire house a mass of flames.

One of the first on the scene, Doris Ward, Toronto Globe and Mail reporter, said "it was awful. We all knew there were children in the house. Three men got an extension ladder and put it up to a bedroom window. They were Joe Jenoves, Maurice Sallown and his brother Allan.

"They screamed 'we can't get in. It's too hot.'

"People went over to the roadside and were sick. Others were sobbing so loud you could hear them over the crackling of the flames."

Jenoves said: "I woke up when I heard someone banging on the door. Mr. and Mrs. Harding were standing with Paul and Harold. They were all holding hands. They were in their night clothes. Mr. Harding was in his underwear.

"Mr. Harding shouted 'get me a ladder.' He seemed to be crazy. He screamed 'call the fire brigade—my house is on fire.' Then he ran back across the road."

Scarboro firemen fought the blaze with three hoses but the fire had gained too much headway. They were driven back when they tried to enter the house wearing masks. The roar of the blaze could be heard for blocks.

When they entered, they found the burned bodies of the children in their beds. They found the back stairs leading to the bedrooms had been destroyed at the outset of the blaze.

Davis and Ruth, the two oldest children, were working. The rest, with the exception of Harold, attended school.

Flood Ends

Elsewhere in Ontario, flood levels were receding after causing thousands of dollars' damage and at least one death.

The floods claimed the life of one person, two-year-old W. L. Rooney was drowned in a stream near Thamesville in Kent county.

Public health officials warned residents of Preston, five miles southeast of Kitchener, to boil drinking water. They declared a state of emergency, fearing water from the Grand River had contaminated the town's reservoir.

Boats were used for transportation at Brantford and Preston. Some 100 isolated families were evacuated and bread and milk deliveries were made by boat in some cases. A doctor was taken by boat to the home of a child ill with measles. The Grand River at this point had dropped a little.

Waters were reported rising at one point, however. At the Lake Huron report of Port Franks, police were calling Detroit to advise cottage owners their summer homes were in danger of being damaged by the rising Ausable River.

At London, the north branch of the Thames river had dropped five feet from its peak, the south branch about two feet, during the Tuesday night crisis the north branch had risen 18 feet above normal and within five feet of the west London breakwater.

At Woodstock, 18-year-old Jack Nichols was rescued from the Thames River after he was caught in the swirling waters while standing in an old punt he had found near the shore.

In eastern Ontario clearing skies combined with a drop in temperature well below the freezing mark, slowed the spring run-off overnight. With a high of only 30 degrees—nine degrees below Wednesday's high—forecast for this region today, it was hoped the floods would continue to recede.

Main threat for even more serious flooding along the Nation River lay in the possibility that the ice in the stream might start to "go out," piling up ice jams that would force the turbulent river out of its normal course.

Highway 31 between Winchester and Morrisburg was reported under 18 inches of water and at Inkerman farmers built two-foot high platforms in their barns to keep their livestock above the water.

Jack Kirkwood, who farms two miles south of Inkerman, said the flooded land surrounding his home looked "just like an ocean."

"All I can see is water, with the odd farmhouse or barn rising up like a desert island."

Britain Buys 600,000 Tons Aussie Wheat

LONDON, April 6—(CP)—Britain has purchased 600,000 tons of Australian wheat and 100,000 tons of flour for delivery between August and the end of next January.

India also is negotiating for a new wheat contract with Australia to replace one expiring in June. It is reported India's purchases may amount to 1,000,000 tons.

Britain's deal with Australia was made by government bulk buyers and the price was not announced. This has led to criticism in London grain trade circles. The Star commented in its financial columns:

"Following the acrimonious dispute about the price of Australian wheat after devaluation last year, it is suggested by Broomhall (Grain Trade Publication) that the price this time will not be disclosed for political reasons.

"In the City which has dealt in wheat for hundreds of years in open markets it is appreciated that prices cannot be disclosed while deals are being negotiated, but when they are completed there sems no reason for secrecy.

"The city of London will never understand why it is 'not in the public interest' for the public to know how much of its money is paid for something.'

London shipping circles estimate 60 or 70 cargo-ship voyages will be required to transport the United Kingdom's grain order from Australia. The flour will be shipped mainly by liner.

Shipowners also are preparing for acceleration of the Canadian grain trade when the St. Lawrence reopens to navigation. Chartering of ships to load grain in St. Lawrence ports already is in full swing.

Coast Guard Expected For Canadian Waters

OTTAWA, April 6 (CP) — Plans for a coast guard-type service in Canadian waters have not yet been dealt with by the government informed sources insisted Wednesday night, despite Vancouver statements of Fisheries Minister Mayhew that a coast guard service might be in operation on the west coast this year.

Best information available here was that Mr. Mayhew was anticipating cabinet action on recommendations—not yet presented to the government—of an inter-departmental committee which for several months has been studying means of improving search and rescue facilities on Canada's coasts and inland waters.

Legislatures Across Canada Quit For Easter

By The Canadian Press

An exchange of compliments between Premier Maurice Duplessis and opposition leader George Marler preceded the prorogation of the Quebec Legislature Wednesday.

The head of the Union Nationale government noted that the opposition Liberal party is due to choose a permanent leader and redraft its program at a convention at Quebec starting May 19.

"It is not an easy job for an opposition leader to stand up to the present government," he said, "but among candidates for the Liberal leadership none is superior to the present opposition leader."

The Alberta Legislature also prorogued Wednesday, and the Ontario Legislature is exepected to prorogue this afternoon. The Nova Scotia House adjourned one week for Easter.

At St. John's, the gift of a golden mace was presented from Canada's most westerly province to Canada's newest and most easterly province. Herbert Anscombe, deputy premier and minister of finance of British Columbia, told the Newfoundland Legislature that the mace is a symbol of the will of the people and British Columbia was confident "you will cherish it as such, and play your part as a member of the confederate family, forming an important part of the Commonwealth of nations.

The Nova Scotia Legislature gave first reading to a government bill ending the fixing of retail gasoline prices by the Public Utilities Board. Premier Macdonald explained retention of the old bill might discourage oil companies from expanding their facilities in Nova Scotia. The board, however, retains authority to control the retail mark-up, the spread between wholesale and retail prices.

The Ontario Legislature heard lengthy debate before passing the new labor bill through committee stage. Estimates of the education department were approved in a night sitting and a start was made on reform institutions estimates.

The Manitoba Legislature debated various government bills and an opposition Independent Liberal member, Edmond Prefontaine, said that a proposed inquiry into provincial liquor laws would be a waste of money. Mr. Prefontaine originally introduced the motion for an examination of the laws but Attorney-General McClenaghan suggested that no "fundamental changes" be contemplated. The minister suggested that public hearings be held concerning only the administration and enforcement of the law.

Terrorists Kill Man

SINGAPORE, April 6.—(Reuters). — Terrorists Wednesday shot dead a 38-year-old Chinese radio salesman and auctioneer in the Central Malayan town of Raub. He had gone with his children to pray at his mother's grave on the Chinese festival of Cheng Beng (for the veneration of the dead). While he was at the graveside two men jumped from behind a hedge firing and killed him.

Good Farm Conditions

SASKATOON, April 6—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said Wednesday night he believes farm conditions in Western Canada for the next few years will remain good enough "to enable us to continue getting our farming finance into better shape." Speaking at a reception he called on all Canadians to put as much money into development of natural resources as they had into the Second World War.

GENEVA, April 6.—(AP). — Paul Ruegger, president of the International Red Cross committee, said Wednesday the world contains more refugees now than at any time in human history. He estimated the world's refugee total exceeds 60,000,000 persons.

EXPLODING OIL FOR A HEATER in the William Heenan duplex home, Campbellford, started a $5,000 fire which was not brought under control for an hour. The Heenan family were away but the McCrory family who had moved into the other half of the duplex only a week ago, were driven out. Here Winston, Denton, two-year-old Billy, and Gerald with their father W. J. McCrory survey their gutted new home. Oil Drum Explodes In Duplex Two Families Left Homeless

CAMPBELLFORD, April 6 (ENS)—Fire raged out of control for nearly an hour at a home on Rear Street in Campbellford, on Wednesday afternoon, when a drum containing fuel for an oil heater exploded in one half of a house occupied by the Wm. Heenan family. The Heenans were absent from the home at the time and the only occupants in the house were Mrs. W. J. McCrory and her daughter Loraine, aged 15. Mr. and Mrs. McCrory and their seven children, Denton age 10, Winston age 8, Glenn age 5, Gerald age 16, Billy age 2 years, Leslie age 8 months, and Loraine, aged 15, occupy the other half of the house, which is owned by J. A. Irwin of Campbellford. The McCrory family had moved into the home only last Wednesday.

Mrs. McCrory was ironing when she heard a loud explosion from the Heenan part of the house. Smoke immediately began to billow through the house. Loraine had just come home from school, and rushed upstairs to where two small children, Billy age 2, and Leslie age 8 months, were asleep in their cribs. The older girl snatched up the two sleeping children and rushed downstairs with them to safety. She was unable to go upstairs again to retrieve some of her belongings.

Two Lines Laid

Meanwhile, Archie Dewey, who was passing the house at the time, noticed smoke coming from the house and immediately spread the alarm. The Campbellford fire department arrived at the fire within three minutes after the alarm was turned in, and within five minutes, two lines of hose were brought into play.

A large crowd quickly gathered and firemen and neighbors began to remove as much furniture as they could, ahead of the hungry flames. Men and boys climbed the roof at the rear of the building, and broke windows to remove furniture. A little boy came out with tears in his eyes, carrying the limp body of a kitten, which had been suffocated in the dense smoke from the blazing oil. Later the bodies of two small black puppies were removed.

Mrs. Heenan, overcome with grief, sat in an automobile with her married daughter, while her husband and neighbors fought the fire. Mrs. Heenan feared the insurance on the contents of the home had expired, but a local insurance agent later assured her that her policy was still in force.

Blackened Furniture Saved

Much of the furniture, although saved from the fire, suffered breakage and smoke and water damage. Tons of water were poured on the stubborn fire, which when brought under control in one part of the house, would suddenly flare up afresh in another, dividing the attention of the firemen.

Mr. Heenan works at the local Co-Op mill. Mr. and Mrs. Heenan and their son Beverly, age 17, and a boarder, occupy one half of the house. Mr. McCrory is a blacksmith in town.

The loss to the house and contents is estimated at more than $5,000, but is covered by insurance.

The two families are staying with friends and relatives in town while arrangments are being made to find a new home.

The Heenan side of the house was the hardest hit by the flames, and was almost completely gutted. The other side of the house suffered more smoke and water damage. Flames ate through the roof and firemen had to chop a large hole at the rear of the house in order to bring a hose into action at the heart of the flames.

Indonesia Rebels Capture Capital Of East Section

By KENNETH LIKES

JAKARTA, Indonesia, April 5 (AP)—Rebellious Indonesian soldiers today captured Makassar, Celebes seaport and state capital of East Indonesia, in 45 minutes of shooting.

A cryptic communique from the federal government's information ministry said the insurgents had been ordered to return to their garrisons and the leader summoned to Jakarta to answer for the uprising. The communique did not specify how the orders were transmitted nor did it say that the revolt was settled.

The uprising, in which 10 persons were killed or wounded, was the third in three months involving Indonesian soldiers who fought in the Dutch army against the Indonesian nationalists' successful bid for independence.

Only a few hours before the Makassar outbreak, the federal government arrested Sultan Hamid II, one of the government ministers. He was accused of master-minding the West Java revolt at Bandoeng last January led by a former Dutch Army captain, R. P. P. (Turk) Westerling.

The 37-year-old Sultan, President of another outlying state, West Borneo, was accused of directing plots against the government while sitting in inner circles. Officials said he probably would be tried for treason.

Only last week a serious revolt of Indonesian soldiers still serving in the Dutch Army on the Island of Ambon was quelled after two days. Details of that uprising have not yet been published.

The leader of the Makassar rebellion was a 26-year-old native of the Celebes, Capt. Andi Abdul Aziz, who trained with Westerling as a parachute trooper. He said, however, his movement had nothing to do with Westerling. Westerling's early Netherlands Army training was in 1940 at Stratford, Ont.

EYE TOPICS

FISH EYES ARE VERSATILE

Man rightly prides himself on his powers of vision, especially his ability to detect thousands of different shades and tones of color. But one thing that man cannot do, that a fish can do with vision, is to change the color of his skin.

As the ruler of the animal kingdom, man, of course, doesn't need a protective camouflage that such a feat could accomplish. But fish use their unique ability in this respect to guard themselves from their own marine enemies and their human enemies.

The common flounder can change its color from a light sandy grey to a dark brown that almost approaches black, depending upon the background upon which it finds itself.

It makes its skin simulate the different colored pebbles and stones.

But perhaps the master artist among the fishes is the tiny little fish that lives in the brown seaweed, often washed up along the beach. This little marine "quick-change" artist can be caught by scientists only when they shake the seaweed over a pail.

The secret of such remarkable color changes in fish is that the fish have control of the color pigments which are closely associated with their sweat glands. Fish excrete fluids which lubricate their bodies so that they may glide through the water easily.

One of the yet unsolved mysteries of vision is why and how the eye of a fish can translate the colors it can see into colors of its skin.

In all the world of vision there are no eyes so marvellous as human eyes. Working at top efficiency, they bring us over eighty per cent of our knowledge, they give life its zest . . . they bring success in work, and healthful, relaxing hours of leisure.

Pessimism Vs. The Facts

It is surprising how much talk of approaching financial depression may be heard these days in Peterborough, and how much gloomy relish is shown by those who think that a depression is inevitable. Yet facts which reach us from the Bureau of Statistics do not suggest that a depression is on its way; indeed they give every sign to the contrary. Let us consider a few of these facts.

* * *

Canada's net national income for 1949 was $12,900,000,000, and of this $7,700,000,000 was paid in wages and salaries. This is 196 per cent. of what wage earners made in the year 1939, and it was an 8 per cent. increase over the national wage bill for 1948. Last year was the biggest year for Canadian retail business in the country's history, total sales amounted to $7,695,340,000, which was a 6 per cent. increase over retail business in 1948. Of this retail sum $1,288,729,660 was spent in food stores—33 per cent of it in chain stores. In 1949 Canadians bought more life insurance than ever before, the year's sales amounting to $1,262,000,000.

* * *

What are the prospects for this year? The Bureau of Statistics estimates that more money will be invested in Canada this year than ever before; a total investment of $3,587,000,000 is expected. Investment, taken with export, provides the best available index of a country's prosperity; exports this year are not expected to be as great as in 1949, but they will still be approximately twice as large as they were ten years ago.

* * *

These facts do not suggest the coming of a depression. Why, then, is there a certain amount of depression talk? We think that some of it, at least, is caused by the change, now almost complete, from the wartime seller's market to the more normal buyer's market. In other words, people are not so eager now to buy anything and everything as they were during the war, and it takes more work to sell merchandise to them. It may be that some merchants have forgotten the art of pleasing a pernickety public. But the public today expects to be pleased, and a take-it-or-leave-it attitude does not please them. They want full value for all the money they spend, and they are prepared to shop around to find what they want. Money is not less plentiful than it was in 1948 and '49, but it is shyer. It wants to be coaxed. Merchants who have forgotten how to coax should not therefore assume that a depression is at hand. The nation's business is in excellent condition. Individual businesses which are not thriving would be wise to examine their own methods of doing business, instead of predicting disaster.

Bad Psychology

A few American officials have let it be known, unofficially, that they do not think that the Hon. John Strachey is a proper person to be Britain's Secretary for War. Their objection to Mr. Strachey is that he once held strongly leftist—virtually Communist—opinions, which he was so indiscreet as to publish in a book, and he has not since retracted those opinions. Such a man, they feel, is not a safe man to know Anglo-American war secrets, particularly those relating to the atom and the hydrogen bomb.

We have some sympathy with this American view. Mr. Strachey's opinions, though expressed many years ago, do not recommend him as the safest man in Britain to be entrusted with secrets. Nor, it must be said, did Mr. Strachey's unfortunate experience in the peanut business mark him as a man of uncommon foresight or common sense. The U.S. Government, understandably, does not want its secrets known by a man who appears to be wobbly in his democratic enthusiasm, and a careless and gullible administrator.

The Americans have, however, shown a sad lack of understanding of the British character by trying to oust Mr. Strachey in a direct and heavy-handed way. The British are a stubborn, not to say pig-headed, people, and they fiercely resent any interference in the government by outside powers. Tha old friend of the news dispatches "a Whitehall figure" is quoted as saying that "it is not in the British character to abandon a man when he is under attack". In other words, Strachey stays.

The U.S.A. and Russia are now the great powers of the world, and it is not Russia alone who is throwing her weight about. The Labour Government, like every government everywhere, has its share of lame ducks and queer fish, of whom Mr. Strachey appears to be one. But rather than accept dictation from another power the British Labour Government will cling to Strachey and confirm him in office—let the cost be what it may. Those of us who are neither Britons nor Americans, and who wish both countries well, will regret that this dispute could not have arisen over the merits of a more impressive man. Even if Mr. Strachey's youthful red has faded to a dull socialist pink, the reek of peanut oil still clings to him.

Bingo And Lotteries

The C.B.C. has banned radio bingo games, whether they be conducted to raise money for charity or no. The ban is, of course, somewhat redundant in Ontario, where bingo is outlawed, whether it is played at an exhibition ground or a church hall. As a matter of fact, the laws of Canada generally are rather strict about all sorts of gambling. For instance, lotteries of all sorts are strictly illegal under the Criminal Code of Canada.

Mr. Duplessis, Premier of Quebec, and an able lawyer, is familiar with the Criminal Code. Yet his Government has recently introduced a bill in the Quebec legislature to set up a provincial lottery on a rather large scale. If this bill becomes law, and there is reason to believe that it will be in full operation shortly, Mr. Garson, the Federal Minister of Justice, will be in a pretty spot. As Minister of Justice he is required to see that the laws of Canada are upheld. Whom will he prosecute in Quebec if Quebec is to have an official Provincial lottery (such as the National Lotteries in France)? Mr. Duplessis will not allow Mr. Garson small fish to hook. The managing committee for the Provincial Lottery will be composed of eminent people—three provincial cabinet ministers, the president of the St. Vincent de Paul society (which is Quebec's chief Roman Catholic charitable organization), the heads of the two provincial school systems, and others. Obviously, if Premier Duplessis sets up the Quebec Lottery, he is doing it firmly. If the Federal Department of Justice were to launch criminal proceedings, a constitutional crisis would result.

Mr. Duplessis is an old hand at designing Quebec laws and regulations which contravene the customs, rights and laws of the Dominion. The padlock law is the most notorious example.

Children And Drivers On Our Streets

Today ten days' school holidays begin. There will be many children roaming the streets and on the roads. The Minister of Highways, urging special driving care this Easter week-end and during the next holiday week, calls to drivers' minds their own careless freedom from schoolday routine at Easter. "Today's children, feeling the same, have to face the dangers of greatly increased motor traffic. And all of us use our cars more and more as winter relaxes its grip".

Peterborough city and district drivers need not feel that Mr. Doucett's warning applies only to other places, like crowded Toronto. The warning should be heeded here. Last year accidents in the city increased by twenty per cent. and in Peterborough county by fifteen per cent. over the number in 1948. Peterborough drivers are not the safest in the world.

A word to parents: most motor accidents in which children are hurt are not the fault of the car drivers. The children should be warned to take special care.

NOTE AND COMMENT

For most of us the cost of living is always the same—just the size of our income.

A London, Ont., housing scheme has been given the green light. Now for the green lumber.

The Fon of Bikom says that of his 110 wives, 44 were "inherited". That must have meant a difficult period of readjustment when he was learning not to call them "Ma".

News Of Spring

By LORD DUNSARY

STEALING over the downs, along hedgerows and into the woods, spring came a while ago. I had the news, told rather diffidently, from a thrush. And even indoors a tortoiseshell butterfly seemed to have heard something about it. Of course, one must bear in mind the old joke that Nature sometimes plays, which is to make a March like summer and then, in late April, or even early May, to call up a mood of mid-winter, and all the early blossoms perish in their rejoicing. For the humour of all eternal powers is irony, and they seem to laugh at different jokes from those that amuse us.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT the anemones with their pink-and-white faces have come now to the hazel-woods, peering from among their ferny leaves, like a fairy people returning from exile because a giant is gone, for winter has left our woods, so far as one can be sure of the seasons in these islands, whose weather is so uncertain that it provides a topic of conversation, which would be unthinkable in countries farther south, where, if one man spoke of the weather once, there could be no more to be said of it.

✧ ✧ ✧

AND now that the anemones have marched into the woods, spring will be announced by what may well be called the First Symphony, something that even Beethoven has scarcely surpassed, the dawn-chorus of blackbirds. One blackbird who sees the dawn will call from a high tree, and for a moment there will be a silence, framing that wild cry, and then the rest of the blackbirds will break into song.

✧ ✧ ✧

THAT symphony in these days is not quite what it was, for we are changing our ways so drastically that our changes affect the woods: there are fewer landlords, so that fewer gamekeepers are employed, so that there are more magpies; and as the magpie lives on the eggs of the small birds there are fewer blackbirds. The balance of nature is something far too intricate for us to be able to follow as far as its ultimate result, if anything is indeed ultimate, the effect of what we do; and many an Irish tenant has shot his landlord without ever dreaming that he harmed a song with which dawn should have filled the thorn-trees.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT it is not only to the woods and the hills that spring has come, for she penetrates far into our cities, and may be seen from the electric train as it approaches London, bringing out the lilac leaves to flash in a thousand gardens, and then the lilac itself, which, perhaps because I am a native of London, or perhaps because it is universally true, always seems to me to be one of the loveliest flowers in the world. It comes with its great abundance when we have so much need of flowers, not having seen many since the chrysanthemums died, and it comes with its lovely scent and often framed in gold, for in gardens where it dwells one may frequently see the cascades of the laburnum hanging all about it.

✧ ✧ ✧

A LITTLE later there will come to those gardens that flower with which perhaps no flower can compete, that wanderer from the Himalayas, the gorgeous rhododendron. And, linking the days of the lilac to those of the rhododendron, will shine the may, beautiful in the hedgerows, and even more beautiful where it wanders at will on hills too steep for the plough, flashing from little bushes and scenting the air. The grim machine, our ally that pursues progress with us, not knowing where it is going, blind as ourselves, can climb higher than did the horse, and every year there are fewer of such hills.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE is an old proverb about the may that says:

Ne'er cast a clout
Till may is out.

And sometimes it is thought that this means the month of May. But it is not so, because all proverbs are wise, and, indeed, it would be hard to find anything among which more wisdom was stored than the proverbs of all nations; they are certainly too wise to hand down advice about anything so uncertain as the end of any month, for all the months can vary by at least as much as six weeks. No, the old proverb deals with an ancient thing like itself, that was here before months were named, the flower of the may. When that is out the cold winds are gone; and we may venture abroad with little protection when it ventures without any.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHEN may is brown spring is over, and the nightingale sings no more. And over these two lost splendours, gone from the day and the night, summer comes into her own.

Defining The 'Isms'

Arthur Krock, in the New York Times, quotes the following political definitions originating from the Colorado Department of Agriculture:

Idealism—If you have two cows, you milk them both, use all the milk you need and have enough left for everyone else.

Socialism—If you have two cows, you keep one and give the other to your neighbour.

Communism—If you have two cows, you give both to the government; then the government gives you back some milk.

Imperialism—If you have two cows, you steal somebody's bull.

Soft-pink communism—If you have two cows, you are a capitalist.

Capitalism—If you have two cows, you sell one cow and buy a bull.

New dealism—If you have two cows, the government shoots one cow; you milk the other cow, then throw part of the milk down the sink.

Anarchism—If you have two cows, your neighbour shoots one and takes the other.

Nazism—If you have two cows, the government shoots you and takes the cows.

Realism—If you have two cows, they're both dry.

COMPROMISE AT LAST

Letters To The Editor

NOTE FROM THE MOON

Sir: For some time now I have been watching the accounts of 'Flying Saucers' that have appeared in your paper and in others in all parts of the world. Although some of the reports have been fairly accurate, there have been others that were far from the actual facts, even to the point of being downright sickening. I feel that the time has come to explain what these so-called 'Flying Saucers' are and where they are coming from.

If you will recall, they were first reported shortly after your Second World War, and after a brief flurry, disappeared, only to reappear in recent weeks. There is a reason for this absence which I will explain later in my letter.

First, however, I must correct the people who have written to you telling of their experiences with 'Flying Saucers'. The first one by J.G. is fairly accurate but I have no record of any of our pilots being in the zone mentioned at that time. I must also point out that, as yet, none of them have landed on Earth. I think J.G. must have had too much—er—vodka, is it?—that evening. Another correspondent, a Mr. Tully, I can treat only with the contempt he deserves. Folkestone, indeed!

Now, to explain the 'Flying Saucers'. They were first developed millions of years ago on the Earth on a continent you refer to as Atlantis. When volcanic upheavals, caused by the rapid cooling of the Sun, destroyed our continent and disturbed the entire Earth, the survivors were forced to seek a new dwelling place. The nearest, and therefore the most natural, destination was the Moon. For several Earth years we lived in our 'Saucers' sustained by synthetic foods and manufactured oxygen. Then discontent and homesickness began to show itself and the entire colony was moved to the side of the Moon farthest from the Earth. We determined at that time that never again would we look at our old home.

For the information of Earth scientists there is, on the far side of the Moon, a deep valley where the air still remains and the weather and vegetation are much the same as on Earth. Our colony moved into this valley and we have lived there ever since.

In recent years the colony has become overcrowded and the suggestion of returning to Earth has been considered and investigations have been made. We have found that the survivors who were forced to remain on Earth have degenerated since our time. The period of chaos evidently left them mere savages and the whole process of evolution has been repeated until your own race has been evolved.

When our scouts reported the condition of present day Earthmen to us four years ago, we halted our investigations to consider the situation. That explains the absence, for a year or two, of the 'Flying Saucers'. Recently we decided to check once more but so far we have been unable to find a suitable location for our colony.

Because of our social standards we can only settle in a place where the society is similar. We cannot settle in a land where war, poverty and class and racial prejudice are a part of every day life. When war is banished and eternal peace reigns and all men are truly equal, then and then only can we return to our ancestral home.

Ever since our exodus from the Earth, legends have persisted that some of our comrades overshot the Moon and landed on Mars. We will check with them in hopes that they, at least, have a society worthy of our presence.

Sincerely,
EMPEROR AARDVARK XXXVII OF LUNA & ATLANTIA.

TOO TIRED FOR SIN

Sir: To anyone who thinks the country more sinful than the city, I would say that the farmer is too tired to sin. Day after day of unending toil, makes him long for nothing more in the evening than a few minutes of relaxation, with his favourite newspaper (the Examiner) and a sound night's sleep. The income tax is an interference he loathes with all his soul. Of course the younger fry frisk about with hockey sticks or baseball bats, or dance, or got to a movie, some I hear have community affairs, but not for me. Farmers should hang on to their individualness, it is an endownment. For his God doth instruct him to discretion, and doth teach him.—Isaiah 28: 26.

But while one should not be depended on his neighbour, he should not be so independed, he will not lend or help, or refuse help should he himself require it.

Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ....

Let no man beguile you of your reward in a voluntary humility and worshipping of angels, intruding into those things which he hath not seen, vainly puffed up by his fleshy mind, and not holding the Head, from which all the body by joints and bands having nourishment ministered, and knit together, increaseth with the increase of God.

Wherefore if ye be dead with Christ from the rudiments of the world, why, as though living in the world, are ye subject to ordinances, (Touch not; taste not; handle not; which all are to perish with the using;) after the commandments and doctrines of men? (Col. 2: 8, 18-22.)

✧ ✧ ✧

If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ, sitteth on the right hand of God. (Col. 3: 1.)

Ontario Government Holidays Labor Bill Ok'd

TORONTO, April 6 (CP)—The Ontario Legislature expects to prorogue this afternoon, a heavy program of legislation being all but completed.

Besides opening sittings at 11 a.m., the legislature has held lengthy night sittings the last two nights. Wednesday the government's new labor bill was given approval in committee stage, education department estimates were approved and a start was made on the reform institution estimates.

The legislature again assembles at 11 a.m. today and prorogation is expected at 3 p.m.

Almost five hours of debate were required before the labor bill got passage through committee Wednesday. Only minor amendments were made. One amendment by Labor Minister Daley will include municipal employees under the bill unless a municipality passes a by-law to exclude them. Previously municipal employees were excluded unless a municipality passed by a by-law to put them in.

Another amendment, also by the labor minister, deletes the section that would have given the Labor Relations Board power to deny its services to a parent labor federation, or employers' organization, when one of their subsidiary units engaged in an illegal strike or lockout.

The new act provides that the Labor Relations Board must order a vote of employees where a union applying for certification has between 45 and 55 per cent of employees signed as members. On the vote for certification, the union must obtain a majority of votes of eligible employees in the plant at the time of ballotting. Formerly, employees who did not vote were considered to have voted against the union.

Check-Off System

Much debate arose over the opposition charge that the bill failed to include some provision for the check-off system of union dues payment. C. C. Calder (L—London) moved an amendment that the act require employers to grant at least a voluntary, revocable check-off, but it was defeated.

Mr. Daley said he felt employers should agree to some form of union security, but this was a matter for collective bargaining, not legislation.

He felt employers should agree to a request by an employee for the check-off but it was not a subject for legislation.

Premier Frost said he could see no reason for management to hesitate in granting the request.

Depressed Industry

Speaking of Northern Ontario gold mining companies who decline to grant the check-off, Mr. Frost said "some of the attitudes in the mining industry are not excusable but we must realize we are dealing with a depressed industry."

Eamon Park (CCF—Toronto Dovercourt) moved an amendment, which was approved, reducing penalties for violation of the act from $500 to $100 for individuals, and from $5,000 to $1,000 for corporations, trade unions or employer organizations.

Mr. Park said also the present procedure of voting for bargaining agents had worked to the benefit of a "Communist" union at the International Nickel Company refinery at Port Colborne, Ont.

The reference to "Communist" unions brought objection from J. B. Salsberg (Lab.-Pro.—Toronto St. Andrew). He said "there are no Communist unions." There was only "one large trade union movement to which everybody ought to belong."

Clearing Reds

C.C.F. Leader E. B. Jolliffe said that Ontario unions are "housecleaning Communists" out of their organizations and added "I will do everything in my power to assist them." But he felt the labor act's certification procedure was defeating this purpose.

Mr. Jolliffe said the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers was the bargining agent at the Nickel plant in Port Colborne. The United Steel Workers (CIO) had taken part in a vote in an attempt to replace the Mine-Mill Union as bargaining agent. The Steelworkers had won a majority of the votes cast but lost because non-voters were considered to be supporting Mine-Mill Union.

Warehouse Burned

OTTAWA, April 6 — (CP). — A two-alarm fire of unknown origin Wednesday night destroyed the Breeze Hill Avenue warehouse of Sparks Warehousing Ltd., and with it a large quantity of furniture. Damage is expected to exceed $100,000. The belongings of US Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt and several others killed in a plane crash last week were stored in the building. It is not yet known whether these were damaged.

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

After hitting my nose with a hoe handle when stepping inside the garage door yesterday, I have finally decided to put my tools in order—not before it was needed either! After filing several plans carefully in the wastebasket I came up with one that is quite serviceable. Maybe there are others who could use the same arrangement, so it is illustrated. While I'm at it, all tool handles are going to receive a fresh coat of bright red paint to cut down on the time wasted in looking for "lost" equipment.

Gardening Fever

I find this the hardest season to restrain one's impulse to get out in the garden. Just up the street today, I noticed a chap who was trying to beat the gun by planting a few seeds. Whatever they are, the plants will likely be frozen off but that man will go to sleep with a strong feeling of accomplishment! Give expression to your gardening urge by making seed flats, seed flat shades, plant dibbers and the like. Your labour will not be in vain and you will be all set to act quickly when the proper time comes.

One of the smartest ideas I have seen in a long time was picked up while visiting down London way last week. The house where I stayed was being furnished by two newlyweds. They chose an attractive bedroom suite but felt they couldn't afford the price of a vanity seat. An old cheese box was picked up on the market for considerably less than a dollar; the lid was padded and covered with attractive chintz that draped to the floor. I'll wager the seat they would like to have had was no more attractive than the one they made. The cheese box also served as a catch-all for out-of-season footwear.

Knick-Knack Shelves

To be displayed properly, small ornaments require a shelf. Nothing is more attractive or useful for this purpose than a wall bracket or corner shelf. I met a chap the other day who was turning out several types of knick knack holders on his basement workbench. Three of the types he found most attractive are illustrated.

Legionnaires Beat Beaches To Open Senior Semi-Finals

Provincial finals loomed closer for Legion last night here after they trimmed Toronto Balmy Beaches 10-3 to open their best-of-three OHA senior "B" semi-finals. A good-sized crowd saw the Ellis crew roar in the third period after two fairly close heats to roll up the count in a fast and clean fixture. The score was 2-1 for Legion in the first and 4-2 for them going into the third. It was a close-checking game for more than half the distance with some indifferent hockey seen at times. But when Legion finally started to click, they outplayed the Beaches by a good margin. The losers drew three of the four penalties, and their sins cost them three goals. The ice was flooded between frames again and resulted in a fast pace being maintained.

Led the Way

Joe Rochetta was the main cog in the winners' attack, being in on five goals in a nifty effort. Sixty Coombs, Bert Hill and Keith Montgomery were also effective on the attack, each figuring in on three markers, while Toodie Greenlaw, Dootch Vitarelli and Bill Crowley were in on a pair apiece. Single marks were picked up by Freddy and Doug Mortimer. Defensively, Al Burns played a standout game, and the rest worked hard throughout. Bill Moore had a busy night in the losers' cage, while Bill McArthur notched two of their goals and went best for them. Norm Morley got the other, as an assist each went to Al Morley, Bob Dickson and Baz MacMurray.

Greenlaw and Parnell came close early in the first frame, but Coombs got the initial counter on a blue-line shot after a forward pass from Hill. Burns went off for interference and Legion promptly made it 2-0 when Rochetta's hot shot in close with Crowley's neat pass paid off. McNulty got in a good try later and then McArthur tallied for Beaches when he checked at the Legion blue line and worked in fast alone to pick a corner. Hill's shot was stopped at the goal-mouth and, though the light went on, it didn't count.

Tied The core

Hill and Stewart nearly hit it to open the second. Norm Morley then tied the score on a rebound in a scramble, with Dickson and Al Morley aiding. Vitarelli got that one right back smartly with Rochetta and Crowley inside. Legion pressed and Rochetta was robbed again. Late in the stanza, Montgomery took Rochetta's pass and whistled an angle drive that went in and out fast, but it counted. That made it 4-2 and Legion continued to pour it on in fast play, with a few stiff checks seen just before the period finished.

Hill scored in 10 seconds of the third as he sashayed up speedily with Coombs' pass to hit the target. McArthur got the last Toronto tally from McMurray on a corner passout on Nicholls' doorstep. Frizelle went over for tripping and Rochetta tipped in Doug Mortimer's shot on Montgomery's pass. Frizelle was just returning when Greenlaw rapped home Freddy Mortimer's pass in close. McMurray got it next for holding and Coombs' shot on Hill's passout made the score 8-3. Later, Vitarelli added one on a corner passout from Rochetta at close range. Greenlaw finished it up on nice combination with Montgomery as Legion kept fighting in there for shots. McArthur got the finger for tripping just before the final gong. Line-up:

Beaches — Goal, Moore; defence, Williams and Frizelle; centre, McArthur; wings, McMurray and Dennis; alternates, McNulty, Bayley, McCullagh. Dies, N. Morley, A. Morley and Dickson.

Porcupines Beat Guelph 3-2, Prolong Series

TORONTO, April 6 — (CP) — A lot of fight sometimes goes a long way.

Wednesday night the battling Porcupine Combines, outclassed in everything but determination, upset Guelph Biltmores 3-2 in the third game of the Eastern Canada junior hockey semi-finals.

Defeated 7-5 and 2-0 in the earlier games, the Northern Ontario champions jolted Guelph with a three-goal outburst in the first period and then hung on while the awakened southerners stormed desperately but unsuccessfully for the next 40 minutes.

Bill Harrington, a 17-year-old Toronto product, stole the show as he gave a sparking display in the Porcupine net blocking a shower of rubber in the second and third periods.

A crowd of 3,356 paying fans saw Porcupine surprise the southern champions with a grim exhibition of fore-checking and close-checking that throttled Biltmores' scoring punch. In the final 72 seconds Guelph coach Alf Pike pulled his netminder and put six forwards on the ice but still failed to get the equalizer.

Art Stanlake, Nedo Bragagnola and John Mestan fired goals for Porcupine in the first period. Guelph rallied in the second with Andy Bathgate and Ron Plumb counting. The third period was scoreless.

The Combines got their second goal while actually two men short. Darrel McLaughlin was in the penalty box for tripping. Stanlake was just returning from a holding penalty but hadn't got into the play when Mestan hooked the puck near the left boards in the Biltmore zone.

Mestan went around one Guelph player, circled in front of the net, drew out goalie Dennis Mooney and flipped the puck into the Biltmore goal.

Fourth game of the best-of-seven series will be played in Guelph Friday night with the fifth in Toronto Saturday afternoon. The series winner meets Montreal Canadiens in the Eastern junior final.

Coach Jerry Beland complained after the game about the fourth game going to Guelph but said he would make no formal protest. He said the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association had arranged for the first four games to be split between Toronto and Ottawa.

Jiro Satoh, star of the Japanese Davis Cup tennis team en route to Europe to play in international competition there, committed suicide, by leaping from the liner Hakone Maru near Singapore, 15 years ago today. It was believed ill-health prompted the 26-year-old player's suicide.

PACES ATTACK — Joe Rochetta paced the Legion attack, being in on five goals in a starry showing, as the locals took a 10-3 win over Balmy Beach here last night to open OHA senior "B" semi-finals.

TONIGHT AT THE BROCK —Bobby Nelson of California, above, who meets Bill Stack in the opening bout at the Brock tonight. The main event is one of those explosive, four-man tag team matches featuring Pat Flanagan and Toar Morgan against Hi Lee and Al Korman. The semi-final brings together Roy McClarity and husky Vern Baxter. It is one of the best lineups of the season and rates a capacity crowd.

NHL SPILLS—Goalie Harry Lumley of Detroit Red Wings had just kicked out a hot one as this photo was taken during the fourth game of the Stanley Cup semi-finals. Five of the six players in the photo are watching the puck which is circled. Only player on both feet is Blonde Leo Reise, Detroit defenceman who eventually scored the winning goal. Lined up in front of Reise are Toronto's Cal Gardner, about to topple, Detroit's Jack Stewart, Howie Meeker of Maple Leafs and Ted Lindsay of Red Wings. The Detroit victory squared the best-of-seven series at two games apiece.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

All will be quite quiet here this week-end in basketball circles. The Girls' League playoffs are postponed because of Good Friday, and it'll be Black's vs. CGE at 8.15 on April 14 in the final game of their intermediate sawoffs. Each won one. The Normals and Nurses Jrs. won't resume their junior finals for a week or more, the young Nurses having taken the first playoff. The LOBA intermediate "B" finals between Stratford and Towne Togs will be settled on April 15 here, Stratford having a hefty lead. Nor is there likely to be any action by the male cagers at the "Y" this week-end, their playoffs probably resuming next week.

* * * * * *

The four Toronto clubs in the seven-team Viaduct Baseball League are: Staffords, Ace Bowling Centre (Uniques), Dover Sports (Lizzie Grads) and Stephenson Bruins. Then there's New Toronto, Oshawa and the Petes. Eddie Murphy manages the latter, Oshawa hasn't named a skipper yet, Don Rogerson heads the New Toronto entry, Moe Charney will pilot the Ace Bowlers, George Hosking has Stratfords, Mel Allen manages Dover Sports, while Bill Stephenson leads the Bruins into battle. It may be recalled that Ed Murphy played ball in Toronto before coming to Peterborough to play under Knotty Lee quite a few years ago.

Lakefield Plays Here

Georgetown Raiders play Lakefield Indians at 8.30 tonight here in Civic Arena, second of their best-of-five OHA intermediate "B" semi-finals. The Raiders are up one game now and are a powerful pack. However the Indians will be fighting hard this eve to even up the series and on familiar ice might well pull it out. Third game will be at Georgetown on Saturday, and the series winner goes in against the Sundridge-Milverton victor in provincial finals in about another week. Tonight's til there should be a dandy and will likely draw another large crowd from the city and district.

* * * * * *

Second game of the OHA senior "B" semi-finals will be tomorrow night at 8.30 in Civic Arena. A best-of-three series between Balmy Beaches of Toronto and the local Legionnaires. Winner meets the survivor of the Brantford-Sarnia series in Ontario finals. Hectic action is assured when the husky Beaches tee off in this second number, and it should draw another hefty crowd. Time is running out rapidly for hockey fans to view their favorite sport here—as it is elsewhere—as spring keeps crowding onto the scene. And these are highly important playoffs, well worth witnessing, as the rivals fight their way toward the finals.

* * * * * *

Rolled In Third Heat

With Beaches checking real closely, the Legionnaires last night couldn't seem to get untracked until the last period. But then they really rolled to run up the count. Played their old boring-in style the last part of the game to earn the decision, even though the Balmies kept fighting back. Joe Rochetta was in fine form to lead the attack with Coombs, Montgomery, Hill, Greenlaw, Crowley and Vitarelli all prominent up front, too. And Al Burns probably the pick of the defencemen with some heady blocking. A clean contest and generally speedy. They'll start the one tomorrow at 8.30 as it's a holiday and Beaches have lots of time to get here. Coach Jim Ellis is figuring on trying out a line of Bob Parnell, Chum Fryia and Ben Mason—who led the juniors in scoring this season—on Friday.

* * * * * *

Tom McArthur has been honored by being made a life member of the Ontario Curling Association, his certificate coming through the other day. The past president of the Peterborough Curling Club and popular and competent curler is given this recognition for his curling work in Midland and here as well as for his strong efforts which aided in obtaining artificial ice for the sport in this city. There aren't too many living life members—if we may put it that way—of the provincial association, and Mr. McArthur is receiving a lot of congratulations on his appointment. We'd like to add our share at this time.

Hockey Association Gives Scholarships

OTTAWA, April 6 (CP)—Two major scholarships in fine arts, valued at $2,000 each, will be provided again this year by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, it was announced Wednesday.

The announcement was made by Walter B. Herbert, director of the Canada Foundation, which will conduct a competition on behalf of the CAHA.

The competition is not exclusive to hockey players. A special committee will receive applications from Canadians between the ages of 20 and 30, who have gone as far as possible with studies in Canada and who would like a chance to continue their studies in England and Europe. Full details of the scheme will be announced within a week.

Leafs, Detroit Start Even Again

DETROIT, April 6 — (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs, seeking to make hockey history by winning the Stanley Cup four times in succession, still have a long way to go.

That overtime goal by Detroit's Leo Reise, which gave the National Hockey League champion Red Wings a 2-1 victory at Toronto Tuesday, made a vast difference in the drive by the cupholders. Leafs and Wings have each won two games and tonight's fifth game is a toss-up. Odds here on the single game were 6-5, take your choice. But on the Stanley Cup title, the odds were 6-5 in favor of the Leafs.

Tonight' game actually starts a new series with the sixth game at Toronto Saturday and the seventh, if necessary, back here on Sunday night. A proposal by Detroit that the seventh game be delayed to next Tuesday night has been rejected by Toronto, with the league headquarters concurring.

Three Replacements

Coach Hap Day, of Toronto, is expected to stay with the line-up that has battled Detroit to a draw so far. But the Detroit coach, Tommy Ivan, called up three replacements from Omaha, eliminated Tuesday in the United States Hockey League play-offs. They are John and Larry Wilson, brothers, and Marcel Pronovost. John Wilson is a left-winger, Larry a centre, and Pronovost a rugged defenceman.

Jimmy Peters, who missed the Tuesday game because of a knee injury, may start tonight for Detroit. Local fans will also get their first look at the new line of Sid Abel at centre, Ted Lindsay at right wing and defenceman Red Kelly on left wing.

The Abel-Lindsay-Howe line, which led all scoring in league play, was broken when Howe was injured in the first game last week. For two games after that Detroit used Jerry Couture at right wing in place of Howe for the confidence they showed in Tuesday they put Kelly at left wing and switched Lindsay from his regular left-wing spot to the right boards.

The Leafs were to arrive this afternoon from St. Catherines.

McNeil Raises Canadiens Hopes

MONTREAL, April 6—(CP)—Rookie goal-tender Gerry McNeil has revived Montreal Canadiens' dwindling hopes in their Stanley Cup semi-final playoffs with New York Rangers.

Gerry took over the net-minding duties on short notice from Big Bill Durnan who couldn't go on because of after-effects of an injury suffered late in the regular National Hockey League season.

The rookie goalie from the Habitants' farm club, Cincinnati Mohawks of the American Hockey League, stepped into his first playoff game Tuesday when Canadiens chalked up their only victory in four starts against New York—a 3-2 overtime decision.

Now the team, forced against the wall with a 3-1 deficit in the semi-finals, are pinning their hopes largely on McNeil.

Coach Dick Irvin, pleased with the club's comeback, isn't counting too much on any crack-up in Rangers' camp because of the loss.

"Of course, it could act that way," he said, "but I can't string along with that theory. The Rangers are a fighting team and remember, the pressure is still on us."

"Rangers can afford to lose another game. We can't."

Besides McNeil, Canadiens will have four rookies for tonight's game. Tom Johnson, defenceman from Buffalo Bisons, another AHL farm club for the Habitants, is the last one to get the call.

Paul Meger, a Buffalo winger, Bobby Frampton and Bert Hirschfeld, forwards recalled from Cincinnati for the series, will complete the rookie line-up.

Calum MacKay may have to be sidelined with an aggravated leg injury. Kenny Reardon with a dislocated shoulder and Rip Riopelle with a leg injury are other teammates that had to be excluded for the series.

Meanwhile, coach Lynn Patrick of the Rangers said he would most likely dress the same 18 players he used Tuesday.

Marlboros Take Easy Win Expect End Series Friday

OTTAWA, April 6 (CP) — Toronto Marlboros now are considered almost sure bets to eliminate Cornwall Calumets in the Eastern Canada senior semi-finals when they clash in Toronto on Friday night in the fourth game of their best-of-seven series.

The Ontario Hockey Association titlists built up a four-goal lead in the opening period Wednesday night, then coasted to a comfortable 8-4 win in the third game of the series, after taking the first two 7-1 and 12-2.

The Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League champions showed more power and drive than in previous meetings, but met a stone wall in goalie Don Lockhart. The stocky custodian turned back drive after drive and robbed Calumet forwards of several sure goals.

Marlboro's Bill (Red) Johnson garnered three points in the game banging in two goals and helping on one other. Chuck Blair also potted two counters. George Armstrong, Scotty Mair, Danny Lewicki and Al Buchanan scored the others.

Freddie Gardner was best for the Calumets driving home two goals. Bert Lilly and Pete Long were the other snipers for the losers. Rheal Savard collected assists on both Gardner's tallies.

The Dukes hammered in four goals in the opening stanza without a reply from the Calumets. They outscored the Cornwall crew 2-1 in the middle frame but the Calumets came back to outscore the Marlies 3-2 in the final.

The survivor of this series will advance into the Eastern Canada final with either Sherbrooke Saints or Sydney Millionaires for the right to go against the western champions for the Allan cup.

Johnny Chad Loop Gentleman

NEW YORK, April 6 (CP). — The American Hockey League announced today that veteran Johnny Chad of Providence Reds has been selected unanimously by the league's staff of referees for the "most gentlemanly player" award. His combined effective playing ability, clean sportsmanship, and gentlemanly conduct over the 1949-1950 season earned for Chad a first place vote by each of the six referees. They balloted for three players each, with five points for first, three for second, and one for a third selection. Pat Lundy of Indianapolis was the runner-up with nine points. Jackie Gordon of New Haven was third with eight.

BC Swim Champ Will Choose Medical Career

By ARCHIE MacKENZIE

VICTORIA, B.C., April 6 (CP).—Aptly-named Pete Salmon is heading back to the University of Washington, well aware that both a medical and swimming career is nearing the impossible stage.

"If it interferes with medicine, swimming is out," the big, voluble champion said matter-of-factly as he reviewed his swimming progress, which includes seven Senior Dominion records plus three Junior marks still untouched.

"I figure I have perhaps two more years — not more — before my studies get tough. That still means a chance at swimming, but after that, swimming will go."

The 20-year-old Salmon is no long-distance man but his free-style and back-stroke times in shorter events now are almost as good as when using the breast-stroke, long his forte. He hold the record for the Senior 40, 100 and 200-yard breast; the 120 and 150-yard medley; the 100-yard free-style and the 100-yard back-stroke.

This free-style won the 110-yard event at New Zealand in February's British Empire Games competition.

At this age, there's no telling what he may do in the next year or two — or in the next several if he should decide to concentrate on swimming.

Asthma Coughs Fought Easy Way

If you suffer from difficult breathing, coughing, wheezing, and can't sleep well because of Asthma or Bronchitis attacks, you owe it to yourself to try MENDACO. The very first dose of MENDACO starts working through your blood in 30 minutes, helping Nature loosen and remove the thick, sticky mucus which causes coughing, gasping, difficult breathing. This loosening action helps open up your bronchial tubes so you can breathe more freely; then you can sleep more restfully, gain vitality and begin to enjoy life. Get MENDACO from your druggist today. Money back unless quickly and completely satisfied.

Two Teams In Tie As Girls' Loop Ends

The YMCA senior lasses' bowling league wound up its schedule last night with the lowest team in the loop stepping into the leaders and whitewashing them. Lucky Strikes and Aces tied for top spot, when the former failed to get a point, and these teams now meet next Wednesday at seven p.m. for the championship. The annual banquet will be held April 19 at six p.m.

Aces took three points from Hurricanes, Corvettes three from Glengarry's, as Bombers took two from Tigers. High three and single for the night went to Betty Castle with 638 and 286. Betty Pogue rolled 630, Shirley Heckman 620 and Addie Jackson 604. Good singles were by Shirley Heckman 273, Mabel Pattison 254, Ruby Dorrington 244, Ida Whitnall 233, Ag Anderson 231 and Betty Pogus 224 twice.

The final standing: Lucky Strikes 52, Aces 52, Tigers 43, Glengarry's 42, Corvettes 40, Bombers 39, Hurricanes 36, Commandos 32. High three for the season went to M. Mahood with 811 and she also had top single of 388.

School Title Goes To Confederation Over Central

Confederation defeated Central 2-0 in the final playoff of the School Hockey League to bring two championships, senior and intermediate to the school. They had finished third in the standing but ousted both Queen Mary and Central in playoffs. The referees also voted Confederation seniors the Optimists Club trophy for outstanding sportsmanship. The H. and S. Association of Confederation will give the two winning teams a supper tonight.

Parry got the first goal in the second period on an assist from Davis, while Holland batted home a loose puck later in the stanza to make it 2-0. Holland, Miller and B. Bryan stood out for the victors, while Delahaye and Rowley shone for the losers. Central had better positional play but Confederation showed more drive in a speedy and clean tussle. Teams:

Central: Goal, Delahaye; defence, Noble and Brooks; centre, Rowley; wings, Gardner and Mongraw; alternates, Patterson, Rowe, Heffernan and McInnes.

Confederation: Goal, B. Bryan; defence, Miller and Sloan; centre, Dunstan; wings, Parry and Davis; alternates, Holland, M. Bryan, Simmons, Coones, Brooks, Coleman and McIntosh.

Referees, E. Druery and D. Lawless.

Goalie Sawchuk Wins Game For Indianapolis

CLEVELAND, April 6 (AP)—Chunky Terry Sawchuk, 20-year-old Indianapolis goalie, got credit today for putting the Capitals one up on Cleveland Barons in the best-of-seven American Hockey League finals.

Indianapolis won the opener 4-1 here Wednesday night before 7,121 fans. Sawchuk made 43 stops. Eighteen of them were in the last period when the Barons slashed the puck at him from all distances and directions.

The second game of the series will be played here Saturday.

Millbrook To Organize Girls' Softball Team

MILLBROOK, April 6 (ENS)—G. T. MacPherson was elected president of the Millbrook Girls' Softball team this week. F. Hindle is secretary treasurer, H. Ouelette, manager and W. F. Skitch, coach. Two additional officers will be appointed following commencement of spring practises.

The offer of the Lady Lions to purchase uniform shirts was accepted and orders were placed for the remainder of the uniforms. It is hoped that the team can be entered in a district league and a meeting is to be held in the future to further these plans.

City Carpetball

The semi-final of the President's Cup played between Big Bens No. 1 against St. Georges No. 2, at the SOE hall went three games. In the first the Big Bens were ticking off to perfection and won it going away by a score of 13-2. The Southend Lion was not downhearted—as they grimly went to work to score some singles along with a two and three end in the second match to take it 9-2. The third and final game was a humdinger with the Big Bens leading all the way until the 5th frame when St. Georges tied it at 4-all and then went on to score three singles in a row to eliminate the Big Bens 7-4.

The final for the President's Cup was played at the Legion Hall with St. Georges No. 2 having as their opponents SOE No. 3. The first game had a six end scored against the Sons and that proved too big a handicap for them to overcome and they finished on the short end of a 12-2 score. With the Sons leading in the second match, it proved quite a duel as St. George's came from behind twice to tie it up. The last time in the eight frame so that two extra ends were necessary to decide the issue. The Southenders proved they were the champions by scoring singles in each of these frames, taking the match and cup by a score of 8-6. A very good and close finish. That postponed game of Legion No. 7 vs. Legion No. 6 was awarded to the latter team by scores of 10-0, 10-0. These were ascertained by striking an average of all the other games scheduled for that particular week.

Final League Standing

Team:	W	L	T	Pts	Av.

Treasurers No. 9	19	14	3	41	576

LOL No. 8	13	21	2	28	464
Legion No. 7	12	23	1	25	420

The league standing shows that the first eight places were keenly contested, with single points or smaller averages separating a team from a position up nearer the top.

The winners of the various trophies during the past season were:

Hope Cup—SOE No. 3: A. Price, G. Palmer, F. Leether, A. Rusaw and F. Parsons, skip.

Bleasdell hield—Treasurers No. 9: D. Bartley, F. Nice, W. Sorrie, J. Wilson and G. Gimblett, skip.

President's Cup—St. Georges No. 2: P. McLean, J. Harrison, R. King, R. Whitehead and A. Sims, skip.

Gracie's Memorial Cup — D. Bartley and W. Sorrie, skip.

The trophies have all been turned over to the jeweller for the above names to be inscribed upon them. Also for the resilvering of two or more of them and a polish on all. Therefore, they will not be ready for presentation until the week of April 24. So watch the Examiner on April 20 for definite information of date of meeting.

In reference to what form of a meeting you desire the trophies to be presented. That information was requested from each team through their skip. Only two skips have replied and that is not sufficient information for your executive to act upon, if a decision was made whereby it was necessary to assess each member for eats. So please give us this information at once for or against.

Black Hawks Take Peewee Semi-Final

Murphy notched five of the winners' goals with A. Beggs getting two. B. Naish and R. Brown each had two assists, with A. Doleman, P. Stewart and D. Goldie getting one each. Curtis and Hancock shone for the losers, with Murphy and R. Brown the best for the winners in a clean contest. Teams:

Thousand And 1 Balk Balls Seen With New Ruling

By JACK SULLIVAN.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., April 6 (CP)—If you hear of a fellow walking along the street and mumbling "thousand and one," "Johnny Loves Mary" or "One, Two Three," give him a sympathetic ear. He's probably a pitcher or an umpire, honing up on baseball's new balk rule.

The guy's mumbling may be accompanied by some weird gestures, but if he can say one of those phrases in a second—and no less—he'll probably avoid rhubarbs in the ball parks this summer. In short, he's learning how not to balk—in the case of the pitcher—and how and when to call them, in the case of the arbiter.

The "thousand and one" business was dreamed up at the winter meeting of major league ball officials when they brought in the new rule. It means that a pitcher must pause at least one second on completion of his stretch with men on base before firing.

There'll be no more of those quick deliveries, the rule-makers say.

Frank (Shag) Shaughnessy of Montreal, president of the International League, has been making the rounds of the minor league training camps and explaining the new rule to managers, coaches, umpires and players. He figures all will be rosy if the hurlers simply mutter "thousand and one" after the stretch before throwing.

It sounds, and looks, simple the way Shag talks about it. "Just say 'thousand one one' and fire," he says. But a rookie pitcher—and the training camps are loaded with them—want to make good and, with men on base in exhibition games, they're almost certain to be rattled.

In a Boston Braves-Detroit Tigers grapefruit league game at St. Petersburg, Johnny Sain had five balks called against him although his Braves outlasted Tigers 18-16. In a Toronto-Philadelphia Athletics game at Fort Lauderdale, balks were called twice against Leaf pitcher Paul Stuffel and both times Philadelphia runners, parked on third base, were waved in.

Using the "thousand and one" formula and a stop-watch, we have seen at least 20 balks in various games—and another 30 ignored by the umpires. The pitcher probably forgot his "thousand and one" line and the umpire forgot his.

Whatever the outcome during the summer months, the new rule should give the fans an added "line" this summer. The "thousand and one" chant likely will roll from the stands.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

All the drama in that drama-drenched hockey thriller won by Montreal Canadiens Tuesday night wasn't enacted on the ice.

One scene was in a little anteroom off Canadiens' dressing room.

But first there was the sensational mid-day announcement that Gerry McNeil would go into Canadiens' nets to face the rampaging New York Rangers, already three games up in the series.

And it was ailing Bill Durnan, veteran ace goalie, who requested that his understudy replace him "for the good of the club."

Coach Dick Irvin told the rest of the story finally Wednesday night.

"The players had started dressing when Bill walked in. I told him to take Gerry in the anteroom, give him a pep talk, buoy him up and tell him not to worry.

"A few minutes later I stepped into the room myself and what do you think I saw? The two of them were in there crying, yes, crying, and Bill, his voice shaky and his hands trembling uncontrollably, was saying 'Now, Gerry, don't be nervous, don't be nervous; everything will be alright."

Edmonton Mercurys, en route home from their triumphant hockey invasion of Europe, Wednesday night at Ottawa were given a warm-up for the big welcome awaiting them in Edmonton today.

An even dozen of their fellow-townsmen, including Mayor Sydney Parsons, formed a welcoming committee as the world's amateur hockey champions arrived in the capital by air. The team was tendered a banquet before departing by air for Edmonton.

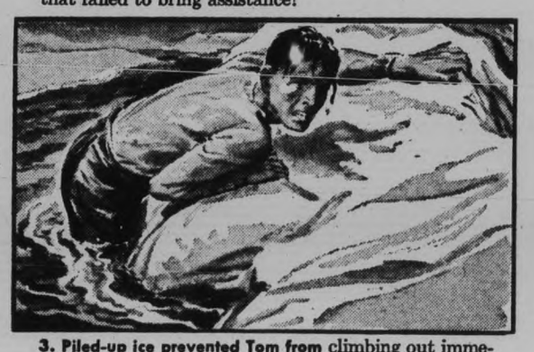
INDIAN SWIMS 100 YARDS THROUGH ICE FLOES FOR HELP

Tom Porte, of Jackson's Point, Ont., risks life in Lake Simcoe to get aid for friend

1. The fish were biting nicely as darkness fell, and it wasn't until late that the two men noticed how the winds had separated the cake of ice from shore. As the gap widened, they shouted for help — then in desperation they burned their fishing shanty — but even that failed to bring assistance!

2. Tom Porte, a 25-year-old Ojibway, decided to act. Stripping almost completely, he plunged into the dark, wind-swept water and swam through the broken ice to shore, a hundred yards away. His shivering comrade, Joe Latremouille, remained on the drifting floe, praying that Tom would be able to win out in his gallant fight.



3. Piled-up ice prevented Tom from climbing out immediately. He was forced to edge another 200 yards along the shore. He ran to a boathouse . . . and soon a boat was sent out to the stranded fisherman. Tom Porte's courage has earned him not only THE DOW AWARD, but also the praise of his fellow Canadians.

Name Fire Chiefs

A By Law was passed appointing Al Crowe Chief in the Bridgenorth Fire Area and Noble Hicks in Smith Suburban Fire Area, it is their responsibility to organize Volunteer Fire Brigade of 20 members in their respective areas, and all matters to do with having everything ready for the delivery of the fire fighting equipment ordered from the La France Company. Delivery is expected the last part of June.

Each fire area is going to sell protection to persons outside the area, by agreement, at rate of $6 per year for 10 years, for 1950 to collect $3 in cash, for the other years the amount will be added to taxes, if a persons building assessment is over $1500 the rate will be higher. The suburban area to have the district south of the 4th Con Line and Highway No. 28 to 8th Con. Line. Bridgenorth area to have north of above line, if a person has not signed the agreement and asks for the services of either Brigade the cost will be $150.

The Council agreed to the City's offer to provide fire protection until delivery of the pumpers, the cost to be $200 for each run if authorized by any member of the council or the Clerk, Council decided that unless the person asking for the services of the City Brigade agreed to pay the full cost no authorization would be given.

Seven tenders were received for the collectors of garbage from Chemong Park for the period May 1 to Oct. 31. Gilbert Gravelle of Bridgenorth was awarded the contract.

Four firms tendered for the gravel contract Chas. Young, Construction Co., County of Peterborough, Harvey Construction Co. and R. A. Blytto Construction Co., the last named being the successful tenderer.

J. A. Middleton who has been the taxcollector of the township for the past 20 years, tendered his resignation. This was accepted with regret. Mr. Middleton has given the Municipality efficient and courteous service for all these years and his decision to resign is a distinct loss to the township.

The club was instructed to advertise for applications for the position.

As that part of Highway No 7 immediately north of the city is over 50% built up and as children to the west have to cross the Highway to go to school, the club was directed to prepare a By-law reducing the speed of traffic to 30 miles per hour, this will be submitted to the Dept. of Highways for approval.

Did Not Know About Debt When Car Sold

A charge of fraud against Frederick Crowe, 727 Young St., resulting from the sale of a car on which there were liens to the extent of $500, was dismissed by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., in city police court Wednesday.

The case was heard before the magistrate last week, when Mr. Crowe explained he had not known the $500 was owing until after he had sold the car to Roy Longhurst.

Mr. Longhurst said he bought the car in July when Mr. Crowe signed a statement declaring there were no liens or encumbrances. Since that time he had had to pay $166 to a finance company.

Mr. Crowe said that when Mr. Longhurst contacted him about the debt he had not known it existed, but after investigating, had offered to pay $10 a week. That was not satisfactory to Mr. Longhurst.

The car had belonged to his brother Ed. Mr. Crowe said. His brother had wanted to sell it and when Mr. Longhurst offered to buy it, he accepted the money on behalf of his brother, who was not present at the time. The car had been in his name because his brother was too young to take out ownership papers.

There was more than $166 owing on the car at the time of sale and his brother had continued to make the payments to the finance company. He failed to make the last two payments and Mr. Longhurst was told by the finance company that the car would be confiscated unless the money was paid.

W. C. Grant, defending Mr Crowe, pointed out that although a fraud had taken place, Mr. Crowe had been unaware of it until Mr. Longhurst got in touch with him.

The magistrate accepted that explanation, he said, when dismissing the case.

Report Denied Dulles To Be Truman Advisor

KEY WEST, Fla., April 6 (AP)—The White House denied Wednesday night that President Truman has decided to appoint John Foster Dulles as a top policy advisor in the State Department.

"It is not so," Ross said.

Find Woman 'I Have To Do It' Written On Body

LOS ANGELES, April 6—(AP)—In circumstances strangely reminiscent of the city's brutal sex murders of three years ago, a nude redhead was found dead on Wednesday in a hotel room, a cryptic note written in ink above her breasts.

Police identified her as Mrs. Sally Oswald, 39. They said they could not determine, pending an autopsy, whether she had been killed after a prolonged drinking party or had taken her own life.

"I have to do it. It's the best," was the way they translated the almost-illegible legend across her chest.

Detectives said Mrs. Oswald was recently discharged from the psychopathic ward of Los Angeles General Hospital. She and a man registered at the hotel 10 days ago.

The case recalled other weird deaths, all sex murders, in Los Angeles in the last three years. Elizabeth Short, 22, called the "Black Dahlia" because of her fondness for black clothing, was found slain Jan. 15, 1947, her nude body bisected at the waist and tossed into a vacant lot.

The body of Mrs. Jeanne Axford French, 45, onetime aviatrix, was found with obscene inscriptions in lipstick on the breasts Feb. 10, 1947.

None of these slayings has been solved.

Tommy Church's Will

TORONTO, April 6 (CP). — T. L. (Tommy) Church, veteran Progressive Conservative member of Parliament and a former Mayor of Toronto, left an estate of $35,000, it was revealed Wednesday when his will was filed for probate. Mr. Church died February 7.

Railway Will In Future Play Important Role In Canadian Life

By NORMAN MICHIE

SASKATOON, April 6—(CP)—Railroads will remain an integral part of the Canadian economy during the next half-century, says a transportation expert.

Dr. G. E. Britnell, head of the university of Saskatchewan's Department of Economics and Political Science says:

"I don't think the picture is as black for the railways as some would paint it.

"The railway has in the foreseeable future a significant and important role in the life of Canada.

"There may be industrial areas—particularly the St. Lawrence Valley—where road competition may be expected to make increasing inroads into rail traffic and revenues. But even there the railway are likely to continue to share the large traffic with their competitors."

In an interview, he said that "no matter how we predict technical changes" during the next 50 years, truck competiton will not replace the freight train for the long-haul prairie handling of bulky staples such as grain and livestock.

And shippers of agricultural and other products between central Canada and the maritimes ore from the north lumber from British Columbia "will probably continue to find the railways the most economic and effective means of transportation."

Trucks lines will likely make further gains in the short-haul fields—from rural centres to urban collecting points. But Dr Britnell says that, even where road competition threatens the railways, they are dividing the market rather than losing it.

Airlines, as a faster medium would compete mostly in the small-bulk-for-value fields.

Dr Britnell, who submitted Saskatchewan's brief to the Royal Commission on transportation, says the railways will have to be increasingly vigilant to take advantage of technological advances to offset competition.

Greater Competition

"Even though the economy is expanding, Canada no longer is an open field in which they enjoy a virtual monopoly of transportation services over large areas. Competition will force them to share the fruits of national expansion, and to be more prudent in their operating policies."

In addition, Dr. Britnell forecast that the railway's role in the next half-century will be determined to some extent by the role of their controlling body, the Board of Transport Commissioners.

The board cannot adequately deal with transportation problems unless it is given "greatly-enlarged jurisdiction over competitive rates" and a larger technical staff to oversee and assess the operations of the roads, he said.

Dr. Britnell thinks current railway problems are a result of the history of Canadian railroad development. The east-west linking of the embryo nation was required to ensure a market for products manufactured in the east, and to develop the west as a market.

National policy also rushed through the lines, sometimes along uneconomic routes, to forestall a threatened economic and perhaps political assimilation of western Canada by the growing and productive United States.

He suggested that regional inequalities should be offset by government subsidies: (1) to provide an effective freight-rate reduction in the prairie region, and (2) a second, or 'deficit' subsidy to the railways to guarantee satisfactory services despite inadequate operating revenue.

Brooke Tries Crossing Third Time In Plane

LONDON, April 6 (AP) — Sir Basil Brooke, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, took off for the United States Wednesday night—for the third time in 24 hours.

Sir Basil, bound for a speaking tour in the United States and Canada, boarded the same plane which put him down twice before at London's airport after turning back for repairs.

The four-engined British Overseas Airways Stratocruiser turned back Tuesday night when it was over the Scottish coast, two hours out of London. Engine trouble was the reason.

Sir Basil and Lady Brooke boarded the plane again Wednesday afternoon. A few minutes after the takeoff it turned back once more. This time the pilot found he had low pressure in the hydraulic system.

Gov't No Power

OTTAWA, April 6 — (CP).—Labor Minister Mitchell told the Commons Wednesday the Federal Government has no power to deal with the threatened strike of employees of the Ford Motor Company at Windsor. He was replying to a question from Donald Brown (L-Essex West), who wanted to know if the Government proposed to take any action.

4 Bombs Thrown In Northern Ireland In Last Month

BELFAST, April 6 (Reuters)—The Northern Ireland government Wednesday night clamped down emergency regulations after an investigation of four bomb-throwing incidents last month.

Under the regulations, police will have the power to search houses and people, to arrest without warrant and to detain persons for limited periods without trial.

Announcing the measures, the government said:

"During the past month there have been four cases of attempted murder by throwing bombs in the public streets. The government has no intention of allowing a campaign of outrages of this character to develop unchecked."

Protest Railway End

PRESTON, April 6 — (CP).—The Board of Transport Commission Wednesday postponed to April 25 hearing of an application of the Grand River and Lake Erie and Northern Railway to discontinue rail passenger services. Majority of the 21 municipalities served by the line have joined efforts to protest the discontinuance.

Fumigate Courts

"I feel that our present law no longer adequately reflects the public need or the public mind," he said. "It is high time we fumigated the divorce courts of this country and did away with perjury, collusion, connivance and fraud. In my view, the present law is unreal."

He stressed that he did not wish to interfere with the rights of Quebec and Newfoundland, the only two provinces without divorce courts.

Mr. Browne, a Roman Catholic and a former Newfoundland judge, said he wondered why Mr. Croll did not recommend the establishment of a committee to study ways of strengthing the family. Divorce broke up families, destroyed homes and harmed society.

Hasty Marriages

Mr. Carroll, a former justice of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court who also identified himself as a Roman Catholic, felt that "hasty" marriages were one of the leading causes of divorce. Perhaps, if adultery was made a crime, divorce would end.

Mr. Macdonnell suggested that marriage was made "too easy" with the result that people "rushed" into it. It should be made a much more solemn occasion." Perhaps if the ceremony lasted two or three hours, people would think twice about marrying.

Mr. McIvor said the main causes of divorce were selfishness, drunkenness and a lack of faith in the supreme being. "Remove those causes and you will have less divorce," he added.

Dr. Gauthier felt that repeated divorces could bring only anarchy. The family was the basis of society and that basis would be destroyed if parliament enlarged the already wide-open doors to the dissolution of marriages.

No Break In Ice Sault Ste. Marie

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., April 6 (CP)—Even with favorable weather, it will be at least 10 days before the St. Mary's River is navigable, mariners predicted Wednesday night.

They said there is no sign of an early breakup of ice in the upper stretches of the river. Snow has fallen during the last four days and the mercury dropped to 25 above zero Tuesday night.

Meanwhile, one lock of the Sault Ste. Marie canal has been filled in anticipation of the opening of navigation. All other locks are ready to be filled.

The U. S. coast guard cutter Kaw broke out the ice below the MacArthur Lock Wednesday and steamed downriver as far as six-mile point. Her crew reported ice thickness ranging from seven inches to 26 inches.

Pulp And Lumber Rights Offered Firm By Scott

TORONTO April 6 (CP) — Lands Minister Scott said today he has offered the Great Lakes Lumber and Shipping Company at the lakehead rights to timber areas including both pulpwood and sawlogs so that the company can exchange the pulpwood for sawlogs which it lacks.

The minister's statement read today in the Ontario Legislature was proposed as a solution to a dispute at the lakehead over timber rights. The Great Lakes Company claims its timber limits have been stripped of sawlogs and that timber limits assigned to pulpwood companies contain many good sawlogs which are being wasted.

"At the time this mill commenced it was regarded as having a capacity of approximately 30,000,000 feet of lumber annually, however, the company now claim that to operate it at full capacity there should be produced 125,000,000 feet," Mr. cott said.

Pulp Dominates

"It is conceded that the forest stands in the Thunder Bay district are dominated with timber of pulpwood size rather than with timber suitable for processing into lumber."

The Great Lakes Lumber Company claim they should have 1,650,000 sawlogs to operate the sawmill. This volume of sawlogs represents the equivalent of approximately 165,000 cords of wood.

The results of a forest resources inventory would establish with greater accuracy the relationship of sawlog volumes to pulpwood volumes.

"Tentatively it is believed 20 per cent by volume can be regarded as suitable for sawlogs.

"The point to emphasize in this problem is that the volume of timber available for manufacture into lumber must be related to pulpwood requirements and a continued expansion in the requirements of the sawmills would only lead to pyramiding of our forest and chaos in forest management."

Pupils May Get Free Ticket To Exhibition

Every boy and girl of primary school age in the city and county will be given a free ticket for Children's Day at the Exhibition this year if school boards approve and permit their teachers to co-operate in the distribution.

This ticket will admit the youngsters to the grounds but not to the grandstand or any of the rides.

Children's tickets at the gates last year amounted to only $350, and Clare G. Collins has been advocating that the Exhibition board forego this item and charge it to publicity, of which committee he is chairman.

"All we need is the co-operation of the school authorities," Mr. Collins said today, "and we can arrange to give every child of public school age a ticket at school, and when they come to the Exhibition they have their free admission in their pockets."

Otherwise, the admission for Children's Day is ten cents at the gate and also at the grandstand.

Dates of the Exhibition have been definitely fixed for August 23 to 26, four days from Wednesday to Saturday.

Also present were Warden Norman Wilson of Burleigh-Anstruther, and Reeves Glen Nichols of Chandos and Gale Elliott of Harvey. High School Board members were Chairman M. C. Tucker, A. H. Clark, E. Cancel Leases Raise Rents Dollar A Month

Rents are being increased one dollar a month at May 1 on the 100 houses which Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation is building in Peterborough.

Present leases at $34.50 and $37.50 on the two types of houses are being cancelled. Twenty-six houses of this final project (No 11) have been completed and are occupied. Mr. John Wocker, district administrator for Central Mortgage, informed the Examiner today that letters have been sent to these tenants notifying them that their rents next month will be at the higher rates of $35.50 and $38.50.

Rents of the 226 houses of project No. 10, similar types to those of No. 11, remain at $34.50 and $37.50

On behalf of the Corporation, M. Wocker had recently requested the council to agree to equalization of the rents of the 326 houses comprising these projects.

Proposal Rejected.

City Council rejected that proposal Monday night by adopting the recommendation of its committee of the whole.

All these houses are different only in type, and that means chiefly in the number of rooms. The $34.50 houses of propect No 10 are exactly the same as the corresponding houses in project No. 11; likewise with the $37.50 houses of the two projects.

All the 226 houses of No. 10 are in the south end of the city, but at the request of the council Central Mortgage accepted Ashburnham sites for some of the 100 houses of No. 11 project.

Mr. Wocker explained to the council that more difficult ground conditions were encountered on the north-east side of the city, adding an element of cost in excess of the expenditure in the level area of the south end which was also adjacent to the headquarters of the contractor, Reynolds Construction Company.

Mr. Wocker reminded the council that this element of difference in cost had been incurred by the Corporation by carrying out the wishes of the council. He also said that final expenditure was not yet known on propect No. 10, and No. 11 is not yet completed. Twenty-six of its 100 houses are now tenanted. Actually rents were tentative, but accounting progress indicated that the unit cost of No. 10 was going to be less than the unit cost of No. 11.

The Corporation was suggesting equalization of rentals because the types of houses were the same and also because it was desirable that the rental rate for each type should be the same. It was said that in some instances houses of No. 10 project were on the same street with houses of No 11, and consequently at equalized rates tenants would not raise any question of difference or discrepancy in charges for exactly the same kind of house in the one locality where their physical similarity was obvious.

The issue raised by the council was that the tenants of No. 10 project, all of them already in occupation, should be fully assured that eventually their rents would not be raised above $34.50 and $37.50. Mr. Wocker said the accounting indications at headquarters pointed to that likelihood. It was believed that finally these charges would remain as they have been, but he said he was not in a position now to make any positive statement.

Reeves To Ask Province For Financial Help Lakefield School Costs

The reeves whose municipalities are in the Lakefield and District High School area are turning to the Department of Education for some form of financial relief: Stunned by the size of the educational bill for high school training—nearly four times the 1949 levy in most municipalities—the reeves met with the Lakefield and District High School Board Wednesday night to discuss the matter. No clear-cut decision was arrived at. However the upshot of the meeting was that a joint committee from the interested reeves and one member from the Board will interview the Minister of Education.

On the agenda to be discussed will be the possibility of an extra grant, or some other means of wiping out the $10,000 which the Board had to borrow from the bank to operate in 1949; a possible short-term debenture for $12,000, the approximate cost of the new school buildings erected last year; and a general review of the whole basis of departmental grants.

Warden Norman Wilson of Burleigh-Anstruther and the other Reeves were generally in favor of a short-term debenture Wanted, they felt, was some means of cutting down on the size of the bite that must be taken out of the ratepayers' pocketbooks this year.

"We'd like to see if there is any way of spreading these items over several years," said Warden Wilson.

Levies Increase

He pointed out that in Burleigh-Anstruther, for example, the High School Board's bill had jumped from $600 in 1949 to $2130 in 1950. Reeve Ross Harrison of Smith—the municipality contributing the most money — said his township's bill had been jumped from $3,450 to $11,930.

The High School Board had a total expenditure of $56,550, and an estimated revenue of $30,100. Lakefield's share is $6,755, Harvey's $4,055 and Chandos $1,580.

Board members were cool on the suggestion of a debenture, and Chairman M. C. Tucker said he was sure the Board could not issue debentures on its own; they would have to be issued by the municipality in which the school is located, he thought. (In this case it would be Lakefield.)

Moreover, it would be necessary to have the prior agreement of the various municipalities concerned as Lakefield, in effect, would only be acting as agent.

Discussion on this point dropped when none of those present was sure of the exact procedure required under these circumstances.

Opposed Debentures

E. H. Northey of Lakefield came out bluntly as opposed to the principle of issuing debentures to ease this year's financial burden.

"If I were a Reeve I'd like to pay my debts as I went along," said Mr. Northey. "Besides, it's too late to issue debentures for this year."

He added that he felt there was too great a tendency for some Reeves to incur heavy expenditures during their term of office, finance them by issuing debentures, and then drop out of office, leaving the whole financial muddle for their successors to solve.

"Well, that is certainly not the case here," retorted Warden Wilson. "I am not trying to evade any responsibilities, but I think this year's expenditure should be spread over a longer period."

During 1949 two rooms were built on property rented from the Public School Board and he questioned the wisdom of these not being financed by debentures. He stressed that he was not criticizing the High School Board. Cost of the two-room addition was $12,232.

No City Bylaw Penalizing Car Splashers

The season of splashes is over—or nearly—and city residents have regained their agility after the winter hibernation by dint of jumping, skipping and even running, to miss the splashes from traffic passing through puddles and slush.

Early spring slush is no respector of persons, nor of motor vehicles. It allows no dignity, either for the pedestrian who is forced to flee from drenching spray, or the sleek car fresh from the service station after a wash. The tussle for supremacy on the street, between pedestrian and motorist probably reaches no higher peak than at this time of year. This week two incidents came to the notice of the city police and there have been many more, which had passed unobserved by all except the unfortunate victims.

The complaints came to the police department from two women, whose coats were badly splashed when passing cars sent up a spray of mud and water. But there is little that can be done to settle the matter through the courts.

Can Cancel License

There is no provision in the Highway Traffic Act dealing specifically with splashing as such, but motorists can be charged with careless driving if they cause annoyance by splashing.

But the police are reluctant to charge careless driving without good reason because the motorist, if convicted, pays not only a fine, but also has his licence cancelled until he can prove he has insurance.

"Some cities have a bylaw governing splashing," Chief John Thompson said when discussing the matter. "But there is not much our department can do."

Jailed For 3 Months Drunk 3 Times In Row

Pleading guilty to being drunk for the third time in the past two months, Milton Barnard, no fixed address, was sent to jail for three months today by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., in city police court.

Barnard told the magistrate he was not convicted at all last year, but he couldn't explain why he had offended during the past two months.

Eric Radley, 154 London St., was fined $10 with $2.50 costs when he pleaded guilty to being drunk Wednesday evening.

14th Pensioner On New Program For Retiring Civic Employees

James Joseph Murphy, an employee of the board of works department of the city, was transferred to the municipal pension list at the last Council meeting According to the schedule he is to receive $674.52 a year. His monthly cheques begin at the termination of his present period of 45 days of accumulated sick leave.

Mr. Murphy continued through the war period and subsequently, when younger men were engaged in more serious affairs, and their elders were actually needed in the streets department in spite of their years.

Others On Pension

Mr. Murphy becomes the fourteenth beneficiary of the municipality's pension plan for its employees. He did not have to pay any sum from his wages to share in the benefits, because he was past 65 years of age when the plan went into effect in April, 1948.

The employees receiving the municipal pension are: John Thirnbeck, John Cupoli, George Gimblett, William Meagher, William Wigg, Archie McDonald, William Jones, James Reid, T. Nolan, E. Jewell, A. Bulmer, Bruce Livingstone, J. A. Freeman, and Mr. Murphy.

Those who were under 65 when the plan was adopted contributed to it from that time until their retirement.

With the plan in effect its provisions became applicable, replacing any retiring allowances which may have been made.

The rate of pension is determined on the basis of the average wage or salary of the pensioner during the final three years of his employment.

The general conditions were published some weeks ago in the Examiner's review of the booklet "Aid to Security," which was prepared by City Clerk Outram.

"The employee and the city, and its subsidiary boards, as the employer, each contributing five per cent, pay together each year into the annuities branch of the Dominion Government 10 per cent of the employee's earnings to the credit of the emlpoyee.

"These contributions earn interest at 4 or 3½ per cent, depending on whether the employee joined the plan prior to 1949.

"One of the conditions which the annuities branch fixed, and which the Council had to accept, is that only employees 45 years of age and under, after completing two years of service with the city, may join the plan. These limits were made because normal retirement under the plan is at age 65, and it takes at least 20 years of contributions to set up a sufficient amount to purchase a reasonably high annuity pension."

One retiring employee recently did not qualify for the pension because he had not been in the municipality's service 20 years.

Before the pension plan was adopted, the practice of the Council was to make some retiring grant to those men who had been of long employment. In the case of Mr. Murphy he might have received some financial consideration at retirement or he might not, depending on the sentiment and decision of the Council. Now with the plan in operation its terms and provisions apply.

Havelock Group Supports Health Unit

HAVELOCK, April 6—(ENS)—A communication from the Lakefield Home and School Association in regard to the organization of a Health Unit in the county of Peterborough was supported on Monday night by the Havelock group. The letter requested the Havelock Association to appoint representatives to join with delegates from other branches in the county for the purpose of interviewing the County Council. Mrs. H. J. McNeely and Mrs. Donald Kirk were appointed to represent the local branch.

The Lakefield branch has been interested for some time in this project and have sent a resolution to the County Council and the Home and School Council in Peterborough.

A Health Unit was defined as a union of urban and rural municipalities which when formed and established will provide a more efficient sustained health program.

An amateur night will be sponsored by the Havelock Home and School Association on April 28 and the president asked the help of everyone in providing a program.

Mrs. Harry Anderson was appointed delegate to the convention in Toronto as Mrs. L. Harrison, who was appointed at a previous meeting, will be unable to attend.

A solo in keeping with the Easter season was sung by Mrs. W. Corneil with Mrs. D. Kirk at the piano.

Mrs. L. H. Cooke, health convener, gave a talk on Canada's food rules and listed the following musts in an adult's diet: milk ½ to one pint; fruit, one serving of citrus fruits or tomatoes or their juices and one serving of some other fruit.

Vegetables—At least one serving of potatoes and at least two other vegetables, preferably leafy green or yellow and frequently raw.

Cereals and bread—One serving of whole grain cereal and at least four slices of whole wheat brown bread or white fortified with Vitamin B.

Meat, fish and poultry or meat substitutes such as cheese, eggs, nuts, peas or beans. Use eggs and cheese three times per week and liver often, she concluded.

Two sound moving pictures were shown by H. Hunter with Principal D. Buchanan giving the explanation. The first, "Who Is My Neighbor," gave an outline of the work done by community services and "Eyes On Canada," gave some idea of the part our country plays in world affairs.

The Attendance Shield and a prize of $1. was won by Miss G. Hunter's room.

Lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

Toronto Ballerina Soloist At Radio City Music Hall

By PAT USSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 6—(CP)—Patricia Drylie was taken to see a ballet performance when she was only seven and ever since it has been the dominating interest of her life.

The Toronto-born dancer now is in her fifth season as a member of the corps de ballet of Radio City Music Hall.

"I was always crazy about ballet," she said the other day in an interview in the back-stage lounge of the Music Hall, where entertainers relax between stage performances.

The blue-eyed brunette, now in her early 20, studied for five years at Birdsall's studio in Toronto, until she was 12, then with the Volkoff Canadian ballet school in that city.

"I worked with the Volkoff ballet from the time it was started until I came down here," she continued. That was in the summer of 1945.

Her work at the Music Hall, where film showings are interspersed with four and occasionally five stage shows daily, and the daily ballet classes she attends leave the industrious and attractive Patricia little time for outside activities. But if it's ballet, she can make the time.

Between the third and fourth shows at the Music Hall last fall, she and some of the company would dash the half-mile to the Metropolitan Opera House for standing room at performances by London's spectacular Sadler's Wells Ballet.

"We'd be there for the overture and the first act, then we'd have to race back to the Music Hall. After our final performance there, we'd hurry back to the Met in time for the last act. "I had to go to Toronto to see the second act of "The Sleeping Beauty."

Editor's Daughter

Patricia's father, the late John Drylie, at one time was news editor of the Toronto Daily Star She has two brothers living in Toronto: John, with the Toronto Harbor Commission, and Bill, on the editorial staff of the Star. Mrs. Fred Hunter, a sister, lives in Porcupine, in Northern Ontario's gold-mining country, where Miss Drylie spend her summer vacations.

"I love New York—but there is nothing like the air in Northern Ontario," she said. "It's wonderful. You can notice the difference as soon as you get beyond North Bay".

Like the other corps de ballet members, she works seven days days a week but gets every fourth or fifth week off.

"I got my first break at the Music Hall when I understudied Hilda Eckler, another Toronto girl, in a role," she recalled. Miss Eckler now is married and living in New York City.

The company has no prima ballerina but Miss Drylie has been featured soloist in a number of productions. Recently she had four solo numbers in one production.

"When you're going to do a solo, you have to work yourself up to it," she said. "I practise four times a day before a solo number and each time it becomes a little easier."

"No," she smiled, when asked if there was any romantic interest in her life. As for a future—she just want to continue her ballet work.

ON HER TOES — Patricia Drylie, of Toronto, has been outstanding as a ballerina in the corps de ballet of Radio City Music Hall in New York where she appeared as featured soloist in a fantastic bird ballet. Miss Drylie now is in her fifth season as member of the Music Hall corps.

Honor to Woman Breaks 400-year Tradition

LONDON, April 6 (Reuters)—A 400-year-old tradition was broken Wednesday when an ancient guild of the city of London appointed Betty Ross, American journalist and author, to an honorary office.

It was the first time the worshipful company of stationers and newspaper makers granted such an honor to a woman since Queen Elizabeth granted its charter in 1557.

Miss Ross is proud to bear the title of renter warden of this guild or livery company of the city of London. The guilds are known as livery companies because their members once wore distinctive uniforms.

"I bind the apprentices once a month at a ceremony," she said. "That means that I supervise when they sign their papers and collect their fees."

Miss Ross will hold the office for one year.

The printing profession still carries out the ancient custom of "binding" apprentices at stationers hall. The guild's court meets once a month.

Queen Sponsors Crafts Revival

LONDON —(CP)—A homespun tweed called Sea Clover brings fame to Bucklyvie—a tiny village in West Stirlingshire, Scotland.

Ronald Paterson, one of London's Big Ten of fashion, used the material in one of his spring suits It was an instant success with overseas buyers.

The straight-skirted suit with loose-hip-length jacket, wide sleeves and cuffed revers was combined with black accessories to set off the lovely shade of pink. The solitary slit pocket at skirt hip was accentuated by large tasselled motif in jet.

This fine worsted suiting is woven at Auchentroig Mansion, Bucklyvie, home of Mrs. Alastair Crawford, wife of an officer in the Scots Greys. A year after the war Mrs. Crawford started a one-woman business which increased until she now employs five men and three women.

Mrs. [illegible] is one of many women [illegible] has turned to home-weaving, which is making a notable come-back. There is a heavier demand for looms than the market has known for at least a century. They cost about £3 15s ($11.62).

At Worstead, Norfolk—the village that gave its name to worsted weaving — a handloom has been installed in the village school.

Miss Dorothy Wilkinson and Mrs. Cecil Brown play important roles in this handicraft revival. They are partners in the London School of Weaving in Kensington and are trying to revive the ancient guilds of spinners, weavers and dyers.

The Queen, who shows a personal interest in this revival of handicrafts in the home of Britain, will open the newly-formed Crafts Centre of Great Britain April 17.

Crafts on view will include hand-woven textiles, pottery, stained glass wood and stone carving.

Girl Who Dates Married Men Cuts Chances of Marrying

DEAR MISS DIX: What is your opinion of the young woman who plays around with married men just for the fun of it? An attractive young friend of mine sees no harm in going out with married men for good times, dining, dancing, driving around in a car until late hours in the night, provided their intentions are not serious and she does not become involved in a love affair. She may be right, but will the single men nearer her own age have the same regard for her? Will her own reputation remain intact? E. F. G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The girl who picks out a married man for her playfellow is short on good, hard horse sense. True, he may blow her to more expensive amusements than a poor boy can, but she has to pay too high a price for them.

Pays With Name

To begin with, she pays with her good name. She may be as chaste as ice and as pure as snow but nobody will believe it. When a young man takes a girl out and spends his money on giving her a good time, it is part of the technique of courtship. But the married man is different. He is bound to another woman and when he takes a girl out with him until late at night a cynical world sees nothing innocent in the companionship.

Then the girl who runs around with married men greatly lessens her chances of marrying. She wastes her beauty and her youth on the men who can't marry her and cuts herself off from the men who could marry her.

Still another danger that a girl runs who goes about with married men is that of falling in love with them. She cannot possibly guard herself against this, and when it happens it is a catastrophe that almost invariably wrecks her life. And still another reason why it is wrong for a girl to play around with married men is because of the suffering it inflicts on a sister woman. No girl would want the tables turned on her and to spend her evenings alone at home while her husband was showing some pretty young girl a good time.

So let the married men alone, girls. Don't poach an another woman's preserves. It doesn't pay.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am perplexed at the behavior of my wife. We have been married for six months and have got along beautifully together until last Saturday night when I went out and played poker with some of my old pals. I lost $18 and was compelled to hock our only possession of value, my wife's engagement ring. She refused to let me have it to pawn, although I explained to her that it was a debt of honor, so I had to take the ring by force and she slapped me, which made my blood boil.

I cannot understand my wife's actions and am writing to ask if you can explain her viewpoint.

ANSWER: No woman will have any difficulty in understanding your wife's viewpoint, but the thing that no woman can understand is the viewpoint of a man that it is more of a debt of honor for a man to pay a gambling debt debt than it is for him to pay his debt to the woman whose life he has taken into his hands.

Of course, you will say you can't look your old pals in the face if you don't pay your gambling debts, but I shouldn't think you would be able to look yourself in the face after you have taken by force your wife's engagement ring to get the money that you owe them. I don't wonder that she slapped you. You are lucky that she didn't throw the kitchen stove at you, and you will be still luckier if she ever forgives you, for a woman's engagement ring is a very sacred thing to her, and it must hurt her deeply to know that you think so little of her, and that it means so little to you, that you are willing to gamble it away in a poker game.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl 16 years old and like to tack pictures of movie and radio stars on my wall. My mother threatens to tear them down and my father says it is disgusting for me to have a lot of silly looking faces glaring down at me. But I get a great deal of pleasure out of them. Should I be deprived of this small enjoyment? LEONA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Of course, it is silly, but the pleasures of it all seem silly to older people, and since there can be no possible harm in your having the portraits of your movie and radio heroes on your walls I think your parents are foolish to make an issue of the matter.

It is just one phase of the adolescence through which you are passing, and if your parents will think back they will remember that at your age they did exactly the same thing. Tell them to summon their memory and their sense of humor, and leave you alone with your harmless pleasure.

Woman Detective Fails Her Fictional Counterpart

By HOWARD C. HEYEN

HUNTINGTON, PARK, Calif., —(AP)—A visitor dropped $2,500 in a gin rummy session at the home of a trusted friend.

The guest is a wealthy man; the loss didn't hurt him. But he's also a good gin rummy player, and he hadn't won a single game all evening.

He went to his host's house and told the maid he had forgotten his fountain pen. While searching, he pocketed card decks used the night before. Then he drove to this Los Angeles suburb and looked up a 48-year-old spinster named Frances Stilson.

She confirmed his fears. And she retrieved his $2,500.

As a "private eye", Frances Stilson bears no resemblance to the hotshot radio and comic strip sleuth. In fact, she capitalizes on her lack of all the fictional qualities. She is big, broad-shouldered and deliberate. Her round, well-scrubbed face is devoid of make-up. She has heart trouble. And she deems laziness— of a certain sort —a distinct virtue.

Miss Stilson has been a detective for 18 years and has had her own agency for eight years She is reputed to be one of the few outstanding feminine experts in fingerprint and handwriting analysis, and her chief interest these days lies in the identification of wills, deeds and other documents which tempt forgers.

Work In Laboratory

Having had her share of "triangle" cases, robbery investigations and even a few murders, she prefers now to confine her efforts as much as possible to her well-equipped laboratory, whence she seldom stirs until she is ready to present her evidence in court Her staff does the leg work.

The gin rummy case was as tedious and exacting a job as she has undertaken in some time. First she had to determine that the cards were marked. They were, and very cleverly. Almost invisible lines were interspersed in the fan-shaped design on the backs of the cards. Once identified they could be detected by the naked eye.

Then she examined exhaustively every card in all the decks for fingerprints. She found as many as five sets on a single card. When she got through she had segregated the known players, and she had the prints of the host as well.

Confronted with this evidence, the erstwhile friend paid back his winnings. "The irony of it," said Miss Stilson, "is that my client could have given him the money if he needed it."

Miss Stilson began studying fingerprint identification by mail as an antidote for boredom while she was bedridden for 18 months by illness. Well again and needing a job, she decided to put her hobby to work. A Detroit department store hired her, and for 10 years she was a sleuth in various stores.

Her heart condition, the care of an invalid aunt and the aftermath of a serious traffic accident limit her physical activities, but she has made assets of these handicaps. They have taught her to use her head instead of her feet, she says.

"You can get there first without rushing," she declared. "Give me an operative who is deliberate, every time. To be able to sit for three days and nights in a hotel lobby, for instance, without getting jittery and, above all, without going to sleep, takes a very special temperament. You might even call it laziness."

For Tomorrow's Lunch or Supper Try:

SCOTCH BROTH

A grand old-fashioned soup that smacks o' the heather and the hearth . . . sturdy mutton broth with plenty of meat, vegetables, and, of course, barley; a "growing" soup for children, fine fare for all the family.

WOODCOCK—In loving memory of my dear father Charles Woodcock who passed away April 6, 1949.
His life is a beautiful memory,

So we leave him in God's keeping,
The rough road safely o'er
And our dear one we loved so well
Has only gone before . . .
—Sadly missed by his daughters Mrs. O. Hetherington (Grace), and Mrs. E. Reid (Eva).

Central School Swimmers Win Trophy Seventh Time

Central school, by virtue of two firsts in the swimming relay races, captured the Examiner Trophy for the seventh time in 11 years Wednesday night. The boys from the Central zipped through the water in the last event, the 160-yard free style relay, for a first to win the annual Public School Swimming meet honors and trophy.

Besides a first in the relay race the Central team, coached by Victor Cunningham took the medley relay, two individual firsts, two seconds, a tie for second, a third and a fourth.

Queen Mary school's team placed second with 37 points, four individual firsts, two seconds, two thirds and two fourths. They were leading the seven-team meet at the end of the 10th event by a half a point.

Other teams in the meet were: King George with 32½ points; Grove-Confederation with 18½; Prince of Wales with 12½; Queen Alexandra-Queen Elizabeth with 7; King Edward-Mays with 0.

Central school also won the senior cup with 13½ points while the King George squad placed second with 8½. The intermediate age group trophy will spend the next year in four schools, Queen Mary, Central and Confederation-Grove. Each of these teams massed eight points in the events. Queen Mary school walked away with the junior trophy with 15 points.

Three Records Broken

Three Public School swimming meet records were broken during Wednesday's meet. In the inter-school medley relay race, the first event, the Central school team clipped six seconds off the record held by the Queen Alexandra school team of 1948. The Central school team finished the 120-yard swim in 1:20. 2 minutes.

Several minutes after Jim Heffernan of Central broke the 13 years and under 40-yard breast stroke record, set in 1945 by Art Miller of Prince of Wales School, he saw his 1949 record for the 11 years and under 20-yard breast stroke broken by Ross Dobbin of Queen Mary school. Dobbin's record-breaking time was 14.2 seconds as compared with Heffernan's 1949 time of 15.8 seconds. Heffernan set the 40-yard breast stroke record at 29.8 seconds. Miller's time in 1945 for the event was 31.2 seconds.

According to the regulations of the meet points were awarded to the fastest four times in each event. First place received five points, second three points, third two points and fourth one point. In the relay races first place was awarded 10 points, second seven points, third five points and fourth three points.

Win Diving Trophy

The Cliff McInroy-Stan McBride Diving Trophy returned to King George school after a lapse of two years. The Ashburnham diving team totalled 189 points in the junior, intermediate and senior diving events. Central school placed second with 165, Prince of Wales third with 153 and Queen Mary school fourth with 152.

Lorne Hale of King George school won the McBride-McInroy trophy as the best individual diver. He competed against his brother, Dennis Hale, outstanding intermediate diver, and Jack Rowley from Central school, outstanding senior diver, for the trophy. Lorne was also the outstanding junior diver.

The Examiner trophies for swimming were presented on behalf of the Examiner by Don Grant. Jack Rowley, captain of the Central school team, received the main swimming trophy. Stan McBride and Cliff McInroy, two of Peterborough's outstanding swimmers and divers, presented the diving trophies which were accepted by Lorne Hale.

Officials at the meet were: swimming, starter, Cliff McInroy; timer and referee, Fred Jennings; timers and judges, Alex Sinclair, Gordon Dobbin, Donald Duncan; diving judges, Mrs. Pansy Forbes, Al Clark, Donald Duncan; recorder, Cook Munro; assistant recorders, John Boorman, Ron Smedmore; stewart, William Watson; scorers, Gordon Minty, Ian Blaiklock.

OHA Suggests Sarnia Withdraw

SARNIA, April 6.—(CP).—The Ontario Hockey Association suggested to the Sarnia Sailors today that they withdraw from the O.H.A. Senior B playdowns unless they can fulfill a date for a home-and-home series with Brantford April 7 and 10.

The suggestion was made by George Panter, secretary of the O.H.A., today in a long distanre telephone conversation with Logie Allen, manager of the Sailors.

"At the present time, I can't see how we can play the O.H.A. dates required when the International League playoffs fall on the same dates," Allen commented. "However, we have suggested a post season series with the Senior B winner for a trophy which woold be put up by O.H.A.," he added.

Council Leases

Even on the basis of equalization, Mr. Wocker said that possibly the rents of the No. 11 houses might have to be raised fractionally, at least in some part of a dollar, as an effect of the higher costs entailed in the work on those 100 houses.

No Agreement With Tenants

Mr. Wocker emphasized to the council that there was no agreement between the Corporation and its No. 10 tenants. The only agreement was with the city as a participant in the financing by supplying sites and services. He also stressed the probability that the No. 10 retnals would not be raised above the present rentals.

Equalization was proposed to combine the two projects in overall costs and also in the same rental charges, at least until the total expenditure was ascertained.

If the $34.50-$37.50 rates provided a "cushion" to absorb all or most of the extra cost on No. 11 houses, it was apparently understood that without equalization the tenants of No. 10 would eventually be given some slight advantage in rent by the distribution of that "cushion" between them.

Reeves To Ask

Robert Sutton, Lakefield High School principal, outlined three main reasons why the cost of the addition was not debentured:

One, the property on which the buildings stand is not owned by the High School Board but by the Public School Board. It is rented for $150 a year. After a talk with departmental officials he understood that "due to the insecurity of the tender" a 20-year debenture would be required. This, it was felt, would not be good business.

Two, accommodation for 76 new students coming into the High school area had to be found in September. At the beginning of the term some students were taught in the Town Hall and others were packed into over-size classes. "We were under tremendous pressure," he said, "and had to move quickly."

Three, the new classrooms might be abandoned in four or five years. This would be inevitable should a high school be built.

(At present the students are taught in four rooms of the high school wing, in another room in the basement, and also in the two new class rooms. This fall one of the four rooms in the school will have to be turned back into the hands of the Public School Board to accommodate public school children. This is another knotty problem faced by the High School Board. It had been hoped that two secondary school class rooms would be operating by this fall at Apsley, but there is considerable doubt that the project will go ahead).

Critical of Department

The Reeves, particularly Reeve W. C. Grant of Lakefield, were highly critical of the Department for its "sales talk" in inducing the municipalities to form the Lakefield and District High School area.

Chief complaint was the difference in financial aid expected and actually received.

G. L. Duffin, executive assistant in the secondary schools branch, had assured them of financial help, Reeve Grant stated, and claimed the grant for class rooms would be 75 per cent. Instead the Board had received 50 per cent or thereabouts.

The department's theme was "better education at lower costs." "If some of us had known what to expect we wouldn't have been in such a hurry to form a high school area," he said.

Mr. Sutton said he understood the grants were based on the quality of the classrooms. And those used for secondary education at Lakefield High School were fourth class; consequently scaled down grants were received.

Even the new classrooms were only "temporary" and not built on Board-owned property.

The grants were distributed in such a way as to favor the building of a new high school, said Mr. Sutton. The department did not want temporary accommodation to linger any longer than necessary.

Mr. Sutton went into considerable detail, illustrating his remarks using blackboard and chalk, to explain two greatly increased items on this year's estimates.

Reason for the jump in teachers' salaries from $15,007.18 to $22,000 was not due to exhorbitant individual salaries but an increase in teaching staff plus the usual annual increments.

The $15,000 figure was based on the January to June staff of five regular teachers and a part-time music teacher. At the beginning of the September to December term the staff had increased by two and a half teachers (the half representing a part-time instructor).

And the 1950 estimates take into account the addition of still another teacher, making a total of eight.

All are necessary, said Mr. Sutton. For example there are now two teachers for both Grades IX and X. And there is no sure way of knowing, now that entrance examinations have been thrown out, just how big the September enrolment will be.

He described the $22,000 figure as the "minimum estimate".

It's true that transportation costs have increased almost 100 per cent., but so has the number of students.

Originally the Board started with three bus routes—Apsley with 30 students, Nepheline Mines 20 and Young's Point 8—a total of 58. Now there are five with a total of 112 students—Apsley 35, Nepheline Mines 18, Rockcroft 48, Harvey 9, and miscellaneous (motorists agreeing to pick up schoolchildren) 8.

Thus the costs have soared from $7,644.04 to $14,000.

Board members pointed out that the 1950 grants are expected to be $27,200 but they have received no official word as yet.

They conceded they too were shocked when they saw the huge increase in this year's estimates but the items were all necessary.

"In any case last year's educational bill to the municipalities was ridiculous," was the way Mr. Northey summed up. "We were all at sea as it was the first year of operating and the Board had nothing to go on."

Cost per pupil day at the Lakefield High School was $1.05, said Mr. Sutton, and he felt this was pretty well in line with similar costs in other secondary schools.

(Peterborough Board of Education figures show that the actual cost per pupil day is 93 cents. Several Lakefield academic pupils coming into Peterborough are billed at 91.5 cents. County pupils not in a high school area board are billed at 78.5 cents.)

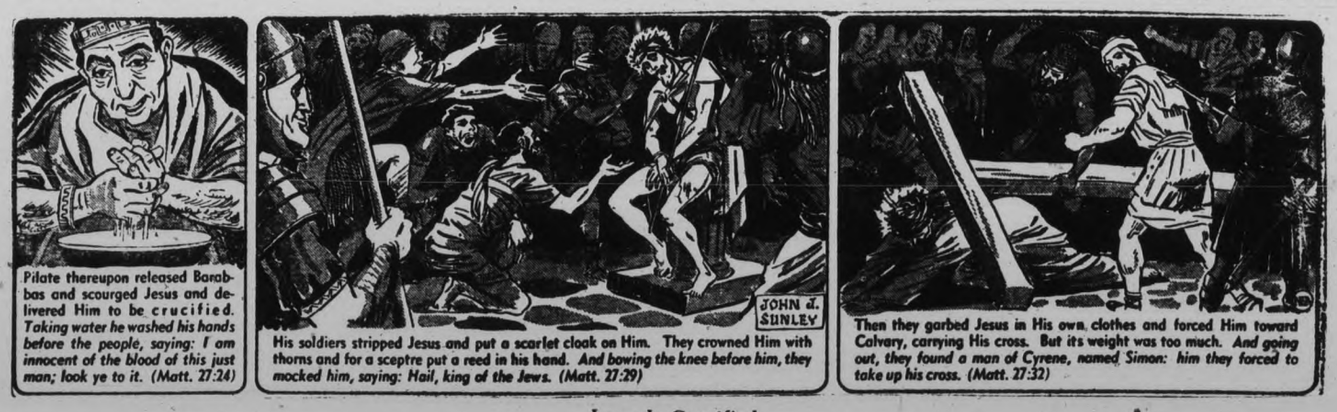
THE EASTER STORY — Jesus Is Mocked — Drawn by John J. Sunley



Pilate thereupon released Barabbas and scourged Jesus and delivered Him to be crucified. Taking water he washed his hands before the people, saying: I am innocent of the blood of this just man; look ye to it. (Matt. 27:24)

His soldiers stripped Jesus and put a scarlet cloak on Him. They crowned Him with thorns and for a sceptre put a reed in his hand. And bowing the knee before him, they mocked him, saying: Hail, king of the Jews. (Matt. 27:29)

Then they garbed Jesus in His own clothes and forced Him toward Calvary, carrying His cross. But its weight was too much. And going out, they found a man of Cyrene, named Simon: him they forced to take up his cross. (Matt. 27:32)

Jesus Is Crucified

They crucified Him, and with Him, two thieves. And they sat and watched His agony, mocking and reviling Him. Darkness covered the earth. After three hours, the end was at hand. And Jesus, again crying with a loud voice, yielded up the ghost. (Matt. 27:50)

That evening, rich Joseph of Arimethea, a disciple of Jesus, begged Pilate for the body of the Saviour. Joseph interred Him in his own new, rock-hewn tomb. And he rolled a great stone to the door of the monument, and went his (Matt. 27:60)

War Casualties Smaller Than Expected, U.K. Reveals

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, April 6. (CP) — A flashback on Britain's days of blitz implies that German bombs may have helped create the present welfare state.

Other conclusion, drawn in an official history of the "Home Front" during the Second World War, are that individual men and women bore their burdens with great gallantry, and that civilian casualties under mass bombing were much smaller than anticipated.

The history, one of a series of 20 war studies sponsored by the British Government, has just been published under the title, "Problems of Social Security."

The author, Richard Titmuss, says that during the war the government took a concern for the well-being of the population which was "little short of remarkable compared with the government's role in pre-war years.

". . . It was increasingly regarded as a proper function or even obligation of the government to ward off distress and stress among not only the poor but almost all classes of society," Titmuss writes.

Mass Burials

The book, while stressing individual heroisms, says that the blitz dangers were over-rated.

In 1937, it was officially judged that an all-out air attack lasting 60 days would kill 600,000 persons and injure 1,200,000. The Air Ministry esimated casualty hospitals would require up to 2,800,000 beds.

The Home Office thought in terms of mass burials and the burning of bodies in lime. More than 1,000,000 burial forms were distributed to local authorities, which on their own bought shrouds and papier mache coffins. The Home Office hired 10,000 tents for blitz victims, later removing them because their "startling whiteness" made people panicky.

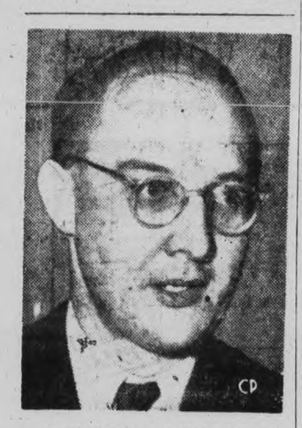
Doctors said psychiatric casualties might exceed physical sufferers by 3 to 1.

Subtle Toll

There were more subtle damages, such as a weakening of family bonds and distribution of education. Titmuss comments:

Instead, official figures show that the number of civilians killed by enemy action in Britain totalled 60,595. The number of wounded totalled 401,000, comprising 86,000 severely wounded, 150,000 slightly injured and 165,000 treated at first-aid posts.

"Perhaps more lasting harm was wrought to the minds and to the hearts of men, women and children than to their bodies."



PREDICTS A-BOMB WARFARE—Dr. L. G. Cook, one of Canada's leading atomic scientists, told the Ottawa Rotary Club that the world faces atomic warfare within the lifetime of her children. He said Canada is in danger of falling behind in the world's atomic race unless she pours more men and money into efforts to keep up front.

Remember When—

Wired For Ventilation

CLEVELAND, April 6—(AP)—Development of a direct drive electrically - operated apparatus for opening and closing automobile windows was announced today by the Hupp Corporation. The device would provide for regular hand crank operation if desired. Other such mechanisms are on the market, but feature hydraulic or vacuum lifts for the windows.

Back In Harness

OSHAWA, April 6 — (CP) — Lockhart W. Trinnell, 55, who retired in 1939 after 25 years on the Toronto police force, will get back into the harness May 1 when he takes over as Pickering's chief constable. He was selected over 45 other applicants to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Chief Irvine.

Caesarians Too Often

WINNIPEG, April 6 (CP). — Dr. Elinor Black, Assistant Professor of Obstetrics and Gynaecology at the University of Manitoba, says caesarean operations are too frequent in modern childbirth. She told a sectional meeting of the American College of Surgeons that normal delivery methods should be encouraged.

Ship Owners Keep Wary Eye On Foreign Trade

By The Canadian Press

Canada's deep-sea ship owners, busily preparing their vessels for the 1950 season, are keeping an anxious eye on the foreign trade situation.

A Canadian Press survey today shows that the shipping men feel that to a large extent, their volume of business this year will depend on capturing new export markets and increasing now-curtailed overseas shipments.

However, shipping lines again count on moving a vast volume of Canadian grain to hungry lands abroad. Grain experts in Winnipeg predict that as much grain will be shipped this year as in 1949, which was considered a good year.

More Wheat

More wheat is available in elevators at Port Arthur and Fort William than was on hand there at this time last year. It will start moving eastward when great lakes navigation gets under way during the next two or three weeks.

Loss of the British lumber market will be reflected this season in a drop in activity on the Vancouver waterfront. There is a possibility of increased traffic in general freight between west coast and Atlantic ports, by way of the Panama Canal, to offset a boost in railway freight rates.

Canada's far-north port of Churchill, Man., will start its seasonal activity later than most other harbors.

Stored In Montreal

Montreal, awaiting the arrival of grain from lakehead elevators, now has only 800,000 bushels in storage. Until the great lakes ships refill elevators at Montreal, the busiest port in Quebec province are expected to be Quebec City, Sorel and Three Rivers.

Halifax shippers are divided in their predictions for summer business. Some expect freight shipments to the United Kingdom to be "fair," while others expect a drop from last year. Far east trade is holding steady.

Passenger lines sailing from Halifax are booked solidly for summer voyages to the United Kingdom and return. The Cunard-White Star Line expects a decrease in passenger volume as a result of removal from service of the veteran liner Aquitania, which brought 1,800 persons every three weeks.

Mine Owner Dies

TORONTO, April 6 — (CP) — Samuel Earl McCullough, 59, owner of mining properties in Northern Ontario and Quebec, died Wednesday. Borne at Almonte, he had resided in Toronto for 45 years. He is survived by his widow, two daughters and two sons.

LEARNING THE HARD WAY —Jacques Henri Istel, 21, took off April 1 from Vancouver bound for New York in a war-surplus training plane. He left Vancouver two weeks after getting a pilot's licence flying the plane he bought for $400. He said he knew little about map-reading and proved it within 48 hours when, aiming for Portland, Ore., he landed off course, first in Tacoma, Wash., and later in Salem, Ore.

LIBERAL CANDIDATE — Harold F. Lazier, K.C., is the Liberal candidate in the May 15 Hamilton West federal by-election. During the second world war, Mr. Lazier served with the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry and was taken prisoner at Dieppe. His CCF opponent, Alfred Collingdon, also served with the regiment and was taken prisoner at Dieppe.

Uranium Profit Secret

OTTAWA, April 6 — (CP) — The government declined Wednesday in the Commons to say how much profit or loss per pound was made in the production of uranium by the Eldorado Mining and Refining Company. Sale of the strategic metal by the government-owned company at Port Hope, is covered by contracts subject to security regulations, Trade Minister Howe said in an answer tabled for Percy Wright (CCF-Melford).

Farmer Gored By Bull

CHESTERVILLE, April 6 (CP) —James Purvis, 72-year-old district farmer, was found gored to death by a bull in a pasture near his home.

The man's body was found in the field by a party of men working in a bush near the Purvis home, after Mrs. Purvis became worried about her husband's return. It is believed he had been lying in the field for some time.

Chesterville is 42 miles south of Ottawa.

Education Commission Survives; Budget Approved

TORONTO, April 6.—(CP). — The Ontario Legislature in a night sitting approved estimates of the Education Department.

By a vote of 40 to 24 the Legislature defeated a motion by C. H. Millard (CCF-York West) which would have reduced the appropriation for the Royal Commission on Education estimates from $50,000 to $1.

The Commission was appointed in 1945 and Premier Frost presented a review of the Commission's work in replying to Opposition criticism of the fact it has not yet presented a complete report.

Premier Frost said the Commission had been making "excellent progress in the face of an enormous task which is not fully realized by our people, or indeed by the House."

Mr. Frost presented a review of the Commission's work which he indicated he had received from the Commission.

It began in April, 1945, to hear submissions and hear evidence and continued to do so until 1946. Twelve public sessions were held. Recorded evidence amounted to some 2,500,000 words.

This was "the end of the beginning—the first stage," he said.

Special committees and investigators were appointed to study education under other jurisdictions in January, 1947, and continued their work for 18 months.

The committee then called for special reports on special education topics. Twenty-three of these were prepared.

Five standing committees were appointed to study and digest the submissions, evidence and special reports. This was completed in September, 1949.

A first draft of the report was made and recommendations to be incorporated were reconsidered and revised in private sessions ending last January.

"At present the commission is preparing and editing the final draft of its report for submission to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council," Mr. Frost said.

The commission chairman is Mr. Justice J. A. Hope. There are 20 members, all Ontario residents representing various interests.

"Obviously the government and the people are not bound by the report," Mr. Frost said. "On the other hand, we all believe that the report will contain matters which will be of moment and interest to the people and the province."

Harry Nixon (Lib.-Brant) said the commission after sitting for five years had produced nothing more than a recommendation that teaching standards be lowered to meet a shortage of teachers.

"This report was ill-advised and met with no favor whatsoever anywhere in the province," he said.

CCF leader E. B. Jolliffe said opposition members had been charged with discourtesy for criticising the commission.

"No matter how eminent the members of the commission might be the people of Ontario have a right to call them to account."

Mr. Millard's motion was designed "to shake this government out of its complacency, and particularly the Minister of Education who is the most complacent man who ever ambled across the political stage of this province."

Education Minister Porter, discussing estimates for education grants said the grants for vocational schools were some $700,000 less this year because higher grants for vocational schools were discouraging municipalities from building academic high schools which might be more suitable for their particular purpose.

$370,000 FIRE BURNS RECORD PLANT

Painter Dies In Explosion Of Gas Fumes

Man Blazing Torch Second Gas Fire Makes 14 Homeless

OTTAWA, April 8—(CP)—Fire authorities today blamed naphtha gas fumes for two Easter Friday explosions and fires. One man died a human-torch death as he tried to escape from a flaming steam tank in the boiler-room of a department store.

Robert Robinson, 52-year-old suburban Billings Bridge painter, was stunned by an explosion in the confines of a 12-foot tank. He died in his flaming clothing at the mouth of an escape hatch.

A fellow worker, Theodore Louis-Seize, 43, Billings Bridge, was badly burned trying to pull Robinson from the tank. He was taken to hospital.

Fire authorities blamed the sudden igniting of fumes from naphtha gas being used to clean the tank.

Earlier Mrs. Annie Wyatt, using a rag soaked with naphtha gas to clean a hat in her Bank Street apartment, saw it suddenly explode and start a fire that damaged a number of flats and business premises and left 14 persons homeless.

Her housecoat caught fire but she threw it off, shouted an alarm and fled to the street with only a burned wrist and singed eyebrows. Her two pet dogs died in the flames.

Robinson was working with other men cleaning the boiler-room tank at Freiman Limited, a Rideau Street department store. The store was closed for Easter Friday. He had just relieved another worker in the tank and had been lowered an electric light when the explosion occurred.

Fire Chief Gray Burnett said a short circuit in the light may have caused the naphtha gas to explode.

Expect Strike In Britain Of 3,000,000

Predict UK Workers Will Demand Salary Increases

LONDON, April 8—(AP)—British labor leaders Thursday night predicted almost 3,000,000 workers in the key engineering and ship-building industries will strike next summer for wage increases.

Fighting the Labor government's anti-inflationary wage freeze, the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions announced it will send ballots Wednesday to 37 affiliated unions. The unions will vote on whether a demand for a raise of 20 shillings ($3.10) a week should be backed by a strike or should be submitted to arbitration.

The workers now are paid between 84s. and 106s. (About $13 to $16.40) a week.

Union Secretary Gavin Martin said if a two-thirds majority favored a strike, "and we expect one," the walkout will be called.

No Respect!

NICE, France, April 8 — (AP)—The Aga Khan and his wife, The Begum, just aren't safe from thieves these days.

Last year a holdup gang stopped their automobile outside their villa, Yakimour, near here and took jewelry valued at thousands of dollars. Much of the loot has since been recovered.

Friday night the Aga Khan's staff reported to police that someone had entered the villa gardens and raided the clothesline.

The loot was 10 pairs of panties and six brassieres.

Two-Alarm Blaze Wrecks New 3-Storey Building; Firemen Battle Two Hours

Chemical Composition Of 200,000 Records Feeds Roaring Flames; Firemen Hurt Cosmetics Firm, Steel Co., Hard Hit

TORONTO, April 8—(CP)—A stubborn two-alarm fire burned out business premises in a three-storey brick structure on west-central Richmond Street West Friday night, causing damage estimated at more than $370,000. Apex Distributing Company, Ontario agents for Decca records, suffered heaviest damage. Lee Harris Ltd., a cosmetics firm, and Jessop Steel Company, were also hard hit. Firemen said the chemical composition of about 200,000 records on the second floor premises of the distributing agency sent the fire raging through the structure, built a year ago. Firemen battled more than two hours before bringing the blaze under control.

George Offer, manager of the distributing company, estimated the loss to his firm at $125,000, including equipment in addition to the records. Loss to the cosmetics firm, a manufacturing plant on the top floor, is believed to be about $60,000.

Several firemen suffered cuts from flying glass but none required hospital treatment.

Firemen prevented the flames spreading to adjoining buildings.

Yaslav Nijinsky Great Dancer Dies In London

LONDON, April 8 (AP)—Yaslav Nijinsky, 60, one of the world's greatest dancers, died in a London clinic today. He had been insane for 31 years.

He was admitted to the clinic Thursday suffering from nephritis, an inflammation of the kidneys. A member of the family said that was the cause of death.

Nijinsky, a native of Russia, had come to Britain in his long search for mental health. His mind gave way in 1919, when he was at the height of his career. Many critics unhesitatingly called him the greatest dancer who ever lived.

His devoted wife, Romola, nursed him throughout his long years of mental darkness.

Nijinsky was born in Kiev on Feb. 28, 1890, while his mother was on a dancing tour. His birth certificate was filed in Warsaw, Poland, however, to save him from Russian military service.

He was nicknamed "Kitajec" (China-man) because of his Oriental appearance.

After his graduation from the Imperial School of Dancing he joined the Imperial Russian Ballet, where under the tutelage of Sergei Daighilev he quickly became its brightest star. He stormed Paris in a ballet organized by Diaghilev.

At the start of the first world war he was arrested in Budapest, Hungary, as a spy when detectives found in his rooms a series of drawings they thought were in code. He proved they were the mechanics of his new dances.

Debut In New York

He was held in a concentration camp until 1916 when the late Otto Kahn, New York patron of arts, persuaded the Hungarian government to parole him. Nijinsky's debut in New York's Metropolitan Opera House was a huge success.

He was noted for his tremendous and graceful leaps about the stage—leaps that appeared to defy gravity.

After a tour of the United States he went back to Europe where his mind began to fade. In 1919 he was pronounced insane. His mental condition was diagnosed as schizophrenia, split personality.

Arctic Air Sets Fur Coast Styles For Easter Day

TORONTO, April 8 (CP)—Fur coats may hide those new spring dresses tomorrow in Ontario's Easter parade.

The public weather office, in a special "cold wave warning," predicted today that temperature will drop tonight to 10-15 degrees above zero in southern Ontario and to 15-20 below in Northern Ontario.

"Arctic air now covers all of Ontario," the forecaster added.

The outlook for Easter Sunday is "clear and very cold." But slackening winds and a strong April sun will likely take off some of the chill for Easter paraders.

Farm Support Sought By CCF Party

TORONTO, April 8 (CP) — Ontario's CCF party is worried over the farm votes.

Delegates at the annual convention Friday criticized a farm report and said that until the CCF obtains a large measure of farm support it can never hope to form a government.

The report, presented by T. H. Isley, Legislature member for Waterloo South, was approved only after provincial leader E. B. Jolliffe ended the discussion with a plea for its approval. Several delegates asked rejection, claiming it contained nothing to justify support.

Illness of the farm committee chairman handicapped the work, it was explained.

Ready For Socialism

Andrew Lane, delegate from Ontario South, declared it was no secret that the CCF did not have the support of farmers. He said the farmer "is ready psychologically for Socialism, but he doesn't consider the CCF the medium for the change."

Agnes Macphail, member for York East, urged delegates to seize every opportunity to make sympathetic contact with farm organizations. She thought farmers disillusioned with the loss of overseas markets, will put up their own candidates for political office.

"The best we can do is to set up a connecting link and co-operate with them," said Miss Macphail. "Farmers don't like straitjackets. We are asking them to come into our organization and do things our way. They don't like that. They are starting to think

Exhume Bodies, Believe Poison Fiend On Loose

PETERBOROUGH, Northamptonshire, England, April 8—(Reuters)—Police today sought to discover whether several Fenland villagers who died "from natural causes" during the last 12 years were victims of a poison fiend. They have exhumed the bodies of Ernest Thrower, 9, and Henry Scarfe, 78, who died within a few weeks of each other at the village of Whaplode Drove, Lincolnshire.

Top pathologists from the home office are studying chemical reactions on organs from these men to decide whether they were poisoned.

If they were, at least three more bodies will be lifted from their graves, and possibly more.

The police investigations have been going on in great secrecy for several months.

They concern, in addition to Thrower and Scarfe, the deaths of Mrs. Ivy Gladys Scotney, 28, in 1943; Harry Brookbanks, 68, in 1944; and Thomas Powell, 56, in 1938.

The bodies of Brookbanks and Mrs. Scotney are in the churchyard at Farcet, village of 1,243 people near here.

A mile away, in Yaxley village churchyard, lies Powell's body.

Anonymous letters have asked: "how long are these mystery deaths to continue?".

First results of the post-mortems are expected next week.

Trieste Claimed By Italy-Sforza

MILAN, Italy, April 8—(AP)—Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza warned the western powers today Italy would not give up her claim to Trieste.

In a speech reflecting widespread Italian fears of an Allied about-face on the free territory, Sforza renewed his country's offers to settle all differences with Yugoslavia—which controls part of the Trieste territory—by direct negotiation.

But he emphasized the starting point for any accord must be the return of Trieste to Italy. Trieste was established as a free territory by the Italian peace treaty. Russia has consistently blocked its return.

India, Pakistan Agree End Strife

NEW DEHLI, April 8—(AP)—India and Pakistan concluded an agreement today aimed at putting an end to bitter strike between Hindus and Moslems in the two countries.

A communique announcing the agreement was issued an hour after Pakistan's prime minister, Liaquat Ali Khan, departed for his own capital at Karachi after seven days of discussions with India's prime minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

Details of the agreement, aiming at ending the communal violence which threatened to bring war between the two neighboring countries, will not be released until Monday, when they are to be presented to the parliaments of the two countries.

Walter Huston, Actor Dies Suddenly At 66

HOLLYWOOD, April 8 (AP)—The movie and stage world is mourning today for one of its most beloved craftsmen—Walter Huston, the actor's actor.

The rangy, Toronto-born veteran of 48 years in the theatre died of a heart attack Friday—the morning after his 66th birthday.

Tributes from his fellow workers streamed in for the versatile actor who was an established star on Broadway for years before he came west to carve as deep a niche in Hollywood's hall of fame.

But the most touching salute to an old trouper came from his son, Director John Huston, in a description of his father's last moments:

"He died peacefully and without struggle. I have never seen so quiet a death. He died as modestly as he had lived."

U.S. Unprepared For Atom Attack

CLEVELAND, April 8 (AP) — Physicians from Canada and the United States got some idea here Friday of what they would face in the event of an atomic attack.

They met at Western Reserve University under the sponsorship of the United States Atomic Energy Commission and were told the U.S. is unprepared to cope with an atomic disaster.

Dr. Frank M. Barry, Western Reserve assistant professor of surgery, outlined the problem by telling of the "tremendous" quantities of blood, petroleum jelly and gauze needed to treat casualties.

He pointed out that present methods of treating burns require the services of several nurses and four or five surgeons and assistants to treat one person with a burn covering 60 per cent of his body.

Such treatment, he continued, would be impossible for the number of persons it is predicted one atomic bomb would burn.

Belgian Gov't Not Formed Yet

BRUSSELS, Belgium, April 8—(AP) — Premier-designate Paul Van Zeeland said today he had failed to form a government to bring King Leopold III back to his throne. He hopes to complete a cabinet by Tuesday.

"Slight last-minute difficulties," said the Social-Christian supporter of the exiled Monarch, prevented his finishing the Cabinet lineup he had expected to present for regent Prince Charles' approval at noon today.

The Socialist party, controlling 29.78 per cent. of the electorate, promised a fight to the finish against both the government and the King. Reliable sources said the Socialists were ready to issue orders for "Stop Leopold" strikes.

The Socialist leader, former Premier Paul-Henri Spaak, in a radio speech Friday night said his party was being asked to accept Leopold as "King forever" and "we shall never accept this."

Unemployment Jumps 125,000 In One Year

OTTAWA, April 8 (CP) —Despite the spring pick-up in jobs unemployment in Canada is still increasing slowly and is almost 50 per cent over what it was this time last year.

The labor department announced Thursday that the number of persons seeking jobs through National Employment Service—the rough barometer of unemployment—was 375,900 at March 16, which was 1,100 up from a week before.

At mid-March of last year, the service had 255,356 job-hunters.

2,869 Guerrillas Quit To Chinese Nationalists

TAIPEI, Formosa, April 8. — (AP).—The Chinese Nationalists today claimed progress in their drive against long-established Communist guerrillas on invasion-threatened Hainan Island.

Dispatches from the big island 10 miles south of China asserted Nationalist troops have taken seven villages and accepted the surrender of 2,869 guerrillas in six weeks through the end of March.

The dispatches said the failure of Communist regulars to gain a foothold on Hainan in several invasion attempts has lowered the morale of the guerrillas.

Queymoy, another Nationalist island threatened by Red invasion, reported an outbreak of bubonic plague. Nine cases have been discovered on the 50-square-mile island, vital point for the defence of Formosa.

COVINA, Calif., April 8—(AP)—A 16-year-old high school girl, Dulcy Nelson, was kidnapped early today as she sat in her boy friend's car in front of her home. Her boy friend, Donald Oelrich, 16, reported that a man about 30 flashed a light on the couple, ordered Donald from the car, then got in and drove away with the girl.

Vet Owes U.S. $5,680 'Haven't Got 80 Cents'

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 8—(AP)—A former war veteran who had been expected an army insurance cheque got the surprise of his life when he opened a letter from the government.

The letter said: "You owe the United States $5,680."

Arthur Washington, a hotel porter, read on.

Seems the Army had been paying Washington's estranged wife $80 a month family allowance from the day of his discharge in October, 1943, to Sept. 30, 1949.

The letter from the Army finance centre at St. Louis added that the situation had "created an indebtedness of $5,680."

Washington, who said he and his wife had separated six years ago, took the letter in stride.

"I haven't got 80 cents," he said.

Booming Year In 1951

Canada Expects Tourist Trade Record

By The Canadian Press

Although competition is keener than ever, Canada's tourist and travel agencies are preparing this year for the biggest tourist season in history.

Last year 1,990,000 automobiles entered the country and 3,406,000 visitors came by boat, train, plane and bus. But the number of inquiries being received these days indicates those figures will be far outstripped during 1950.

Most of the visitors, as usual, will come from the United States, a Canadian Press survey shows. The premium on the American dollar is a special inducement. More Canadians are expected to visit unfamiliar parts of their own country than in previous years.

Canada's new province, Newfoundland, is having its entire tourist industry revamped under the supervision of tourist chief D. Leo Dolan. Most Newfoundland visitors are attracted by the splendid salmon fishing, and many take boat trips around the island's rugged coasts.

Most visitors to Prince Edward Island in previous years came from other parts of Canada but half of this year's inquiries—more numerous than in any years since the war—are coming from Americans.

New Brunswick's scene seashore and fine fishing also are expected to attract more visitors than the 128,830 who called last year. The province's tourist season is gradually expanding with a trend toward more September and October visits.

Picturesque Quebec has 35,000 hotels, tourist cabins and guest houses to accommodate the millions of tourists expected this year. In 1949, 3,500,000 visitors spent $125,000,000 mostly while motoring through the province or on fishing trips.

Ontario is prepared to offer more and better accommodation than ever to visitors who come for the scenery, sport and fishing. More tourists are expected than in 1949 when the increase in the number of automobiles entering the province, compared with the previous year, was greater than the total gains in all other provinces.

Manitoba has opened 23 new auto camps, built new roads and improved old ones in anticipation of a flock of visitors to top last year's record-shattering 400,000. Inquiries, up to 80 per cent over 1949, indicate new interest in the north, where an extension to the Flin Flon highway will open new game-fishing grounds.

UK Exports To Canada Face Many Obstacles

GLASGOW, April 8. (CP) — The question of increasing Britain's exports to Canada and the United States isn't as easy as it sounds, says Harry Yates, president of the Glasgow Chamber of Commerce.

In a speech at a meeting of directors, he said Canadians are often puzzled because British manufacturers sometimes are unable to meet Canadian demands.

But it should be remembered that the demand for British products, both from sterling and dollar countries, often outstripped the capacity of manufacturers; and that in sterling areas Britain had to meet competition from many European countries, Japan and the United States.

"If supplies were diverted elsewhere," Yates said, "the market might be lost altogether and possibly only a very temporary footing gained in the Canadian market."

Introduced Into Age-Old Ceremony

Modern Cigarette Lighter Replaces Steel and Flint

The modern cigarette lighter has been optionally introduced into the age old ceremonial of Easter in the Roman Catholic Church.

Bishop Gerald Berry permits the substitution of the common pocket gadget in the lighting of the new fire on Easter Saturday morning.

Only the method of striking the light is changed. The substances of tradition are the same. It is one of man's primitive ways of making fire and bringing light and warmth into his life—by striking steel on flint.

It is understood that Bishop Berry has given permission to any of the priests of the diocese of Peterborough to use the automatic lighter if they wish to do so.

The lighting of the new fire is one of the details of the rites of Easter Saturday morning. In preparation for it the parish priest or sexton has customarily cut fine shavings onto a metal plate in the vestibule to be lighted by the sparks flung off when steel strikes the hard quartz flint.

That little operation out of the past before matches were ever imagined usually took some time to start a flame in the shavings. The cigarette lighter does it in one gesture, that is if it is entirely dependable.

Then a wax taper lighted at that fire, is taken into the church, and is used to relight the tiny oil lamp in the sanctuary, symbol of the presence of the Blessed Eucharist, which was extinguished on Good Friday, when the Sacrament was removed from the tabernacle, signifying the tragedy of Calvary.

The special candles and the Paschal candle of the Easter period are also lighted from the same fire.

Essentially this rite was adopted from the pagan celebration of the transcendence of spring over winter.

Their seasonal fire was made by the friction of wood against wood. Early Christians, assimilating some of the forms of pagan worship, assumed the fire of Easter and referred it to the fiery column in the desert, and diverted it as a symbol of the resurrection of Jesus Christ as the light of the world emerging from the tomb which had been closed with a great stone, represented by flint of the fire ceremony.

Posed As Man 5 Years Married Girl, Jailed

VIENNA, April 8 (Reuters) — A slim, short-haired woman of 35, known as "Ferdinand," went to jail at Graz today after living undiscovered as a "married man" for five years.

A Graz court sentenced her to seven months imprisonment for having posed as a man, "married" an 18-year-old girl and forged documents by changing the sex from female to male.

The judge told Margaret Hoefler—her real name—that she was "a disgrace to womanhood."

Two Watchmen Stabbed In N.Y. Store

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP) —Fingerprints on a dead man's shoe gave police a lead to follow last night in the murder mystery of two night watchmen cut down Thursday night in the darkness of a big department store.

The fingerprints, not yet identified, were on the shoes of Oliver R. Hess, 56, who with John C. Carpenter, 66, was stabbed repeatedly shortly after midnight last night. The prints indicated the killer dragged Hess by his feet.

Carpenter's body, bound and gagged, was found in a first-floor washroom. The second victim was found near an open freight elevator on the sixth floor. A blood - stained butcher knife which Coroner A. Magruder Macdonald said was the death weapon was found outside the washroom door

Detectives said the knife was one which had been in use in the kitchen of the store's tea-room on the second floor. Kitchen employees were at a loss to account for theft of the weapon.

Police said Carpenter must have put up a stiff fight. Near the body were his broken glasses.

They said that Hess probably never knew what hit him as he opened the elevator door on his rounds through the store. Bloodstains indicated his body had been dragged out of the elevator.

Each victim had been stabbed several times.

The slayings apparently took place between 12.15 and 1.15 a.m. A detective agency whose security system covers the store reported the watchmen failed to punch in the 1.15.

Carpenter's body was discovered by two metal workers who had been repairing an outside door. Police found the other corpse upstairs as they swarmed over the store in a hunt for Carpenter's assailant.

Police admitted they had little to go on, other than it seemed probable the men were attacked by one or more burglars. There was no indication, however, that any money or merchandise had been removed from the store.

Killed Brother Cancer Ridden, Man Convicted

ALLENTOWN, Pa., April 8 — (AP)—A man the state claimed "stepped in the shoes of God" to kill his blind, cancer-stricken brother, was convicted Friday of voluntary manslaughter.

The jury of four women and eight men convicted Harold A. Mohr, 36-year-old tannery worker, in the rifle slaying of his brother, Walter, 55, at their home in nearby Coplay, March 8. The jury recommended mercy.

It was the third conviction for a so-called mercy killing on record in the United States. Oddly enough, the other two also were at Allentown. The previous convictions were for murder and voluntary manslaughter.

Mohr's lawyer, Harry C. Creveling, pleaded for acquittal on the ground of temporary insanity. Two psychiatrists testified Mohr's find cracked under long duress from horrors in his home.

The jury's mercy recommendation apparently hinged on gruesome descriptions by District Attorney Kenneth H. Koch, the defence lawyers and the psychiatrists of conditions in tn the stench filled Mohr home during the last year of Walter Mohr's life.

Witnesses testified cancer had rotted away all of Walter's face except his lips, causing an odor throughout the home.

Harold testified his mind was blank from the time Walter asked him for a cup of coffee the night of the slaying until he awoke the next morning in prison. He and his brothers said Walter repeatedly asked to be put out of his misery.

Judge James F. Henninger promised to take the jury's plea into consideration. Sentence was delayed pending a possible request for a new trial. The maximum penalty is 12 years in prison plus a fine of up to $6,000.

The tall, thin Mohr sat motionless while the verdict was read.

Montreal Policeman Kills Fleeing Man

MONTREAL, April 8 (CP) — An unidentified man was shot to death Friday night by a Montreal policeman when he failed to heed a warning to stop.

Police said two officers were sent to investigate a noise at the rear of a drug store on midtown St. Lawrence Boulevard. From the roof, they spotted two men in the back yard. They ordered them to remain where they were but the men took to their heels. After firing a warning shot Constable Guy Goudreault fired as one of the men was climbing over a fence, the bullet striking the man in the back and killing him.

The other man got away.

Teacher Admits Offences Against 3 Boy Students

KIRKLAND LAKE, April 8—A school teacher Thursday pleaded guilty in Magistrate Siegfried Atkinson's court on a charge of contributing to juvenile delinquency by indecently assaulting three students in his class.

A one week remand was ordered for 26-year-old Robert Rosewarren of Bourkes, 25 miles north of Kirkland Lake, pending psychiatric examination and consultation with the Ontario Department of Education.

Provincial police said at least three boys, six and seven years of age, had been assaulted by Rosewarren. The last incident occurred two weeks ago. The six-year-old boy complained to his parents who told the school board. Bourkes authorities state Rosewarren admitted the occurrences, and he was dismissed from his teaching position April 3. He had been employed there since September, 1949.

A special report to the Ontario Department of Education is being made by J. H. Kennedy of Kirkland Lake, inspector for public schools in this area.

Provincial police testified that Rosewarren admitted similar offenses at the other schools where he had taught, including the last one at Glenvale.

Bourkes parents have kept children from school since last week.

Police said two other children in the school also made complaints about their teacher's behavior. Corp. Sam Whitehouse testified that when he asked Rosewarren if he had ever considered the possibility of suicide, or murder of the children, Rosewarren had replied: "Don't worry. I've often thought of that."

"In our legal system," Magistrate Atkinson commented, "we haven't any institution to help a man correct such an affliction, except to declare him insane. But it must be remembered that society must be protected from such individuals."

Falls Eighteen Feet From Roof Of House

Roger Armstrong, 629 Stewart St., had a lucky escape from serious injury or even death when he fell 18 feet from the roof of his house Friday. Falling from the top of the house, he bounced against the verandah before landing on the ground.

Only injuries are fractures to both heels. He is reported recovering satisfactorily in Civic Hospital.

$100,000 Fire Set To Hide $50 Theft

OTTAWA, April 8—(CP)—A $100,000 warehouse fire was apparently set by thieves Wednesday night in an attempt to cover up a $50 robbery.

Police indicated today they believe thieves deliberately started the fire after ransacking a safe and cabinet in the Breeze Hill building of Sparks Warehousing Ltd.

Ivan Sparks, general manager of the storage firm, said about $50 in cash and a stack of cheques and papers were taken. He added that the cheques and papers were of no value to anyone but the company.

There was no official comment on the possibility that the thieves were after papers and other belongings of foreign diplomats.

Facilities of the firm have been used by diplomats of many foreign countries including those behind the Iron Curtain, to store documents and furniture.

Police said preliminary investigation indicated that a light panel truck in which Sills and Guest were riding crashed into the rear of a transport truck that had stopped on the highway. They said the transport driver hadn't had time to put out flares before the crash.

Unidentified Body Victim Of Violence

NEWARK, N.J., April 8.—(AP).—Wayne county authorities and state police are seeking the identify of a man who, they say, apparently died by violence and was thrown into Lake Ontario at least four months ago.

The body was found on the shore near Pultneyville a week ago. It was nude except for a blue and white flowered necktie.

Coroner Arthur Besemer said the man died of a skull fracture and cerebral concussion.

The body was believed at first to be that of a drowning victim —possibly from the steamship Noronic which burned at a Toronto dock last September with the loss of 119 lives.

Seek To Raise $5,000 To Aid Athletics

The Catholic High School Advisory Club, a unique organization in the city, has announced a campaign to raise $5,000 by voluntary subscription to more actively support a program of athletics and physical training during the next two to three years. R. S. Hull, club president, announced the campaign will open on April 17 and a canvas conducted.

"Last year an athletic director was added to the teaching staff and fathers of those attending school offered what help they could towards promoting sports. In addition to a grant from the Separate School Board, they offered transportation and moral support to the boys taking part in competitive sports.

"Last year, a grant from the Separate School Board took care of the athletic program until spring of this year," he said. "This helped enter our high school teams into competitive sports and helped carry out the various phases of the athletic program." However, he pointed out, the expanded program starting in the fall will require the formation of additional teams for entry into league competition. This will require additional equipment for which no funds are available.

In an effort to rectify this situation, the Catholic High School Advisory Club has undertaken to raise the necessary funds. Canvassers will visit all Catholic homes in the city with a request for a donation to a fund for the assistance of sports in the Catholic high school.

"We appeal to all Catholics in the city to support our campaign generously, donate within your means and thus ensure the success of our campaign," Mr. Hull said.

Msgr. P. P. Butler indicated that the attendance at the high school would be increased considerably within the next few years. The present program to support sports might very well be considered a sound foundation for something more extensive that would be a part of the regular curriculum for years to come.

our way, but they don't call it CCF."

J. S. Wagner of Kitchener said young farmers are willing to support the CCF but the older ones are reluctant.

Walter Mann of Ottawa suggested shaking up the provincial council "which has done nothing."

He called for continued effort in farming constituencies.

Loss of Markets

The convention adopted a resolution which charged the Federal government with bringing about loss of overseas markets because of neglect and called for immediate action to protect farm income.

Earlier the convention unanimously adopted a resolution calling on the Ontario government to take a constructive position at the forthcoming Dominion-Provincial conference "so that the Federal government shall take full responsibility for all employable unemployed."

Until such a program is adopted the resolution said, the Ontario government should accept this responsibility.

Legislature May Revise Salaries, Committee Set

TORONTO, April 8 — (CP) — The second session of the 23rd Ontario Legislature was prorogued Thursday after a seven-week sitting which saw 118 Bills passed, including a new Labor Code and legislation to permit Sunday sports.

In the last days, members of the 90-seat Legislature sat morning, afternoon and night to finish before Easter. Premier Frost told the House the Legislature's next session will be called two or three weeks earlier than this year's February 16 date.

Just before prorogation, the Legislature on a motion by CCF Leader E. B. Jolliffe appointed a committee to study the indemnities, allowances and salaries of members with a view to revising them. The committee includes three Progressive Conservatives, one CCF, a Liberal and a Labor-Progressive.

The Conservatives are Bryan Cathcart (Lambton West), Charles Rea (Toronto St. Patrick) and William Murdoch (Essex South). The others are W. J. Grummett (CCF - Cochrane South), Harry Nixon (L-Brant), and A. A. MacLead (Lab.-P., Toronto Bellwoods).

Memebrs Get $3,000

The Premier is entitled to $14,000 salary, but takes only $11,995.

The session was prorogued by Chief Justice R. S. Robertson, administrator of the province, acting on behalf of the vacationing Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson.

Soap Box Derby Plans Bigger

Two new classes have been added to the 1950 version of the Y's Men's Soap Box Derby. The club's derby committee has decided to have three classes of events instead of the one which has dominated the derby in the last two years.

The club will hold races for the same type of car as used in there derbies, in addition will be an event for any car which will pass safety tests and a third race (which has yet to be confirmed) in connection with the playgrounds in the city.

Cook Munro said the first class will be cars solely made by the boys at a cost of six dollars or less, $6, excluding the cost of the axels and wheels. The second class will include cars which may only consist of a steering system, a wooden plank and wheels. As long as the car will take the boy safely down the hill, it will be eligible.

Cups and trophies will be given the winners of each division. Last year the prizes were a CCM bicycle, a fishing rod and reel, a baseball glove and ball.

Change Location

Mr. Munro added that the location of the derby may be changed this year. The Parkhill Road hill Nicholls Oval has been suggested as a possible runway. Last year the soap boxes coasted down the Hunter St. hill from Armour Road to Mark St.

Royal Marine Barracks 250 Years Is Abandoned

By DON GILBERT

LONDON, April 8 —(CP)— The admiralty economy ax has severed a link between the Royal Marines and the Medway towns dating back to nearly 250 years.

The towns—Chatham and Gillingham—are in eastern Kent near where the river Medway flows into the Thames estuary.

The admiralty announced that as an economy measure the Marine barracks at Chatham, built in 1777, are to be closed and the personnel transferred to Portsmouth and Devonport, the navy's main bases on the south coast.

Bring Sadness

Naval spokesmen declined to state the number of Marines and their families involved in the switch. But thought of their departure brought sadness to many Medway people and promised to hit local merchants a wallop in the pocket book.

The Corps has been part of Medway life since 1708 when Marines first came to the district and were billeted in neighborhood alehouses.

Only three months ago the Marine Corps was granted the freedom of Chatham in recognition of its long association with the town. The Chatham coat-of-arms incorporates the laurel of the Royal Marines.

Mayor F. H. Lawrence called the prospective departure "a bitter blow to my town" and expressed hope the admiralty would arrange to quarter some other branch of the service there.

"It's as if part of the town were to be wiped out," was the way one Chatham old-timer put it.

Merchants Protest

Merchants, faced with a loss of £500,000 ($1,550,000) worth of business a year, plan a protest. They will ask the government to receive a deputation from the Medway Chamber of Trade.

"There is both alarm and despondancy over the decision," said W. A. MacLeod, secretary of the Chamber. "The £500,000 a year loss to traders includes the money spent by the Royal Marine families in the Medway towns and the messing and other contracts that will disappear."

Others taking part with scores over 900 were: B. Freeman, D. Moir, D. J. Cooper, G. H. Kemp, A. E. McDougal, A. Guppy, W. Tully, J. Lee, W. Spenceley.

Scoring between 900 and 869 were: J. Lucas, K. McArthur, D. Babbs, G. E. Lambert, M. Haggerty, J. Airness, D. E. Miller.

Runaway Girl Found Proving Independence

WINDSOR, Ont., April 8 (CP)—An Ottawa high school girl who left her swank Rockcliffe home Feb. 22 because, her mother said, "she wanted to prove her independence," has been located here.

The girl, 18-year-old Elinor Halferdahl, was found Thursday working as a domestic under an assumed name in a businessman's home. Her mother, who came here in the search, took her home after the reunion, police said.

The discovery ended a country-wide search. Earlier the girl had been reported in Vancouver. Three weeks ago the search turned here after a report that she was seen in this city.

Canada's Jobs And Jobless

According to the official figures for March 375,900 Canadian men and women are jobless. That figure looks grave. It is, however, mitigated by these considerations: seasonal employment is at the lowest in the late winter months; there is bound always to be a considerable number of men and women who have no jobs, who pretend that they want to work, but will not take jobs; further, allowance must be made for the several thousands who are always in transit between jobs when the estimate is made. These considerations do not, however, change the figure drastically: 375,900 Canadians are looking for work.

• • •

This is one side of the coin, the reverse. The obverse is importantly brighter. What of the Canadians who are employed? According to the official March estimate, five million people in Canada are now employed. It is the highest employment in Canada's history for this time of year. There are 50,000 more in jobs now than a year ago, 100,000 more than in 1948.

• • •

One extraordinarily interesting and vital element in the employment situation, which is also of great sociological moment, is the part of women in Canada's labour force. Today a quarter of all employed people are women. Fifty years ago only one worker in ten was a woman. Recently our correspondence columns were filled with letters about women working in factories. Some of the writers were acrimonious. Whatever one's opinion about the fitness of so many women being thus employed, the fact is that they are, and only illiberal, harsh legislation or mass unemployment—neither of which is desirable—will change the situation.

Easter Carols

It may be argued that carols should have no place in hymn books, that carols would upset the decorum of a church service. We shall not argue the matter except to point out that Easter would be a brighter, fuller season musically if the Christian church drew more heavily on its store of Easter carols than it does. Some Easter hymns are good, but they are much fewer than those of the other two great joyous festivals of the church, Christmas and Thanksgiving. Throughout this land tomorrow congregations will lift their voices in Lyra Davidica "Jesus Christ is risen today, Hallelujah!" and the even more modern Wesley hymn "Christ the Lord is risen today", probably to the tune St. George's, Windsor (c. 1850). They are commendable hymns despite their rather ponderous da-da-bom-bom-bom-bom, bom-bom-bo-om. But they are not as lilting, and bright as the season demands. It is the resurrection, the coming to life again, and, let it not be forgotten, the re-birth of nature. Easter hymns give little recognition to this allegorical significance, even though the name Easter derives from an old English name for the goddess of light and spring.

Look! the earth waits breathless
After Winter's strife:
Easter shows man deathless,
Spring leads death to life . . . .

'All mankind is risen',
The Easter bells do ring,
While from out their prison
Creep the flowers of Spring!

The modern words are for an old French carol tune.

Is Hilariter too giddy for the church at Easter? It is a German carol dating from 1625.

The whole bright world rejoices now,
Hilariter, hilariter;
The birds do sing on every bough
Alleluya, Alleluya.

Then shout beneath the racing skies,
Hilariter, hilariter,
To him that rose that we might rise,
Alleluya, Alleluya,
etc.

We would not expect this Russian carol to be sung tomorrow in our churches, but how pleasant to hear it outdoors and in Easter week:

Easter eggs! Easter eggs. Give to him that begs!
For Christ the Lord is arisen
To the poor, open door, something give from your store!
Those who hoard can't afford—moth and rust their reward!
Those who live freely give—long and well may they live!
Easter tide, like a bride, comes, and won't be denied.

Would the traditional dance tune, and the appropriate stanzas of the broadsides of "My Dancing Day" offend against ecclesiastical niceties:

Then down to hell I took my way
For my true lover's deliverance
And rose again on the third day,
Up to my true love and the dance

Sing O my love, O my love, my love, my love;
This have I done for my true love.

Then up to heaven I did ascend
Where now I dwell in sure substance,
On the right hand of God, that man
May come unto the general dance:

Sing O my love, etc.

If Easter carols cannot come into the hymn books and churches, then let them be sung outside them, to the springing earth, the brightening heavens and the new glory of God.

Big Time Stuff

Edmonton is growing big, and fast. Spread out like a dog's breakfast as it used to be before the war, its gaps and trails are being rapidly filled up. New municipal, industrial and domestic buildings have gone up with a Vancouverish boom. For Edmonton is an oil centre and at the end of the northwest highways. If one is disinclined from this distance to believe the stories of Edmonton's gigantism, let this figure convince. The Mayor's salary is $7,300 a year, and there is a move under way to raise it to $10,000. The Edmonton Bulletin remarks: "This has come to be a big city. It should be governed by big men. And big men can only be hired with big money". Here in the East we do not hire big mayors for big money. But the West—or Edmonton—has its own ways of doing things—in a big way.

Good Mark For The C.B.C.

The C.B.C., that much-abused body, deserves a good mark for its broadcast of Bach's Passion of Our Lord According to St. Matthew on Wednesday night. The performance itself was of mixed merit; the Mendelssohn Choir sang well, but some of the soloists did not seem equal to the demands of the music; nevertheless, this performance of the Passion during Holy Week has been going on for the past twenty-seven years, and Sir Ernest Macmillan supports it with fine scholarship and authoritative direction which make up for minor deficiencies.

Only a nationally-owned broadcasting company could, or would, give three hours on a week-night to the broadcasting of a great musical work. To those who say that radio neglects the arts, this is an effective rebuttal. This, and the other performances in which the C.B.C. has honoured the bicentenary of Bach's death, reflect great credit on the C.B.C. Whatever its faults, it has an artistic conscience.

S.P.C.A. Takes Chicks Under Its Wing

Some faddists of a semi-fashionable kind think it very chic to give their friends day or two old chicks as Easter presents. They are so terribly cute, aren't they, these day-old chicks? So fluffy, so chirrupy, so soft, so nicely hued. While we have no passionate fondness for day-old chicks, we think it right that the Canadian Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals condemns this kind of Easter gift. It is a waste of a good broiler-to-be, or, at the very least, of a good egg that has been. We shall follow with malice the first case which the S.P.C.A. successfully prosecutes against an Easter chick-giver.

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Amyas Pilgarlic, Esq.
Dear Pil:

Don't you think it is ... time that the Americans had their own translation of the Bible? Last night I went to see Cecil B. DeMille's film of "Samson and Delilah", and afterward I re-read the story as it is written in Judges 13-16; it was clear to me what DeMille had gone through, trying to turn Samson and Delilah into good, respectable Americans.

Consider: in the Bible version Samson carelessly allowed twenty years to pass between his strangling of the lion and his adventure with Delilah. Such a lapse of time would have made him at least forty when the film ended—practically an old man by Hollywood reckoning. In a new translation this period of time could be tactfully left out. And it is recorded also that Samson had an adventure with a lady about whose virtue the Scriptures, in their coarse way, leave no doubt. In fact, it appears that Samson was not A Nice Clean American Boy but a rowdy old delinquent. This blot on his character could be glossed over in a new translation, as it was in the movie. And there is also the flat statement that Samson set fire to the tails of a lot of foxes; the S.P.C.A. would certainly not have tolerated that if it had been shown in the film.

What the U.S.A. needs is a translation of the Bible all its own. It is now the dominant power in the world, and should avail itself of the traditional privilege of a dominant power to impose its religion, or its version of an existing religion, upon the rest of the world. There is much in the Bible that is undemocratic and un-American. Indeed, I put it to you that the implication that the Supreme Being was not democratically elected to that position casts grave doubts upon the moral magnitude and spiritual significance of the Constitution. It is time to abandon the King James Version, with its seventeenth century cast of thought and its strongly English slant, and to adopt something more in keeping with the Gospel according to Hollywood.

Yours expectantly,
SAM.

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.
Dear Sam:

One of the things that is wrong with the world today, but which nobody ever complains about, is that children are not as religious as they used to be. No doubt about it, a religious child is a good example to its elders, and children have a duty in this respect which they are neglecting.

Two fine examples of youthful piety have come up in the course of my reading this past week. Consider Katherine Phrips, the poetess, who was born in 1631. John Aubrey records of her that "She was when a Child much against the Bishops, and prayd to God to take them to him, but afterwards was reconciled to them. Prayed aloud, as the hypocriticall fashion then was, and was overheared". And then consider Edmund Gosse, as a Victorian child. When his father told him that he intended to marry again, and that the lady did not belong to the strict evangelistic sect of the Gosses, young Edmund, who was then eleven, shook a finger at him and said "Papa, don't tell me that she's a pedobaptist?" He records that this affected his father painfully, as well it might. What modern child has the gumption or the learning for such an enquiry?

If the world is going to the dogs, it is the children's fault as much as anybody's. Sometimes I receive the impression that modern children are living solely for pleasure.

Yours,
PIL.

To Raymond Cataplasm, M.D., F.R.C.P.
Dear Dr. Cataplasm:

I am compiling, for my own entertainment, a catalogue of diseases from which mankind no longer suffers. We are discovering so many new ones all the time that it comforts me to run over a list of those which we need no longer worry about.

Recently I read that chlorosis is hardly ever met with in medical practice nowadays. Have you ever treated a case of it? Am I right in thinking that it is the same as the "green-sickness" and the "green and yellow melancholy" to which Shakespeare often refers? Apparently it was a kind of anaemia to which adolescent girls were subject, and which gave their skins a characteristic greenish tint. They got that way because they ate a poorly balanced diet.

I have only seen a girl with a green skin twice in my life—one on board ship when the sea was rough and another when she had suddenly been proposed to by the wrong man and had in her confusion said Yes.

Your perennial patient,
S. MARCHBANKS.

To Chandos Fribble, Esq.
Esteemed Fribble:

One of the great pleasures of life, in my opinion, is watching a man do something which he does really well, whatever it may be. The world is full of incompetent messers of all sorts, and a man who is good at his craft is as pleasing a sight, in his way, as a pretty woman.

These reflections occurred to me today while I watched a man change two tyres on my car. He did it in twenty minutes by my watch, and never wasted a move. As I watched him I recalled the only time in my life that I ever changed a wheel on a car. A tyre was punctured, and I, as the only man in a carful of women, was expected to put on the spare. I knew nothing about it, and the car carried no tools whatever; after some searching one of the ladies produced a pair of scissors of medium size. Using this unsuitable implement as spanner, nippers and gouge, I achieved the task in seventy minutes, proving that a wheel can be changed with scissors, but not with such ease that other methods may be abandoned. I am not a handy man, but in a tight place I can contrive as well as most.

Yours in painful recollection (my hands still smart when I think of it),
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.
How, Marchbanks:

You got money? I got no money. Get out of jail two day ago. Want money. Beg. Cops chase me. So I ask fat woman in house for money. You clean up yard I give you two dollar, she say. Awful mean face, Marchbanks. So I clean up dirt in nice pile behind garage. Then she say I got no cash but I give you cheque. She give me piece of blue paper. This no money, I say. Ha ha you poor ignorant savage, she say. You take cheque to bank, she say. I tear up cheque and steal three dollars worth her tools. She squawk. Cops chase me and take tools. Then I got no money and no tools. So I work one hour to dirty her yard again. Put back all her dirt and some new and stale dead cat I find under snowbank. Lot of work for nothing. Women awful hard to manage and fat ones worst. You got money? I need money.

How again,

Chief of the Crokinoles.

Letters To The Editor

WHO WANTS THE LIGHTS?

Sir: From comments I have heard, I think many citizens listened to the CHEX broadcast discussion regarding floodlights at Riverside Park. I would like to compliment the Rev. Walter Gilling on the stand he took.

It was said the amount of money involved would be $30,000 to $35,000, and interested parties said they were prepared to contribute $15,000 to help finance the scheme. The council, that means the property owners, would put up the balance.

Why should property owners be taxed to furnish the interested few with a pet scheme of playing ball at night. Riverside is a city park. The property owners paid for it.

The question was asked about the cost of electric power for the lighting, and it was said the cost would be $25 a night. It was then asked who would pay for the power, and it was stated the ones who used the park. Since the park belongs to the people, we all know that if those interested in the lighting scheme don't pay, the city is in duty bound to pay.

Mayor Swanston referred to baseball twenty years ago, and said the attendance then was in four figures, and now if they got 500 they would have a good attendance. These statements reveal that a few interested have got the big idea that they can meet all the expense.

It was said that people today haven't time to see a ball game in the afternoon. What tommyrot. Most workers today have the five day week. Where do they think the people spend their leisure time. Do they think the people spend the day time at church? Get down off the high fence. Don't think so much about things unforeseen. You may do a lot of thinking about what you would like, but you overlook people's property that is being taxed to the hilt. Just think, $20,000 for our share of the bright lights.

Mr. Mayor and members of the council, the taxpayers have not forgotten that when you were fixing the tax rate a short time ago, you had to sit up late burning the midnight oil trying to cut the rate to 49 mills, and you could not do it.

Was this bright light scheme part of the reason you could not fix the rate at 49 mills? I notice that the miscellaneous account as published in the Examiner must have had growing pains as compared with the 1949 figure. I with others am opposed to this scheme. There are things we must have, and are willing to pay for, but the bright lights are not one of them.

FRED T. TUGGEY.

PETERBOROUGH SCULPTRESS FOR FOUNTAIN

Sir: Having received a clipping about the repair work being done to the fountain in the park, I am writing to make a suggestion. I am a native who left more years ago than I care to admit, but always interested.

Would you consider asking Miss Katherine Wallis to sculpture a figurine for the top? In case you don't know about her, she is the daughter of one of Peterborough's pioneers and her sister is my godmother—lives in England now; Mrs. DelaFosse has K. Wallis' address but I have an idea that you also have it as I believe something about her work was published in the Examiner a year or so ago.

As I spent as much time in the Hallidays house as at home, I grew up looking at the boy with the fish at the top of the fountain and think probably K. Wallis could make you one similar — or at least do a model to be copied if too far to send from California. I don't know whether she still is working but she was at age 86, doing a full size lion in wood and a niece of hers said she found it "hard enough to carve ice cream without doing carving in wood and by 86 am sure I can't even carve ice cream!" In any case, Mrs. DelaFosse is in touch with K. Wallis so she could tell you whether my suggestion is practical or not.

In case you might be interested, Guy Rogers, youngest son of the former Postmaster of Peterborough—the late Col. Harry Rogers, is coming to Canada during the summer and and going to the B.C. coast to see his sisters; he hopes to have a day in Toronto on his way home but I doubt if time for Peterborough though if invited specially might arrange it—and would most likely slay me for saying so! He lives at Bath, England, and served most of his working life in India.

Yours sincerely,
EDITH B. LEWIS.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Call unto me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not. For thus saith the Lord, the God of Israel, concerning the houses of this city, and concerning the houses of the kings of Judah, which are thrown down by the mounts, and by the sword . . .

Behold, I will bring it health and cure, and I will cure them, and will reveal unto them the abundance of peace and truth. And I will cause the captivity of Judah and the captivity of Israel to return, and will build them, as at the first.

And I will cleanse them from all their iniquity, whereby they have sinned against me; and I will pardon all their iniquities, whereby they have sinned, and whereby they have transgressed against me. And it shall be to me a name of joy, a praise and an honour before all the nations of the earth, which shall hear all the good that I do unto them. (Jer. 33: 3, 4, 6-9.)

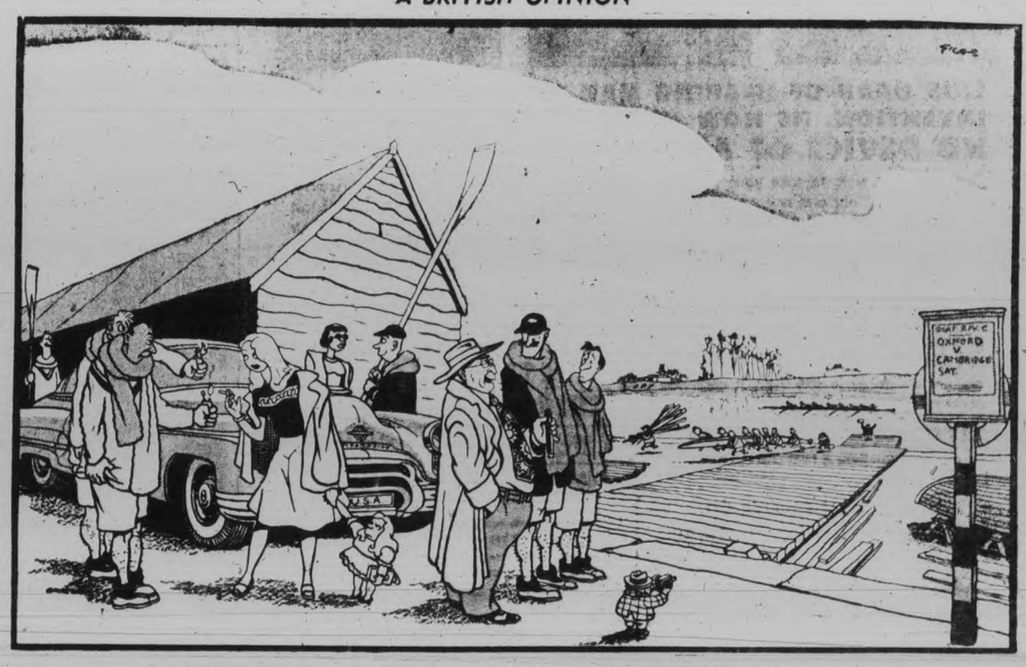
A BRITISH OPINION



"No wonder your country's on the way out—1950 and still using oars."

London Express Service

A bracing gust of salty air filtered into the office the other day when Cap'n Maxwell Clarke of Minas Basin, Nova Scotia, paid a visit. He was a short stocky weather-beaten man who looked ten years younger than his age of 50. He walked with a lurching gait that told of years spent on the decks of ships. He had an unusual story to tell.

Cap'n Clarke is a boat builder-fisherman who lives in the small town of Parrsboro. He spends his time taking timber out of the bush in winter and fishes with hundreds of his fellowmen during the summer on the Bay of Fundy or further out on the Atlantic.

His experience during the First World War in the busy ship yards of Nova Scotia trained him in all phases of ship building; 1,000-ton sailing ships were the largest. After taking out spruce and birch logs in the winter of '49, the Cap'n decided to build an auxiliary yacht schooner. He laid the keel in April and completed the ship late in December.

To Miami By Inland Passage

On the first week of this year he pulled his hook and sailed 5,000 miles to Miami via the inland passage. It took 50 days, mostly under sail power, with two home-towners as crew. After enjoying two weeks of balmy weather, Cap'n Clarke decided to advertise his ship for sale. Editor of Popular Mechanics magazine, H. H. Windsor, snapped it up and it was delivered to him at West Palm Beach.

The new owner was so pleased with the craft that he had the Cap'n go back down to Florida as his guest for two weeks. He came to Peterborough via Barrie where he picked up Mrs. Clarke; they are both visiting their son John in the city at present.

"It is the first southern sales project in the Minas Basin," said Cap'n Clarke, "and profitable enough for me to try it again this year. Mrs. Clarke will go with me on the next trip."

Fishermen who are concerned with changing the law of anchored-boat pickerel fishing to drift boating from May 15 to June 30th had better know that the present stationary fishing is incorporated in the Federal laws. An Act of Parliament would have to be passed to amend it. So, if you want action, for next year, better start thinking and doing something about it, now.

Dost thou know who made thee?
Gave thee life & bid thee feed

Gave thee such a tender voice
Making all the vales rejoice?
Little Lamb, who made thee?
Dost thou know who made thee?
Little Lamb, I'll tell thee,
Little Lamb, I'll tell thee:
He is called by thy name,
For he calls himself a Lamb.
He is meek & he is mild

'Jewelry By Meredith' Is Made At Home By City Man Whose Designs Win Acclaim

By HAZEL PAULL

While the age of home craft industries is being allowed to slip by with little more ado than a sigh of reluctance, a new home industry has been developing at 360 Brock St., the home of Meredith Miller, a former Collegiate student and history lecturer at McGill University.

Some three years ago Mr. Miller not yet in his thirties, started making jewelry. Today "Jewelry by Meredith" is being sold by one of Canada's most exclusive stores in Montreal.

Mr. Miller designs some exquisite suites of paste jewelry often to special customer order Sale in the entire province of Quebec and Ottawa is exclusive to the one store and rarely does Mr Miller repeat a design more than two or three times.

The pastes, which so closely resemble precious stones that experienced gemologists are unable to detect the difference with the naked eye are obtainable only from Czechoslovakia and England.

Most of the jewelry is particularly suitable for evening wear There are fully jewelled necklaces with matching earrings and bracelet. One pair of chandelier earrings are three and a quarter inches long.

Some of the necklaces are designed for double duty. Joined in the centre, they can be unfastened and used as a double bracelet Another has a small cluster of diamonds in the nape of the neck and by unfastening the pendant in front and reversing the necklace to bring the diamond cluster in the front, it will serve the purpose of two necklaces.

Some of the pins designed by Mr. Miller have a three dimensional effect. One he designed recently is a magnificent piece of jewelry in canary diamonds and topazs.

One suite named Empress Eugene is in sapphire and diamonds, another is Sparkling Burgundy. A renaissance pendant and the chandelier earrings are others he has made recently.

In addition to having a great flare for jewelry designing Mr Miller is a skillful worker with his hand. The setting of every stone is joined with the soldering iron. It is work which requires patience and skill.

Mr. Miller has for many years made a study of the world's most precious jewelry. One of his main hobbies is painting His mother, Mrs. Edna Miller, widow of the late John H. Miller, is also a painter.

Peterborough's First Mayor Killed In 1857 Train Wreck

By Mrs. GERALD MARRYAT

On the 12th of March, 1857, Thomas Benson, mayor of Peterborough in 1850, met his death in one of the first, and worst, railroad disasters in Upper Canada

A passenger train on the Great Western Railway crashed through a swing bridge over the Des Jardins Canal near Hamilton, killing sixty people; those in the first coach who escaped death were drowned when the train plunged sixty feet down into the icy waters of the canal.

Thomas Benson who left Peterborough for Port Hope in 1853, had assumed the duties of Secretary and Treasurer of the Peterborough and Port Hope Railway, later the Midland Railway of Canada In this position his serivces were invaluable in promoting and carrying out this important enterprise; and he was travelling on the business of this company when he met his death. A contemporary account of his funeral said "So awful was the calamity, so painful to contemplate was his death and so exalted was the esteem in which he was held in Port Hope, that few persons, that were ever buried there had a greater number of sincere and profoundly smitten mourners."

Witnessed Incorporation

As first mayor of Peterborough Thomas Benson, witnessed the act of incorporation whereby Peterborough commenced a new era in its history. This act, which came into force in January 1850 marked the close of the period when Peterborough was, to quote Dr Poole, "a mere village, an integral part of the Township of North Monaghan." He had lived to see the town's property greatly increased in value with fine brick stores and dwellings replacing the old wooden and log shacks which till then had disgraced some of the leading streets.

It has been recalled several times, recently, that a premium of One Hundred dollars was offered for the best design for a Town hall and Market House, and that a Toronto man, named Thomas, received the award over the design of a local architect, Kivas Tully, who designed the Town Hall at Cobourg and (I am told) at kingston. There was considerable feeling about this, and I have wondered if that was the reason why no mention was made of Thomas Benson, when in Sept 27th, 1851, Mayor Charles Hudson laid the corner stone of the new Town Hall. Of course, the omission of his name may have been simply an editorial slip or the custom of limiting the officials to those in office.

Although he had left Peterborough four years before his death, there was no obituary to be discovered in any of the local papers for March, 1857. But the staff of the Public Library found, and kindly copied for me, an account of Thomas Benson's life from "The Canadian Biographical Dictionary and Portrait Gallery of Eminent and Self-Made Man." 1880.

Was Irishman

Born in Fintona, Co. Tyrone, Ireland, on January 11, 1804 Thomas Benson was one of the ten children of James Benson and Anne Robinson. They came to America in 1816 and after three years in Landingburgh N. Y came to Kingston where Thomas was educated.

Prevented from entering the legal profession because of a prejudice against it in the minds of his parents, he embarked upon a mercantile career and, after five years in Kingston came to Port Hope in 1837.

On the outbreak of the Rebellion, he served the militia and as a Captain of volunteers was on duty at Chippawa and Navy Island . . . on the breaking out of the rebellion again in 1839 Captain Benson returned to duty and acted as Paymaster of the 3rd. Battalion Militia, until it was disbanded in 1845. . ."he was extremely popular with officers and men and" possessed the fullest confidence of the commanding officer."

Soon after that he moved to Peterborough where he entered the milling business; and was for several years in the council efore becoming mayor. He was especially useful in advancing ali

Progress of Peterborough: XIV

Emigrants Sail From Cork To Kingston

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

The nine naval transports which carried the Irish across the Atlantic were chartered from the Navy Board for the exorbitant amount of £15,602, which covered passage and food to Quebec for 2,024 persons, or an average of £7, 10s. per person, twice as much as the charge on ordinary emigrant ships. A naval surgeon on each transport was in complete charge of the emigrants.

The scene as the ships sailed one by one in May 1825 was realistically described by Davin: "At first Cove appeared like a vast fair; more than 4,000 persons had crowded from the country into it. Half them were bound for a distant land beyond the vast and dangerous ocean; the other half had come to say good-bye to their daughters and brothers and sons . . .Monkstown shines white upon the heights and against the hill opposite, which overlooks the road from Queenstown to Cork, and the furze is already yellow with blossom. No wonder men find it hard to leave such a country, hard though her life may be for them. The hour comes, the bell sounds, the boats put off to the ships, and anchor is raised. Bitter tears are shed; bitter cries go up to heaven . . . The emigrant ships move out, a wail arises from the shore . . . On board the vessels grief and sickness prostrate most. One in the bow strikes a harp and sings. . ."

The rations issued to the Irish, not only on the voyage but for the 18 months up to November 1826, were navy rations of salt pork and ship-biscuit, rather than the potatoes, stirabout and herrings to which the Irish were accustomed. The ration scale was: (1) For men and boys over 14—1 lb meat and 1 lb biscuit daily; (2) Women, girls over 14, and boys over 12—½ lb. meat and 1 lb. biscuit daily; (3) Girls 7 to 14 and boys 7 to 12 years —1/3 lb. meat and 1/3 lb. biscuit daily; (4) children under 7 years —¼ lb. meat and ¼ lb. biscuit daily.

This was entirely unsuitable especially for the children, and also wastefully superfluous; it is no wonder that the peasants threw overboard most of the mouldy salt pork and wormy hard biscuit given to them. They were unaccustomed to meat more than a few times a year, and in any event could not eat it on Friday.

Little Sickness and Death

Yet sickness and death on the ships was surprisingly small, due mostly to the clothing, blankets and medical care they received, and to the fact that the voyage was much shorter than usual. 15 died on the trip, which just balanced 15 births before the ships arrived at Quebec. The first was the "Brunswick" which reached Quebec June 12 after 32 days at sea, and the last was the "John Barry" which arrived July 5 after 41 days at sea. Three stowaways were discovered aboard the ships who were taken along with the emigrants and given lands later.

As each transport arrived, the Irish were carefully examined by quarantine and immigration officers, then promptly put on board steamers which carried them up the St. Lawrence to Montreal. Except for a few fights, the only exciting event was when the "John Barry" was nearly wrecked on the Lower St. Lawrence. The surgeon reported that John Lane, Patrick Ryan, John Blackwell and Daniel Mahony were "instrumental in saving the ship when on shore", and Francis Young and John Walsh "wrought hard at the pumps".

Some of the more industrious were commended by name in the surgeons' reports for helping issue provisions, cook food, and look after the sick. Nearly all the adults were given good chafacters except an occasional "turbulent ruffian" or "lying mischief-making woman".

At Quebec And Montreal

Thirteen people were allowed to settle in Quebec and Montreal, and another 10 persons (3 families) deserted there. To replace them, 15 persons (eight men, five women, two children) joined the Irish, some of them being stowaways on the ships. At Montreal the Irish walked across the island to Lachine, while their goods were brought across on carts, including personal belongings blankets, tools and food. Then they were embarked on bateaux operated by the Commissariat Office to carry troops and military supplies to Upper Canada.

The typical bateau was about 35 x 8 feet, flatbottomed and pointed at both ends, equipped with a lugsail to assist the Indian or halfbreed oarsmen. Each boat carried about 20 people with their belongings, and made 20-30 miles a day up the river.

The trip through the Lachine Canal (opened in 1824) and up through the lakes, rapids, canals and locks to Prescott, took 8 days and another 4 or 5 days to Kingston. Only two incidents marred the trip up to Prescott: Cottrel Lane "in a quarrel with an Indian of the boat, brought on by himself, about the tarpaulin, cut the boatman in several places on the right arm, and was himself hurt . . ." The surgeon paid the Indian $11 to settle this quarrel. At L'Ile de Perreau, according to the report of Surgeon Thomson of the "Albion", James Casey, James Cotter, Michael and James Kenny had broken the doors and windows of a house and severely cut two men in the head with stones; the clock was also broken. . . Originated in a dispute about boiling a kettle. Damage estimated at £10 . . ." Casey and Cotter were dismissed from the expedition as a result.

Dr. Reade Takes Over

At Prescott the responsibilities of the ship surgeons ended. Robinson had arranged Surgeon G. H. Reade of the "Resolution" would take charge and remain with the Irish as doctor for the first year. Reade reported that "the Irish were generally in a very weak state when they arrived at Prescott", and he bought some medicines and fresh food for them there. He also allowed 67 persons (20 men, 19 women, 28 children) to branch off up the Rideau to the Ottawa valley to join relatives among the 1823 settlers.

Robinson had written to his brother that he intended the emigrants should "proceed up the (St. Lawrence) river leisurely", but Dr. Reade, finding no preparations to shelter them at Prescott kept the bateaux busy ferrying them up to Kingston. The first boat loads arrived there July 2. 21 days from Quebec, and the last ones, from the ship "John Barry" arived July 30, 15 days from Quebec. Some of the other surgeons who were going on to visit Upper Canada helped him.

At Kingston Governor Maitland had appointed Colonel Burke to prepare for the emigrants, but little has been done except the erection of army tents on the marshy flats at the Rideau river mouth. On the trip from Quebec to Kingston, 10 people died, and 2 children were born, so that a total of 1,942 emigrants settled down in the tents, in a hot humid summer, to wait for Robinson.

Peter Robinson, after returning from Ireland to London and dallying there several weeks, travelled to New York and overland to Niagara, where the Governor was summering. On August 3 he arrived at Cobourg from York, and went inland with Alexander McDonell as assistant for the purpose of "viewing the lands on which they were to be located. . .I was highly gratified in discovering greater facilities of communication than I had anticipated and that the tract was in every respect highly eligible. I found that we could get our provisions and stores forwarded halfway by water and that there was a central situation at the head of the Otonabee River highly convenient for a depot. . ."

Mrs. Stewart of Douro mentioned in a letter of August 13, 1825: "Last week we had a visit from Mr. Robinson, employed by Government to bring over emigrants. He has just arrived with 2000, some of whom he is to place in this township. They are expected to arrive at Scott's Mills tonight, and they are to encamp on the Plains until he can place them on their portions of land. Only the heads of families, 350 in number, are to come up at present. This causes a great sensation. . ." After six days in the district during which he made no preparations for the Irish emigrants, Robinson set out to Kingston at last, arriving there on August 10 to take charge of the Irish whom he had last seen sailing from Cork in May.

Epidemic At Kingston

In the meantime, the emigrants had suffered an epidemic of ague, dysentery and malaria, due to the hot rainy weather, the hordes of mosquitoes from the marshes where the tents were pitched, and their general run-down condition In spite of the efforts of Dr. Reade and local physicians, there were 300 sick and 33 deaths before Robinson arrived. Local priests and Sisters of Mercy (from the Kingston convent) nursed the sick and consoled the dying and bereaved. Rumours of epidemics and desertion were deliberately spread by critics and foes of the expedition, who included some government officials.

Colonel Talbot told the Governor and J. B. Robinson at Niagara that 30 Irish were dying daily, and that "whole families were swept away by sickness" Bastable and other enemies of Robinson went so far as to incite the Irish to desert but without success; not one of the emigrants deserted during the long wait at Kingston. Two men were permitted to remain in Kingston, but the rest, who now numbered about 1910, greeted Robinson's arrival with cheers.

Robinson in his Reports tried to excuse his failure to come before or with his charges, and the lack of vital preparations for their welfare, but did not succeed in justifying his inefficiency in this regard.

(Ed. Note—Through the mischance of printing last Saturday in Article XIII, on the Irish emigrants, second column, a phrase appeared "30 families totalling 2,024 persons." The immigrants were not so excessively prolific; the figure should have read 307 families.)

Legion Reaches OHA Finals By Trouncing Balmy Beach

Fattening their batting averages as they moved into provincial senior "B" finals, the Legionnaires whitewashed Balmy Beaches of Toronto 13-0 here last night to take the OHA semi-final series in two straight games. They now meet Brantford in finals, a best-of-seven series, opening in Brantford on Monday with the next game here on Wednesday.

WINS SHIRT—Sixty Coombs (above) along with Bert Hill, won shirts last night for starring for Legion as they trimmed Balmy Beachs 13-0. Both forwards were in on five goals to lead their team at bat.

Legion struck early and racked up a 4-0 count last night in the first frame before a fair-sized crowd. They rolled again in the middle chukker for a 7-0 edge to make it 11-0, and they added a pair in the third. Beaches drew four of the seven penalties in a fast, clean but one-sided tussle. The visitors tried hard and made Ross Nicholls earn his shutout with some close calls, but they were never really in the hunt, as Legion played championship hockey.

Led The Scorers

Leading snipers for the Ellis outfit were Sixty Coombs and Bert Hill, each being in on five goals. Close behind were Joe Rochetta and Keith Montgomery, in on four apiece. Doug Mortimer scored a pair and aided on another, while Dootch Vitarelli and young Benny Mason—who went good just up from junior—figured in on a pair each. The whole team from the goalie out clicked well, while the Beaches were game and gave all they had, but they were well outplayed in every inning.

Ben Mason got one early but it was called back. However, the made sure of the next one from Montgomery and Fryia on nice combination. Coombs' hot shot from defence beat Moore to make it 2-0, and later Rochetta counted on a sizzler, partly stopped by the goalie. Nicholls thefted Edwards as Beaches tried to stay in the race, but Bert Hill made it 4-0 shortly on an angle shot from a corner faceoff. Mason got the only penalty of the period late for tripping.

Ran It Up

Though shy a man nearly two minutes to open the second stanza, Legion didn't allow a shot on their net. With all back, Hill slapped home a rebound after passes by Montgomery and Coombs. Then Monty got another from Hill in close. Frizelle and Vitarelli were waved over for roughing and D. Dies followed for tripping. All were back when Doug Mortimer took a pass-back and hit the mark, Mason and Parnell getting the assists. Stewart ran up the count from Hill and Coombs, and the latter got another neatly from Hill to make it 9-0. Doug Mortimer slammed another by Moore from Crowley and Rochetta, and the latter ended the chukker by taking Vitarelli's forward pass and picking a corner in the hemp.

McArthur drew an early penalty in the third for tripping, but no damage was done in his absence. Legion had an edge in play but couldn't score for quite a time. Coombs finally counting on a forward pass, Doug Mortimer and Montgomery helping on the play. Frizelle went over for cross-checking and Rochetta scored in a scramble, Vitarelli and Godfrey building up the play. That finished the tallying for the evening. Godfrey went off for hooking later but returned with no damage done.

Beaches: Goal, Moore; defence, Frizelle and McNulty; centre, McArthur; wings, McMurray and Dennis; alternates, Edwards, McCulloch, W. Dies, D Dies, Dickson, N. Morley and A. Morley.

Legion: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and Burns; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, Parnell, Fryia, Mason, Hill, Stewart, Coombs, Mortimer and Montgomery.

Port Colborne Wins Semi-finals

PORT COLBORNE, April 8 — (CP)—Port Colborne Merchants won their Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate A semi-final series Friday night by defeating Collingwood Shipbuilders 8-3. They won the best-of-five series 3-2.

Port Colborne gained 5-0 and 10-5 victories before Friday night's win. Collingwood defeated the Merchants 7-3 and 7-6 previously.

Merchants, who won the OHA and Canadian crown last year, now will meet Gananoque in the final. The first game is scheduled for Port Colborne Monday night.

Bruce Benner, Clarke and Leitch tallied two goals apiece for the winners. Pine and Chambers got singles. C. Sandell, Spooner and Portland scored for Collingwood.

Lakefield Loses Second Tilt To Georgetown

Georgetown Raiders handed Lakefield Indians a 13-7 defeat Thursday night at Civic Arena to go two up in their best-of-five OHA Intermediate "B" semi-final series. The third game is scheduled for the paper-mill town, tonight.

Two brother combinations played a prominent part in Raiders' second triumph here as the Beaumont boys and Lee and Max Bradbury garnered eight goals and six assists in a whirlwind display to please a fine crowd of appreciative fans. It was a wide-open game throughout with both teams giving all they had in a rugged contest and the visitors holding a fair edge in play in each period.

Rally In Third

Indians staged a great rally in the final stanza to pot four goals in a row and threaten Raiders' lead. But the latter roared back to rifle three behind Atcheson in the last seven minutes from the sticks of Jack Haynes and Lee Bradbury twice, to win going away.

Standing out in defeat was the figure of the fighting skipper of Indians, Percy Nicholls who whipped three goals past Lawrence for the hat trick and assisted in two others in a great show as he strove vainly to lead his band to victory. The loss of Ernie Nicholls is felt too in the series, so far. Bergen Payne scored twice while Keith Fawcett and Joe Blewett sank singles. Every man played his part in a hard game.

Georgetown: Goal, Lawrence; defence, Haynes, Nash; centre, D. Beaumont; wings, Chappel and Ferri; alternates, L. Bradbury, Patterson, Martin, Scott, Hewitt, Junior Beaumont, M. Bradbury, Dwyer.

Lakefield: Gosl, Atcheson; defence, Burton, Marshall; centre, Fawcett; wings, Henry, Peloquin; alternates, Nicholls, Hunter, Blewett, Chittick, Lonsberry, Payne, Jopling, Wasson.

Cleveland Barons Friday obtained two more players through a mid-season trade which sent goalie Al Rollins to Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

When the American League barons sent Rollins to Toronto they received cash "in five figures as well as defenceman Bobby Dawes and Bob Shropshire, a young goalie with the junior Oshawa Generals.

Now they will also get Phil Samis, 23, a defenceman this season with Pittsburgh, and Eric Pogue, 20, a right winger who played for Pittsburgh and Los Angeles this year. Both will report for practice next fall.

Pittsburgh has a working agreement with Toronto.

The International Baseball League will open its 67th consecutive season April 20 with two important changes from the last campaign.

First Springfield, Mass., has replaced Newark, N.J., and second, Toronto will play home games on Sundays for the first time.

Springfield takes Newark's place in the southern half of the circuit and thus will have the privilege of opening the season at home against Buffalo's defending pennant winners. Montreal won the league's post-season playoffs.

Opening day will see Buffalo at Springfield, Montreal at Jersey City, Rochester at Baltimore and Toronto at Syracuse.

The northern teams will stage their home openers May 3 with Jersey City at Montreal, Syracuse at Toronto, Springfield at Buffalo and Baltimore at Rochester.

At Montreal, University of Manitoba Bisons escaped elimination from the Canadian Senior Basketball championship hunt Friday night by downing the favored Montreal YMHA Blues, 60-54, in the third game of their best-of-five final series.

The Y won the previous two contests 53-47 and 47-34. The fourth game will be played at Montreal Monday night.

At Los Angeles, the California Athletic Commission Thursday gave Manuel Ortiz, world bantamwight champion, the green light for his title match against Vic Toweel, British Empire champion, in South Africa next month.

Petes Advance

Defeating New Toronto 9-0 at Cobourg last night the Peterborough Petes advanced to the next round of the Cobourg Invitation Hockey Tournament. Their next game will be Friday night. Manager Red Creighton took a starry club down to the lakeshore town, mixing a number of juniors with the veterans.

In the other contest played last night Port Hope Juniors defeated Trenton Flyers 7-4.

ONE HE MISSED—Chuck Rayner, brilliant goalie of the New York Rangers, cleared this rebound in a tight moment in the fourth game of the NHL playoffs in Montreal between Canadiens and New York. A hard backhand shot by Lach in overtime gave Montreal a victory. Here Lach is cut off from the puck. Frankie Eddolls, nearest Lach, and Allan Stanley, Ranger defence pair, are also shown. In fifth game Rangers won 3-0, thus eliminating the Canadiens.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Tuesday night at 7.30 in the YMCA, the men's city softball executive will sit down and make plans for the season. Reports of the OASA convention—this week-end in Owen Sound—will be presented by Pat Calladine, George Dormer and Bob Batley. Team entries and umpire applications made to Secretary Bert Bailey will be listed, and probably a deadline for entries set if enough aren't in by that time. Likely four strong squads will comprise the loop this semester, playing twin bills under the arcs at Ashburnham. They'll start playing ere the end of May.

Down in London, Ont., they're planning to import a good ex-pro ballster who will play for London Majors in the Intercounty League, and coach minor ball from peewee up in his spare time. This is the same idea the senior lacrossers here started a couple of seasons ago, with Jack Foote proving a capable chap in both capacities, and the gutted-stick officials have similar plans for this summer. As soon as the guy signs, we'll give his name. The young baseballers certainly could stand some expert tutoring, too, and U.S. scouts frequently point out that, while young Canadians are willing in the diamond sport, they lack early training in the fine points of the game.

Sarnia Stalls Around

Sarnia Sailors are busy with a four-in-seven international group puck playoff serial, and they asked a postponement of their OHA senior "B" semi-final series with Brantford. The OHA took a dim view of this, and decided that the Brants and Legion will meet next in senior "B" finals, also a four-of-seven affair. We don't see why Sarnia couldn't postpone its other playoffs and finish off with Brantford first, the winner then meeting Legion. Probably Sarnia will challenge the Legion-Brantford victor to a special series for this international business title. A bit mixed up all right. Legion certainly don't feel like a lengthy layoff.

* * * * * * *

After trouncing Balmy Beach 13-0 here last night—to take the semi-final series in two straight—Legion will push off for Brantford on Monday. Then, the Brants are here for two games in a row, this coming Wednesday and Friday, with the fourth fray of the serial in the Western Ontario city next Saturday. It is quite likely that this will be a real series, more like the Markham-Legion dogfight, and nothing like the one-sided semi-final with Beaches. So, get your ducats early for the Wednesday game, as the Brants will be tough. They were tied up with Sarnia in their semi-final sawoff when the whole thing blew up, and Sarnia were dropped from the race.

* * * * * * *

A One-Sided Contest

Play last eve was fast and clean, but certainly lopsided. Nothing to it for the Legionnaires, as they piled up the count, especially in the middle stanza. Coombs and Hill led the attack, with Rochetta, Montgomery, Doug Mortimer, Vitarelli and young Ben Mason—just up from junior—also going well on the attack. Ross Nicholls earned his shutout, even though he wasn't as busy as Moore in the other cage. Latter looked shell-shocked at times as the speedy Ellis crew poured in around him and slapped at the burnt biscuit on his doorstep. Bill Morrison was on hand to referee after a long absence from here. He will be up in the NHL next year. Neither he nor Wally Wilson had too much to do in this tilt.

* * * * * * *

Those pro grapplers certainly dish up the action in a team wrestling bout. Two guys go against two—though one of each side is supposed to stand outside the ropes and just act in a relief role. But they don't do that. They mix it frequently as a bewildered ref tries vainly to keep up with the villainly. It's better than Benny and Hope. Four are frequently in there knocking each other cuckoo at one time, with the official racing madly around trying to keep out of the way. And the fans delirious. Hi Lee and Al Korman last night got the main bout over Pat Flanagan and Toar Morgan in a wild melee. Semi-final went to Bobby Nelson, while Vern Baxter took the prelim. Quite a card.

Boston Runner Wins 15-Mile Marathon

HAMILTON, Ont., April 8 — (CP)—John Kelley, of Boston, twice winner of the Boston marathon, outraced a field of 39 runners Friday to win the first annual Firestone Veterans' 15-mile road race here.

Carrying the colors of the Edison Employees' Recreation Club, Kelley covered the distance in 1:26.26, to nose out Gerard Cote, of St. Hyacinthe, Que., who came second, and Phil Donnachie, of Toronto who placed third.

Ab Morton, of Galt, was 10th, clocked in 1:35.45. In 17th place was Louis Beda, of Galt, clocked in 1:43.43, while Bill Memmott also of Gault, was 19th. His time was 1:44.47.

Lumber Kings Snatch 4-1 Win Over Rouyn

ROUYN, Que., April 8 (CP) — Thurso Lumber Kings Friday night came roaring back to score four last-period goals and defeat Rouyn Flashes 4-1 in the first game of the Eastern Canada Intermediate A hockey semi-finals. The second game of the best-of-five series will be played here tonight.

Thurso had to make their win the hard way. After a scoreless first period, Rouyn counted the first goal in the second frame. But it was their only aggressive display. The Ottawa district champions climbed all over them in the finale.

Rouyn showed a slight edge in first-period play but the Thurso defence blunted their thrusts.

Big Hi Lee Swings Balance In Team Wrestling Match

Big Hi Lee proved too tough in the main team mat bout at the Brock Arena on Thursday evening and his 290 pounds of rough stuff swung the scales in favor of his side. He and Al Korman, at 228 pounds, took the deciding fall in 12 minutes over Pat Flanagan, scaling 230, and the 231-pound Toar Morgan. Lee beat Morgan for the deciding fall by throwing him roughly into the ring turnbuckles three times and then pinning him, after a severe softening up process to the fans' disapproval.

Flanagan had evened the count by taking the second fall over Lee in 16 minutes, getting an assist from Morgan. He had finally tricked the reluctant Texan into their corner and the pair combined neatly to gain the fall. It was a redhot round, with all four in the ring at times, and Pat twice thrown out of the squared arena. Once Korman missed a flying tackle and hit Hi hard, and again Pat dropped each enemy in turn with drop kicks. Toar took a beating for quite a space from Lee, with Al getting in some sly licks, also, from his corner. Lee was big and strong, while Korman was tricky, but the other pair were aggressive to make it a real lively tussle.

Got Opener

Korman won the opening fall from Flanagan in 13 minutes with an assist from Hi Lee in the corner. Action was sizzling from start to finish, with the villainous pair getting away with far more than Pat and Toar. At one time, Flanagan took over refereeing duties from a befuddled Bert Maxwell, but the latter didn't approve at all. Put turned in a fine performance and Lee was strong and rough, the others being the weaker two in the team match, though all four poured on the mat action. The crowd enjoyed the wide-open going plenty, with all matmen in the ring at times and never a dull moment.

Bill Defeated

Bobby Nelson hitting the beam at 230, won the semi-final over 235-pound and popular Bill Stack. It was Bill's second reverse of the evening, as he went on to fill in for Roy McClarity, who didn't show up. Stack apparently had the tough Nelson in trouble with body slams and an airplane spin, when the more experienced Bobby—playing possum—rolled over on the final slam and pinned Bill's shoulders to the mat for the count. He had played it rough before in a fair bout with some good action and some quiet moments, as they laid on the mat.

Baxter Rough

The opener saw Vern Baxter, at 242, win from Stack in 21 minutes when he caught him coming off the ropes after a series of monkey flips by Bill. He slammed him hard and got the count. Big Vern was his usual nasty self and had an edge for a time. Then Bill got going to draw cheers and keep Baxter in trouble for quite a spell. Maxwell broke up holds on Bill when Vern tricked him by kicking the ropes, to the fans' disapproval, but Vern won out.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

Lester Patrick, then manager of the New York Rangers, went into goal 22 years ago tonight in place of Lorne Chabot for more than half of a Stanley Cup game, and held Montreal Maroons to only one goal. Manager Patrick was 44 years old then. Rangers won the game 2-1, the Cup and the League championship that year.

Rangers May Use Montreal Forum

MONTREAL, April 8—(CP)—New York Rangers, who ousted Montreal Canadiens for the Stanley Cup race, now may be adopted by Montreal for the final series of the National Hockey League playoffs.

The "homeless" Rangers, having lost their Madison Square Garden to a circus, were offered the use of the Montreal forum for their home games in the finals, either with Toronto Maple Leafs or Detroit Red Wings. Leafs lead their best-of-seven semi-final series 3-2.

The New Yorkers planned to go to Toronto for tonight's sixth game in the Toronto-Detroit series but were ordered to remain here pending a decision by Gen. John Reed Kilpatrick on the Montreal offer.

They are scheduled to hold a practice session today on Montreal forum ice, where they clinched their best-of-seven series against Canadiens, 4-1.

Answer Sunday

Frank Selke, Canadiens' general manager who offered Rangers the use of the forum "any time," said Friday night he expects an answer from Gen. Kilpatrick "by Sunday."

Meanwhile, Rangers' coach Lynn Patrick left for Toronto Friday night to see the game there and to discuss the Montreal offer with Clarence Campbell, NHL president.

Patrick told the Canadian Press before his departure that Rangers "want to play in Montreal very much, but any decision will depend on what dates are available."

Under NHL rules, Rangers, as secondary finishers to Detroit and Toronto during the regular season, can choose the venue for their third, fourth and sixth playoff games. However, the rules also stipulate that any game which could settle the series may not be played on neutral ice.

Biltmores Win Over Porkies, Lead Series 3-1

GUELPH, Ont., April 8 (CP)—Guelph Biltmores today hold a stranglehold on their Eastern Canada junior hockey semi-final series—thanks mainly to a fleet forward named Don Oberholtzer.

Oberholtzer came up with two goals in the third period here on Friday night to pace Biltmores to a 5-2 victory over Porcupine Combines in the fourth game of their best-of-seven series.

That victory gave the Ontario Hockey Association champions a 3-1 lead in the series. They can wrap it up with a victory in the fifth game at Toronto today—for the right to meet Montreal Canadiens in the final. Biltmores won the first game 7-1, the second 7-4 and then dropped the third 3-2.

Scores Two

It was anybody's game until Oberholtzer broke loose at 4:53 of the final frame to tally two goals within two minutes and break a 2-2 deadlock that took all the steam out of the Porkies.

Up until then the Combines matched Biltmores goal for goal. Guelph went ahead 1-0 in the second period but it was tied at 2-2 by the end of the second.

Andy Bathgate also got two goals for Biltmores while John Ashley got the other. Bill McLaughlin and Stan Mestan tallied for Combines.

As in the previous three games, the Combines received stellar support from 17-year-old netminder Bill Harrington. Harrington kept them in the game in the first period as Biltmores stormed his net. They failed to hit the score sheet until Ashley scored at 10:23.

Tied In Second

McLaughlin tied it up early in the second stanza from a pile-up in front of the goal. Andy Bathgate, who had been in alone minutes earlier only to be fooled by Harrington, pushed Guelph ahead again on a screen shot which caught the upper right hand corner.

Combines turned on their best offensive of the series and Mestan got the equalizer at 6:14. Jerry Labelle, who was laying on the ice, shoved him a pass with his hand and Mestan picked an open corner.

Then Oberholtzer came through with his two goals. He got the first on a pass from Vic Dimarco and his second from Steve Brklacich. Bathgate sniped an insurance goal at 13:16.

Montreal Ice-Bound

MONTREAL, April 8 (CP)—Ice conditions in Montreal harbor are normal but unfavorable conditions further downstream may prevent the first ships from reaching the harbor for several weeks, port officials said Friday. They pointed out that only a prolonged spell of warm weather and the work of icebreakers smashing the ice jams can enable ocean-going vessels to reach Montreal around April 14, the previously fixed opening date of the harbor.

13 Unlucky For Cornwall Marlboros Series Winners

TORONTO, April 8 (CP) — Never pressed at any time in the series, Toronto Marlboros shunted Cornwall Calumets out of the Allan Cup running Friday night and thus managed a berth in the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey final.

Marlboros ended the four-game rout of the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League champions with a resounding 13-1 victory. On the series, the Dukes scored 40 goals to Calumets' eight, taking the set in four straight games.

Joe Primeau, coach of the Marlies, could only repeat what he had said earlier Friday night when he stated that the Canadian Amateur Hockey League should revise the Allan Cup play-off rules.

"There are only five Senior A loops in the country and the Allan Cup should be a playoff between the winners of those leagues." He named the "Senior A" Leagues as the Western Canada League, the OHA, the Quebec League and the two Maritime loops.

Friday night's game was as lopsided as its three predecessors. Two Marlboro players, Danny Lewicki and Frank Sullivan, turned in three-goal performances with Lewicki's linemate, George Armstrong potting a pair of goals. Other Toronto scorers were Al Buchanan, John McLellan, Ccotty Mair, Bobby Hassard and Don Rope.

The Calumets prevented Pat Boehmer, in the Marlies net, from registering a shut-out when Bert Lilly scored late in the final period.

Toronto left no doubt in the minds of the 3,067 paid customers in the first period when Sullivan sailed in for two and goals by Buchanan and McLellan put them ahead 4-0.

If that wasn't enough, the Marlies roared back in the second session for eight more to lead 12-0 going into the final period. In this session, it was Don Rope's marker that took down honors for the picture-play of the game. He picked the puck up at centre ice and weaved through four Cornwall players and neatly drew goaler Gord Buckley aside and shoved the puck in behind him.

The semi-final victory puts Marlboros into the final against the winner of the Sherbrooke Saints-Sydney Millionaires series. Sherbrooke now leads that set 3-0.

CO-OPERATIVE TRADE

Alberta's 500 co-operatives, with a membership of 250,000, transacted a record $200,000,000 worth of business during 1949.

Lumber Co. Shuts Despite Offer

FORT WILLIAM, April 8 (CP) —Despite a last-minute provincial government offer of rights to timber areas, the Great Lakes Lumber and Shipping Co. closed Thursday.

Company officials were informed Thursday of an offer by Lands Minister Scott indicating the government's willingness to grant rights to timber areas which included pulpwood and sawlogs.

Officials expressed interest in the offer but said it came too late to avoid a shutdown. J. N. Swinden, vice-president and general manager, said operations could be started again but would not reach their peak until the summer of 1951.

Toronto 8-5 Favorites To Take Game, Series

TORONTO, April 8 — (CP) — Detroit Red Wings, two weeks ago top-heavy favorites to win the Stanley Cup, are the under-dogs today as they head into the decisive phase of their best-of-seven semi-final against Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Leafs, holding a 3-2 edge after five games, need only one more victory to enter the cup final against New York Rangers. And they have two chances to pull it off, tonight in Toronto and tomorrow night in Detroit.

To beat down the Leafs, campaigning for their fourth successive Stanley Cup, the Red Wings have to take two in a row, and they have to beat off a jinx that has pursued them in eight of their 10 hockey playoff meetings with the Toronto team since 1929.

Four-Game Sweep

Five of the 10 series were in the final round for the cup and the Red Wings won only one—a four-game sweep in 1936. They lost in 1942, 1945, 1948 and 1949. The other five were in semi-final or other preliminary rounds and the only Red Wings victory came in 1943. The Leafs won in 1929, 1939, 1940 and 1947.

The Maple Leafs won the first game of the current series 5-0, the third 2-0 and the fifth, Thursday night, 2-0—making the first time that goalie Turk Broda has scored more than two shutouts in a Stanley Cup playoff. The Red Wings won the second game 3-1 and the fourth 2-1 after 20 minutes and 38 seconds of overtime play.

Might Need Third Game

There is a possibility that the two week-end games won't wind up the series. That could come about if tonight's game in Toronto ends in a tie—possible because Sunday Blue Lake laws will halt the game at midnight. If that should happen, the seventh game will go on at Detroit Sunday night as scheduled. Then, if necessary, the sixth game will be replayed here Tuesday night.

Betting odds on the Leafs to win tonight run as high as eight to five. It was the other way round before the series started—and before Thursday night's fifth game.

Detroit played one of its poorest home games before a record season crowd of 14,806 Thursday as Broda posted 21 saves for his shutout. The Wings played without three regulars: Gordie Howe in hospital, and Pete Babando and Jimmy Peters, also injured.

Toronto took a 1-0 lead in the first period on a 10-footer by Ted Kennedy. Then in the last period Max Bentley stole the puck, skated the length of the ice and blasted a 15-footer through goalie Harry Lumley who got poor protection at times.

It is singularly fitting that the earth should celebrate its awakening from Winter with a glorious pageantry of bud and blossom when we, of Christendom, celebrate the miracle of the risen Christ. It is fitting, too, that we brighten and beautify our homes - - - rejoice in the warmth that brings new green and growth to our gardens - - - and array ourselves in new clothing in response to the primal urge of Spring.

But it is in our hearts that Spring and Easter work the greater magic by fulfilling the eternal promise of hope renewed. It is a time of remembering Him who conquered death that we might have this hope. On Easter morning let us enter His House and give Him our gratitude and our love. Be one of the worshipping throng. COME TO CHURCH ON EASTER!

First Easter Meant Passing From Death Into Life

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, DD

The seeing miracle of the growth and spread of early Christianity very definitely had its roots and explanation in the greater miracle of the Resurrection of Jesus, after His death on the cross and burial. A more disheartened and disappointed group could hardly be found anywhere than the group of Christian disciples in the hours following their Master's death.

Despite His words, that seemed so clear after His resurrection, they had clung to the last to the idea and hope of an earthly kingdom. They had left all to follow Jesus in that hope, and now they were left, lost and bewildered, knowing not what to do, or where to go. Peter expressed both his dejection, and his counsel of despair, when he said he was going back to his fishing nets: "I go afishing."

Then suddenly, all the dejection and frustration changed into life and hope. Not only was their faith revived, but there came new acsesses of vision, character, and power, that transformed men who had been quarreling about place and ambition into Apostles, with a world mission and vision in a purpose now spiritual.

That transformation is something not to be accounted for, except upon the plain facts. Here was John, one of the two brothers whom Jesus, because of their intense forcefulness and ambition, had nicknamed the "Son of Thunder, Boanerges." These brothers had wanted Him to call down fire from heaven, and cosume villagers who had used Him inhospitably (Luke 9:54).

This very John, only a few years later, became the Apostle of love, writing in all the tenderness of his Epistles, "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren" (I passed from death unto life under the power of that resurrection faith.

It was this faith that inspired Paul, who spoke of himself as a Christian born out of due season. Paul claimed to have an experience of a vision of the Christ, whom he had not known, as the other Apostles had, during His earthly life.

Only such a profound faith could have upheld and sustained a man in the situations of peril and suffering which Paul so constantly experienced, and at the same time kept him full of joy as of faith and courage.

Men have endured suffering with grim courage and determination, but to have such joy in the soul as Paul and his companion Silas manifested in the inner prison of Philippi (Acts 16), in the darkness, with their feet fast in the stocks, is beyond any human experience untouched with divine grace.

It was the conviction of this living Christ, in whom he lived and moved and had his being, that gave to Paul and his companions the faith and courage that kept them persistent in their mission to make the Gospel and its power known.

It is the faith of the Eastertide and the Resurrection, and would God that we might all experience it today! We, too might then know and understand what the Apostles meant when they spake of passing from death unto life.

Jesus On First Easter Day Taught Lesson In Reverence

Jesus said unto Mary: Touch Me not.—St. John 20:17.

What manner of saying is this that Jesus saith to Mary: "Touch Me not". It is uplifting to remember that the first person Our Lord showed Himself after His resurrection was to a woman, Mary, out of whom He had cast seven devils. He is the same Lord after as before His resurrection. His outstanding characteristic is compassion. One woman was pouring out her soul in waiting. To he He goes. He calls her by name. She recognizes the tone of affection. She falls at His feet and attempts to touch Him with the cry "My Master, My Teacher". He is still her Teacher for she is to learn a wider truth about Him. He is more than a prophet. He is the risen Lord in His resurrection Body, which will never die. He is the Lord Christ, the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth.

He would teach Mary the lesson of REVERENCE. To hear some Christians utter the name of Jesus the hearer would think of Him as an ordinary man; he would receive no sense of His mysterious greatness. His Name shall be called wonderful.

THE PERSONAL COMMAND. To you and me He says: "Touch Me for I am ascended to my Father and your Father. I am the Ascended Lord who is everywhere, especially near those in sorrow. Are you in sorrow or affliction. Draw near to Him and hearken: "Touch Me, for I am bone of your bone and flesh of your flesh; a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief. I can weep with you and understand sorrow, its pain and agony". Your answer: 'Touch Him with the finger of faith and discover the virtue which flows from Him.

In your hour of temptation when your sin surges down upon you He Himself will draw near to you, if you invite Him. "Help me, Lord Jesus. You have suffered the strain of temptation. He will say: "I am a man like yourself. Touch Me for my strength is made perfect in weakness and my grace is sufficient for you." Touch Him with the finger of faith and you will receive strength to overcome and in time your sin will lose its attraction. You will testify that He hath done great things for your character, which is slowly revealing the Christ.

Holy Scriptures must be your daily help. Some written word will stick in your mind. It is written for you. Read the four Gospels which contain four word portraits of the Teacher. You should strive to have a mental image of the Lord for one purpose. "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father. Above all remember His own promise. "Whosoever cometh unto He I will in no wise cast out."

THE LORD JESUS, MOVED WITH COMPASSION, TOUCHED THE LEPER AND IMMEDIATELY HE WAS CLEANSED. THANKS BE UNTO THEE, O LORD.

We Believe: That God is omnipresent by means of His spirit flowing out from His personal presence. This spirit power is universal in upholding all things in the natural world. For the work that is supernatural and sacred the same spirit by special concentration of the Divine Will becomes Holy Spirit for the holy or sacred work determined to be done.

Small Child Hit By Truck

Three-year-old Jane Ann Wyatt is recovering at her home on River Road S., from the effects of being knocked down by a truck at noon Friday.

She has a bruised head as well as a body bruise. After being treated at the Peterborough Clinic by Dr. R. E. Pow she was allowed to go home.

The little girl was knocked down when she darted across the road near her home. Driver of the truck, S. Sanders of Engleburn Ave., saw her come out of a yard and head for the road. He blew his horn and slowed; the tot hesitated a moment and then ran out in front of the truck.

Sanders applied his brakes and skidded off into the west ditch but Jane Ann was struck by the right rear fender and knocked down. Her mother, Mrs. Kenneth Wyatt, was a witness to the accident. Police Constable Sherman Keliele investigated.

Easter Drama Presented At Mark Street

An Easter drama written and directed by Peter McCombe, was presented Friday evening in Mark St. United Church by the Pilgrim Players of Knox United Church.

Curtaining off the choir loft, the players adapted the front of the church and with lighting effects behind the screen as the only stage effects, were successful in presenting a vivid picture of the events in Jerusalem during the three days before the Resurrection.

Eurnice, the Greek widow whose child was healed by Jesus, tells her story and then the scene changes to Pilate's house.

The story of the scene in the Garden of Gethsemane, trial and crucifixion, is related as Pilate and his wife discuss their misgivings as the guard announces the death of Jesus at the ninth hour.

Then comes the small band of women led by Mary Magdalene who make plans to visit the sepulchre. After the sepulchre is found empty the women and some of the disciples are greatly agitated until they realize that the resurrection to which their Master had previously referred had taken place.

These events are depicted in three scenes unified by Bible passages read by the Rev. H. G. Douglas and quartet singing by Helen Gillies, Margaret McCombe, Edward and Victor Potter.

Those taking part in the drama were Lindy McIntosh, Helen Gillies, Betty Staresmeare, Louise Jarvis, Rodger Davis, Edward Potter, Margaret McCombe, Victor Potter, Ganton Clarke, Vera Tasker, Dorothy Mitchell, Ada Huffman, Susan Summers, Peter McCombe and Joseph Lancashire.

Susan Summers was responsible for the costumes.

The drama was preceded by a recital of chamber music by Cyril Searles, violin; Gabriel Tatrallyay, 'cello, and Olive Searles, piano. Adam Hawley sang.

Warkworth Citizens' Band Reorganized After 35 Years

WARKWORTH, April 8— (By Staff Reporter)—When the citizens' band of Warkworth discontinued its activities some 35 years ago, the village was without any musical group outside the churches. The generations which have grown up since that time missed the enjoyment of playing as an organised band.

Last fall steps were taken by a small nucleus of enthusiasts to start a music group and today a flourishing brass band of 32 players and a glee club with 45 voices is ready to present its first concert next week

Throughout the winter singers and instrumentalists have been practising hard to establish themselves and have now passed the first stepping stones and are ready to perform for the entertainment of the community.

Secured a Leader

Euthusiasm alone was not responsible for the success of this venture. The community chose Joseph Minicola of Peterborough to direct both band and choir. It is because of his leadership that the community's enthusiasm has blossomed into a concrete achievement.

The band was first proposed by Mrs. Don Thompson, whose son Edward plays the clarinet. After making the suggestion a committee was formed including Mrs. W. Grant Allen, secretary; The Rev. H. G. Lester, the Rev. J. M. Ritchie, Dr. F. B. Brintell, Kenneth Harden, Alan Buchanan and Mrs. M. W. Woods.

The organization was formed and at the first band practice a large assortment of instruments was assembled. Perhaps some had not been played for several years, but they seemed to spring out like mushrooms when players were mobilised.

The assistance of the township council and local organisations was enlisted for financial help and with a grant from the council and donations from the businessmen's club and several other helpers, additional instruments and music was purchased.

With sufficient financial backing, enthusiasm among members, the goodwill of the community as a whole and the leadership of Mr. Minicola, the organisation has forged ahead in less than six months.

The first concert, to be presented next week, will probably be followed by performances out of doors during the summer.

The last band in Warkworth, which disbanded about 35 years ago, was directed by the late John Sweet and travelled around the countryside playing at fairs and various functions. Few of those in the new organisation remember the earlier project but C. T. Maycock, whose sings in the new glee club, was also a member of the earlier organisation.

The Cat's In The Car!

COBOURG, April 8 (ENS) Ray Watson's new car developed a queer sound under the hood which shouldn't have been there on his way to work at the CGE. There was no time to investigate so when he reached the factory he phoned the garage to pick up the car and see what was wrong. When the mechanic lifted the hood, a black cat with oil and grease on its fur, regarded him with a look of outraged dignity. Watson, when informed of the situation, recalled that the cat had not put in an appearance the night before.

10,009 Books In Circulation

A slight decrease in the adult department circulation at the Public Library for March was reported by Librarian William Graff to the Library Board Thursday night. Despite the drop of 113 books on last year's March circulation of 10,009, the adult department at the main library still has an increase of 501 books over the total circulation of the first three month's of 1949.

The circulation of the branch library's adult division was 427 books higher than March 1949. The small library had 1,582 adult books taken out last month.

The total circulation of the combined adult departments is 32,767 for 1950, an increase of 3,590 books over the same period for last year. The main library's share of the figure is 28,523.

Both the branch and the main juvenile departments reported increases for March over last year's period. With a circulation of 6,600 the main library's juvenile department was up 382 books this year and with a circulation of 3,258 the branch's juvenile division was up 568 books. These increases gave the combined juvenile departments a three-month increase over last year of 6192.

Make Armour Road Through Street

A St. Thomas proposal that payment of poll tax be accepted as qualification for vote at municipal elections will not receive Peterborough's support if the city council adopts the recent recommendation of its legal committee.

The committee has also recommended that Armour Road be designated a through street from Hunter St. to Park Hill Road. It also suggests that when stop-and-go lights are placed at Aylmer and McDonnel Streets, the present caution light at that intersection be removed to Sherbrooke and Rubidge Streets.

Funds Available For City Hall Exceed $500,000

J. G. Hungerford, Toronto, general manager of the National Trust Company, executors of the estate of the late W. G. Morrow, expressed himself as "quite pleased" with the action of the council in letting the contract for the new city hall Thursday.

Mr. Outram telephoned the information to Mr. Hungerford after the adjournment of the committee of the whole council Thursday afternoon.

"Mr. Hungerford said he was delighted to hear the close figuring of the contractors who submitted bids," Mr. Outram told the Examiner. "He was particularly interested in the fact that a Peterborough firm, Eastwood Construction Company, was awarded the contract.

Mr. Hungerford remarked that he thought the late Mr. Morrow who left a large sum to the city for its new municipal building would have been gratified with the outcome of this stage of the preliminaries, and that the city hall was to be constructed by a Peterborough firm."

Mr. Outram said the council did not at present know definitely what would be the amount of Mr. Morrow's bequest. It would exceed $500,000, and possibly by a substantial sum if the earnings of the estate since Mr. Morrow's death became available as both the council and the executors hoped.

"This is a matter which I am not in a position to discuss," Mr. Outram said, "although naturally the public will be interested in the eventual amount of the bequest. It is something which the council will have in hand, with the National Trust Company, now that the contract has been awarded."

By the terms of Mr. Morrow's will the city is required to provide the site for the building and also its necessary furnishings.

Eastwood Price of $643,062 For New City Hall Lowest of Eight Received

The $643,062 tender of Eastwood Construction Company of Peterborough, lowest of eight, for the building of the new city hall was accepted by the committee of the whole council Thursday afternoon. The recommendation of the committee was briefly embodied in a motion by Ald. Hugh Waddell, seconded by Ald. J. A. Dewart.

An amendment by Ald. Doug Miller and Ald. Herbert Young, proposed that the architects, Marani and Morris, Toronto, study the two lowest tenders, that of Eastwood Construction and Richard and B. A. Ryan Construction Company of Montreal and Toronto, the latter at $650,000, "and that they submit a recommendation to us". The motion carried by 7-2 with Mayor Swanston presiding.

The bulk bids were: Eastwood Construction Co. $643,062; Richard & B. A. Ryan Limited, Montreal, $650,000; Redfern Construction Co., Toronto, $669,700; George Hardy Limited, Toronto, $675,769; Anglin-Norcross (Ontario) $695,876; Dickie Construction Co., Toronto, $698,954; Foundation Company of Ontario $710,152; Robertson Construction and Engineering Co., Niagara Falls, $728,652.

Eight Companies Tendered

Seven tenders were brought from Toronto by Col. M. F. Allan of the firm of Marani and Morris, and the Eastwood Construction Co. tender was received here by City Clerk Outram on Thursday. They were opened by Mayor Swanston.

Presumably the amendment was inspired by particulars of quotations on alternate materials which were sought by the architects after the original details of plans and specifications were in the hands of contractors.

Col. Allan explained, however, that the usual course in letting contracts was to accept bulk prices and to use alternate quotations only in the adjusting of the selected tender if the owner (the council) desired to make use of them.

Asked if his firm would recommend the acceptance of the Eastwood Construction bid, Col. Allan replied: "Yes, we would recommend it. We feel that the contract should be settled on the basis of the bulk tenders, and that the lowest should be accepted."

It was subsequent to that statement, that Ald. Waddell presented his motion.

The detail of alternates was submitted to contractors with the query whether they allowed any deduction for the use of the substitute materials.

The first one was the use of Gypsum partitions instead of Terra Cotta tiles. Eastwood Construction made no allowance from the bulk tender, and Ryan Company deducted $4,500.

The second was the use of Portland limestone instead of Queenston limestone. No change by Eastwood Construction; and this Far Above Clouds Over Atlantic Sun Shines Brightly At 3:30 a.m.

(This is first article by Jean E. Stenton, Examiner's telegraph editor, who is on a trip to France.—Editor.)

By JEAN E. STENTON.

SOMEWHERE OVER THE ATLANTIC—Winter turned out its full bag of tricks to welcome us at the airport in Sydney, NS. Grim-faced air passengers declared it was one of the roughest flights they had ever made.

The plane pulled into the airdrome in a wild gale and blizzard. Inches of snow drifted across the runways. The last half hour before the landing at Sydney was like an elevator zooming up two floors and then dropping as suddenly. Many of the passengers learned that they were not good elevator zoomers. Even with the safety belts fastened, there was a severe jolting. Whether it was the pills for air sickness taken prior to the flight, the gum I chewed like mad or just a good stomach, I do not know. But as the victims succumbed to the right and to the left, I remained unscathed.

Jean Stenton

I am writing this at 17,000 feet above the Atlantic at 3:30 a.m. Already the sun is shining brightly as we sail along above beautiful fluffy white clouds. In another three hours we should land at Prestwick, Scotland.

It took seven years of crossing Canada from Quebec to Vancouver for two newspaperwomen to meet. Mrs. Irvin Kahn (formerly Fanny Hoffer of the Winnipeg Free Press) and I finally got together in Montreal for the first time.

Seven years ago, we came close to meeting. We were both in the same city of Winnipeg and talked on the telephone. Since then, every time I have gone through to BC we have tried to connect, but she has always been in Minnesota or Saskatchewan.

But luck was with us this time. Mrs. Kahn was married in January and came to Montreal with her husband who is studying at McGill University. When we learned I was taking off from Montreal, it was decided the great moment had arrived and the long-delayed get-together took place.

A Montreal cabbie and I struck up a life-long friendship in our short ride to the air terminal. When he learned I was going to France, he was ready to give me the keys to the city.

A native of Brittany, France, he has not been home for 21 years, but is planning a four-month visit this summer. He and his faithful taxi cab which have shared 9,000 miles together are going to make the trip, returning in November. So pleased was he with finding a fellow traveller, that he kept the rate to a minimum, shut off the meter at the terminal, hauled in all the baggage and offered to make the trip to Dorval for $1.... Greater love hath no French taxi driver.

An Irish mother and father are due for a big surprise in the next few days. A young priest from Ohio is flying home for an unexpected visit. From London, he will take three days in Rome, then arrive unannounced for a family reunion. The movies that

Select Sound Lumber For House Construction

The finest workmanship will be of little avail unless sound material is used in the construction of a house. The lumber in the framework should be chosen for strength, dryness and ability to hold nails. Woodwork exposed to ground moisture should be treated to resist decay.

The choice of material to be used for finish is largely dependent on its ability to take paint or other protective coatings, the locality in which the house is to be built and the ever-present factor of cost.

Contrary to general opinion, lumber shrinks across the grain and not lengthwise. This is a cause of warping. Consequently it is important that the lumber be well seasoned and protected from rain and snow before and during installation.

Knots and defects are the basis upon which lumber is graded. For natural exterior finishes, the lumber that is free from defects is preferable. On the other hand, poorer grade materials may be suitable for painting.

Framing grades allow for small knots and other slight defects. Poorer grades, having larger knots and more defects, are usually acceptable for sheathing. First grade materials usually go into the millwork, such as doors and sashes. A reputable lumber dealer has a thorough understanding of grading and will gladly help with the choice of materials.

HOUSE No. 423—This little cottage seems "just right" as you first see it, nestled on a broad corner lot. Even the garage and border wall contribute to the picture of graciousness that greets the eye from every angle. The owners chose grey stone for exterior walls, and authentic Colonial millwork detail. The picturesque lentils under the eaves of the hipped roof, which can be seen in the photograph, are repeated on the garage. The latter building is of stone and in complete architectural harmony with the house. Shutters and doors are black, with all trim in cream. Both from the inside and outside the oval dining room is a prime attraction. The huge bowed window is a sight not soon to be forgotten. The living room, while not large, is ample for a house of this size. As can well be imagined, the fireplace detail is unusually good, and is complimented by the many fine pieces of antique furniture. Such furniture is not confined to the living room, it is in evidence throughout the house. Both bedrooms have cross ventilation, and are separated from each other by a wall of closets, an important aid to privacy. The tiny bath is well placed. WE DELIVER

Well Designed Cupboards Essential Thing In Kitchen

No matter how well your kitchen is planned—whether you have an "L," a "U" or a corridor type plan—it must include plenty of well-designed storage space in each work area. Storage must be planned at each centre so that everything is within easy reach; only similar things stacked and behind each other.

One guide for figuring the total amount of upper cabinet space needed is to allow 6' of shelf for each member of the family plus 12' for extras. Well planned base cabinet storage under this amount of upper cabinet will usually be enough. Base sections can be made (or purchased) with door sections or drawer units containing from four to six drawers.

If your cabinets are to be of wood, you may have them built by a carpenter, buy them ready-made or have them custom made. Built-in or custom-built cabinets have the advantage of being more readily adapted to a kitchen plan. All types warrant considerable care in installation so that they will fit snugly and work precisely.

Correct Heights Important

If you decide to build your cabinets you can plan special arrangements, sizes and heights. The average overall height is 7'; the toe space 3" x 4". The height of the base cabinet may vary from 32" to 38"; the depth from 22", the distance between the base and wall cabinets 14" to 16"; the depth of the upper cabinet 11" to 12", the height 30" to 36".

Cabinets should be planned for desirable divisions of space and convenient door arrangement. Width of doors for desirable divisions of space and convenient door arrangement. Width of doors in the upper section may be 10 to 14 inches; in the lower sections, 12 to 16 inches. Wide doors, especially in the upper cabinet, interfere with the worker. Plan the swing of the doors to give the most satisfactory working arrangement. Whenever possible, avoid doors swinging in front of windows or over the sink. Flush-type plywood doors are easily made, painted and cleaned. Plywood not less than $\frac{3}{8}$" thick should be used—if thinner, the doors may warp.

The small cabinet "up high" next to the ceiling makes for inconvenient storage. Often this space may be eliminated without loss of important storage provided other space has been carefully planned. Instead of building cabinets, this upper section may be closed off with lath and plaster, or $\frac{1}{4}$" to $\frac{3}{8}$" plywood.

Adjustable Shelves Desirable.

Shelves in the upper cabinets should be made adjustable—to be moved up and down at will. This is most easily done by using metal stripping. Adding narrow shelves (half shelves) between standard shelves increases storage for utensils and supplies. When planning shelf space, allow 1 to 3 inches between articles and shelf above to allow free movement of hands when placing or removing articles. You may also wish to allow a little extra space for utensils and dishes you plan to buy later.

Pull-out shelves may improve the use of the storage space in the lower cabinet and will make items more accessible. If these shelves are not as deep as the cabinet, there will be space for rods, racks or hooks on the door.

A strip at the back of the wooden shelf will keep utensils or supplies from falling off and can act as a stop for the shelf when pulled out. If wooden shelves are covered with linoleum, it will protect them from metal marks. Pull-out wire shelves are sometime preferred in utensil cabinets as they are not marred by metal and do not collect dust.

Drawer space should be planned just the right size and depth to hold desired items — for silver, cutlery and similar articles plan shallow drawers 2 to 3 inches deep. Drawers, rather than bins, usually make better use of space for flour, sugar or heavy utensils and for easier handling, should be mounted on ball-bearing extension drawer slides.

Use Only Quality Hardware

Whether your cabinets are custom made or built at home, always use the best quality hardware available. Doors should be equipped with strong hinges and simple, attractive pulls, comfortable for the hand and easily reached and grasped. Place pulls near the bottom on the doors of the upper cabinets, and near the top on the doors of the lower cabinets.

Will Increase Aluminum Work

MONTREAL, April 8 (CP) — As a result for strengthened demand for aluminum, the Aluminum Company of Canada plans to restore production at its Arvida, Que., smelter to 100 per cent of capacity and is studying plans for further expansion in Quebec and British Columbia, President R. E. Powell announced Wednesday.

He said that the company intends to bring the plant's 900-tons-a-day production up to its 1,000-ton capacity and to add 250 employees to the present staff of 7,000.

Part of the company's facilities were shut down last year, but Mr. Powell said export demand for Canadian aluminum is strengthening and expanded fabricating facilities in the United States now require 2½ times as much of the metal as that country can produce.

The company was looking to the possible future development of an entirely new aluminum industry in British Columbia based on 1,500,000 horsepower.

Cavan WA Holds Successful Tea

CAVAN, April 8 (ENS)—The W.A. of Cavan United Church held a tea on Wednesday afternoon with the program taking place in the auditorium of the church. The president Mrs. Wm. Armitage welcomed the guests and occupied the chair. After the opening exercises Mrs. David Lunn, Millbrook, led in prayer. Mrs. A. Kennedy was at the organ.

Guest speakers were Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe, Hastings, president of the W.M.S. of the Peterborough Presbyterial and Mrs. E. Wand, Peterborough, President of the W.I. of the Peterborough Presbyterial. Mrs. Metcalfe spoke of the importance of the work of the W.M.S. in helping with Missions at home and abroad. Mrs. Wand gave an account of the work of the W.A. and said the chief duty was in helping with the financial side of the church.

Mrs. B. Ingram, Millbrook, contributed two reading, "A Missionary's First View of India", and "A Little Boy's Prayer". Miss Annie Tinney played several piano solos.

At the conclusion of the program a social hour was spent in the basement of the Church. The tea table was attractive with a cloth of Madeira embroidery, centred with a basket of spring flowers, flanked by tall tapers in silver holders. Mrs. Joshua Swaine and Mrs. T. G. Husser poured tea from silver services placed at either end of the table. Members of the W.A. assisted with the serving of refreshments.

There were a number of guests present from Millbrook and Fairmount.

CWL Re-elects Mrs. L. Martyn

Annual meeting of Sacred Heart sub-division of the Catholic Women's League met in the club rooms on Wednesday. Mrs. Leo Martyn presided as reports were read, the treasurer's summary showing a substantial balance.

An election of officers took place with Mrs. M. McCarthy in the chair and she was assisted by Mrs. W. McDougall and Mrs. W. DeNoble.

The slate for 1950-51 reads: president Mrs. Leo Martyn; first vice president, Mrs. H. Masterson; second vice president, Miss C. Viscoff; third vice president, Mrs. M. Murray; recording secretary, Miss E. Armstrong; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. Kylie; treasurer, Mrs. W. Curtin.

Fashion Flashes

Colorful coats are seen everywhere, with bright yellows, lipstick reds, bright gold and other shades favored. A charming little coat is of tangerine colored fleece, cut on Chinese lines, with slits at the sides. It is fastened with big braid frogs below the mandarin collar.

✧ ✧ ✧

Each season now sees a big improvement in nylon blouses. Beautiful nylon crepe in pretty prints is used for a smart line of blouses. These have cuffed, elbow-length sleeves and necklines that tie in big self bows, making them nice for wear with long-revered suit jackets.

✧ ✧ ✧

Top level treatment for cottons has resulted in perfectly beautiful afternoon and evening dresses. Harlequin black and white pique makes a handsome dinner dress, strapless, with red lined, matching bolero, the red lining toning with the big rose that is thrust through the black patent leather belt.

✧ ✧ ✧

Lately at very smart evening gatherings, it has been noted that the dress of wrap-printed taffeta is the choice of one or two fashion-conscious women. One beauty is in pale silver gray with a design of pale rose to deep rose flowers.

✧ ✧ ✧

Neat hat trick—noticed at the theatre, was a theatre hat of coarse mesh veiling in beige, held by a shaped tiara-like band of beige satin ribbon, the veil very flared below the band.

✧ ✧ ✧

More turn of the century fashions are appearing. Very much instyle is a full length coat of finely checked, supple wool worsted, made with leg-o'-mutton sleeves, an ascot tie, and big pearl buttons. It is half-belted in back.

Defence Talks Often For Canada, U.S.

OTTAWA, April 8 (CP)—Direct meeting of regional military commanders of Canada and the United States have become part of the molding of plans for joint defence of the North American continent, high officials said Wednesday.

That development was pointed up by a meeting in New York between the east coast army commanders of the two countries, Maj.-Gen. Harry Foster of Canada's Atlantic Command, and Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, Chief of the U. S. 1st Army, and staff officers.

Among those attending is Brig. George Kitching, planning chief at army headquarters in Ottawa and the man in charge of preparations for use of Canada's airborne brigade.

Defence headquarters officials said there have been other meetings of that type and there will be more as officers of the two countries continue to come together to "discuss mutual problems."

Can. Geographer Estimates 50,000,000 Top Population

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO April 8 — (CP) — Want to know what the population of Canada will be 100 years from now

Well, get out your geography books. Not those you discarded at about 14 years of age, out of which you memorized the names of rivers and lakes, the exports of Madagascar or the imports of Hong Kong.

Not those but books which will tell you the make-up of your country in terms of supporting people.

For, as Dr. Griffith Taylor, professor of geography at the University of Toronto, puts it:

Not Lists Of Facts

"Geography is a liaison subject in which the significant facts of geology, physics and so on are incorporated in the study of environment. It is not to be thought of simply as the memorizing of facts and localities, but rather as a series of exercises in deduction."

If you follow Dr. Taylor's reasonings you might deduce as follows:

Canada, a country of 3,500,000 square miles, roughly the size of Europe or the United States, is not so favorable to large population as either.

Europe now has about 500,000,000 people. If that is regarded as "saturation," then Canada on the same basis may some day have 100,000,000 people. However, from the standpoint of a higher standard of living, 40,000,000 or 50,000,000 would be better.

Controlling Factors

Dr. Taylor bases his views on the belief that nature has largely decided the future of a country before the man occupies it; That it has in large part decided a country's best economic program; that man is able to accelerate, slow or stop a country's progress; but he should not, if he is wise, depart from the directions indicated by natural environment.

What are these "directions indicated by natural environment" in Canada

In the first place, Dr. Taylor states, agriculture (apart from extensive coal fields) is the major factor in producing a stable close settlement. Mines help greatly to open up a pioneer region but (except for coal mines) do not in general produce permanent settlements.

In agriculture the big governing factor is the July temperature, and an average July temperature of 57 degrees may be taken as marking the northern boundary.

In Canada this northern July; 57 line runs through the northern tip of Newfoundland (well north of the Maritime Provinces), across northern Quebec and Ontario, skirts James Bay, and then swoops northwest across northern Manitoba and Saskatchewan and up the MacKenzie River basin to the Arctic Circle.

Land Unsuitable

In the belt, of course, there is much land unsuitable for agriculture, regardless of the temperature. Particularly, there is the Canadian shield, a source of great mineral wealth but distinctly unfavorable to agriculture. It is a vast rock formation which covers about half of Canada, sweeping down from the Northwest Territories, across northern Saskatchewan and Manitoba and over most of northern Ontario and Quebec.

Particularly fortunate for Canada is an upward sweep of good wheat lands into the Peace River area of Alberta-British Columbia, and general agricultural possibilities along the Mackenzie River basin to the Artic Ocean.

Roah At Russia

For what may be done in the Mackenzie North, Dr. Taylor draws a lesson from Russia. Igarka on the Yenest River in Siberia was established only in 1927 but in 1939 had a population of 20,000, though it has the same situation as Aklavik.

"Ships enter in July and must leave by October. However, sawmills can work during the winter, as they will some day at Aklavik

There are less than 90 frost-free days in the year, but surprising results have been obtained by the use of special seed. Wheat, barley and oats are cultivated in the open, although the subsoil is frozen a short distance below the surface."

Coal in Nova Scotia, and Alberta should assist population growth in those provinces.

Lots of Coal

In Alberta the abundant coal cannot be ignored much longer as a source of power on a large scale. There are so few little-used coalfields left that our great heritage will soon be fully exploited."

Oil in Alberta and coal in Labrador are recent factors, and Dr. Taylor to assess their long-term population effects largely in terms of the development they bring to areas with solid agricultural possibilities.

If he puts limits on population because of factors of environment, he does not mention any limits to the capacity of a people to use their resources to raise their standards of living. By implication he leaves open what a people may accomplish in adjusting themselves to their environment by proper nutrition and application of scientific knowledge to living conditions.

50 Years Too Short

As to what Canada's population will be in the year 2,000—well, 50 years is a short time in the life of a country and many things may occur to accelerate or slow down possible developments; and he prefers to make his forecast of 40,000,000 or 50,000,000 (or 100,000,000 on a "saturation" bassis) in terms of 100 years or more.

Dr. Taylor, a native of Australia, has been with the University of Toronto for 15 years and has published 30 books including, in 1947, "Canada," a study of the country's background and geographic makeup.

French Schools Begin Teaching Sex to Students

By GODFREY ANDERSON

PARIS, April 8 —(AP)— Two Paris schools have begun experimental courses in student sex instruction.

Although "L'Amour" is one of the most used words in the French language, it has received scarcely a mention in the class room until now. Coeducation is virtually unknown in France.

Robert Lamy, headmaster of Lycee Voltaire, organized one of the first two sex education courses being taught in Paris. His school has 2,200 boys between 10 and 18, but the course is limited to boys of 17 and 18. The instruction consists of three two-hour lectures each term.

Little Interest

After the first term, Lamy circulated a questionnaire among the students but found "little interest." He added: "I'm afraid their answers were not very sincere."

Lamy said only about 90 of the 250 boys eligible to attend the course actually came to the lectures. The first lecture dealt with reproduction of plants, animals and humans. The second covered actual childbirth and the third was devoted to venereal disease, using a film loaned by the French army.

Similar classes are being taught in the Lycee Elaine Boucher, a big girls' school in suburban Vincennes. A woman philosophy teacher lectures there to girls whose parents give specific consent to their attending classes.

Discussions about putting sex education into French schools began just after the war, when a special committee of doctors and education experts made a study.

Two years ago they submitted a report giving modified approval to sex education for students in state-controlled schools, but the report never got beyond the desk of Education Minister Yvon Delbos. The two schools now conducting sex instruction did so on their own.

Louis Francois, Inspector-General of the Ministry of Education, will be installed as a country-doubts that sex education ever wide policy.

"Most of our present teachers," he said, "are family men who don't speak of sex even to their own children. First they would need training themselves in child physiology and psychology."

The special committe learned some interesting things about French attitudes toward sex through a poll of parents on the question of sex educaton.

Of the parent, polled, 55 per cent answered "yes" when asked if they favored schools taking charge of the child's sex education. Thirty-one per cent said "no" and 14 per cent had no opinion.

The committee also polled some other countries to see what was being done. It found that the United States, Britain and Sweden have sex instruction in schools but that the Netherlands and Switzerland do not. Russia also was asked, but did not reply.

Canadians Help Produce Best American Play

By PAT USSHER

NEW YORK, April 8—(CP)—Choice of "The Member of The Wedding" by the drama critics circle as the best American play of the season was—at least in part—a tribute to two former Montrealers.

The award-winning drama by Carson McCullers, a young Georgia writer, was produced by Robert Whitehead, Oliver Rae and Stanley Martineau. Whitehead, who has teamed with Rae in several productions, and Martineau, a prominent sculptor, both come from the Canadian city.

The critics' top choices, "The Member of The Wedding"; "The Cocktail Party' as the best foreign play; and "The Consul" as the best musical play, speak for themselves.

Top Broadway Plays

Here are some of the other good things of the season, in the opinion of this column:

The performances of Sidney Blackmer and Shirley Booth as an alcoholic dreamer and his slovenly wife in "Come Back, Little Sheba;" the acting of Sir Cedric Hardwicke and Lilli Palmer as the principals in the revival of Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra;" "The Happy Time," for the general air of good humor displayed by the eccentric Ottawa family with which it deals; and "touch and go," a good example of a light revue.

All of these but "Touch and Go" are still running.

Orchard To Plantation

Helen Hayes has come back to town to score another triumph in "The Wisteria Trees," a play by Joshua Logan based on Chekhov's "The Cherry Orchard." Logan has transplanted the setting from a run-down Russian estate to a run-down plantation in Louisiana. But apart from that, it's pretty much the same slow-moving account of a decaying aristocratic family and the futility of the lives of its members. Miss Hayes is brilliant as the Wayward Lucy Ransdell, the heroine of the drama.

Aisle Jottings

"Carousel," one of the hit musicals by Richard Rodgers of Oscar Hammerstein, is due to open in London in June. Iva Withers, formerly of Rivers, Man., has been named as likely to handle the feminine lead. . . "Harvey," Mary Ellen Chase's comedy about a gentle drunk and his companion, an out-size rabbit has just opened in Berlin, retitled "My Name is Hare."

EARLY WALL DECORATION

Figures of men or animals sculptured in marble or stone are the oldest method of wall decoration.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Constant Family Quarrels Will Make Children Neurotic

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a 16-year-old boy. Our family consists of four members, my parents, my younger brother and myself. My parents have been married nearly eighteen years and have been quarreling ever since I can remember. Mother complains that she is "withering away" and tells me that when she was a girl she was the life of every party. And look at her now.

Dorothy Dix

My father says he can't understand how a woman can be so mean as to fight with him all the time, especially just now when he is struggling so hard to make a few dollars for his family.

Last night after I had gone to bed and fallen asleep I was suddenly awakened by an outburst of swearing. My mother had become violent. I can't for the life of me see how a woman could have used such vile language to her own husband, heaping upon him insult after insult.

Eventually Mother went to sleep, but she turned on a bright reading lamp which was right next to my father's head, thereby keeping him from getting a much-needed rest. Finally I had to get out of bed, go into my parents' room and turn out the light, much to my father's relief. A little while later I was awakened for the second time. My mother had started it all over again.

What Can Son Do?

Miss Dix, as an obedient son what can I do to relieve this terrible situation? Mother says there is only one way out—divorce. But when people have been married for eighteen years it seems a horrible thing to end all in the divorce courts. Mother says the only thing she has to live for are her children and that if it hadn't been for us she would have divorced my father long ago and married the right man in her youth. But don't you think that it is a dreadful thing for a mother to "tell all" to her son and make him the confidant of her grievances against his father? I think my father is fine. What can I do?

A WORRIED SON

ANSWER: Disgruntled husbands and wives seem to think that their quarrels are personal affairs, that they have a right to say whatever they please to each other and to stage as many harrowing scenes as they like before their children. They would say it was none of the children's business. But it is. How their parents get along together is the most vital factor in a child's life, and fathers and mothers have no more right to treat it to a daily spat than they have to give it a daily dose of poison.

Indeed, that is exactly what they are doing. They are poisoning the child's whole life. They are not only destroying its present happiness, they are wrecking its future. They are shattering its nerves. They are inflicting upon it neuroses that will handicap it to its dying day.

Many husbands and wives who have come to hate each other keep on living together for the sake of the children, but the sacrifice is made in vain if they are not big enough and strong enough and do not care enough for the children to refrain from quarreling.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My marriage has been an unusually successful one and I am passing on my rules of how to be happy though married to other women. The first is:

Pocket your pride. Don't be ashamed to admit you made a mistake. Don't hesitate to ask for forgiveness when you have done wrong.

Second: Concentrate on the good in your husband. Look for his virtues instead of his faults. I found many things to admire in my husband that I never knew he possessed, just by searching for them.

Third: Forget yourself. Forget your virtues, your prejudices, your hurts real or imaginary. You can't possibly have nerves if you don't think about yourself.

Fourth: Stay behind the scenes. I was secretary to a big official for seven years before I got married. Eight hours a day I devoted to developing his success, but I kept in the background and he got the credit for it. When I married I used the same tactics with my husband. I gave him the benefit of all my brains and used them in pushing him along, but I kept under cover.

Fifth: Develop your husband's belief in himself. When I married my husband he had a bad case of inferiority complex. I began cultivating his faith in himself, giving him credit for every little break, asking his opinion when mine was probably better. Now he is as good as I tell him he is, and his belief in himself has made other people believe in him and he is a success.

Sixth: And lastly, put on a smile that won't come off. A man likes a cheerful wife and one who looks like she is glad she married him.

These rules have worked with me. Maybe they will work with other women.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think they will and I advise every married woman to cut them out and paste them on her mirror where she will see them every time she puts on her complexion.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Which of two men can cause a wife the most unhappiness, the one who drinks, or the one who philanders. The other good qualities being just about even.

A. A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think the philanderer makes his wife far more unhappy than the drunkard does because he tortures her with jealousy. The drunkard can cause his wife a lot of misery; he can keep her always on the tenterhooks of anxiety; he can drag her down to poverty and fill her with disgust. But the philanderer breaks his wife's heart.

Housewives In SA Ladies of Leisure

EDMONTON, April 8—(CP)—South African housewives are ladies of leisure compared with their Canadian counterparts, Mrs. A. Adrian Roberts, wife of the Union of South Africa's High Commissioner to Canada, said in an interview.

"The South African housewife of the middle class complains that her housework gets her down is either a liar or a muddler," she said.

Cheap native help allows South African women to take up tennis, golf, bridge, badminton or tapestry.

"If properly organized, a middle class woman need do practically nothing in her own home, except oversee the shopping and meal-planning."

Junior Farmers Plan 'At Home'

Peterborough Junior Farmers are holding their annual At Home Wednesday, April 12 at Club Aragon. This social event is the highlight of their winter season.

The Juniors are hoping for a large attendance chiefly because their committee has prepared for an enjoyable evening. In the background temporarily is their sponsorship of five clubs this year for the boys and girls of the county, an enterprising program for the young people that will entail more financing than usual. Billie Kinsman's orchestra has engaged for the dance music.

Sees No Drastic Changes In Suits Next 50 Years

NEW YORK, April 8 (CP) — The slim little suit with squared shoulders and skirt 13 to 14 inches from the ground is going to be around a long time—50 years or so—predicted westcoast designer Adrian as he showed his latest fashion collection here.

Forecasting "no drastic changes for the next 50 years," Adrian said fashions started to crystallize during the war, when clothes were created to fill actual needs. And air travel, with the space limitations it imposes, is going to be the big factor in keeping them trim and practical.

In the minor changes that occur, he added, American influence will be predominant because American living is "the culmination of luxury and the ideal of the whole world today."

Illustrates Ideas

His own collection illustrated his ideas, with efficient little wool suits, slim-skirted, easy-fitting jackets tied at the waist and buttoned to little round collars. Matching topcoats were of swingy type, just above knee-length. Many of these combined stripes or plaids of varying widths worked deftly into intricate designs.

The tailored little silk suit was featured as a "must" in the well-dressed woman's wardrobe. Adrian's were of navy silk faille and a nubby, tweed-like silk in grey.

Dresses showed a leaning toward diagonal lines expressed in stitchings or in the handling of draperies and toward off-balance effects such as one bare shoulder, one gloved arm, or half a cape.

Monkeys and tigers, tree-bark and foliage formed the themes of prints which appeared in both day-time and evening dresses, in chiffons, taffetas and organdies. A "Quilting Party" group of prints in silk and cotton was inspired by early American quilt designs.

Mrs. H. Neilson Entertains WMS

WESTWOOD, April 8 (ENS).—Mrs. Hilliard Neilson opened her home on Wednesday afternoon to the members of St. Andrew's United WMS for the April meeting.

With Mrs. Neilson as leader, a beautiful Easter worship program there, "Christ Is Risen," was followed. Mrs. R. J. Douglas and Mrs. C. Brackenride also took part in the service. Several Easter hymns, with Mrs. J. Sargent at the piano, were sung.

The president, Mrs. Clayton Brackenridge, opened the meeting with prayer. A collection for the "March of Dimes" campaign was taken and amounted to over $7.00. It was decided to hold the Mission Band meetings, with Mrs. R. Y. Cameron in charge, on the third Tuesday of each month at 4.15 p.m. in Wesley Hall.

A parcel of Sunday School lesson pictures, and used Christmas cards will be sent to a mission in Korea. Several articles for the layettes for the bale were handed in to the Supply convener, Mrs. R. J. Douglas.

Mrs. R. Burnham Hostess to Group

HASTINGS, April 8—Group 3 of the Women's Association of Trinity United Church met at the home of Mrs. Ross Burnham on Tuesday evening. The leader, Mrs. W. A. Thomas, presided.

The program was in charge of Mrs. G. Thompson, Mrs. H. Youngs and Mrs. R. Burnham.

Mrs. J. M. Baker and Miss Miss Marjory Scriver played a piano duet and Miss K. German gave a reading. Mrs. Ethel German donated a beautiful quilt top to the group.

Rev. N. Cole closed the meeting with benediction.

Mrs. Walter Dodd moved a vote of thanks to the hostess for her hospitality.

Roseneath Band Winner of Banner

ROSENEATH, April 8 (ENS)—Roseneath Mission Band of the United Church, has been awarded the banner by the W. M. S. of the Cobourg Presbyterial, for efficiency for 1949. The banner is known as the Standard of Recognition and is given by the Cobourg Presbyterial to the Mission Band receiving the most points in efficiency during the year.

Miss Helen Arnold, teacher of Junior Room in Roseneath School, is the leader and it is the second successive year the banner has come to Roseneath.

matters connected with education, succeeding Elias Burnham as County Supt. of Schools in 1851. His report may be found on pp. 57-8 of Dr. Poole's "Early Settlement". He contributed to the newspaper press articles on local affairs and with the presidents W. S. Conger, compiled a report of the committee on Agriculture in the Colborne District, (copied by Dr. Poole from the Peterborough Despatch.)

County Councillor

In "Our Old Home Town" Mr Dobbin records the formation of the first County Council of the County of Peterborough. Mr Benson was Peterborough's representative in 1849, as Peterborough was then part of the county for municipal purposes. There is a full account of the rivalry between Benson and Hudson and a list of all the officials appointed by the Benson for the first year of civic life.

As an employer of labour, Mr. Benson, to quote again from Mr. Dobbin, "was alive to the dangers arising from intemperance and, following the passage of the Scott Act, he stood with other valiant and heroic men. . . Philip Martyn, William McBurney William J. Mason Robinson Rutherford and Walter Sheridan, who fought the good fight for temperance and the cleaner life."

Thomas Benson lived to see Peterborough rise from the struggling and straggling village of post-Rebellion years to the status of an incorporated town. And, if he did not lay the corner stone of the Town Hall, he did lay the foundation for the centennial being celebrated this year, 1905.

To a home of eternal rest.

Though you died ten years ago.

Some day, we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land,
Never to part again.

Terry Moore Shows What She's Got

HOLLYWOOD, April 8 —(AP)—Like most young girls, Terry Moore has discoverer the value of a tight sweater.

In Terry's case, the realization has brought handsome returns for her acting career. She had been doing okay as a sweet young thing in films. But having just turned 21, she knew she couldn't play the shy heroine forever. The change came when she was trying out for her last picture.

"I was wearing a simple little suit," she recalled. "Immediately they told me I was too young to co-star with Victor Mature. I protested that 16-year-old Joan Evans had just made a picture with Dana Andrews. But they answered that Joan was—well—more developed.

"I was too embarrassed to argue but they did promise to give me a test. I made the test wearing a black negligee and got the part."

When her boss saw the test, he exclaimed: "Why didn't someone tell me Terry Moore had grown up?" The test also helped land her the Mickey Rooney picture, "Freddie the Great," in which she wears her most revealing costumes to date.

The Sage Speaks

Larry Parks may have some salient words of advice for embattled Hollywood couples. He explains that his wife, Betty Garrett, gave up her MGM contract because the felt they were missing too much of their marriage.

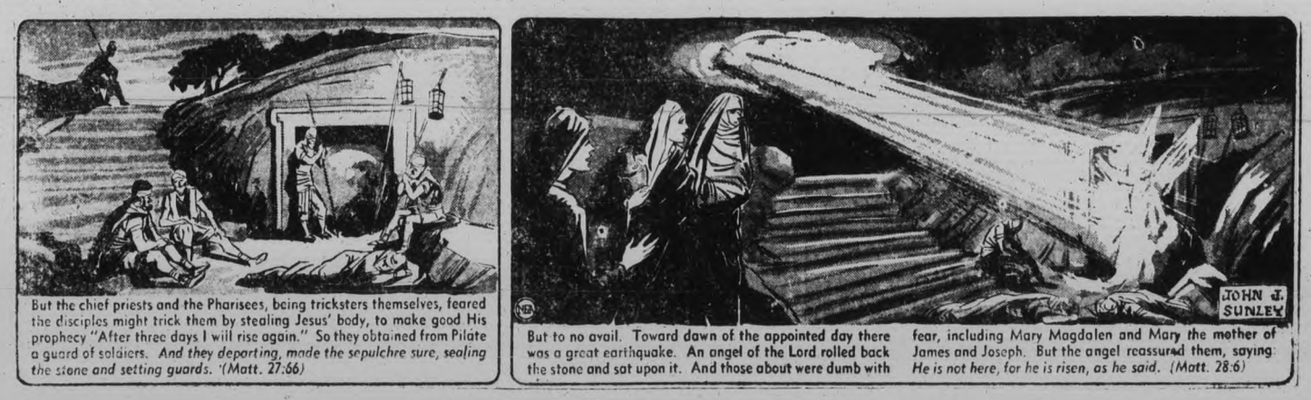
"We were under contract to different studios, working different hours and doing different things," he said. "We hardly had a chance to see each other.

"Now we will be able to make pictures together. When we come home in the evening, we will have something mutual to talk about."

Capsule Review

"The Damned Don't Cry" (WB) is not as bad as its title. In fact its rather exciting story shines through the routine handling it is given. The plot may sound reminiscent of recent headlines, being the story of a pseudo-society girl who gets involved in a country-wide gambling syndicate. The west coast operator, gets bumped off. Joan Crawford plays the lead adroitly, but needs a change of pace from the rags to riches gal. David Brian, Steve Cochran and Kent Smith fight over her.

THE EASTER STORY — Christ Is Risen! — Drawn by John J. Sunley



But the chief priests and the Pharisees, being tricksters themselves, feared the disciples might trick them by stealing Jesus' body, to make good His prophecy "After three days I will rise again." So they obtained from Pilate a guard of soldiers. And they departing, made the sepulchre sure, sealing the stone and setting guards. (Matt. 27:66)

But to no avail. Toward dawn of the appointed day there was a great earthquake. An angel of the Lord rolled back the stone and sat upon it. And those about were dumb with fear, including Mary Magdalen and Mary the mother of James and Joseph. But the angel reassured them, saying: He is not here, for he is risen, as he said. (Matt. 28:6)

Omemee H and S Leader Returns

OMEMEE, April 8 — (ENS) — Omemee Home and School Association welcomed the president, Mrs. S. Northey, back to the chair at the April meeting, after absence through illness.

A special feature of the meeting was an Easter message by the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt. Mr. Zufelt spoke of the renewed life in nature creating a fitting atmosphere for the real significance of Easter "Resurrection," he said, "is the most popular theme among men The risen Lord remains the most interesting figure in our modern world and books on that theme are the most widely read.

"Christ in the hearts of Christians creates the atmosphere of modern civilization. The education that has made men free, was the gift of a vitalized church, founded upon the Easter hope of eternal life."

Mrs. H. Laidley sang, accompanied by Miss L. Race who also played a piano solo.

Letters of thanks were read from Mrs. C. G. Shaw and Mrs W. D. Weir, and verbal thanks were received from Mrs. Northey for floral remembrances while they were in hospital.

Police Deny Suppress Juvenile Crime News

CALGARY, April 8— (CP) — Chief Constable S. J. Paterson Wednesday denied a newspaper report that Calgary police have been ordered to suppress news concerning juvenile crime in Calgary. "We are not withholding any news," Chief Patterson said. He said police did object to stories dealing with suspicions that juveniles may be responsible for petty crime. However, there was no harm in factual and accurate juvenile crime reporting.

Escapee Contageous

GRAVENHURST, April 8. (CP) —Police Friday reported the escape of William G. Gouthro, 25, from Gravenhurst Sanatorium. The man is in a highly contagious tubercular condition, they said. His absence was noticed shortly after the supper hour Thursday night, police said. He was sentenced last October to a year in Burwash jail and was transferred to the Sanatorium Nov. 24.

Choral Society Is Heard In Messiah

On the evening of Good Friday the Peterborough Choral Society performed the greater part of Handel's "Messiah" in the PCVS auditorium.

"Messiah" is one of the world's masterpieces of polyphonic composition, and any choir attempting it must master a difficult style. The long florid passages in both choruses and solos require not only a fine vocal technique, but an understanding of what lies beneath the surface of the music. "Messiah" is like a great temple conceived and built in the Baroque style: the beholder must not be distracted by the richness of the ornamentation to the point where he fails to see the noble proportions of the whole building. This is the problem of any choir attempting "Messiah"—to subjugate the opulent decoration of the parts to the magnificence of the whole.

The Peterborough Choral Society has not mastered the Handelian style, and there were moments in the choruses when technical difficulties were obviously engaging them to the exclusion of the musical content. However, there were moments in the chorus "Since my man came Death" when it was plain that this choir has splendid possibilities, and it was observable that during the second half of the performance the singing was very much better than in the first.

The solo parts were sung by members of the Society. Jean McLeod has a powerful, though not as yet particularly sympathetic soprano voice. Marjorie Kilborn sang the contralto arias with gentle melancholy and a greater degree of grace than marked the other soloists. Reginald Peters has an interesting tenor voice and showed a sympathetic feeling for his music. Walter Dawson's voice lacked the agility for the difficult passages of ornamentation which Handel demands of the bass soloist in this work, but he sang with more authority than the others. An interesting variation was provided when the conductor, Mr. William Sims, left the podium to sing "The Trumpet Shall Sound"; the mark of Mr. Sims' vocal style is strongly upon choir and soloists alike.

A special word must be said in praise of Mr. Charles Allen, who accompanied the whole work at an electric organ. He supported the choruses and soloists with unobtrusive sympathy, but their dependence upon him was plain, and he covered one or two difficult moments with musicianly tact.

It is an excellent thing for Peterborough to have a Choral Society which attempts works of the scope of "Messiah." In this first year it is not wise to be hypercritical, for it takes a long time to build a first-rate choir, and the foundation has been laid. Study and a growing musical understanding will do the rest. — R.D.

News Coverage Bans Increase Through '49

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP) — Further barriers to free, objective news coverage were erected in many countries during the last year, the Associated Press management said Friday.

Despite the new obstacles, Associated Press men succeeded in telling the essentials of the news, executive director Kent Cooper and general manager Frank J. Starzel said in their annual report.

"We expect, of course, to persist in efforts to keep open the channels of news available to us, and to reopen those now closed," the report said. "But . . . there is little prospect that our job will become easier in the months to come."

The report was distributed to Associated Press members in advance of the news-gathering cooperative's annual membership meeting in New York April 24.

Ulsterman Acheson

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)— Sir Basil Brooke, Premier of Northern Ireland, said after a visit to State Secretary Dean Acheson Friday that Acheson has a "certain amount of Ulster blood in his veins." Lest this get Acheson into hot water with supporters of the Republic of Ireland, Sir Basil hastily added to reporters that the connections with Ulster date back "quite some time."

Drag Harbor

PORT COLBORNE, April 8. — (CP)—The harbor here was dragged Friday in search for Mrs. Eileen Polombo, aged about 35, missing from her home here for 12 days. Police said she may have fallen in the water. Dragging will resume today.

Easter Programs To Be Held At City Churches

The churches in Peterborough will be celebrating Easter tomorrow while Christians throughout the world, in many languages, will once more mark the miracle of the resurrection.

Celebrations are already in progress in Jerusalem, where nearly 20 centuries ago Christ suffered, died and rose. A peal of bells comes at the climax of a colorful holy fire ceremony of Easter Orthodox Christians symbolizing the rise of Christ from the tomb as the light of the world.

Easter morning Protestant services in St. Andrew's, Jerusalem churchyard will be broadcast by shortwave to Canada.

More than 100,000 pilgrims from many countries are thronging the streets of Rome, where the climax of the Easter observance will come when the Pope celebrates a pontifical mass in St. Peter's. The service will be broadcast in many languages.

From the central loggia of the Basilica, Pope Pius will give his apostolic blessing to the city and the world.

"Way of the Cross" processions, culminating the Good Friday observances, drew thousands to the Roman ruins of the Colosseum and the Palatine Hill.

In Peterborough churches Easter music will be a great feature in the celebration. Special programs of Easter music will be presented in some churches on both Sunday and Monday. Park St. Baptist church will present a special program on Monday, on Sunday evening Christopher Gledhill will give an organ recital after the evening service.

An Easter pageant will be presented Sunday afternoon at George St. United Church.

A movie entitled "The First Easter" will be shown Sunday evening at the Church of the Open Bible.

The evening service at St. Paul's will be the annual CGIT service.

1,000 Members Set Objective

Wm. C. Wilks, secretary of the Horticultural Society, recently received an application for membership from Mrs. E. C. Williams of West Vancouver. Her husband was at one time division manager with the CGE.

"That is a long distance for an application to come," Mr. Wilks said, "but it is another one to help us reach our objective of 1,000 for the centennial year. We are already ahead of last year at this time. People who have bought or built new homes should be interested in our premium book The Modern Family Garden. We have a few of them left. They are given free with membership."

The Horticultural Society was formed April 21, 1869, and is now approaching its anniversary.

"A great number of citizens have supported the Society in all that time," Mr. Wilks said, "and with the growth of Peterborough in the last ten years we should have a membership of 1,000. We are continuing our program of city beautification this year with lawn, garden and factory competitions, civic flower beds and other endeavors. The centennial flower show we are planning should be the biggest and best in our 89 years' history.

Our veteran member is Mr. Harry Beal now in his 60th year of membership, and still actively interested on the membership committee."

Mr. Wilks said Miss Evelyn Scott of the Ontario Department of Agriculture's office on Hunter St was assisting the society by accepting applications. Membership for a year is only a dollar.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

FESTIVAL AT WARKWORTH

Northumberland county music festival is scheduled to take place in Warkworth in May. It is 14 years since the festival was held in Warkworth.

VITAL STATISTICS

During this past March there were fewer births and fewer deaths. In March 1949 there were 139 births compared with 127 in 1950. Deaths were 48 and 34 respectively. In March 1949 there were 12 marriages but these figures are no longer recorded at city hall.

TAX RATE UP 5.5 MILLS

Sarnia city council clipped $60,000 off its estimates to arrive at 53.5 mills as the 1950 tax rate. This is an increase of 5.5 mills over last year. The rate for Separate School supporters is 60.3 mills.

AWNING BURNS

Carelessly thrown firecrackers Friday afternoon sparked off a small blaze that burned a couple of holes in the awning of the Stedman department store, Charlotte St. Prompt action by a tall passer-by prevented further damage being done. He reached up and snuffed out the smouldering section with his hands.

WRONG PHONE NUMBER

Fire Chief George Smith reports that some residents still call the fire hall using 5711 to ask permission to burn rubbish. They should use 5713. Only in case of fire or other emergency should 5711 be used.

Traffic Heavy Out Of City

Holiday traffic to and from Peterborough Thursday and Friday was exceptionally heavy, bus lines and railways reported today. An indication of the heavy travel was the record set Friday morning by the Colonial Coach Lines on the Toronto-to-Oshawa via Peterborough run. Colonial usually only have one bus to meet the requirements but Friday had to use seven.

They reported their travel peak Friday morning. Other routes experiencing heavy travel on the Colonial Lines were the routes from Toronto-to-Lindsay and Peterborough-to-Lindsay. Early Thursday evening the rush on the buses started. All the lines were reported heavy. For example, on the 7.20 p.m. Peterborough-to-Toronto route three buses were used to accommodate travellers at the local terminal. A fourth bus was added at Port Hope.

Ferguson Coach Lines said Thursday evening was their heaviest period as workers, who usually stay in the city throughout the week, returned home to Apsley, Bancroft and Bobcaygeon for the holiday. Extra buses were used on the run to Apsley and Bancroft while other routes were heavy.

Both the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways had to use extra coaches Thursday night and early Friday morning to meet the needs of the travellers.

Far Above Clouds

he saw in Ireland lured him to the United States.

One of the most interesting passengers on the flight cannot speak a word of English. She is Mme. France Ellys of Paris and Casablanca. Mme. Ellys has spent a month in Montreal making a film for the Renaissance Film Distribution Inc. She will return to Canada in August.

Mrs. Ellys and the customs officer had their own troubles at Sydney. Madam could not speak English and the customs man could not speak French either, so it fell to my faltering efforts to get her through. Incidentally we passed with flying colors. Mme. Ellys is also a professor at the Art Theatre.

After travelling around the globe for 13 months, Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie of Dublin, Ireland, will set foot again in their native city. The couple have flown all the way.

Mr. Ritchie, who is a retired contractor, and his wife have spent 13 months with their son in South Africa. They left their other son in New Zealand after spending nine months there. Mr. Ritchie, a former New Zealander, was making his first visit in 30 years and was amazed to see practically no changes.

One of the most interesting things about the trip from Montreal to Sydney (we couldn't land at Gander because of the weather) was to see vast areas of barren country. We appeared to be flying over a section of the Laurentians, which was reminiscent of Arctic scenes. There were vast stretches, for hundreds of miles, of nothing but harsh grey mountains, covered here and there with a clump of trees. Narrow ice-covered rivers which wound like white ribbons and small frozen lakes stretched in every direction. It was like sitting on top of the world, though we were only at 9,000 feet.

Although it is now only 4.15 a.m., all the passengers are fixed for the day and wolfing down a hearty breakfast. The sun is shining on vast cloud fields which resemble huge banks of snow. The diners are enjoying "a meal with a view."

UN Commission Handling Italian Colonies

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., April 8 (CP)—The United Nations machinery to dispose of Italy's three pre-war colonies in North Africa is moving into high gear.

A five-country U.N. Commission is scheduled to leave Eritrea Sunday after completing a six-week survey to learn what Eritreans believe should happen to their country.

Administration of Somaliland was transferred last week-end from Britain, whose troops liberated the area during the war, to Italy which will direct the colony's affairs leading to independence in 1960.

In Libya, U.N. Commissioner Adrian Pelt is well along in preparation for calling a national assembly which will be the territory's legislative body when it receives independence Jan. 1, 1952.

The U.N. General Assembly decided last December on independence for Libya and Italian Somaliland. But it deadlocked on proposals for Eritrea. The survey, now drawing to a close, indicates the assembly still will not have an easy task.

Failing to reach agreement on Eritrea, the assembly decided that impartial observers should make an on-the-spot check. Comprising representatives from Norway, Burma, Pakistan, Guatemala and South Africa, the commission arrived Feb. 18 in Asmara, where more than 100,000 of the territory's 1,000,000 inhabitants are located.

At hearings conducted throughout the territory, the commission heard a flood of contradictory demands. They boiled down to unconditional union with Ethiopia, conditional union, complete independence, trusteeship under the U.N., partition between Ethiopia and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

Calls for union with Ethiopia were strong. Most of the population are of Hamitic origin, closely linked with Ethiopians.

The steaming territory, which has a 670-mile coastline along the Red Sea, now is administered by Britain whose forces drove out Italian armies during the war.

The commission's report is to be delivered June 15 to the little assembly here which will make recommendations to be considered by the general assembly in September.

Mr. Mackenzie's subject has not been disclosed but he will likely speak on unemployment.

To date the Peterborough and District Labor Council claims 12 CIO locals with a membership of nearly 4,000 workers. Included are the two IUE locals at the CGE plant—Local 524 IUE, production workers, and an office workers' local; Local 822 TWUA (Brinton-Peterborough Carpet); Local 210 UPWA (Canada Packers); Local 293 UPWA (Quaker Oats); A. Eastwood Price particular was not mentioned by Ryan.

The third was the use of concrete back-up blocks in lieu of brick back-up for extension walls. A deduction of $2,800 by Eastwood and $7,200 by Ryan.

The fourth alternate mentioned was the substitution of gray Indiana limestone in lieu of Queenston limestone, a Canadian product. Deduction of $4,500 by Eastwood, and $5,000 by Ryan.

The architects also asked for separate prices on paving of a car parking area. Eastwood Construction quoted $4,800 and Ryan $5,000. However, it was said at the outset, that this work would be done by the city's own department.

A separate quotation for the terrazza floor in the lobby was $1,425 by each of the two lowest contractors, and also by most of the others, indicating, Col. Allan commented, that this was a subcontractor's price probably obtained from the same firm for that work.

Ald. Miller said he wondered whether the architects had been able to consider all the aspects of the bids, including the alternates. "The figures are there to speak for themselves."

"Normally, the alternates do not affect the bulk contract price," Col. Allan said.

"If we wanted to know what the difference would be, that is in lowering the bids?" Ald. Young suggested.

That phase of the discussion elicited the remark by Col. Allan that the customary procedure was to deal with the bulk tenders. If the owner wished to make any adjustment on the basis of the alternates to adjust the selected tender he could do so, but usually they were not used, although they could be.

Implication of the decision was that the bulk tender of Eastwood Construction would be accepted as submitted without employing the substitution of material for which alternate detail quotations were asked.

The largest deduction in the eight tenders was Foundation Company's $11,804 for concrete back-up blocks instead of bricks. Deductions were quoted in almost every particular by all the contractors.

Not So Satisfactory

In regard to concrete blocks, Col. Allan said they were not so satisfactory as bricks in the wall bonding.

As for the limestone item, he said the alternate had been asked of the contractors, although it was thought that Peterborough would prefer to use the Canadian Queenston instead of the Indiana material.

The separate price on the lobby floor was sought because the design of the terrazza was being redrawn.

"When we examine the Eastwood tender," said Col. Allan, "we will submit to the council a formal recommendation. There will be a lapse of several weeks before the drawings are completed for the contractor."

Mayor Swanston said it was expected that the demolishing of houses on the city hall site, bounded by George, Murray, Water and McDonnel Streets, would be begun next week.

Ald. Dewart moved that Mayor Swanston appoint a small committee to have the responsibility of getting the property ready for the work of construction. It could also be associated as a special building committee with the architects. This motion was seconded by Ald. A. B. Burrows.

Appointment of a clerk of the works to act on the job in the interest of the city was left to the architects for their recommendation, in a motion by Aldermen Miller and Braund.

Funeral Service Held For Robert Eagleton

Funeral service for the late Robert William Eagleton, 54, of 471 Elm St., was held today at the Nisbett Funeral Home. The Rev. E. J. Whan of Park Street Baptist Church officiated and pallbearers were Reginald, Ernest and R. W. Eagleton Jr., M. Pakenham, Walter Ridley and Herman Killenbeck. Burial was at Little Lake Cemetery.

Mr. Eagleton died suddenly on Thursday at his residence. He was born in Norwich, Norfolk, England, son of the late Robert William Eagleton and Rosanna Hilton, and had lived in Peterborough for the past 40 years.

He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Betty Moccia of Thorold, Mrs. C. McCaw (Jean) of Peterborough and Miss Ruth Eagleton of Brantford. There are five sons, Robert, Russell and Ted, all of Brantford, and Frank and James, both of Westwood. Leghorn Earthquakes

LEGHORN, Italy, April 8 (CP) —Thousands of people were sleeping in the streets and squares of Leghorn Friday night, after a new series of violent earth tremors shook the city. More than 10,000 of the port's 128,000 inhabitants have left the neighboring towns of Pisa and Lucca. Only two casualties have been reported.

Friday Observed Quietly, Simply Across Canada

By The Canadian Press.

Simply, solemnly, millions of Canadians Friday observed Good Friday.

In churches from Newfoundland to Vancouver Island services commemorating Christ's agony on the cross nearly 2,000 years ago were well attended, crisp, clear weather in most parts of the country favoring a heavy turnout of worshippers.

Apart from the day's religious significance, Good Friday also marked the first holiday of spring. Many took advantage of the long week-end to leave crowded cities for a countryside showing the first signs of the green of a new growing season.

Motor traffic was reported heavy in most areas. Travel agencies reported packed trains and buses as thousands began holiday jaunts. Air lines increased the number of scheduled flights in an attempt to cope with heavy bookings.

Southern Ontario found the day sunny and mild. At Toronto, thousands went to church and early-bird golfers tried the city's greens for the first time this spring.

Bell Hearings Take Holiday

OTTAWA, April 8 —(CP) — A six-day Easter break in the Bell Telephone rate case before the Board of Transport Commissioners began today.

The hearing, more than a month old, adjourned Wednesday until next Wednesday morning.

Originally expected to last a matter of weeks, the battery of lawyers now are figuring the time in months.

Montreal has been leading the opposition to Bell's request for an increase in Ontario and Quebec telephone rates which would increase the company's revenue by about 20 per cent.

The proposed increases would affect the subscribers to more than 1,000,000 telephones in the two provinces.

Up to the present, all witnesses appearing before the board have been called by the company. Direct examination and ensuing cross - examination has been lengthy.

Such cities as Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton and Quebec have been represented all through the hearings. They are opposing the increases. However, Montreal, with three lawyers and a battery of experts, had handled most of the cross-examination. Up to now, most questioning has been designed to get information which will be used later in comprehensive arguments against the rate boosts.

Harvey Appoints Three Fire Wardens

BUCKHORN, April 8 (ENS)— Leonard Ireland, E. J. Westlake and Russell McIntosh were appointed honorary fire wardens for the township of Harvey at the April council meeting held in Buckhorn on Saturday. The appointments were made following an appeal by A. B. Wheatley Lindsay of the Deparment of Lands and Forests who discussed with the council fire protection in the township.

Discuss Tax On Cross Border Gifts

OTTAWA, April 8 (CP)—Canada and the United States are discussing a possible agreement on tax exemptions for donations made by residents of one country to charities in the other country, Revenue Minister McCann advised the Commons Wednesday.

He was answering questions from Donald Brown (L-Essex West), who wanted to know the situation when a resident of Canada or the U. S., earning most of his income in the other country, made charitable donations in the country where he worked.

Mr. McCann said Canada did not grant an exemption to its residents in this case, and he did not believe the U. S. would for its own residents.

He added this matter had been included in discussions with US officials on the question of amending the Canada-U. S. tax convention, but no decision had been reached.

Brand Claim Of Doctor As 'Eyewash'

Canadian Health Men Deny Vaccine Related To Polio

MELBOURNE, April 10 — (Reuters)—Bertram P. McCloskey, young doctor of the Victoria Health Department, has left for Britain to confer with the Health Ministry on the possible relationship between the combined whooping cough-diphtheria injection and poliomyelitis.

Today's British Medical Association announcement that antidiphtheria and whooping cough injections might have caused infantile paralysis was taken here as confirming Dr. McCloskey's research in this field.

Dr. Kevin Brennan, senior Victoria health official, described the discovery as "of the utmost importance."

"It has opened a major new field of poliomyelities investigation in every country of the world," he said.

Medical authorities here reported that in a survey of 641 cases of polio in Victoria last year, 60 children, all under five, had been immunized against whooping cough and diphtheria within the previous three months.

Of these, 30 cases of polio were directly ascribed to the combined vaccine.

Discounts Idea

TORONTO, April 10 (CP). — Dr. Alan Brown, medical superintendent of the Hospital for Sick Children today discounted a suggestion that some infantile paralysis may be caused by a combined vaccine for diphtheria and whooping cough.

(The London County Council has banned the vaccine in clinics where the paralysis is prevalent.)

"There is nothing to it," said Dr. Brown. "We have been using the vaccine for years and have done many thousands of such treatments. We never had any cases (of polio)."

He hinted that the trouble may lie in the British vaccine.

Man Dies, 3 Face Manslaughter

STRATFORD, April 10.—(CP)—Three Dublin district men, jointly charged with manslaughter following the death early Sunday of Bernard McDonnell, 69, of Mitchell, today were remanded in custody until April 17 when they appeared before Magistrate A. F. Cook.

The men—John J. Krauskopf, 21, Thomas Gormley, 39, and Ryan Jordan, 26—were arrested late Sunday by Corporal J. M. Douglas, provincial police officer in Perth county. They are charged with causing the death of McDonnel, who died in a tiny frame house on the south edge of Mitchell following a fracas.

Perth County Crown Attorney W. E. Goodwin asked for the remand. They were not represented by counsel.

McDonnell died about an hour after the trio were reported to have entered his home and manhandled him following an argument. Police were called by Mrs. Gill, McDonnell's housekeeper who was a witness to the attack.

Later Sunday a postmorten was conducted by Coroner Dr. McLandress of Mitchell and Dr. J. L. Penistan, pathologist at Stratford General Hospital.

Baby Drowns In Bath 'Loved To Play In It'

DETROIT, April 10—(CP)—Sixteen - months - old Stephen Jaqua was drowned in a bathtub Saturday an hour after his father had given him a bath. Lester Jaqua said that after he had put his son to bed he heard water running again in the bath. The baby was found drowned in four inches of water with the tap running wide open. "He loved to play in the water," Jaqua said.

As Good As Water!

ALBANY, N.Y., April 10—(AP)—An upstate taxpayer reports he drank two quarts of blackberry wine a week and two quarts of gin a month—to conserve water in his community where water was scarce.

The unidentified taxpayer claimed he should be permitted to deduct the costs in his state income tax return, the Tax Bureau said.

The claim was rejected.

Jailed 3 Years In Mercy Killing Of Sick Brother

ALLENTOWN, Pa., April 10 — (AP)—Harold A. Mohr was sentenced to a prison term of three to six years for the so-called mercy killing of his cancer-ravaged brother. Mohr was convicted Friday of voluntary manslaughter.

Judge James F. Henninger also imposed a fine of $500 on the 36-year-old tannery worker.

The maximum sentence for voluntary manslaughter is 12 years in prison and a fine of $6,000.

A jury of four men and eight women had recommended mercy in finding Mohr guilty of manslaughter. John Henninger said he "believed Mohr shot his brother out of sympathy."

Mohr stood quietly before the bar to hear his sentence, his face showing no emotion.

Mohr was convicted of killing his blind, cancer-stricken brother, Walter, 55, at their home in nearby Coplay last March 8.

The defendant and three other brothers testified Walter often had asked to be "put out of his misery."

Defense counsel Harry C. Creveling based his case on a plea of temporary insanity. Judge Henninger instructed the jury that mercy killing is not a legal defence."

District attorney Kenneth H. Koch said Mohr "stepped into the shoes of God" to kill Walter. He asked the jurors to convict Mohr and "bring mercy killings to a halt."

2,200 Conductors Vote Strike April 17

CHICAGO, April 10 —(AP)—About 2,200 Pullman car conductors in Canada and the United States today were ordered to strike at 6 p.m. April 17.

Any walkout, however, probably will be delayed beyond that date. The National (Railway) Mediation Board is expected to intervene under terms of the Railway Labor Act.

A strike by the Pullman car conductors would tie up Pullman parlor and sleeping cars on railroads in the United States and Canada.

Members of the Order of Railway Conductors have voted overwhelmingly in favor of a strike, a union spokesman said.

A major issue in the dispute between the union and the railroads is the union demand for a cut in hours from 225 to 210 a month with no cut in pay.

Conductors now earn a basic wage of from $323.20 to $356.20 a month. They work 30 days of 7½ hours each and want 30 days at seven hours each.

SIR BASIL BROOKE, premier of Northern Ireland, and his wife, Lady Cynthia, have broad smiles and appear unconcerned as they leave the plane at New York's International Airport. Cat-calls and boos from about 200 Irish-Americans gathered at the field could be heard by Sir Basil and his wife as they left the plane. Pickets shouted their demands for a unified Ireland as a large escort of detectives and police of the airport force kept circulating among them.

India Okays Agreement 'On Brink of War'—Nehru

NEW DELHI, April 10—(AP)—India's parliament today approved a new India-Pakistan agreement that Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said halted the feuding countries on the brink of war. "We have stopped ourselves at the edge of a precipice and turned our back to it," said Nehru in announcing details of the agreement to parliament.

Nehru called upon the governments and peoples of both India and Pakistan to "put an end to that vicious atmosphere that has surrounded us for the two and one-half years" since India and Pakistan won independence from Britain.

Half Clashes

The agreement between Nehru and Pakistan's Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan is designed to halt Hindu-Moslem clashes that have taken hundreds of lives. It provides for:

1. The security of minorities in Pakistan and India;

2. Unhampered migration across the border of India and Pakistan for Hindus and Moslems;

3. Special commissions on both sides to investigate any violations of the agreement.

India's parliament approved the agreement on a voice vote. It may be discussed, however, in a general debate previously scheduled this month on the situation in Bengal—scene of the most recent communal disturbances.

Stop Inciting War

In the agreement, the India and Pakistan governments agreed to prevent the dissemination of news and "mischievous opinion which might rouse communal passion" and ban "propaganda directed against the territorial integrity of either country or inciting a war between the two countries.

KARACHI, Pakistan — Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan today pledged himself to carry out in full the agreement recently signed with Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India to stop Hindu-Moslem strife.

10 Die In Ontario During Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Ten deaths by violence were recorded in Ontario during the Easter holiday week-end. Highway accidents were the biggest killer. There was a shooting and a drowning.

Traffic accidents claimed six victims. They were: Mrs. Margaret Shotton, 62, Sault Ste. Marie, killed by a bus; Roy Sills, 36, Toronto, killed in two-truck crash while returning from Whitby; George Flutur, 14, of Pushlinch, Ont., killed in a head-on automobile collision at Hamilton; William Burrows, 2, Napanee, crushed under overturned car; Stanley Clodd, 18, Toronto, who crashed his motorcycle against a hydro pole; and Victory Braniff, 42, Kitchener, jarred out of a truck at Fergus.

At North Bay, C. B. Stevenson was found in his hotel room with a fatal heart wound. Police believe it was either suicide or an accidental shooting. Bernard McDonnel, 69, a retired farmer, died at Mitchell after being beaten by three men, later charged with manslaughter.

Other fatalities were: Jimmy Kinsman, 11, Ottawa, who was drowned in the Rideau Canal; and Glen Love, 18 months, accidentally strangled by the cord from an overhanging light fixture.

Developed From Snorkel

Sub Stays Underwater Record 21 Days

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP) —On March 15 a United States submarine dived into the Pacific off Hong Kong and didn't surface again until 21 days later at Pearl Harbor after covering 5,200 miles.

The navy, telling Sunday about it, said this was the longest underwater run ever heard of.

The submarine, the Pickerel, is one of the "Snorkel" type that has a short breathing tube that sucks air from the surface. The Germans had them on their subs first, but now both the U.S. and Russia have them.

50th Anniversary

The achievement, disclosed as the U.S. submarine service prepared to celebrate its 50th anniversary tomorrow, pointed up the growing importance being attached to undersea craft.

Recent tests, showing that submarines can be used to launch guided missiles have made them a threat against coastal targets as well as sea commerce.

At Pearl Harbor, Cmdr. Paul R. Schratz, of the Pickerel, called the long voyage "all in the day's work, just a routine test."

Asked whether the sub could be seen on the cruise, he said: "We had indications to the contrary."

Didn't Eat Much

Schratz said the 67 men and eight officers aboard didn't feel like eating much. Most of them grew beards or moustaches and for relaxation saw 30 movies.

The Snorkel device enables a submarine to run just below water for long periods on diesel engines.

Formerly, undersea craft when submerged had to run entirely on electric batteries which hequired recharge frequently. To do this, the sub had to surface.

Stay Near Surface

With the Snorkel, a submarine can stay down as long as its supplies—including fuel—hold out. Batteries ar still needed whenever a sub is more than a short distance below the water.

Work is progressing on an atomic power plant for submarines which would lift even the fuel requirement.

American interest in submarine and anti-submarine devices has been spurred by reports that Russia is building the world's mightiest undersea fleet—estimated currently at 250 to 300 vessels.

Civic Strike Halts York Twp. Services

No Garbage Taken, Water Sewage Parks, All Affected

TORONTO, April 10—(CP)—Suburban York Township was without municipal public services today when 230 civic employees went on strike. Affected were garbage collections, water works and sewerage and roads and parks departments.

The strike, started at 8 a.m., was for higher wages. The employees' union wants a 4½ cents an hour raise for laborers and comparative increases for other classifications to bring the wage scale on a par with that of Toronto.

Garbage collection was completely tied up. Emergency water works repair service has stopped and a sewage disposal plant operated unmanned.

Reeve W. G. Beech said tenders would be called for garbage collection but "it may take some time to obtain workers for the disposal plants as thtese are key jobs."

Pickets turned back all trucks approaching the Clinton Avenue garbage dump. These included trucks from Toronto and other municipalities which normally use the dump.

No violence was reported.

Gas In Church Overcomes Boy

STRATFORD, April 10.—(CP).—An Easter tragedy was narrowly averted Sunday when a nine-year-old boy was overcome and 40 persons affected by coal gas fumes in a seldom-used church at nearby Newton, opened to hold special Easter services.

Cameron Waddell, sitting beside a hot air register, collapsed and fell on his face. He was removed to Listowel hospital, where he was placed in an oxygen tent. At first his condition was said to be critical. Today he was reported improved.

Eight Waddell children, ranging in age from six to 17 were at the service with their father, Hugh H. Waddell, Newton postmaster. One of the six-year-old twins was the first to become ill and the father took her outside. Another child was taken out by an older sister before Cameron collapsed.

The Presbyterian church is not used regularly. However, a special Easter service had been arranged with Rev. Mr. Matheson of Chesley, as guest preacher.

Bella McDonald, an elderly woman, suffered a weak spell after service concluded and collapsed against a fence outside the church. Others in the congregation of 40 persons were less seriously affected.

Men Return To Plant Scuffle With Pickets

TRENTON, April 10 (CP) — Strike-bound for 14 weeks, the Downs Coulter textile plant was reopened today when some 90 workers returned to their jobs, pushing past a line of about 30 picketers.

In a brief flurry as the doors of the plant were opened, police manhandled several of the picketers who endeavored to rough up the returning workers. George Beckett, AFL organizer, was placed under arrest. Police said he would be charged with assaulting one of the employees returning to work.

The plant employs about 130 workers, mostly women.

The picket line at the plant had been continued throughout the strike but last week it was estimated that at least 75 per cent of the strikers were willing to return to their jobs.

6th Smallpox Victim

GLASGOW, April 10 —(AP)—Glasgow's smallpox epidemic today claimed its sixth victim—a 20-year-old nurse. The outbreak appeared under control, however, with no new cases reported in the last 10 days.

Steals The Show

TORONTO, April 10 (CP) —Gordon Gerou, 27, was a fashion attraction for only part of the Easter parade Sunday. A detective arrested him on charges of stealing the new grey suit and blue coat he was wearing.

Two Guards Held In Death Mental Patient

QUEBEC, April 10— (CP). — Two guards at the St. Michel Archangel Hospital have been charged with manslaughter in the mysterious death of a 45-year-old patient at the mental institution.

Conrad Asselin 31, of St. Damien, Que., and Emmanuel Audet 34, of suburban Giffard, were arrested Saturday and arraigned before Judge Laetare Roy. They were released on $1,500 bonds pending preliminary hearing next Thursday.

Both were arrested following a quiet investigation by Provincial Police and a privately-held coroner's inquest into the death last Wednesday of Arthur Pare of St. Fabien de Panet, Que. Pare was said to have died of multiple fractures of the ribs and crushing of the breast-bone.

Crown authorities declined to give any details of the incident until the preliminary hearing "when all evidence in the case will be presented." Crown prosecutor Albert Dumontier said the patient had been in the hospital for several years but was not considered as dangerous. He was doing some hospital chores in a hall where the alleged attack took place.

Coroner Paul V. Marceau presided at a private inquest early Saturday in the huge grey-stone institution on the city's outskirts. The two guards were held criminally responsible for the patient's death.

Trial before a jury is automatic in a case of manslaughter and the two guards were committed for preliminary hearing without being asked to plead.

Coroner Marceau declined to give details surrounding Pare's death.

Defence counsel for the guards, Yves Prevost, pleaded for their release on bail, claiming that the guards at the time were exercising their "delicate and difficult functions." He argued that there have been cases where guards had been "victims" of mental patients.

Boy Spikes Whisky Of Dad With Iodine

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass., April 10—(AP)—John H. Leigh, Jr., 16, described by police as a "problem child" who spiked his father's whisky with iodine, was held Sunday in $10,000 bail on a charge of "poisoning food, drink, medicine, with intent to kill or injure." Police said the youth admitted in a signed statement that he put an ounce of iodine into a bottle containing a pint of whisky. They quoted the boy as saying he did to end a long series of arguments with his father. The elder Leigh suffered no ill effects.

Coastguard Hunts 5 Men Lost In Chesapeake Bay; 2 Boats Broken To Pieces

Tugboat Skipper Clings To Wreck 4 Hours
6-Man Crew Washed Overboard
10 Others Missing As 2nd Wreck Found

NEW YORK, April 10—(CP)—At least 24 seamen were dead or missing today following a heavy week-end gale in the North Atlantic shipping lanes. A tugboat skipper who clung tenaciously for four hours to the floating pilot house of his sinking vessel apparently was the only survivor of a Chesapeake Bay disaster. The tugboat Lorraine sank early Sunday off windmill point light, near the mouth of Rappahannock River in Virginia. Wind-lashed waves washed six men of her crew overboard. One body has been recovered.

The 63-foot dragger William Landry was broken to bits while awaiting help three-quarters of a mile off Pollock Rip lightship Nantucket, Mass., Saturday in a snow-blinding gale. Wreckage was washed ashore on the east side of Nantucket.

The United States Coast Guard reported that there has been no word from the scalloper Four Sisters since last Friday. The fishing vessel, carrying 10 men, radioed Friday she was bucking a heavy storm.

Another vessel, the 55-foot dragger Anna C. Perry, also was reported missing off Nantucket, but later was found berthed at a New Bedford wharf, blown 150 miles off course.

The Lorraine's skipper, Capt. O. P. Brown, was rescued by a passing boat. He was taken ashore for treatment for shock and exposure.

Two Coast Guard vessels and a Coast Guard plane today searched the Chesapeake Bay for traces of the five men still missing.

The Lorraine was towing the barge Ajax — loaded with 4,000 tons of coal — from Norfolk to Camden, N.J., when she sank. Capt. John Ward skipper of the rescue boat, said he was told this story by Brown:

Strong northerly winds filled the Lorraine with water after heavy seas washed the hatch cover off the stern, and all the men put on life rings. Four of them were swept off the deck almost immediately.

Brown and the two surviving seamen climbed on top of the pilot house, torn off the tug deck by the waves. The men weakened and lost their grip.

Plane Crash Victim, Rescuer Electrocuted

LEICESTER, Mass., April 10 — (AP)—A small airplane Sunday night struck a high tension power line killing two men, one a passenger and the other a farmer electrocuted by the fallen wire as he tried to help the victim. Dead were Michael Sloan, 27, a passenger, and George Streimikis, 30, who was killed while trying to pull Sloan from the plane. Robert Laforce, 23, pilot, suffered injuries.

May Help Stunted Children

New Drug Speeds Growth

PHILADELPHIA, April 10—(AP)—One of the wonder drugs developed to fight disease—golden aureomycin—has been found to be a powerful growth stimulant which may help even stunted children.

The drug's newly-discovered powers were the subject of one of the more than 300 scientific reports submitted to the second session of the American Chemical Society's 117th national meeting, which began today.

The report came from Dr. E. L. R. Stokstad and Dr. T. H. Jukes, of the Lederle Laboratories Division, American Cyanamid Company, of Pearl River, N.Y.

Up to now, Aureomycin, like its sister "fungus drugs" penicillin and streptomycin, has been used as a potent weapon against pneumonia, whooping cough, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, undulant fever, and streptococcus and staphylogoccus infections.

But the report from the Lederle scientists say tiny amounts of aureomycin mixed with feed has increased the rate of growth in hogs by as much as 50 per cent. It has also been used successfully on chickens and turkeys. The report, to be read tomorow, indicated that clinical investigation is under way to determine if aureomycin can spur the growth of malnourished and underdeveloped children.

Drs. Stokstad and Jukes pointed out that even if the growth benefits of aureomycin is confined to the lower animals it could enormously benefit the human race in a world of dwindling resources and expanding population. Making animals grow faster on the same amount of food will conserve the world's food supply.

The product, they said, would cost but 30 to 40 cents a pound. Five pounds to a ton of feed is sufficient.

How aureomycin makes animals grow faster is not yet understood. The two scientists said, however, it is suspected it may kill off organisms in the intestines which inhibit growth.

Police Stories Clash; 'Fire One' Says Magistrate

MITCHELL, April 10 (CP) — Chief Constable Bert Croome said Sunday night he had "been put on the spot" by Magistrate A. F. Cook's charge in a Stratford court Saturday that "there must be something wrong with the police in Mitchell."

The magistrate made the charge after dismissing a drunk driving case against Leonard Connelly, RR 1, Bornholm, in which Chief Croome and Constable Ray Davidson of Mitchell had submitted differing evidence.

Chief Croome who investigated the action out of which the charge arose, stated the man was drunk because he staggered, smelled of liquor and his speech was thick.

Constable Davidson, in answering questions on the man's condition said, "all I saw was that he was nervous."

In dismissing the charge Magistrate Cook said the evidence of the two Mitchell officers left doubt as to the condition of the accused. He added he did not know whether the two officers were "working against each other."

"Either one or the other is not a policeman," the Magistrate said. One of them, he said, "should be fired."

Chief Croome at his home on Saturday night said he is going to ask for a special meeting of the Mitchell council to consider the matter and decide who is at fault.

Mayor H. A. Cook of Mitchell said Sunday night he is awaiting to hear from the chief. He said both officers were "satisfactory" and unless the Stratford magistrate has something serious against them he saw no reason for either of them being fired.

Suspect Truck Free Of Killings

TORONTO, April 10.—(CP).—Police have decided that a green stake-body truck examined at Orillia, 90 miles north of here, was not the vehicle that killed two suburban North York township girls Marh 31.

A North York policeman said: "We questioned the driver of the truck at Orillia and let him go. He's on his way to Vancouver right now."

Police said two strands of hair were found on the under part of the truck fenders. The hairs were brought to Toronto for laboratory examination.

Rewards totalling $3,000 have been offered for information leading to the arrest of the driver whose truck fatally injured Lorraine Watson, 13, and her five-year-old niece, Barbara Jones, as they walked to church for an evening service.

Sergeant of Detectives George Wilson said the hair was identified as that of an animal.

14 Filipinos Die As Train Overturns

MANILLA, Philippines, April 10 (AP)—At least 14 miners were killed when an ore train overturned Saturday night near the town of General MacArthur, southeastern Samar Island. Rescuers dug out 18 miners buried under tons of iron ore. It was not known how many employees were riding atop the cars.

Public Works Asked To Halt Lack Of Jobs

Jobless Situation More Than Seasonal Says Pat Conroy

OTTAWA, April 10—(CP)—The government is being asked to initiate a large-scale public works program to offset the growing army of unemployment in Canada.

Such a program would benefit not only the unemployed, but the "general economy of the country as a whole," Percy Bengough, chief of the 500,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, said Sunday.

"With so many out of work for so long a period, it causes a serious reduction in the country's buying power. There is a very serious danger of this snowballing and creating worse conditions."

Both Mr. Bengough and Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the 350,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor, are renewing their demands on the government for immediate action.

More Than Seasonal

Mr. Conroy said he was convinced that the present situation "is more than seasonal unemployment. A permanent trend towards unemployment is setting in unless something is done by the government—and done fast— to eliminate it in the way of public works or other schemes."

Both labor leaders, referring to a Labor department announcement last week, noted that official government figures placed the number of Canadians seeking work at about 400,000.

The Labor department said the number of persons seeking jobs through National Employment Service at March 16 was 375,000—an increase of 1,100 from the week before and almost 50 per cent greater than at the same time last year.

Mr. Bengough declared the government had a "shelf of public works schemes on which to draw" but was "doing nothing about it."

Mr. Conroy urged the government to launch a major housing program. In addition a public works program should be designed to concentrate on building secondary industries "in areas of chronic unemployment, like the Maritimes."

He added that labor organizations may soon seek shorter hours of work with the same or higher take-home pay.

"Production is rising and ultimately shorter hours of work will be necessary," he said.

U. S. STEEPLECHASING

The first steeplechase in the United States was a hurdle race at the Washington, D. C., Jockey Club park, for amateur riders.

Across Canada

Easter Rabbit Hopped Slightly Frozen

By The Canadian Press.

Arctic blasts curtailed Easter parades on Canada's long holiday week-end. Unseasonable cold gripped the country from the Rockies to Newfoundland and may also have been a factor in keeping down holiday deaths to 19 for the three days.

Wintry road conditions in some provinces held down highway travel. But churches were thronged throughout the country. Some congregations in Ottawa, for example, opened auxiliary rooms to handle the overflowing crowds of worshippers.

Ten of the holiday fatalities occurred in Ontario, seven in Quebec, and two in British Columbia. Traffic accidents took eight lives, two were killed in a BC plane crash and a mother and her invalid son were burned to death at St. Hilaire, Que. Other deaths were ascribed to drowning, accidental strangulation, and falls. An elderly Ontario woman was beaten to death.

Wore Fur Coats

Many fashion paraders did their strutting in fur coats. But the display of Easter finery was at its best at Vancouver, where the temperature was mild, and at Toronto, where some 175,000 witnessed the informal style show.

Near-freezing temperatures at Toronto's west-end Sunnyside Beach failed to chill the ardor of the crowds for a gape at the latest in hats and dresses.

One girl showed up with round celluloid hat which contained a live rabbit.

On Montreal's downtown Sherbrooke Street many matrons wore lighter dresses and coats.

The Maritimes, besieged by cold and snow, did little fashion parading. At Halifax a special service was held at All Saints' Anglican Cathedral for the presentation of a processional cross. The cross, sent from Portsmouth, England, Cathedral, was made of wood from HMS Victory and HMS Implacable, old-time fighting ships.

Winnipeg Snow

Winnipeg's three inches of snow halted the Easter parade. Slushy streets made for few paraders down Jasper Avenue, Edmonton's main street.

On the Pacific Coast, thousands streamed away from the cities on holiday travel. The 50 degrees and intermittent sunlight at Vancouver's Stanley Park made for a good showing in the Easter fashion spectacle.

Can. Oil Stocks Resume Advance

NEW YORK, April 10.—(CP).—Canadian oil stocks traded on the New York curb exchange today continued a substantial advance started last week.

Imperial Oil was the leader last week, gaining 5¾ to close Saturday at 25. In to-day's early trading it added another ¾. Imperial Oil (registered) had a net gain of 5⅜ las week to close at 24½ and was up 1¾ today.

Brokers attributed the advance to a belief that the earning potential of the Canadian oil industry had been under-estimated in the stock market up to now.

Royalite, for example, was up 3¼ at 12⅞ on last week's curb trading and today gained 11. Activity in Canadian Pacific was attributed to the company's oil interests.

Canadian markets were closed Friday, Saturday and today because of the Easter holiday, but on the Toronto exchange Thursday Imperial advanced $1.50 to $25.50 for a net advance of $3 for the week's four-day trading.

Brand Claims

"The English people have been having trouble right along. It is something to do with their stuff."

Other doctors discounted the British suggestion.

Bigger Health Problems

HAMILTON, April 10 (CP).—Dr. L. A. Clarke, civic health officer today branded as "eye-wash" the claim being advanced by an Australian doctor that infantile paralysis can be ascribed to injections of combined whooping cough and diphtheria vaccine.

Dr. Clarke defended the practice of immunizing against diphtheria and commented: "I know of no reason why this idea regarding polio should be true, and there are reasons why I think it is not true.

"In spite of this, diphtheria and whooping cough are still each more significant public health problems than infantile paralysis.

"Even if the Australian claim should be proven, which it certainly has not so far, it is still more important to immunize against diphtheria and whooping cough."

Ottawa Report

OTTAWA, April 10 (CP) —A Health Department spokesman said today there is nothing in Canada to indicate that there is a "tie-up" between poliomyelitis and the combined diphtheria-whooping cough injection in use in this country.

He said no steps will be taken to discontinue the use of the injection, banned by the county council in London.

The spokesman was commenting on a London dispatch which said the London County Council ban followed evidence published by the British Medical Association that injections given to children to prevent diphtheria may have caused severe cases of infantile paralysis.

Federal health authorities here have not heard of the medical association's findings, the spokesman said, but the London report would indicate that he published evidence was merely "speculation."

However, the health department will make a thorough check of the report, he added.

ORDERLY ANTIPODEANS

The strength of the New Zealand police force in 1949 was 1,548, or the equivalent of one to every 1,202 of population.

Really Real?

TORONTO, April 10 (CP) —And now comes the bunny bonnet. The hat that drew crowds at the Easter parade at west-end Sunnyside Beach Sunday was Betty Wheeler's. Atop her blonde curls perched a celluloid affair containing a small and live white rabbit. The 12-pound topper was tied on with green net.

"Run and get the hammock, dear, they're growing fast."

Gales Hit U.K. For Easter Day

LONDON, April 10 (Reuters)—A 92-mile-an-hour gale struck the holiday resort of Blackpool today, sweeping people off their feet, wrecking shop windows and tearing slates off roofs.

Thousands of Easter holidayers were promenading on the sea-front in spring sunshine when the gale ripped in from over the sea, many clung to lampposts to save themselves, streetcars swayed in the gusts, and iron seats were flung across the promenade.

Five women and two men were taken to hospital with cuts from debris.

Snow in Scotland, and gales and wintry showers round almost the whole British coastline, made this Eastertime one of Britain's bleakest in years.

The gales interrupted ferry services across the Firth of Forth and one ship, the Mary Queen of Scots, was blown off course beneath the Forth Bridge. She eventually completed the crossing but took three times longer than usual.

Drug Found In Bodies Exhumed In England

NOTTINGHAM, England, April 10.—(Reuters).—Traces of poison have been found in the bodies of two old men exhumed last week at the village of Whaplode Drove, near Spalding, Lincolnshire, it was reported today.

This was the latest development in what may become one of the most sensational poisoning mysteries of the century.

Scientists working through the Easter week-end at the Forensic Laboratories here, found a narcotic drug, the report said.

Whether there was enough of the drug to cause death was not known.

The two men, 79-year-old Ernest Thrower and 78-year-old Henry Scarfe, were farm workers who lived in neighboring bungalows and spent their retirement in their gardens. They died a year ago.

Car Hits Hole, Driver Possible Broken Neck

LONDON, Ont., April 10 (CP) —A freak accident Sunday night sent George Doan, 65, to hospital with chest injuries and possibly a fractured neck.

Police said Dolan's car dropped into a 20-inch deep mudhole in the centre of the Brydges Street-Oakland Avenue intersection and crashed into a manhole which stood 18 inches high in the mudhole.

The impact hurled him forward with such force the steering column was snapped and his head shattered the windshield.

A grant of $250 was made to the township's agricultural society on a motion by Councillors Hooton and McKnight.

Copy Hopi Indians Paper Tells Britons

LONDON, April 10 (Reuters)—The Daily Express in an editorial today calls on Britain to follow the example of the Hopi Indians in Arizona, who "take their place in history as the only people in the western world who rejected dollar aid."

The newspaper says Washington offered $89,600,000 "for the rehabilitation of the Hopis and their neighbors, the Navajos.

"The Hopi chief replied that his people would still rely on their own efforts. The offer was refused.

"What a fine thing it would be for Britain if her leaders could muster the resolution, common sense and dignity of the Hopi Indians.

Irish Celebrate First Birthday

DUBLIN, April 10 (AP) — The Irish celebrated today the first anniversary of the proclamation of the Republic of Ireland.

A crowd of 100,000 cheered as President Sean T. O'Kelly reviewed army infantry and mechanized units in front of the general post office, where the first shots were fired in the Easter Monday insurrection of 1916.

Fighter planes of the Irish Air Force flew low over the route of march along Dublin's flag-festooned O'Connell Street.

Representatives of the Scottish Republican army and the Welsh Republican army, both of which advocate separation from the United Kingdom, were present at the ceremony.

A bitterly cold gale kept down the size of the crowd but failed to chill its enthusiasm.

The celebration also marked the 34th anniversary of Ireland's declaration of independence.

Manchester Regains English Football Lead

LONDON, April 10 (Reuters)—Manchester United, drawing its second Easter holiday game—this time a scoreless tussle with Birmingham City—today regained leadership of the English League's championship division.

United replaced Sunderland, which briefly held the top spot in the fast-changing battle for first place.

Sunderland suffered its first home defeat of the season, a 2-0 shutout from Middlesbrough. With two games in hand Sunderland is tied in points with Manchester but slightly behind in goals average.

Third position is held by Portsmouth, which managed a 1-0 victory over Fulham. Liverpool slipped back from third to fourth today after a 1-0 defeat by Burnley.

In Second Division, interest centred on the battle between the two Sheffield teams—Wednesday and the United—for promotion, Tottenham Hotspur having already clinched one of the two places at stake.

Wednesday today achieved second place in the division, and, with two games in hand, leads the United by one point. Today's victory was 1-0 over Bury, while the United lost by the same score to Southampton. The league leaders, Tottenham Hotspur, suffered similarly at the hands of Hull City.

Russia Directed Hainan Invasion Expected Soon

By SPENCER MOOSA.

TAIPEI, Formosa, April 10 — (AP). — Chinese Nationalists today predicted Russian experts would call the signals on the next invasion of Hainan Island.

Dispatches from Hainan said Russian advisers had arrived in Luichow Peninsula, 10 miles from Hainan on the Chinese mainland, some weeks ago.

The Russians are drilling intensively a small invasion force, the dispatches added.

Three Red Attempts

Nationalists shattered three Chinese Communist attempts to invade the island in the last two weeks. They said they killed 11,000 Reds, captured at least 2,000 and seized considerable arms and supplies.

(Reports reaching Hong Kong from Red China said the Communists have ordered one of their top generals, Lin Piao, to conquer Hainan and a full-scale invasion may come within a few days.

(Gen. Chu Teh, Red commander-in-chief, gave Lin eight armies to conquer the island, the report said. Of this estimated 80,000 to 160,000 men, Lin probably has selected about 15,000 crack troops to spearhead the sea attack.)

Hainan dispatches told of a complete rout of the latest attempt on Saturday.

Lin's 258th Division troops raced toward Hainan in more than 30 motorized craft. Nationalist defenders sank more than 20 vessels and killed more than 1,000 Reds. The rest turned back toward the Lui-Chow peninsula base.

One Gunboat

The Nationalists said one of the sunken craft was a gunboat.

The Nationalists, flaunting defiance, told of this new raid on the China coast within 20 miles of Shanghai:

Several hundred Kiangsu provincials stormed ashore Wednesday near Nanhwei and destroyed more than 100 junks, they met fierce resistance. Guerrillas ashore helped them.

The provincials staged their raid from Chusan Island, basing point also of a similar raid March 30. They captured 14 junks and fled with some prisoners.

Two days earlier, the seaborne guerrillas sank more than 90 troop-laden Communist junks and captured six jammed with Red troops.

Seize "Toy" Guns

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., April 10—(CP)—Following discovery of three cap pistols made over by youngsters into lethal weapons, Police Chief A. R. Bull today appealed to parents to check all toy firearms. The cap pistols are fitted with a crude barrel and firing pin and take a .22 calibre bullet. Two were taken from boys 14 and 15 years old. Police said the guns originated with a movie called "City Across the River."

Revive Toyko Parade To Help 'Girls' Trade

TOKYO, April 10 (AP)—Habitues of the Yoshiwara, Tokyo's night life district, have revived with variations the ancient parade of the oiran (first-class prostitutes).

Two orian, wearing ponderous headdresses and foot-high wooden clogs, today led a parade of Yoshiwarans depicting famous Japanese characters of plays and dances.

The rituals started in mock-wedding ceremonies uniting beautiful prostitues and feudal lords. Then the parades became an annual affair honoring the most beautiful joro (prositute) of the year. Brothel girls and their male and female attendants marched in the old parades.

The orian was discontinued after 1914. Trade has fallen off in the Yoshiwara since the occupation outlawed prostitution. The historic parade was revived to drum up business.

Smelt Run Starts

COBOURG, April 10 (ENS)—Smelt were running in scattered sections of the lakefront on Friday and Saturday nights but the weather was so cold that only a few hardy people bothered to go after them.

Drop in temperature late Saturday night is expected to put a halt to the run until the weather warms up.

What effect the cold weather will have now that the smelt have started their annual spring trek upstream remains to be seen but it may shorten the period in which the smelt will be running. Last year the take was very large.

Christian World Prays For Peace At Easter Time

By The Canadian Press

The worried Christian world returned today to everyday business after an Easter dedicated to prayers for peace.

Throughout the Christian countries that believe in a Saviour risen from the dead, the faithful Sunday knelt in pleas for the dead and wounded of the second world war. Everywhere they asked that war's destruction would not be repeated.

At St. Peter's Basilica in Rome, 500,000 Holy Year pilgrims of the Roman Catholic Church heard the Pope plead for a return to the Gospel spirit and the idea of social justice.

The Holy City of Jerusalem was jammed for services at the shrines dedicated to Christ's death and resurrection. At the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre, more than 10,000 persons knelt in prayer.

Prince Charlie

In Britain bonnie Prince Charlie stole the show. The Queen held up the infant son of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip for the delight of a crowd gathered at Windsor Castle for an Easter concert. Cheers for Charlie drowned out the music.

In Canada Arctic air over most of the country froze out many fashion-paraders. But in British Columbia, where the weather was mild, and at Toronto the display of Easter wear went on as usual.

Traces of a midnight snow were seen for a while on New York's streets, but from dawn the city's churches were packed.

Fifth Avenue's annual Easter parade was sobered by a surprise cold snap which cut through lightweight spring garments. But bright sunlight later in the day brought sidewalk-packing hordes into the thoroughfare, with bright flowered hats to relieve the wintry blues that were favored costumes.

In the midwest the weatherman was kinder. At Lawton, Okla., brisk winds gave way to a mild and calm atmosphere during which 125,000 persons of all faiths gathered for a four-hour pageant on the Granite Hillsides.

Ice Storm Hits Mid-West States

CHICAGO, April 10 (AP)—The ice storm which flattened communications and power lines over a wide section of the upper mid-western United States Sunday had shrunk to the northern Great Lakes region today.

Northeastern Iowa generally, and the Mississippi river city of Clinton particularly, were hardest hit by the freezing rain which disabled telephone service in at least 55 towns of the area. But rising temperatures gave many of the stricken communities a chance to repair the damage.

The storm area extended generally from northern Indiana and Illinois westward through most of Iowa and northward through the Great Lake region. The storm was moving eastward and was expected to hit upper Michigan today.

Seven Convicts Break

TIJUANA, Mex., April 10 (AP)—Police said seven prisoners broke jail here Saturday—by tunnelling 20 feet under the walls with tablespoons. Raul Enridquez, 25, suspected of narcotics peddling, was later shot and killed by police. Jorge Bravo Aguilera, 28 held on fraud charges, was recaptured. Search for the five was extended across the international border into California.

Wall Collapses

TOKYO, April 10 (Reuters). — A wall of a new building collapsed today and released tons of sand over workmen eating their lunch, killing seven and injuring eight.

'Acts Like Spy' McCarthy Says Over Libel Risk

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wisc.) asserted Sunday that regardless of whether Owen Lattimore is a Russian agent, he has done exactly what would be expected of such an agent.

McCarthy said in a telegram to State Secretary Acheson that he was shocked to learn that the State Department sprang to the defense of Lattimore after McCarthy made a speech at Passaic, N.J., renewing his attack on the department.

He presumably referred to a statement issued by John E. Peurifoy Saturday night. Peurifoy did not mention Lattimore by name and appeared not to be referring to him.

McCarthy did not repeat in his Passiac speech some of the specific charges he has made against Lattimore, a Far Eastern expert, and against two department employees, Philip C. Jessup and John S. Service.

Lion's Roar

Peurifoy retorted that the Wisconsin senator roared like a lion when he was immune from the threat of lawsuits while speaking in the Senate, but that when he shed the cloak of immunity he strikes the pose of a hero and bleats like a lamb.

In Passaic, McCarthy discarded his congressional immunity and made new attacks on Lattimore, C. Jessup and Service. He challenged them to sue him for libel. His accusations against the trio were considerably milder than those he originally levelled in the Senate, where he has constitutional protection from court action.

Invites Libel

In a prepared speech, McCarthy said: "I invite the individuals whose names I shall name to start their libel suits, if a single word I say is not true." Then he proceeded to charge that:

1. Lattimore—"A man commonly known as the architect of our Far Eastern policy"—is selling the State Department a program identical to the planks in the platform of the Communist Party.

2. The Institute of Pacific Relations—an organization which Jessup once headed—cashed $3,500 in cheques representing Communist money, and must be credited by the American people as having originated the myth of the "democratic" Chinese Communists.

3. Service was picked up by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in connection with the theft of secret government documents, but instead of being indicted was later placed in charge of personnel in the State Department's Far Eastern division.

United Nations Stalled Over Chinese Question

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., April 10 (CP)—The United Nations is stalled at a crossroads.

No quick solution to the deadlock over the Chinese representation issue was seen today among UN quarters. Lacking a solution, the prospect appeared to be a United Nations without Russia.

The impasse:

Russia has declared, in boycotting 18 UN groups, that she will not return until Chinese Nationalist delegates are ousted to make way for admission of Communist China.

The majority in each of the 18 groups has rejected the Russian ouster proposals.

To break the deadlock, either Russia must back down on her demands or a majority of UN members be found to expel the Chinese Nationalists.

No possibility is seen that Russia will come back and sit at conference tables with Chinese Nationalist delegates present. There is some chance that eventually a majority of UN members will withdraw recognition from the Formosa regime of Chiang Kai-shek, Nationalist leader.

So far, of the UN's 59 members, 44 including Canada's continue to recognize Chiang. To build a majority capable of expelling Chiang's representatives here, 16 would have to withdraw recognition from Chiang.

If a solution comes, the first break is likely to come in the Security Council. Five of the council's members have recognized Communist China. They are Britain, Norway, India, Yugoslavia and Russia.

The United States, France, Egypt, and Cuba and Nationalist China continue to back Chiang Kai-shek.

With two more council members withdrawing recognition from Chiang, there would be a majority available to oust the Chinese Nationalist delegate. But at present there is no sign that these two moves will be forthcoming.

Other Places Have Centenaries Because Of Baldwin

The city of Peterborough is proudly observing its hundredth birthday as a corporation. But it is not alone in Ontario in its centenarianism. Throughout central and eastern parts of the province, towns and cities are having or have recently had, hundredth anniversaries of incorporation. The reason for this rush of hundredth birthdays is 12 Victoriae Cap. 81, of the statutes of Canada. It is an act passed in 1849 in the twelfth year of the reign of Victoria by the second session of the third Parliament of the Province of Canada (which included Canada West and Canada East), when the Earl of Elgin was Governor-General. The prime mover was Robert Baldwin, Upper Canadian statesman, who with the other reform leader Louis LaFontaine, had formed the ministry of the united Canada in 1842, and was a principal force in the establishment of responsible government.

* * *

Baldwin did not limit his notions of the responsibility of the governors to the governed merely to national or provincial levels. As he had objected to the "Family Compact" of the Executive Council running the country regardless of the wishes or advice of elected members, so he felt that responsibility for local affairs should be in the hands of local, elected bodies. The basis of municipal government in Canada had been laid after the Act of Union in 1841 by the Districts Councils Act. The districts were sprawling, and essentially controlled from York and by Family Compact men. Baldwin made his first attempt to secure autonomy in municipal government at a local level in 1843. His Municipal Bill passed the Assembly, but not the Legislative Council. Later Lord Elgin's liberal policies made it possible for the Baldwin-LaFontaine government of 1848 to have its way. In 1849 Baldwin re-introduced his 1843 Bill which, with amendments, became law: the Baldwin Municipal Act, which has been called "the Magna Charta of the municipal institutions of Canada".

* * *

So by 12 Victoriae Cap. 81, the Baldwin Act, the village of Peterborough was incorporated as a town. (The incorporation became effective in January of the next year, 1850.) The schedule of Chapter 81—the Act—names fifteen towns incorporated then and by this instrument: Belleville, Brantford, Brockville, Bytown (Ottawa), Cobourg, Cornwall, Dundas, Goderich, London, Niagara, Peterborough, Picton, Port Hope, Prescott, Saint Catharines (even in 1849 the apostrophe did not appear in that town's name). Listed as villages were Chippawa, Galt, Oshawa, Paris, Richmond (in Carleton county), Thorold. All these are now a hundred years old as incorporated towns or villages. There were only three cities in Ontario a century ago as named in another schedule: Hamilton, Toronto and Kingston.

* * *

The Baldwin Act is amazingly comprehensive, it defines new towns' boundaries, their electoral wards, the duties and privileges of office-holders, the extent of their jurisdiction—down to their right to regulate the quantity and quality of a loaf of bread. Baldwin surveyed the province's entire municipal condition, with an eye to reforming or establishing local autonomy. It was by his Act that Peterborough county was separated from the District of Colborne in 1849, and that Hastings county was carved from the District of Victoria, and that other unwieldy districts were broken up. Durham and Northumberland were at that time named united counties for administrative purposes.

* * *

Last year Peterborough County Council paid brief tribute to its hundredth anniversary. This year, in the city's centenary celebrations, Robert Baldwin should be given his just and honourable due as the architect who made the Corporation of Peterborough a reality.

Two U.S. Campaigns Against Communists

There are actually two campaigns against Communism in the United States, and there is a marked difference between them. One is the irresponsible witch-hunting of Wisconsin's Senator McCarthy and others of his stripe; the other is the persistent attempt of the United States Government to prosecute certain Communists under established laws of the nation. The former is characterized by all the unpleasant and unjust features and results that may be caused by slander from a privileged source; the latter is characterized by scrupulous recognition of the rights of accused persons and by the remarkable tolerance shown by the judges involved.

The second campaign is no less determined because it is being conducted in a just and democratic manner. This has been proved beyond question by the case of Harry Bridges, Australian-born leader of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union. The United States Government began its attempts to have him deported as a Communist in 1939; these attempts failed after several court cases Then, in 1945, Mr. Bridges became a naturalized citizen, after swearing he had never been a Communist.

This oath gave the U.S. Government a second chance, and in November of last year Mr. Bridges went on trial in San Francisco Federal Court, charged with perjury. He has now been found guilty, but will appeal. He appears to have had a fair trial, and the presiding judge, Mr. Justice George Harris, seems to have allowed Mr. Bridges' attorneys latitude similar to that allowed by Judge Harold Medina in the New York Communist trial—although, like Judge Medina, he eventually sentenced two attorneys for contempt of court.

When a democratic nation decides it must act against Communists in its midst, the campaign should be conducted in a manner similar to that employed in the latter of the two campaigns noted above. In a truly democratic country, witch-hunting should be just as detestable as Communism itself.

Phoney War Ended

Ten years ago today our readers were confronted with huge headlines. The 'phoney war' and its quiet news of small sorties on the western front had ended abruptly the day before. At four o'clock on the morning of April the ninth German armies rolled across the fortified frontier of Denmark, with whom Germany had recently completed a non-aggression pact. An hour later the Danish government was presented with an ultimatum, which it had to accept. From that day until the end of the war five years later Denmark was under German occupation.

At the same time that Denmark was invaded, German transports and barges steamed into every important Norwegian port: Oslo, Kristiansand, Stavanger, Bergen, Trondheim and Narvik (the names are like a roll-call of alarming memories). The Norwegians were caught unprepared—or, rather, Norway was prepared on behalf of Germany by a Norwegian named Vidkun Quisling, whose British honour, the O.B.E. had not then been taken from him. Norway resisted as best she could under the circumstances, and continued to do so nobly in incoherent, valiant ways until 1945.

It was the end of the stalemate on the Franco-German front. It was the preparation for the invasion of the Low Counties which began a month later. The Allies went to the help of Norway, but it was too little and too late. As they lost ground during the month, Mr. Clement Attlee said: "The people of this country . . . are not satisfied that the war is being waged with sufficient energy, capacity, drive, and resolution. The Norwegian campaign is the culmination of other discontents". Early in May Chamberlain was forced to retire, and Churchill formed his National Governments, with Attlee as his chief lieutenant.

That was ten years ago. Today Germany is being offered a seat in the Council of Europe.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Statistics can be produced to support anything. What they chiefly support, however, is statisticians.

A man in Missouri figures that he has saved $800 in 52 years by not shaving. However, he hasn't the $800. Sounds like government economy.

A German recently refused to give his wife one mark (25 cents) to bet on a soccer pool. Later he discovered that her forecast was correct and that she had missed winning 68,000. He committed suicide. Obviously couldn't bear the thought of a lifetime of "I told you so."

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

AT last the melting of the snow is reminding music-lovers that it will soon be time to put away their music and their instruments and say goodbye to concerts until October: for this is the season of the year when the musical world goes through its death-pangs. A few more concerts, festivals and recitals, and the lean months come. Music, religion, art, culture, even society itself disintegrates in the searing heat and gives place to fishing, bathing, lounging. The world's workers carry on, but escape when they can to some lake to be basted a raw shade of pink and bitten mercilessly by mosquitoes. Is it too hot for Handel, too torrid for Tannhauser? Is culture only possible in the cold? It is strange that the earliest civilizations flourished in the sunshine, while the cold and damp North was inhabited by tribes who have left no record save a few handfuls of bones and primitive knick-knacks. The summer theatre idea appears to have caught on in Peterborough: why not summer concerts? As I pen these lines the snow has started falling again.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE songs of Peter Warlock deserve to be better known in this country. They form the greater part of his not very large output and contain some of the best songs ever written to English words. They display a fine feeling for the subtle rhythms of English poetry, a genuine gift for melody, an original harmonic sense, an Elizabeth freshness and spontaneity (no stilted stuffiness), and a rare balance of interest between the voice and piano. Some of his accompaniments are difficult for the average pianist, with a few clumsy passages that could possibly be slightly recast without losing their distinctive quality, and this has probably militated against their popularity: but as long as the public demands fustian sentiment, and second-hand rapture (with the obligatory top note) for English songs and goes automatically to German and French songs for "uplift", so long will Warlock's songs remain a closed book to all but a few who treasure them as a pearl without price.

✧ ✧ ✧

PETER Warlock (or, to give him his real name, Philip Heseltine) was born in London in 1894 of well-to-do parents and educated at Eton, where he appears to have devoted most of his time to music. If this is the case it would seem that there was more wisdom in allowing him to follow his bent than keeping him fixed to a rigid curriculum. After leaving school he claimed to have never received any formal musical instruction, though he assimilated a good deal from his friends Delius and van Dieren. He also carried out researches in the fields of Elizabethan and Jacobean music, as well as writing a book on Gesualdo, prince, musician and murderer, whose madrigals contain progressions of startling "modernity" for the early seventeenth century. He edited several songs of the Elizabethan period, founded a musical paper, The Sackbut, and gave some concerts. His "Capriol" suite for string orchestra, founded on old French dance tunes taken from Arbeau's "Orchesographie" (1589) is a charming example of musical "face-lifting" and is always a popular number in the concert hall. His songs fall neatly into two categories. First there are the roistering and "pub-crawling" ditties such as "Bring us in Good Ale" and "When as the rye". But the essential Warlock is rather to be found in the sensitive and bittersweet melancholy of songs such as "Sleep". He has an acute sense of the transience of beauty—and, one might add, of the beauty of transience. These two aspects of his songs had their counterpart in his character, sometimes bluff and gay (he belonged to a wild set of young artists in the twenties), sometimes brooding and introspective. It was the latter side of his character that had the last word to say, for on one dark December day in London Philip Heseltine committed suicide. That was in 1930. If he were alive today he would be 55. Apparently he felt that he was "played out" as a composer. The little band of gay sparks has disbanded: one at least has become respectable, but Warlock's songs still live as a last-ditch protest of the unregimented Bohemian against our modern regimented civilization.

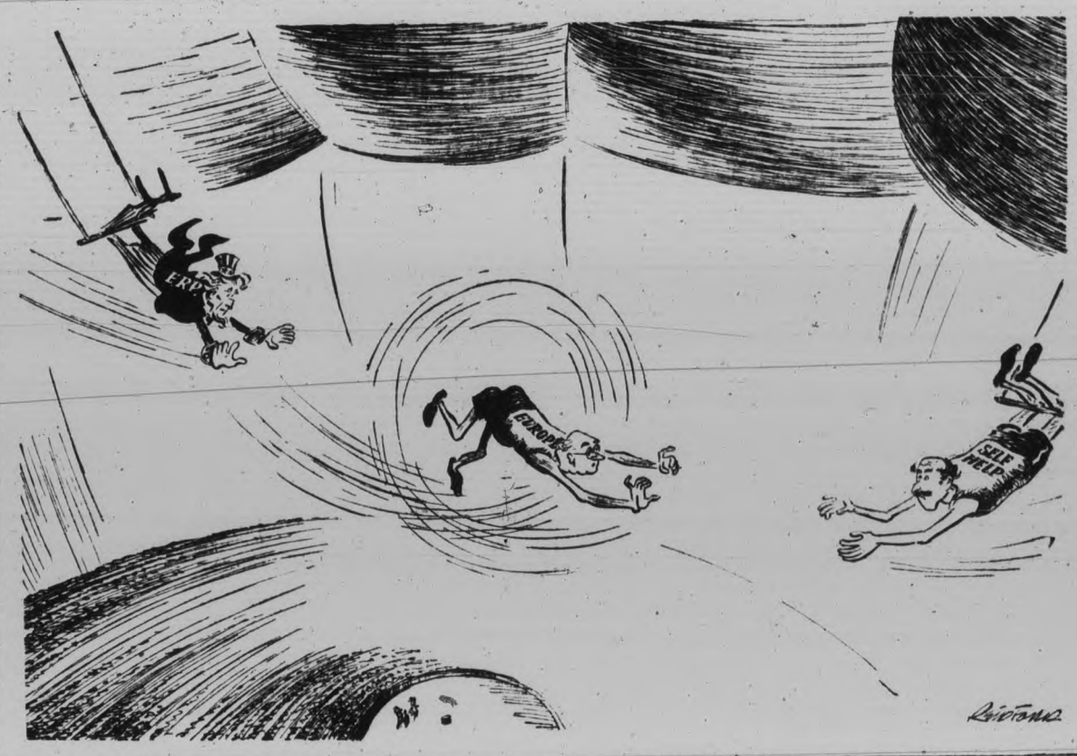
✧ ✧ ✧

IT is strange how many people still think of technique as the ability to play rapid passages. This is a certain aspect of technique which must not be despised in its proper place, but when it comes to playing Chopin's Waltz in D flat major in a minute it is misapplied, for Chopin himself never christened this waltz the "Minute Waltz" and would be horrified to hear the middle section hustled through in order to finish on time. But technique is not merely a matter of prestidigitation; it is what we nowadays call "know-how". It is one thing to conceive of a perfect performance, and it is another to know how to bring this about. Ability to produce cantabile, to play two-against-three rhythms, to engineer a gradual crescendo, all these come under the heading of technique, which is, after all, the art of subduing the instrument to one's will. The method of attaining this object consists of the study and practice of the correct posture, the different types of action (finger, hand, forearm, whole arm and whole body), the pedal, and so on. The golden rule of technique is economy of action—that is to say avoidance of unnecessary actions. The average European husband is unaccustomed to setting the table. If by any chance the duty devolves on him he would take far more time to produce the same result than his Canadian counterpart, because he would make many more journeys to and from the kitchen. The same thing holds good in the matter of instrumental technique. The hands of the poor technician are continually going through a lot of unnecessary movements.

✧ ✧ ✧

TECHNIQUE is not everything. There are plenty of pianists today, thanks to modern teaching methods, whose technique is at least equal to that of Liszt, but there are comparatively few whose musicianship is equal to their technique: typically modern, they don't quite know what to say, but they know how to say it. This is the mentality of the world that can manufacture a hydrogen bomb but has hardly begun to ask itself whether it is morally defensible to use it. The public is still dazzled by a flashy technique: there are signs that it also appreciates solid musicianship, but it is still somewhat gullible, and mistakes the empty froth for the true, the blushing Hippocrene. Is there a touchstone? It is a fairly safe generalization to say that anything that draws attention to the performer is bogus, anything that draws attention to the music is genuine.

HALF THE TRICK



Letters To The Editor

BONA FIDES OF JEWISH LABOUR COMMITTEE

Sir: My attention was drawn to a letter which appeared in one of your recent issues commenting on your editorial of March 17th entitled "Strange Rumours from Russia".

I do not intend to answer the usual "smear" accusations of "Informed". Whenever Russia is criticized, Communist sympathizers level the same stock charges of "Trotskyism" or "Titoism". Permit me, however, to inform your readers of the composition, aims and objectives of the Jewish Labour Committee.

The Jewish Labour Committee is an organization founded in 1933. It represents over 500,000 workers in the United States and Canada. Amongst the organizations affiliated to it are the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union (A.F. of L.), Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union (CIO), Cap, Hat and Millinery Workers International Union (A.F. of L.) and the fraternal order, the Workmen's Circle. David Dubinsky, president of the I.L.G.W.U. is the national treasurer of the organization. Louis Hollander, vice-president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union and Max Zaritsky, president of the Cap, Hat and Millinery Workers Union are amongst its vice-presidents.

During the 17 years of its existence, the Jewish Labour Committee has devoted a great deal of energy to the fight against racial and religious discrimination in the United States and Canada and for better understanding between the different racial and religious groups in these two countries. It received the fullest co-operation from, and recognition of, the American Federation of Labour and the Congress of Industrial Organization. In the Jewish community it is one of the four main organizations in the United States comprising the National Community Relations Council, together with the American Jewish Committee, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and the American Jewish Congress.

In view of the above, I leave it to your readers, Sir, to determine the reliability and representative character of the Jewish Labour Committee.

Yours very truly,
KALMEN KAPLANSKY,
Director.
Montreal.

GAMES WITH PLENTY OF ACTION

Sir: It would seem to me that your free-lance "Rattled Observer", MacDuff, has been handing you "deadline copy" of late.

In his haste to grab the limelight on your editorial page, now that his arguments over hospitality, merits of Churchill etc., have dropped off, he has searched desperately through your paper for a current topic, noticed the article on our Canadian amateur hockey team, and come forth with a brilliant expose of poor Canadian sportsmanship.

Several foreign countries are apparently griping over the shellacking they received from the world champs and, as quite often happens, have tried to heal their hurt pride by hoots of "unfair, poor sports" etc., Canada and U.S.A. are two of the few countries that have national country-wide games where bodily contact is not only permitted but is an essential of that game. Can you imagine a game of rugby played in the "gentlemanly, no force or violence" manner? We prefer games with a mite more action than darts.

I think MacDuff would do well to wait until he is thoroughly acquainted with our country and its sports before formulating and putting forth opinions on such a broad subject. Otherwise, his nom-de-plume should read "MacGuff".

"TAIN'T CRICKET".

ASKS FOR MILD CHEESE

Sir: Until reading the very illuminating letter by Mr. Bullock on the subject of Canadian cheese, I was unaware of the government restrictions on the sale of mild, new dairy cheese.

I am heartily in favour of having same back on the market once more. Having been born and raised in one of the finest dairy districts of Southern Ontario, my craving for such cheese is well founded. Be it rubbery, unpalatable and indigestible in the eyes of the connoisseur, the fact remains that it would be a great boon to the family table as a more frequent substitute for meat, especially where the smaller members have not as yet developed adult tastebuds able to accept the nippier varieties in copious quantities.

It must be due to my Swiss ancestry, but I am all for milder cheeses and I cannot afford the imported brands. I am sick and tired of being dictated to by the government as to what I cannot, and shall not, eat, especially when it is a Canadian product and there is no shortage.

Sincerely yours,
WOULD-BE CONSUMER.

BAD SPORTSMANSHIP

Sir: Nothing truer than the statement by Macduff that Canadians are poor sports. To have another proof of it you have only to witness a ball game at the corner of Burnham and Hunter Sts., or in any park in any town in Canada. What do you hear? Hissing, jeering, taunting, ribald remarks mounting to pandemonium from the spectators who think themselves judges of sport while proving by their demeanour that they know nothing of sportsmanship. It is disgusting that people think this is the way to conduct themselves.

The English can teach us how to play games—a quiet contest and dignified applause.

Why can't the referees be trained to control the spectators?

MRS. MACBETH.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

For he that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile: Let him eschew evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and ensue it. For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers: but the face of the Lord is against them that do evil. (I Pet. 3: 10-12.)

Kathy Fiscus Died One Year Ago

By BOB THOMAS

SAN MARINO, Calif., April 10 (AP).—One year ago, a little girl skipped across a field and disappeared into the earth.

She was running a race with her sister and a cousin, and she fell down an abandoned well. The other two children listened to her cries and ran for help.

Help came too late. Some $500,000 worth of equipment was brought to the scene and scores of men worked feverishly for two nights and days. When they reached the little girl, 95 feet underground, she was dead. She apparently had died a couple of hours after she slid down the well.

The girl was Kathy Fiscus and her name will be long remembered in the annals of news. Seldom in this half-century has any human interest story hit the United States — and the world — with such impact.

Papers in London and Stockholm held their editions, awaiting the latest news.

All this because a curly-headed 3½-year-old girl fell down a well.

"It would have been a gripping story if a man had been trapped," said one reporter. "But there was added pathos because it was a helpless little girl."

"The suspense was terrific — and terrifying," remarked an editor. "You had the feeling that any moment the rescuers would reach her, and you prayed they would find her alive. The minutes ticked away and became hours before you knew it."

Jangling and Quiet

"All of the elements added up to suspense," agreed one of the men who covered the scene. "There was the jangling sound of the drillers — and the awful hush when they stopped to change crews or clean the drills.

"Other factors added to the drama — the eagerly-expectant crowd, the rescuers working themselves into exhaustion, the television cameras broadcasting the scene continuously, the big lights sent by the movie studios, the sleepy community jolted by this mammoth activity.

"Above all was the thought that life or death might depend on how soon they reached her."

Another editor offered more basic reasons: "It was a heart-breaking story, especially for those with children of their own. No one could escape feeling emotional about Kathy's plight. And I believe everyone felt within himself the fear of being enclosed in that tiny space."

CCF Opposes Gifts Act No Reference To Star

TORONTO, April 10 (CP) — The annual convention of the Ontario CCF party Saturday deleted a reference to the Toronto Daily Star from a resolution endorsing the stand taken by the party against the Provincial Charitable Gifts Act.

A further resolution sought to have the convention instruct the CCF members of the Legislature to "take no further steps to oppose this Act insofar as the Star is concerned." This resolution was withdrawn in view of the deletion made in the first resolution.

The section deleted read: "The Charitable Gifts Act is a highly discriminatory attack upon the only non-Conservative newspaper in Toronto, and its only effect is to force the sale of that newspaper."

(The Act, passed last year, requires charitable foundations such as the Atkinson Foundation, owners of the Toronto Daily Star and The Star Weekly, to dispose of all but 10 per cent of their interest in any business.)

After Recognition In England Actors Return Home To Canada

By JOHN PATERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO. —(CP)—Robert and Margot Christie are two who "came back." They reversed the trend of thousands of talented young Canadians who left for other countries in search of a career. Yet the Christies achieved recognition abroad and the future in Canada, in their profession, looked bleak when they returned.

The Christies are actors, real flesh and blood stage actors, although both are often heard on national radio programs. A precarious profession anywhere, the prospect of making a fulltime living in the Canadian theatre might ha deterred any with less determination.

After more than 10 years in which they have played in stock companies in Calgary, Ottawa, Toronto, Muskoka, Peterborough and other places, they say they're "still happy." They don't regret their choice, although the going has been difficult many times.

Margot, a tall striking brunette, with a voice reminiscent of a younger Ethel Barrymore, recalls their stay in England.

"We landed there with less than $25 between us. We hadn't been married long and we decided to gamble 10 years to see if we could actually achieve our goal, a living in the Canadian theatre."

"We both are products of the little theatre movement in Canada and we decided to go abroad to get experience, and, possibly, a ne e for ourselves, because Canadians are often reluctant to recognize their own, unless it has some sort of a foreign label."

Toured for Old Vic

In England they played with several stock companies in "the provinces." Later, by dint of persistent plugging they landed at the famous Old Vic theatre in London and toured the continent in the spring of 1939 with that company.

Robert joined up with the Canadian army when war broke out and Margot took an office job in London.

In 1945 they returned to Canada and came to Toronto. Both are members of the New Play Society, a professional non-profit company which plays a full season each winter in Toronto. During the summer both have played summer stock in the Peterborough and Muskoka and have toured southern Ontario with the New Play Society.

"It's a hectic existence at times," Mrs. Christie said. "In one recent week I played a leading role in Shakespeare's 'King Lear' and rehearsed the part of the mother of Riel in John Coulter's play. The same week I rehearsed and played the title role in Maxwell Anderson's 'Elizabeth the Queen' on a national radio network and played in several CBC radio shows besides."

Robert, son of Rev. D. Wallace Christie, prominent United Church minister, was born and raised in Toronto. He met Margot, a native of Winnipeg, when he was playing with the John Holden Players in western Canada. They have two girls, Dinah, 7, and Cedar, 3.

Both are well known on such CBC productions as the Andrew Allan "Stage" series, and other dramatic broadcasts. For a time Robert had a program as a disk jockey called "Christie's Wax Works."

CCF Seeks Change In Canada's BNA Act

TORONTO, April 10 (CP) — Ontario's CCF party believes the British North America Act—Canada's constitution—should be amended along broad, national lines.

A resolution passed at Saturday's closing session said the BNA Act should be made flexible so that the constitution may be adapted continuously to changing conditions.

The resolution demanded that the Ontario government exert every effort toward an immediate reconvening of the Dominion-Provincial conference in reconstruction "to deal with the urgent social needs of our people."

Delegates also approved a resolution calling for the socialization of forestry. It said a Crown company should be established to harvest and market timber resources of the province.

To prevent a recurrence of unemployment at the lakehead, the Provincial government should put in operation a major road building program, the resolution said.

E. B. Jolliffe, who was re-elected provincial party leader, advocated special educational programs for new Canadians.

Make Diesel Car; More Economical

By DON DOANE

STUTTGART, Germany, April 10—(AP)—Germany, which originated the diesel engine, now is using it in automobiles. A German company, Daimler-Benz, is producing what it claims to be the only diesel-powered passenger car being made in the world today. It is called the Mercedes-Benz, type 170-D.

The Merceres diesel looks and runs just like an ordinary automobile. But instead of burning gasoline, it burns fuel oil.

That's why its makers claim it is the most economical car on the market to operate. They hope it may prove the answer to the shortage and high price of gasoline in Europe.

It hasn't been on the market long enough yet for the buyers to give a decisive verdict, but here is what the manufacturer claims for the revolutionary auto:

Its four-cylinder, 38-horsepower engine will run 34 to 36 miles on a gallon of oil and produce a cruising speed of 62 miles an hour.

In speed, pick-up and power, it is claimed to match in every way its gasoline-burning twin, the Mercedes-Benz type 170-V, which is supposed to average 30 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

In Germany, that would mean the diesel car would cost only 65 per cent as much for fuel as its gasoline-burning twin. Gasoline in Germany costs 40 per cent more than fuel oil.

The initial cost of the diesel car is higher than that of its gasoline equivalent, however. Daimler-Benz sells its diesel-burning 170-D for $1,970. Its gasoline-burning 170-V sells for $1,670. They have the same body.

Diesel engines, invented by the German, Rudolf Diesel, have been used for years on railroad trains, ships and trucks.

This is not the first attempt, either, to convert them to passenger cars. As early as 1936, Daimler-Benz was making a diesel-Powered automobile. But the war interrupted that experiment and today the diesel passenger car is still considered revolutionary.

. . . the leaders in Canada's confederation movement met in London and argued a knotty problem: what to name the new nation. "Colony" fell far short of suiting the temper of Canadian thinking. It is recorded that Sir Leonard Tilley of New Brunswick finally pointed out the aptness of the biblical quotation:

"He shall have dominion also from sea to sea."

There is a lesson for every Canadian in this story from the past. By the very origin of the name, "Dominion" can never mean "domination." "Domination" would never be accepted by Canadians. But the Dominion of Canada is the Dominion of a free people . . . men and women who are privileged to express their will through the ballot box:

When YOU cast your secret ballot at every election—municipal, provincial, federal—you exercise a duty and privilege planned, worked, and fought for by your forefathers. Your vote protects the future of your children. To fail in this duty is to be less than a good citizen.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Soccer players are set now for practices at King Edward Park, as they prepare for another lengthy season. They drill Saturdays at present. The U.E. team will represent this city in the Eastern Ontario circuit which includes Kingston, Belleville, Trenton, Oakville and Ottawa. The CGE club will re-organize at a meeting early this e'en in the gatehouse, according to Prexy Scotty Rickard, head of this strong club. Word from Lindsay is that some of their players are being sought by Peterborough teams, and that things didn't look too promising for football in the Scugog centre this summer.

In the City Bowling League the other night, Ray Clifford came within an ace of a perfect game, a corner pin in the fifth frame declining to topple. As it was, his 416 was high single for the season in this good loop. Bud Goodson was also hot to hit 325-293-321 for high cross with 939. Jim Herron previously had rolled a 411 single, back in December. The Shockey crew led in pinnage with 3683 with a top single of 1352. Doug Abraham leads so far with high average of 240.7 but some of the other classy trundlers are starting to crowd him as the end nears for this circuit. Frank McCormack has leading triple to date with 1014.

Girls Getting Ready

President Bill Bennett of the Girls' Softball League here is calling the annual re-organization meeting for this coming Wednesday at 7.30 p.m. in the YMCA. Everyone interested is invited. Election of officers, entry of teams, and general plans for the season, along with last year's reports, are on the agenda. They expect to play again three nights weekly under the arcs in Ashburnham Bowl. Some talk, too, of a local entry in a lakeshore girls' grouping, though that probably won't be decided for several weeks yet. Bill doesn't want to run for prexy again, but we certainly hope he does as he — and Mrs. Bennett—have been great workers for this loop for years.

The men's executive softball meeting is tomorrow eve at 7.30 in the "Y" to get reports from the OASA convention, take entries and handle other seasonal business. At the annual meeting, George Campbell of Oshawa—a real softball toiler—was re-elected president, and we're glad to see Bert Bailey of this borough back on the executive. A country-wide softball organization was started, with inter-provincial tournaments planned for the CNE, as far as we can make out now. This summer sport has a real grip on the country. More on the findings of the annual meeting again.

Legion At Brantford

But getting back to hockey, which is quite seasonable here yet, the Legionnaires pushed off early this aft for Brantford to open their best-of-seven OHA senior "B" finals. At least that's what everyone figures it is, since Sarnia declined to complete their series with Brantford until they had finished an international sawoff. Second and third games will be here Wednesday and Friday, with the fourth fray back in the Western Ontario city on Saturday. They'll settle the rest of it after that, if necessary. Not likely either strong squad will take it in four straight—it should be a real tough series. Yes, sir.

Losing 11-4 to Georgetown Raiders, on the latter's ice Saturday night, the Lakefield Indians wound up their OHA intermediate "B" semi-final series and their season. Lost to a stronger squad, but the Indians made a good showing all winter, and will be back again next cold spell. They were minus Percy Nicholls—Ernie is out with an injury—as well as Peloquin and Lonsberry, who didn't make the trip. They gave a good battle to the powerful Raiders, despite the count. Joe Blewett, Jack Jopling, Les Burton, Vern Marshall, Bob Chittick, Goalie Atcheson, Manager George Chappell, and the rest did well but Raiders racked up their 16th straight win.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

Now it can be told:—

During the curling season, just closed, there were many humorous incidents, many wise cracks, and a lot of good-natured kidding. Time and space will not permit us to elaborate on them all, but we believe this little yarn is worth repeating.

When the schedule books were printed it was noticed that Stan Lowe had as his vice Jack Allen. We understand that this setup was all cut and dried and the intention was to "clean up" their group and then go on to win the Harry Foote Memorial Trophy. Before we go any further we might say that the only time this pair saw the trophy was when it was being presented to J. J. Dutton's rink at the banquet of last week.

However, the schedule opened up and to the surprise of Lowe & Co. and also No. 8, the score sheet showed Lowe a loss, and then the next game Lowe a loss, and then the next game Lowe a loss. This was too much and as Allen and Lowe came off the ice game after game their running satire was a treat to listen to.

Then all of a sudden Jack thought he would like to break loose and go on his own. He did so, and took a rink up to Chatham. He was very successful and if you remember he kept us informed by wire and phone, of his successful playing and, when he reached the finals, he sent Stan Lowe a telegram; it read: "Don't need Lowe. Still winning." That very same night the Lowe rink had to play a regular schedule game and as usual the result was a loss for Lowe. The next morning Stan wired Jack at Chatham: "Don't need Allen—still losing."

Most likely both these boys will deny all this, but we can prove everything—we hope.

The ladies' curling club is holding its annual banquet at the Empress Hotel, next Thursday at 6:30 p.m.—they are looking forward to a successful evening.

Petes Win First —

COBOURG, April 10 (ENS). — Defeating New Toronto 9-0 in the lakeshore hockey tournament Peterborough Petes won a berth in the final round of the tourney which takes place on April 14. Meanwhile four teams will battle it out in a double-header tonight at the Arena(, and winners will advance to the finals for the prize money on April 14.

Toronto was out-generaled and outskated by the faster Peterborough team in the first fixture. Star of the Petes line was Arn Dugan, brother of the boxer, who in spite of the fact that he did not score, gave the Toronto team plenty of trouble with his checking and stickhandling.

Peterborough was up at the Toronto end of the ice most of the game and would have rung up a much heavier score except for the fine netminding of Ted Cossey. Turner scored three for the Petes; Collins and R. West had two goals each, and D. West and Floyd scored sinbles.

WINDSOR VICTORS

Windsor's Lincoln Road United Church basketball took two straight games from Montreal's St. James United Church squad during the week-end at Windsor to win the Eastern Canada basketball title.

R. Clifford Rolls High Single For The Season

Ray Clifford and Bud Goodson shared the honors last week in the Men's City Five-Pin League. Clifford rolled high single for the season 416, as a corner pin in the fifth frame cost him a perfect game. Goodson rolled 325-293-321 for the evening's high three total 939. Clifford's score beat out teammate Jim Herron's 411 rolled December 22.

Shockey's blanked Dunn's Tailors and rolled high pinnage and high single game of 1352. Cavanagh's took four points from Capitol Taxi to hold on to second place as McGillis blanked Babe's Place to move two points closer to the Herron entry.

Fashion Craft lost two games to Esquires but still retained their fourth spot. Charlotte Credit Jewellers blanked Empress Old Timers and Tem lost two tilts to Campbell and Best. Tem and Charlotte Credit Jewellers are now tied for fifth place.

Sunocos and Bond Clothes each won four points from De Laval and Clappers.

Big Score Racked Up

Big scores were the order of the night as Harry Correll and Ray Clifford rolled 860 each. Reg. Mongraw 853, Mel Anthony 842, Bill Boon 806, Mel Anthony 804 and Phil Pryde 802.

Following Clifford's might single came Harry Correll 380, Len Williams 343, Phil Pryde 341, Mel Anthony 329, Bud Goodson 325-321, Reg Mongraw 321, Norm Gordon 318 and Tom McPhate 306.

Next Thursday night winds up the season's bowling with the annual banquet to be held the following Thursday, April 20.

The race for first, second and third high average has tightened up. Doug Abraham leads with 240.7 followed by Jack Wade 236.4, Bud Goodson 235.4, Tic Caccavella 234.4, Jack Playford 233.9, Norm Wilkes 232.2 and Alf Mattucci 232.1.

The three high singles to beat are Ray Clifford 416, Jim Herron 411 and Tony White 408.

Frank McCormack has high three 1014 followed by George Walton 961 and Harold Davis 947.

At Georgetown, British Guiana, Mal Whitfield, United States Olympic 800-metres champion, set a British Guinana record for the 880-yards run Saturday at the opening of a three-day international track, field and cycling meet though he wasn't pressed.

A crowd of 4,000 watched Whitfield streak the distance in 1:54.6 to clip four seconds off the mark set by Roscoe Brownes of the United States.

Andrew Stanfield, of the United States, equalled the British Guiana mark of 9.4 for the 100-yards dash, set in 1945. Three British Guiana cycling records were eclipsed and three British Guiana track marks were equalled, all by Guianese artists.

Bill Tobin, president and manager of Chicago Black Hawks, said Saturday night that Charlie Conacher will decide in a couple of days whether he will coach the Hawks in the National Hockey League again next season.

"Charlie wants a day or two to make up his mind whether to continue in hockey or to devote all his time to his oil interests in Western Canada," said Tobin, who was at Toronto for the Stanley Cup semi-final between Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs.

Tobin mentioned a report that Conacher might become coach of Boston Bruins and said "Charlie told me he was not interested in the Boston job."

St. Catherines St. Paul's United won the senior title for the Ontario Church Basketball Association at London Saturday when they defeated Windsor Lincoln Road 39-33 to take the dciding game of the best-in-three series.

Each team had previously won their home game. It is the second consecutive senior church championship for the Catharines St. Paul's quintet.

Hal Wagner, 34, former league catcher, has been acquired by Dallas Eagles of the Texas League, the club announced Sunday at Dallas, Tex. Wagner played last year for Toronto of the International League, batting .260 in 90 games.

Vancouver Eilers, Western Canada champions, came from behind in the second half at Toronto Saturday night to trim Toronto Montgomery Maids 60-53 in the opening game of their best-of-five Canadian Senior Girls' basketball final.

Toronto Ukrainians captured the Ontario Intermediate basketball crown at Toronto Saturday, beating out a powerful central YMCA entry for the title. Teams from St. Catharines, Kitchener, Peterborough and London were entered in the round-robin tournament.

Indianapolis May Sweep Series

INDIANAPOLIS, April 10 — (AP)—Indianapolis Capitals today were only one game away from an all-time record in American hockey league play-offs after nipping Cleveland Barons Sunday night 4-3 for their seventh straight victory.

If the young Caps can finish off the Calder Cup series against Cleveland here Thursday night, they will be the first team ever to make a clean sweep of the AHL playoffs.

Cleveland lost only one game of nine in winning the 1947-48 playoffs and Buffalo did as well in the 1943-44 series.

Indianapolis started the current playoffs by defeating St. Louis in two straight and Providence's Calder Cup holders in the same style.

Cleveland went down for the third time Sunday night in the best-of-seven series after leading twice at 1-0 and 2-1. Nelson Podolsky, knocked cold in a riotous second period, scored unassisted in the final period to break a 2-2 tie and Gordon Haidy added the clincher on a cross-rink pass from Enio Sclisizzi.

Thurso Forces Tie In Last 3 Minutes

ROUYN, Que., April 10 (CP)—Thurso Lumber Kings came from behind twice Saturday night to battle Rouyn Flashes to a 4-4 tie in the second game of a best-of-five series for the Eastern Canada Intermediate Hockey championship. Thurso now lead the series with a win and a tie.

Trailing 4-2 with less than three minutes remaining in the third period the Lumbermen began to click and counted two markers to force a scoreless 10-minute overtime session.

AN ALL-STAR CARD — Yukon Eric, pictured above, who takes on Hi Lee in the main bout of this Thursday's wrestling at the Brock. An all-star card has been lined up, featuring Warren Bockwinkle against Lord Albert Mills in the semi-final and Strangler Bob Wagner and Ray Villmer in the opener. The Eric-Lee main event looks like a natural. Lee proved his ability and ruggedness in last week's team bout, being the best of the four men in the ring. Yukon Eric needs no introduction. He has beat Watson twice in a row and is top man around these parts at the present time.

Lakefield Drops OHA Series To Georgetown

By virtue of a strong first period drive for five goals, Georgetown Raiders took the third straight win of their best-of-five OHA intermediate "B" semi - final hockey series 11-4 against Lakefield Indians, Saturday night.

A fair crowd of home fans saw the powerful Raiders squad rack up their 16th straight playoff triumph to earn the right to meet either Milverton or Sundridge for the title.

Strong In Second

Lakefield came strongly in the second and third frames to extend their rivals to the limit and led by flying Joe Blewitt's Cam Wasson, Jack Jopling, Vern Marshall and Bob Chittick, the entire squad outplayed the homesters in the third by a fair margin. Raiders managed to equalize the period scores in the final two minutes of play.

Save for the second frame, when referees Patterson and Scott meted out seven minors, the game was clean and fast but very hard fought. In fairness to Lakefield it may be said the score hardly indicates the play. Though short-handed, without the Nicholls boys, Peloquin and Lonsberry, the Indians put up a determined fight all the way. Even manager George Chappel, who donned togs to take his part in the play, went good.

Junior Beaumont and Harvey Chappel each scored three goals to lead Raiders' attack, while Nash, Kemshead, Del Beaumont, Ferri and Hewitt were good and Lawrence played well in the nets. Atcheson had a much busier evening and many of his saves were phenomenal. Jopling, Marshall and Watson toiled hard on defence aided by Burton who also worked up front. The forwards all gave their best. They were beaten by a better team on the series, a team stronger in reserve power.

Lakefield: Goal, Atcheson; defence, Marshall and Burton; centre, Blewett; wings, Hunter and B. Payne; alternates, J. Jopling, Henry, Chittick, Chappell, W. Payne.

Georgetown: Goal, Lawrence; defence, Nash and Haines; centre, Kemshead; wings, J. Beaumont and M. Bradbury; alternates, D. Beaumont, Ferri, Haw, Chappell, Martin, Scott, Hewitt, Patterson, L. Bradbury.

Marlboros Clash With Sherbrooke For Eastern Title

SHERBROOKE, Que., April 10 (CP)—The Eastern Canada Senior Hockey championship will be at stake Wednesday when Sherbrooke Saints and Toronto Marlboros clash in the first game of a best-of-seven series.

The Quebec and Ontario champions both of whom set a torrid pace in winning their provincial crowns in four straight games, are expected to meet the Western Canada champions in the Allan Cup playoffs.

Saints made it four in a row over Sydney Millionaires Saturday when they blanked the Maritime title-holders 5-0 here after downing them three times at Sydney, N.S., Marlboros advanced to the finals by claiming four straight victories over Cornwall, Ont., Calumets.

The Sydney squad put up a tough fight Saturday during the hard-checking game that saw eight minor and four major penalties dished out to each team.

Reg Sinclair put the game on ice for Sherbrooke when he staged a third-period outburst and sank three goals.

NHL Finals Start Tuesday In Detroit

DETROIT, April 10 — (CP).— Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers open their best-of-seven Stanley Cup final in Detroit on Tuesday night, National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell announced Sunday night.

The Rangers will use Toronto as their home ice for the second and third games because the circus has ousted them from Madison Square Gardens.

The second and third games will be played April 13 and 15 at Toronto. The series then switches back to Detroit for the remaining games, with the fourth April 18 and others if necessary April 20, 22, and 23.

Guelph Wins 3-1 Takes Series Meets Montreal

TORONTO, April 10 — (CP) — The hopes for an Eastern Memorial Cup team from Ontario ride into Montreal tomorrow night on the skates of Guelph Biltmores, a spunky hockey club that finished off Porcupine Combines 3-1 Saturday to take a best-of-seven Eastern Memorial Cup semi-final series in five games.

The Bilts, who played the role of giant killers earlier this season in topping Windsor Spitfires for the Ontario Hockey Association junior A crown, will be led against Montreal Canadien juniors by the Bathgate brothers, Frank and Andy, who played a large part in Saturday's victory. Andy's third-period goal, on a brilliant passing play with brother Frank and Vic Dimarco, ended the Combines' cup hopes.

Break Tie

Guelph had a large measure of play in the game but was unable to crack a 1-1 first-period deadlock until Bathgate's counter at 5.10 of the final period. Ten minutes later Dimarco added an insurance marker.

Up to the third period the ragged but rugged Porkies, displaying a vigorous checking style of hockey, had been able to halt Guelph's countless ganging attacks. When the defence wilted, Porkies' goalie Bill Harrington was on hand to balk the Bilts.

But at no time did the Northern Ontario Hockey Association winners show an organized attack. Sporadic sorties into Guelph territory were led by Darrel McLaughlin, one of the fastest men on the ice.

Demaret Winner In Augusta Open

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 10—(AP)—Jimmy Demaret, the Masters' winner, and Jim Ferrier, the runner up who blew up, decided their finishes on the Augusta National's 13th hole—"the death hole of the Masters."

For Demaret, first three-time Masters' golf tournament winner, the 13th was a lucky hole — he admits it. For Ferrier, the 13th was "his unlucky hole, the death hole," Demaret says.

Demaret shot a final day three-under-par 69 for a total winning score of 283 strokes. He slipped in the winner instead of Ferrier who had led for two days and most of the final round. Ferrier, a giant Australian now living in San Francisco, blew to a 75 on the final round for a 285 total.

Defending Master Champion Sam Snead was third with 287 and Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson were tied for fourth with par 288s, Hogan, making his third attempt at a comeback after his near death in an automobile accident in 1949, was the big challenger of Ferrier before the final round.

Reise Scores In Overtime To Give Wings Series

DETROIT, April 10—(CP)— A six-foot defenceman wrote a story-book finish to Toronto Maple Leafs' three-year reign as Stanley Cup champions Sunday night.

Blonde Leo Reise, who wasn't even a regular until this season, fired only two goals for Detroit Red Wings in their bitterly-fought semi-final series. But both those goals, scored in overtime, won games for the Detroiters that they just couldn't afford to lose.

Leo sewed up the seven-game series Sunday night when he took a pass from centre George Gee at 8:39 in the first overtime period and whistled a 10-foot drive past Walter (Turk) Broda in the Toronto nets for the only goal of the game. That gave the Wings a 4-3 edge in games and sent them against New York Rangers in the final round.

Same Play

It was virtually a repeat of what happened in Toronto last Tuesday. The Red Wings, trailing 2-1 in games, went into overtime with the score tied 1-1. Again Gee started the play that ended as Reise fired home a 15-footer to end the game after 20 minutes and 38 second of extra play.

The 27-year-old Hamilton player only hit the starting lineup when Detroit traded all-star defenceman Bill Quackenbush to Boston last summer in an effort to bolster their offence. Ironically, Jimmy Peters and Pete Babando, the two forwards who came to the Wings in the deal, were out with injuries for most of the Toronto-Detroit series.

Tough Customers

But Reise was in there. The storm-centre of a few stick-swinging episodes in the first two games, he settled down to solid defensive play and fired those two tallies that broke the hearts of the battling Leafs.

Sunday night's result put the Red Wings out in front for the first time in the series. Toronto's 5-0 victory in the first game started a turnabout pattern in which the teams looked good and bad in alternate order, ending with a ringing 4-0 victory for Detroit Saturday night.

But there was little to choose between the teams in the climactic seventh game. The Red Wings had the edge in the first period, the Leafs took over in the second, and both clubs kept the 14,734 fans in an uproar the rest of the way as they raced up and down the ice to test Detroit's Harry Lumley and Toronto's Broda in the nets.

Blocked Five Shots

The end came in the overtime session as Leafs suddenly couldn't get the puck out of their zone. Broda blocked five shots in a row, before Reise blasted the puck home.

Saturday's game in Toronto, by contrast, saw the National Hockey League champions in command all the way. Winger Marty Pavelich put the Wings in front in the first period while Toronto defenceman Bill Barilko sat out a charging penalty. Gee, Gerry Couture and Jack Stewart added to their margin.

To some of the Detroiters who sweated out the semi-finals, the Detroit-New York final seems almost anti-climax. Rangers, forced out of Madison Square Garden by a circus, will open at Detroit Tuesday night; then play two "home" games at Toronto Thursday and Saturday before finishing the best-of-seven series at Detroit.

Iron Lung Girl Dies

MICHIGAN CITY, Int., April 10 (AP)—Michigan City's iron lung girl, 20-year-old Patricia Davis, died early Easter morning after battling a rare throat disease for a week. It was diagnosed as Thrombocypopenic Purpura," so uncommon that no name has been devised that would make it familiar outside the medical profession. Actually, it is a condition which makes the arteries fragile.

Mercy Trip Special

OPHEIM, Mont., April 10 (AP) —Great Northern Railway crew borrowed a train Saturday night for a 50-mile mercy trip in a blizzard to speed a desperately ill little girl to hospital. The trip was made for seven-year-old Karn Biem, stricken with pneumonia and possibly a ruptured appendix. Today Karen was reported in fair condition.

Girl, 4, Dies In Well

TOGUS, Me., April 10—(AP)—A missing four-year-old girl was found dead in a well Sunday, just a year to the day when another tiny girl, Kathy Fiscus, met a similar fate across the continent in San Marino, Calif. The body of Andrea Cloutier was submerged in 12 feet of water only 50 feet from her home. The well's total depth is 20 feet.

214 Easter Deaths

Saskatchewan Budget Set At Record $55,000,000

REGINA, April 10 — (CP). — The Saskatchewan Legislature prorogued during the week-end after a hectic session that saw 101 Bills passed and a whopping $55,000,000 budget brought down.

The CCF Government spent most of the 38-day sitting defending its estimates. The 21-member Opposition attacked item after item as departmental figures were presented, criticizing the government for spending more than the people could afford.

The government countered with the argument that money spent on social-welfare projects was more useful than funds lying in surpluses.

The budget was a record, topping last year's expenditure figures by about $6,000,000.

Three Per Cent Tax

Possibly the most contentious measure to hit the floor was the new 3 per cent education and hospital services tax. The measure replaced a 2 per cent direct tax on many purchases. Its estimated $9,600,000 revenue will be used for education and to bolster the ailing compulsory hospitalization plan.

Other approved legislation:

1—A new Corrections Act to set up juvenile courts and provide for rehabilitation of juvenile delinquents.

A Housing Act authorizing the government to share with the Federal overnment on building projects. The Dominion would bear 75 per cent of the cost; the province would split the rest with municipalities.

3—An Act making Saskatchewan the first province to step into the rent-control field. Domestic rents were frozen at the March 31 level; a provincial government mediation board must pass on any changes.

4—A last-minute measure allowing the province to move into the natural gas sales and marketing field if there is any "material gas development" in the province.

5—Approved changes in the Trade Union Act giving the Provincial Labor Relations Board power to order reinstatement of an employee who it deemed had been the victim of unfair labor practice.

Growth Of West Biggest Event Of Half Century

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Being so occupied with the great Canadian expansion of the last few years, we may forget past periods of growth which built the foundation and made possible the more recent advances.

The current Monthly Letter of the Bank of Nova Scotia reviews the Canadian economic scene since 1900, and gives first place to the early years of the century. Says the Letter:

Despite the scale of later growth, the peopling of the west —the building of the wheat economy—was the outstanding development of the half century.

Immigrant Flood

In the 14 years 1900 to 1914, nearly 3,000,000 immigrants came to Canada and more than 440,000 homestead entries were made. The total population of Canada rose at the phenomenal rate of almost 50 per cent in these years, and that of the Prairies more than tripled . . .

The effects of the settlement of the Prairies can be seen in almost every economic activity. Railway building was fundamental to the expansion . . . a sizeable steel industry was built up . . . rising demands for agricultural machinery and other capital goods and for consumers' goods of all sorts, and the establishment of a big flour-milling industry to process western wheat, brought a marked general manufacturing expansion . . . increasing industrial and railway needs for coal brought a nearly three-fold expansion in output . . . the young hydro-electric industry made significant progress . . .

In the 30 years since the end of the First World War the centre of Canadian growth has shifted from wheat to mineral and forest production, and from railway building to hydro-electric construction.

Exploit Resources

Though there was some further rounding-out of the wheat economy, the emphasis in the '20s was on the increased exploitation of the mineral and forest resources of northern Ontario and Quebec and of British Columbia, and on further growth of the manufacturing industries.

The character of the expansion of the late '40s has not been essentially very different from that of the '20s. But the depression and the war left their mark in the urgent need for replacing facilities impaired by inadequate replacement and maintenance during the '30s and the war years, and in the stimulus which the war gave to specific branches of manufacturing, particularly the metal and metal-using industries.

Second Chance

FORT LEE, N. J., April 10 (AP) —Kenneth Lyons, 46, pumped six bullets into his sweetheart after a quarrel. Then he went to prison for 3½ years for the crime. But the sweetheart, Dorothy Cafferata visited him every Sunday. Lyons was released last week. Sunday night they were married.

Killed By Cave-In

DEKALB, Miss., April 10 (AP) —Two boys playing cops and robbers in an old dirt pit died in a cave-in Sunday. They were Edward Walls, 14, and George Ward, 17.

Despite Law, Untouchables Still Degraded Outcasts

By MARCH PURDUE

NEW DELHI, April 10 (CP)—Inda is learning that it will take more than a clause in the new republic's constitution to raise its 60,000,000 untouchable to equality with their fellow citizens. Nor will more laws and ordinances be of much help.

What good is freedom to enter temples if you have not the pittance to buy offerings

What good is freedom to take any occupation if no one will hire you or give you a decent wage?

What good is freedom to live and work anywhere if you have no friends there and find only hostility among your new neighbors?

What good is education for your children if their inferior status is hardened by segregated classes or separate schools

Conditions of life for the untouchables have improved immensely during the last 30 years But these 60,000,000 Harijans (children of God) as Gandhi called them and as they are known generally now, remain in fact, if not in law, the "depressed classes."

In many parts of the country they still are outcasts from society, fit only for the filthy tasks that ould defile higher-born Hindus

It is clear now that only a social revolution will finally wipe out untouchability. Perhaps it can be won with education—both of the Harijans and the Caste Hindus Perhaps victory lies in improved economic conditions and increased prosperity.

But either course requires 10 to 20 years or maybe a whole generation. Has India the time?

Jagjivan Ram, Minister of Labor in the Nehru cabinet and an untouchable himself, sees an immediate danger to the country that demands an immediate defence.

"The untouchable is too poor and too ignorant to understand the meaning of any 'isms,' " he says. "If anyone, whatever his party label, offers him free land and better living conditions, naturally he falls for that man. In some villages of India the red flag with the hammer and sickle already is associated with the Utopian world. . ."

Oil makes a country strong

Try to imagine life without oil! Oil supplies one-quarter of all the heat and power we use . . . in home and factory, on farm and highway. It helps us live better.

For years Canadians have had to depend on foreign countries for almost all the oil they used. Now, after a long and costly search, big new fields have been found in Alberta.

The more oil we produce right here in Canada the stronger we will be. Already the new discoveries have made thousands of new jobs. Millions of U.S. dollars once needed for imported oil are now being saved by the new oil fields, and the prairie consumers are saving money too.

In order that Canadians may reap further benefits, Alberta oil must reach new markets. It must be moved to eastern Canada—2,000 miles away—where it must compete with oil from other areas. That means holding transport costs down to a minimum.

To bring Alberta oil east a tube of steel will span one-third of the continent—from Edmonton to Lake Superior. It is taking shape now. To carry the oil on to Ontario refineries, the largest inland tankers ever built are being constructed in Canadian yards.

There's a big job still to be done before the full benefits of the new oil discoveries reach all Canadians. But the job is being carried on with increasing benefit to all of us. Oil is strengthening the nation.

Bringing you oil is a big job ... and a costly one

About Canada's Oil—Last year Canadians used an average of 300 gallons of oil each. This is more, per capita, than any nation except the United States.

By replacing imports, Canadian oil production is expected to save 100 million scarce U.S. dollars in 1950; next year, $145 millions.

Imperial is building a new refinery at Winnipeg at a cost of $10 millions to process Alberta Oil.

The 1,150-mile pipe line from Edmonton to Lake Superior is being built by Interprovincial Pipe Line Co., which was sponsored by Imperial and in which Imperial holds a minority interest.

Dorcas Rebekah Lodge Celebrates 40th Birthday

HAVELOCK, April 10—(ENS)—Dorcas Rebekah Lodge No. 98, Havelock, celebrated its 40th anniversary on Wednesday evening at a large social gathering in the town hall. The hall was gaily decorated with streamers in spring colors and four large bunnies, 36 inches in height, arranged on the stage, lent the Easter touch to the decorative scheme.

Many of the 300 people who attended were visitors from the other seven Rebekah Lodges in the district.

Among the guests were Mrs. Murduff and Mrs. Throop of Golden Link Lodge, Peterborough, who were in charge of the formation ceremonies for Dorcas Lodge 40 years ago.

Mrs. George Kennedy, N. G. of Dorcas Lodge, gave the address of welcome and community singing was led by Fred Bennett with Mrs. Harry Pollock at the piano.

Short addresses were given by the visiting Noble Grands and as a tangible token of their good wishes, they presented a gift to the local lodge on behalf of their respective lodges. The presentations from out of town lodges were as follows:

A silver cream and sugar set with tray from Golden Link Lodge, Peterborough; a glass sandwich plate from Kawartha Lodge, Lindsay; a relish dish with silver tray from Loch Lomond Lodge, Campbellford; a glass cake plate from Golden Dawn Lodge Lakefield; a glass sandwich plate from Queen Mary Lodge, Cannington; a China cake plate from Lady Simcoe Lodge, Beaverton; a hand-wrought chromium tray from Golden Sheef Lodge, Millbrook.

Miss Rose Sexsmith of Peterborough, D. D. P. of District No. 6 brought greetings and expressed her personal congratulations.

A variety program was presented which included a skit, by Lindsay Lodge, two vocal solos by Mrs. R. Jackson of Lakefield, two vocal solos by Mrs. G. Morrow of Campbellford, a reading by Mrs E. McHatter of Beaverton and two vocal solos by a member of the Peterborough lodge.

Selections were played by the Dorcas Kitchen Band under the leadership of Mrs. Fred Bennett, which comprised the following members; Mesdames G. Kennedy pianist; W. Copp, T. Watson, T. Sanders; R. Sayers; R. Melville; S. Southward; F. McKenzie; H. Pollock and Miss Essie McQuigge.

During the singing of "Peter Cottontail" by the band a member of the Havelock Lodge impersonated that character in costume, appearing on the stage with a basket of Easter eggs. Fred Bennett sang the "Easter Parade" and then with Mesdames S. Southward and H. Pollock, repeated it in trio form, all attired in appropriate costumes. Mr. Bennett also sang "Perfect Day."

Dorcas Rebekah Lodge No. 98 received its charter on April 4 1910. The only remaining charter member is James Barlow of North Bay, who was present and gave an address recalling incidents of bygone days. The following was their first los of officers:

N. G. Jessie Coon, V. G. Ida Howe, Rec. Sec. Mabel McBurney Fin. Sec. Etta Tomlinson, Treasurer Jane Vance, Warden Frances Scott, Conductress Maude Ormiston, Inner Guardian F. C. McMaster, Outer Guardian John Howe, R. S. N. G., A. C Denike L. S. N. G. Nellie Wing, R.S.V.G Nellie Griffith, L.S.V.G. Katie Munroe, Chaplain Emma Burnett.

A draw for a quilt made by the members of Dorcas Lodge was held and the winner was Mrs. M Hynes of Peterborough.

A three-tier birthday cake made by Mrs. R. Melville, iced in white with pink and green decorations and topped with 40 candles centred a lace covered table at refreshment time. The cake cutting ceremony was performed by Miss Minnie Williams, P.D.D.P. of Havelock.

Walter Patterson of Grace Presbyterian Church speaking Thursday evening in St Andrew's and Rev. T G. Husser of St. Andrew's United Church was speaker in St. Thomas on Good Friday.

At the Friday night service there was a choir composed of voices from all three churches.

Following the evening service on Easter Sunday the cantata "The Cross of the Redemption" was presented by the choir in St. Andrew's.

Co-Op Broken Up

KITCHENER, April 10 (CP) — A taxi co-operative was broken up by police order Saturday. Seven licences held by Clarence Wagner, proprietor of the City Cabs Co-operative, were cancelled, effective Tuesday. The order came on the complaints of four unnamed associates. J. E. Clement, legal counsel for the four, told the police commission that the seven owners of the cabs paid Wagner $20 a week in return for which he provided an office and operated a dispatching service by telephone and radio.

POPULATION GUIDE — A country's future population is decided in the main by agriculture, says Dr. Griffith Taylor, Professor of Geography at the University of Toronto. The above map, from Dr. Taylor's book "Canada," published in 1947 by Methuen, London, indicates the various crop lines in Canada. The northern limit runs along the top of the line "Limit of Grain Where Soils Favorable." The dark areas on the map indicate the areas of population per square mile in future settlement.

Textile Plants Reopen

TRENTON, April 10 (CP) — Strike-bound 14 weeks, the textiles plant of Downs Coulter Manufacturing Company will reopen today, officials said. Outside will be a picket line of the United Textile Workers (AFL). The strike was called after the company and union didn't agree on a contract renewal. Nearly 120 employees are involved.

Wildlife Week

OTTAWA, April 10 —(CP)— National Wildlife Week, established in 1947 under an act of parliament, will be observed in Canada from April 9 to 16. Acting Prime Minister Howe announced the dates Thursday in a statement asking Canadians to take a personal interest in conservation of useful wildlife. He noted that each year the week is timed to include the 10th day of April, the birthday of Jack Miner, renowned Canadian conservationist who lived at Kingsville.

Bridge Winners

TORONTO, April 10 (CP) — Canadian players made almost a clean sweep of prizes in the 50th National Contract Bridge championships that ended Saturday. Mixed pairs honors went to Mrs R. W. Gordon, Buffalo, N. Y., and J. C. Stark, Kitchener and in second place Mrs. F. Saunders, Goderich and D. A. McDonald, Toronto. The intermediate pairs championship was taken by Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hunter of Goderich.

Skiers Stranded

VAL DAVID, Que., April 10 — (CP)—Hundreds of skiers were stranded Sunday after a special week-end Canadian Pacific Railway train was derailed on a curve near this Laurentian station, 55 miles northwest of Montreal. The engine, baggage car and first coach of the Labelle-Montreal train jumped the tracks but remained upright. Two other ski trains were delayed as a result of the derailment.

Winter Snowstorm HitsMaritime Provinces

HALIFAX, April 10 (CP) — Winter remained in most parts of the three Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland after a transportation-crippling Easter week-end snowstorm.

Scattered snowflurries and unseasonal temperatures in the 20s followed the departure of the Atlantic-bred storm. Sweeping in suddenly over eastern Nova Scotia Good-Friday, it crept into the other three provinces during its three-day stay, piling up huge snow drifts.

The weather bureau said below-freezing temperatures could be expected until at least Wednesday.

Would-be fashion paraders were frozen out and churchgoers waded through snow up to a foot deep during the coldest April 9 on record.

17 Inches of Snow

The wind-driven, record April snowfall ranged from eight inches in New Brounswick to 10 in Prince Edward Island and 12 to 17 in Nova Scotia.

The natural gas supply, main source of fuel for Moncton, N. B., was cut off because it became dangerously low with trouble in the gathering mains. Many of the city's 6,000 families shivered in unheated homes and ate cold Easter dinners. The distributing company said it expected service would resume today.

An early morning $250,000 blaze destroyed four buildings and damaged two others in a main street business and apartment block at Moncton. Twenty-two persons escaped without injury in their night attire while a howling wind gale fanned the flames.

Six Homeless In Fire

Six persons were left homeless and two buildings gutted in one of the worst fires to hit the farming community of Sunnybrae, 20 miles southeast of New Glasgow, N. S. One of the buildings levelled housed the village post office and a basement grocery store.

A Saint John, N. B., dredge went adrift off the southwestern tip of Nova Scotia early Saturday but her four-man crew was rescued by a trawler and landed at Yarmouth, N. S.

Transportation was crippled because highways departments were caught with their snow-removal equipment converted for summer use.

Princess Marries Brother Of King's Bride

AMMAN, Hashemite Jordan, April 10 (AP)—The Arabic newspaper Annadah Sunday identified the new husband of Princess Faikah of Egypt as a brother of Narriman Sadek, who is reported to be the prospectice bride of King Farouk.

However, Princess Fathia, younger sister of the bride, said in San Francisco that the groom, Fouad Sadek, is "no relation at all" to Narriman.

Informants familiar with middle eastern customs say a marriage of the Egyptian monarch's sister to a brother of Miss Sadek would facilitate the wedding of the King to the commoner. Such a marriage, the informants say, would make Miss Sadek officially a member of Egyptian royalty.

Princess Faikah was married to Fouad secretly in San Francisco last Wednesday. Fouad has been identified only as a member of the Egyptian consular service. He and his bride left Los Angeles on Friday on a ship for a honeymoon trip to Hawaii.

In Boston, Zaki Hashem, former fiance of Miss Sadek, said that as far as he knows, she "has no brothers or sisters." He did not know whether she was related to Fouad Sadek. Hashem is at Harvard now, finishing his education.

Scouts On Trucks To Scour City In Paper Drive

Scouts, Cubs and Rovers will swing into one of their major money-raising efforts, the paper collection, Tuesday night, equipped with a fleet of 30 trucks. Through the efforts of Jack Lewis, the trucks have been lent to the Scout Association by stores and companies of the city.

About 250 boys, accompanied by their fathers and members of group committees, will begin the task of collecting an expected six freight-car-loads of waste paper at 6.30 p.m. All the paper will be taken to the freight cars at the C.N.R. station.

The Cubs will help carry the paper to the sidewalks, where Scouts will load the trucks. At the station Rover Scouts and group committeement will load the freight cars.

Last Drive $650

Receipts from this paper drive will be divided into two equal portions, half to the Boy Scout Association for a headquarters and the other half to the troops and packs to carry on the boys' work.

At the November drive the boys collected enough paper to net them $650. They also set a record, finishing the collection shortly after 10 p.m. Other drives continued until midnight.

Tuesday night's drive is under the direction of P. A. Moore, a member of the local association. Supervisors in the districts are: Fred Ford, Wilbert Frise, Ernest Wolff, Earl Westman, George Groombridge, P. A. Moore, John Burnett and Albert Hope.

57.5 Mill Rate For Norwood To Raise $20,818

Norwood village council proposes a tax rate of 57.5 mills for 1950 to raise a total of $20,818.-90. A 10.3 mill rate for the public school will raise $3,745.59 and 3.7 mills will bring in $1,381.24 for the high school on an assessment of $363,658. for school ratepayers.

General assessment for village and county is $361,558. An 18.2 mill rate will raise $6,580.79 for the county, 22.2 mills will raise $8,026.60 for general village requirements and $1,084.68 will be raised from a 3 mill rate to provide for the deficit from last year which amounted to $1,040.

A rate for waterworks installation will be set at a later date. The delay in the construction had resulted in a loss of badly needed revenue over a period of four or five months.

Scramble Eggs On Rd.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 10 (ENS)—Chief Constable George H. Hardy of Campbellford thought the Easter Bunny had arrived a little early when he investigated an accident on the Grand Road about 11.30 a.m. on Saturday. A large number of eggs earmarked for consumption on Sunday morning, were well scrambled when a tie-rod dropped off an old model car owned and driven by Lorne Wallace of R.R. 4 Warkworth.

Mr. Wallace lost all control of the car when the tie-rod dropped off and the car careened to the right side of the road, entered a four foot deep ditch, sliced off a telephone pole and came to rest right side up. There was very little damage to the car and no one was injured.

Easter Parade On George St. But All In Cars

Peterborough Easter-paraded in cars Sunday afternoon. The brightness of the day and the chances of seeing Easter finery and lovely ladies brought out so many cars that George street looked like a busy Saturday afternoon in summer.

The road looked busy, but not the sidewalks. There was hardly a young lady in Easter bonnet to be seen by the shiny cars cruising up and down, down and up. In fact, the Easter foot-parade did not happen.

Youths and some elders lounged at the street corners, ready to whistle, but there was nothing to whistle at. New cars and others that had survived the winter were clean and spring-like, but the new Easter toggery was conspicuously absent. Saturday's snow and Sunday's frosty air must have discouraged even the most optimistic fashion-plates. Anyway Peterborough has no Easter board-walk tradition.

One hepped car in the parade had tagged to its rear the sign "Half-load; Restrictions Now In Effect."

Crowded Churches

The real Easter parade was a church-going one. All city churches were crowded in the morning for the great religious festival of joy and spring. And it was to ahd from the churches that spring hats and feminine finery were most in evidence.

It was a big day for rural and village churches as well. Church grounds and the fronting road verges were lined with farmers' cars, when the families and all their visiting relatives from the cities gathered for worship in familiar peaceful surroundings.

Hydro To Pay Big City Tax

Ottawa Hydro-Electric Power Commission will pay $300,000 taxes to the city of Ottawa this year.

Ottawa Light, Heat and Power Hydro sold its holdings to the Hydro last year. The Ottawa Journal says: "Creation of a public monopoly for electric service in Greater Ottawa has seen the application of a new and enlightened policy concerning taxes."

What the Hydro is doing there is continuing the payment of the taxes the city received from the private company. The amount to be paid by Hydro is "about double what the city received last year from Hydro and Ottawa Light, Heat and Power."

Payment of municipal taxes was one of the conditions to which Hydro agreed in the course of negotiations of its absorption of OLHP.

The Ottawa item says: "There was no compulsion on the Hydro to contribute to the city. Ottawa is said to be the first city in the province to take advantage of new legislation permitting publicly-owned corporations to pay all municipal taxes except for schools.

Norwood Dogs May Be Checked

A bylaw controling dogs running at large is to be drawn up by Norwood. Reeve Rork Ferguson told the council at its last meeting that many people in the village had complained of dogs causing a nuisance.

The clerk was requested to make an appointment for a delegation from the council to interview the Municipal Board.

Traffic speeding in the village was also discussed and action is to be taken.

FREDERICK CHRISTIE of Parnell St. has been booked on charges of drunken and dangerous driving after his car early Sunday morning smashed off two gas pumps at Berry's service station, five miles south-west of Peterborough on Highway 28. A flaming pump was hurled against the nearby store and for a few minutes the building was threatened with destruction. Howard Berry, proprietor, is shown looking at the remains of the smashed and charred pump. The wrecked car is shown left. Theodore Bosley, 18, of Lynch Ave., one of the four occupants, was injured and taken to hospital.

Hits Gas Pump Store Fire Starts Driver Charged

A passenger is in hospital and the driver has been taken into custody by Provincial Police after an out-of-control car early Sunday snapped off two gasoline pumps at Berry's service station on the Port Hope Highway and started a fire that threatened a nearby store.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Berry proprietors of the general store, say the four occupants of the car left the blazing pump and store front after using a borrowed fire extinguisher to put out a minor fire in their own car.

As a result of the crash and fire Theodore Bosley, 18, of Lynch St. is in St. Joseph's hospital with facial cuts and an injured left arm. And the driver, Frederick Christie of Parnell St., is charged with drunken driving and dangerous driving. He was remanded in police court today to Tuesday on $500 bail.

Flames to Roof

One of the pumps was hurled against the front of the store where it burst into flames and ignited the gasoline-drenched wall. Tongues of fire roared up to the roof of the store and at one time were at least 10 feet heigh.

"It's a lucky thing for us the wall is made of cement and not wood," commented Mrs. Berry later. "Otherwise the store would have been burned to the ground."

As it was, the intense heat of the sudden fire cracked the cement front of the building. The Berry's have not yet estimated what the repair bill will come to. The stock was untouched as the blaze lasted only a few minutes. An asphalt-shingle roof also proved fire resistant.

Apparently the southbound car driven by Christie and containing three other Peterborough youths—William Byrnes, Ronald Bryan and Theodore Bosley—failed to make the turn and swung out of control onto the Berry property.

It snapped off a cedar post (formerly used as a hitching post for horses), then broke the two pumps, cracked a large cement platform at the entrance to the store, grazed the store itself and stopped after breaking off a maple tree. The car is almost completely wrecked.

Mr. and Mrs. Berry were asleep in their house nearby when they heard "an awful crash."

"Howard ran to the window and shouted 'our store's on fire'!" said Mrs. Berry. "We both raced down as fast as we could."

Car Occupants Leave

One of the occupants of the car called for an extinguisher and Mr. Berry thinking the man was going to help put out the blaze, gave him one. "But instead he just extinguished a small fire that had started in the car and then disappeared," related Mrs. Berry indignantly.

Vincent Homewood, who lived across the road, pitched in to help pull away the burning parts of the gasoline pump lying against the building. So did an unidentified motorist and his wife.

Pumps are valued at approximately $500 each and the Berrys don't know when they will be able to get replacements. These have been promised "as soon as possible" by the Peterborough agent.

Lakefield Man Badly Hurt When Cars Meet Head-On

Milton Hopkins, 30, of Lakefield, is unconscious in Civic hospital from a head-on collision late Saturday night just north of the village on Highway 28. Two other Lakefield men—Archie Sterling, 45, a passenger in Hopkins' car, and a taxi driver, Cecil Darling, 46, —were also injured. Darling's condition is described by hospital authorities as "good." Sterling was released Sunday.

Hopkins and Sterling were believed thrown out of the right-hand front door which had been partially opened by Sterling when he anticipated the accident. The vehicle went out of control while rounding a turn in the highway about 200 feet north of the village limits and it collided with the northbound taxi.

Hopkins, an RCAF veteran and father of five young children, is considered by far the most seriously hurt. He is reported to have a fractured pelvis, cuts on the abdomen, hands and ear.

Sterling has a cut face and Darling has a fractured left knee cap and cuts on his neck. Dr. H. E. Gastle attended Hopkins and Darling while Dr. Lloyd Bailey looked after Sterling.

Provincial Police Constables George Stevens and J. G. Healey investigated.

Runaway Wagon Of Hay, Car Saves Girl

LINDSAY, April 10—(CP)—Ernest P. West of Toronto Saturday saved Marjory McFayden of Argyle, 25 miles northwest of here, by stopping a runaway team of horses.

The girl was alone on a hay wagon when the team suddenly became frightened and bolted. The girl was hurled down to the wagon tongue. She hung on for her life.

Attracted by her cries, Mr. West climbed into his car and gave chase. He drove past the runaway team and blocked the road. The team swerved, struck the car and the load of hay upset on the side of the road. The team galloped away with the front wheels but the girl was tossed to one side uninjured. West's car was badly damaged.

TCA Flights Are Managed By Most Efficient Crews

By JEAN E. STENTON

LONDON—When Capt. Richard Welsh, TCA pilot set down the plane on which I was a passenger in London, he completed his 160th trans-Atlantic crossing.

He hails from Port Credit, and is a cousin of Pat D. Scollard of Peterborough and a brother of Father Welsh attached to St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston. He has been with TCA since 1940.

Jean Stenton

Most of the members of his crew were men with long service records, although he has a different crew for each trip. Radio Officer Gordon McKem of Verdun, Que., has been flying with TCA for eight years. He keeps a continuous watch by radio throughout the entire trip. He copies weather reports, monitors information, gets position of other planes and last, but not least, handed out the NHL hockey game results at 1:30 a.m.

Then there is Navigator William Freeman who comes from the West. He has kept TCA in the family by marrying a stewardess. He handles the Loran set which is used mostly for navigation over the ocean. He has a Loran map and with all his gadgets, he takes his bearings.

First Officer was J. Turner, formerly of England, who married a Montreal girl and elected to remain in Canada.

Lots To Do

The Purser, W. Harry Lane, is a jack of all trades, and an excellent one. After his war service in the Navy, he took a course in hotel management and catering at college in St. Paul L'Ermite, Que. He has been three years with the company and hails from Montague, P.E.I. Some of his duties include announcements to the passengers, briefing of travellers, immigration and health customs forms, setting up trays for the stewardess and lifejacket drill.

The Stewardess, Miss Gwen Chrysler, comes from Toronto. She has been with the company for three and a half years and made about 20 return trips across the Atlantic. A graduate of Moulten College and Wellesley hospital, Miss Chrysler is to be transferred to the Caribbean route.

After seeing the efficient manner this group of air company personnel operate, the TCA safety record is more readily understood.

Of the three ways of travel: bus, train or plane, the latter leads by a mile for simplicity. It has been said that you just can't go wrong. One official said that all that was necessary was for a passenger to get himself and his baggage to the airdrome, put himself and his bags in a neat little package in a chair and from there on, the airline takes over. I'll vouch for that.

Each passenger is called individually for weighing, customs, passport checking, etc. When it is something everyone has to do, the flight number is called on a loudspeaker and instructions given. There is no stampeding and no unpleasont mixup.

Taken Care Of

When I arrived in London I expected considerable difficulty over my flight on British European Airways. I had my ticket, but the reservation had been left for my arrival. I was met at London airport by TCA Public Relations Officer S. Anderson, who explained the setup; I was handed a memo with my flight reservation to Paris already made and confirmed for my return to London; luncheon had been arranged and a bus to transport me to Northolt airport, 7 miles away. All I had to do was be there.

The meals and meal equipment are a masterpiece of compactness. There are white plastic trays with deep grooves for the special plastic dishes and cups to sit in. The try rests on a little pillow on the passengers' laps and even a good deal of bucking by the plane will not cause anything to upset.

The menus are excellent too. This is a sample of our first dinner: steak, mashed potatoes, corn and pepper, tomato and lettuce salad, roll, peach fluff dessert, tea, coffee or milk.

Next stop Paris.

Classical Emphasis

THREE RIVERS, Que.—(CP)—Students at French-language classical colleges have increased from 8,905 to 17,000 — almost 100 per cent—in the last 25 years, Rev. Fernand Porter reported. The Francisc n father recently completed a study of secondary schools and colleges in Canada.

Heaviest Traffic Local Toll Of Accidents

An even larger number of motorists took to the highways this Easter weekend than last, Provincial Police report. It was the heavicst traffic of the season.

Four persons were injured and required hospital treatment in motor accidents in the Peterborough area, three Lakefield residents and the other from Peterborough. (Details of these are reported elsewhere in this issue.)

There were several lesser accidents as well.

Patricia Grady, of Rubidge St., sustained body bruises when the car in which she was a passenger swung off the road and crashed into three small cedar trees. The accident occurred a mile south of Lakefield on the River Rd.

James Conlon, of Aylmer St., was driving the car Sunday evening when it hit a soft shoulder of the road, went temporarily out of control and crashed into the trees. Provincial Constable Roy Feeley investigated.

Another car driven by Kenneth Ward, of Bellevue St., Sunday night was struck in the rear and damaged by a second southbound car driven by Donald F. Laton, Driscoll Terrace.

Ward had slowed down when he arrived at a rough spot on Highway 28, about 1,000 feet north of the Stony Lake Rd.

Laton's car was extensively damaged. Provincial Constable C. Tutton investigated.

Old Model Upsets

An old car was turned over on Highway 28 nearly half a mile north of Bewdley, but the driver, J. Miller, of Parliament St., Toronto, escaped injury.

A mistaken hand signal is blamed for the mishap. Miller intended making a left turn and made a signal but the driver of the car following, Jack Simpson, of Kent St., Ottawa, interpreted it as an invitation to pass.

The two collided and the old model car toppled over. Damage to it is set at $40 and to the other, $200.

Provincial Constable George Stevens investigated.

Bread Workers Contract Raise

Local 505, Wholesale and Retail and Department Store Workers (CIO-CCL), have concluded an agreement with Wonder Bread Co. that gives the inside workers a four-cents-an-hour increase.

Altogether about 50 persons are affected by the 1950 contract.

The inside workers include bakery workers, shippers and floor men.

A loading allowance of $1 a week has been granted to outside salesmen. And the rate for salesmen has been increased by $2 a week.

Another provision is an increased allowance on returns of stale bread.

Convict Surrenders

TORONTO, April 10—(CP)—William Guthrow, a prisoner from Burwash who escaped from Gravenhurst Sanatorium two days ago, surrendered to Toronto police Sunday. Further details were not immediately available.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

LARGE CONGREGATIONS

Reports of the Easter Sunday services in Peterborough's churches indicated the largest collective attendance in many years. Thousands of the city's people assisted in the commemoration of the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

LAYING WATER MAIN

Utilities Commission has begun work on a water main on Swanson Ave. It is in the Brookdale sub-division of Ashburnham. Twelve to fifteen houses have been completed in that group. Families have occupied some of them, using expedients of temporary substitutions for the services which are now being laid.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

Several special periods have been added to the program of the boys' department of the YMCA for the Easter holidays, Donald Duncan, boys' secretary said today. The members of the Optimists' Club's Boys' Town will hold gym and swimming periods Tuesday morning while a special period of gym work will be held Wednesday for the Pioneer and Juvenile groups.

TELEPHONE DIRECTORY

The new telephone book, which subscribers will start receiving this week, is bigger than ever. There are 108 pages and more than 10,250 new and changed listings are a special feature. These have resulted largely from the conversion of the Lindsay exchange to the dial system which will not be put into use until Saturday midnight, April 15. Besides Peterborough and Lindsay, the book lists subscribers in Beaverton, Bobcaygeon, Cannington, Fenelon Falls, Campbellford, Hastings, Havelock, Norwood and other centres.

Property Owner Objection To 20-Foot Set-Back Plan For George-London Corners

Objection to the proposed set-back of 20 feet on George St., north and south from London St., is communicated to the council in a letter from T. J. Carley, K.C., in behalf of Noel Rishor, one of the affected property owners. A set-back of five or six feet is suggested by Mr. Carley, requesting the council's reconsideration of the original widening scheme of town planning committee. This letter is on the file of the finance committee of the council which meets tonight.

Mr. Carley mentions "the proposed planning and zoning bylaw which has been in abeyance for some time." The bylaw has not yet been approved and adopted.

"In Nov. 1948 town planning committee passed a resolution that the four corners at George and London Streets be zoned for commercial use for a distance of 150 feet on George St., from London St., and that the rest of the district remain as residential.

We are advised that this means a set-back of buildings for 20 feet from the street line on George St."

On Street Already

"Dealing first with the block from McDonnel St. to London St. on the west side of George St., we find that already commercial concerns occupy 200 feet of the total frontage of 380 ft. The likelihood of the remainder of the block being used for residential purposes is extremely remote. This 200 feet is occupied by five commercial establishments, of which four are practically on the street line.

"In regard to the block north from London St., and on the west side of George St., our clients own approximately 86 feet that is already built within five or six feet of the street line.

"In that block itself, 275 ft. of the total frontage of 380 ft. is built within five or six feet of the street line. Our clients are anxious to improve their property which will be a benefit to the city and the neighborhood and will result in increased assessment and benefit to the city generally.

"It appears to us that a set-back of 20 feet discourages rather than encourages any building project."

Mr. Carley wrote that the set-back of 20 feet was of little, if any, benefit to the city in view of the fact that the other buildings now being used are built so close to the street line.

"A Poor Layout"

"The 20 feet set-back applies to only 150 feet of the total block of 380 feet, which makes a poor layout from the standpoint of appearance and business.

"We would suggest that from McDonnel to London St. a setback of five or six feet would be the proper provision to make."

It would give uniformity in appearance to the building line and "would not render useless a part of our client's land. The same reasoning would apply to the 150 feet north from London St."

"We suggest that the block from McDonnel to London be classified as commercial, which it already is, with a set-back of five or six feet; that the block north of London be classified as commercial, if it is deemed advisable."

It is also proposed that the set-back north of London St. be five or six feet for the specified 150 feet frontage.

In the recent discussions of the Imperial Oil Company gasoline service station project at the northeast corner of Park Hill Road and Water St. reference was made to the same zoning bylaw.

That proposed measure classified the disputed corner as neighborhood commercial, thereby permitting business occupation, but the permission is actually not in effect because the zoning bylaw has not been passed.

Truck Knocks Down Eleven-Year-Old Boy

Harry Meredith, 11, of Lansdowne St. is nursing a bruised knee as well as a sore stomach after being knocked down by a truck Saturday afternoon. He attempted to run across Park St. and was struck by a northbound pickup truck at Park and Edison Sts. driven by Claude Cowan, RR 5. Peterborough.

He was not otherwise hurt.

Constables John F. Morrow and Claire McGillen investigated.

Tire Man Dies W. R. McIntosh Was Active Lion

After a lingering illness William Raymond McIntosh of 226 George St., died Saturday in hospital in his 67th year. Known to his friends as "Mac" he was a resident of Peterborough for the past 30 years and proprietor of the McIntosh Tire Shop.

He was particularly well known locally for his extensive interest in the Lions Club. A member of the Peterborough club for seven years he was active particularly on the playground and wading pool, bingo, and boys' and girls' committees. And he was a director for several years.

With RCMP

Mr. McIntosh was born in warsaw but lived for a time in Swift Current, Saskatchewan, before moving to Peterborough 30 years ago. While in the west he saw service with the RCMP, the Saskatoon and Winnipeg police and the Saskatchewan provincial police.

He went into business 20 years ago at George St. and Parkhill Rd.; then he moved south to Dalhousie St.; and in the spring of 1938 moved to 226 George St.

Left are his wife, the former Mary Crawford and his daughter Mrs. Clint Heath (Harriett) of Peterborough.

Nobody Likes Me Says Hollywood, Business Down

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, April 10 (AP) Movieland's public relations' in the opinion of many observers here, are at their lowest point since the black years of the early '20s.

Back in those days, the movie industry was also threatened with federal regulations. The narcotics death of a star, a murder involving two actresses and a manslaughter charge against a comedian brought a torrent of public criticism. The scandals, plus a cycle of loose-moraled films, were denounced on the floor of the United States Senate.

Now it is 1950 and another Senator—Edwin Johnson of Colorado— is blasting Hollywood.

Back in the '20s, the movie industry solved its problem by hiring Postmaster General Harding's Cabinet to police the movies.

Hollywood Worries

Hollywood is worried. The town is concerned not only about the scandals, but about the attitude of people towards the movie industry as a whole. The reason for the concern is simple enough —theatre business is not good.

Hollywood believes its pictures are as good as ever. Then what is the reason for the falling-off box-office?

"Hollywood has never made an attempt to sell itself to the public", a distinguished star told me. "It has always been too concerned with selling its Jane Russels.

"And it doesn't even know how to sell stars and pictures any more. It is still using the same Hoopla methods it used a quarter of a century ago."

Learning the Hard Way

The movie industry knows amazingly little about itself. But it is finding out—the hard way.

A saying as old as Hollywood goes: "any publicity is good publicity." People are beginning to doubt this proverb.

For instance, "Stromboli" is the most publicized picture of all time, having been splashed on front pages for almost a year. All Hollywood expected the film to show a lusty profit.

But "Stromboli" appears destinued to show a deficit. The curious flooded the theatres on the first day of his showing but people stayed away in large crowds thereafter.

Simple non-denominational services were set following the arrival of the actor's widow, the former Nan Sunderland, from New York. Huston, who started his theatrical career in his native Toronto, died Friday of a heart attack, the day after his 66th birthday.

5 Years In Office Truman Now Changed Man

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, April 10 — (AP)—The modest little Missourian has changed since that eventful day five years ago when he tip-toed into the presidency.

Harry S. Truman is far more self-confident now as he tussles with world problems and a Congress that still won't let him have his way on a lot of things.

It was April 12, 1945—five years ago next Wednesday—that Franklin D. Roosevelt died and Truman picked up the reins of government. Tears in his eyes, the one-time farm boy told reporters the next day:

"I don't know if any of you fellows ever had a load of hay or a bull fall on you. But last night the whole weight of the moon and the stars fell on me. If you fellows ever pray, please pray for me.'

He hadn't wanted to be president. But there he was in the White house, and undoubtedly awed a bit by it all.

Now it is with pride that he says he is President of the United States, that it is he who will make this, that or the other decision. It isn't a cockiness, exactly, but there isn't any question that Harry Truman believes he is big enough for the job of president.

He resented it and fought back when there were suggestions in the 1948 campaign that he wasn't big enough. Possibly what built up his self-assuraance as much as anything was his underdog victory that gave him the presidency in own right and not as a hand-me-down.

At first, when he moved into the White House, he adopted the Roosevelt new deal and legislative program as his own. He adopted the Roosevelt foreign policy.

Now he has branched out on his own. The new deal has become what he calls the "fair deal" and what some republicans call Socialism. Foreign policy now bears the Truman stamp—the imprint of the "Truman doctrine" of helping weak countries ward off Communism.

It was the Truman administration that produced the Marshall Plan and the Atlantic Pact to stiffen the economic and military backbones of countries shuddering in the shadow of Red Russia.

Legion At Church On Easter Day

MARMORA, April 10 (ENS)—Easter was observed in the churches with bright and well attended services. At St. Paul's there was a choral celebration of Holy Communion at which the rector, Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie officiated.

There were 100 communicants, the largest number in many years The choir rendered as the special anthem, "Hallelujah," by F. W. Peace.

Marmora Branch No. 237, Canadian Legion, paraded to the church for choral Evensong in commemoration of Vimy Ridge and the rector, who is chaplain of the branch, again officiated.

A quartette composed of Rural Dean Brownlie, H. R. Pearce and Mesdames R. Frost and L. R. Rundle, sang "God so loved the world," from Stainer's Crucifixion.

The annual children's Easter sefvice was held in the morning and was conducted by W. J. Cottrell, lay reader. The children handed in their Lenten mite boxes for the work of the MSCC.

The church was prettily adorned with Easter lilies and other spring flowers.

At St. Andrew's United Church where the pastor, the Rev. G. D. Young, B.A., B.D., officiated, the junior and senior choirs combined for the leadership in the service of song at the service which followed an open session of Sunday school.

Three anthems were rendered, one by each of the two choirs and another by the combined choirs.

The interior of the church was decorated with spring blooms. At the Sacret Heart Church, Rev. Father J. A. O'Neill officiated at High Mass at 10:00 a.m. followed by benediction. The church was filled to capacity. The altar and sanctuary was decorated with Easter lilies and spring flowers

Henry Ford Dead 3 Years Believed In Reincarnation

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT, April 10 — (AP) — Henry Ford, famed auto industry pioneer, still is as carefuly guarded in death as he was in life.

It was three years ago that the noted industrialist died of a cerebral haemorrhage. Ever since a guard has been kept over his grave in the family cemetery not far from the spot where Ford was born.

The small cemetery is a simple one, about 100 by 65 feet in size. It was merely a spot on the farm of one of Ford's uncles when it first claimed one of the family.

Today it is the centre of a teeming industrial area. Within sight is the seat of the great empire Henry Ford founded in 1903 with an initial investment of $28,000 in borrowed cash.

In the iron picket fence enclosure sleep Ford's parents, two uncles, a brother and sister and perhaps 60 other relatives.

The guard at the cemetery is unostentatious, but it is maintained 24 hours daily. It is designed mainly to keep out the curious. Until Henry Ford's death few persons passing the burial ground, close to two arterial highways, knew what it was.

Ford believed in God. He believed in reincarnation. And he read his Bible.

Once, while discussing his belief in reincarnation, Ford said his Bible supported it. And he quoted, from St. John XIV: 1:

"In my father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you."

In a lighter moment I once asked the auto industry's noted elder statesman:

"Why physical form would you like to have if you could return to the earth after death?

"That wouldn't matter," he replied, earnestly, "as long as I could have the same wife."

Mrs. Clara Bryant Ford, whom he called "the believer," will be 83 years old next Tuesday. She has been esriously ill for several weeks following a heart attack.

The three years since the elder Ford's passing have brought many changes in the vast Ford Motor Company. At its head is another Henry Ford, eldest of his four grandchildren. But instead of being a one-man institution there are about a dozen vice-presidents each heading a separate phase of the company's operations.

One thing that remains as Henry Ford wanted it is that the huge company still is wholly owned by his family.

Girls Will Be Girls

PARIS, April 10—(Reuters)—the "garter catch" is Paris' latest development in female all-in wrestling. Two girls in bathing suits Saturday night wrestled to see which could take a pair of garters off the other. One of the girls, after a heavy fall early in the bout, gave up after 10 minutes. The girls were trained in Judo for five months before appearing in public.

Co-Ops Demand More Socialism In U.K. Government Labor Policy

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, April 10 (CP) — Britain's 10,000,000-strong co-operative movement, sometimes called the sleeping partner of the Labor Party, is showing a renewed interest in politics.

The movement, usually regarded as a little to the left of Labor is demanding a more aggressive Socialist policy based on co-operative principles. Specifically, it asks that co-operative leaders be consulted whenever Labor Party policy involves either nationalization or state control affecting the consumer.

The co-operatives now are in annual conference at Great Yarmouth, Norfolk. In one of the opening speeches, delegates heard this statement from John Corina of the Co-operative Union executive committee:

Negotiating

"We are in negotiation with our friends in the Labor Party, and we are confident that we shall be able to come to some agreement whereby our place in a collectivist economy is a little less nebulous than it appears to be now."

Doubt about the co-op role under a Labor government, appears to have been raised largely by Labor's decision to nationalize industrial insurance.

Co-ops who have a big insurance business of their own, raised such an outcry that Labor subsequently softened the terms of the proposal, now in abeyance.

FERGUS, April 10 (CP)—Reported jarred out of the truck his brother allegedly was driving, Victor Braniff, 42, of nearby Kitchener, died in hospital Saturday night. A little later 37-year-old Thomas Braniff was arrested in Kitchener on a charge of driving while drunk.

Sons of Gerald Braniff, owner of the Braniff Transport Company the two drove to Fergus early on Saturday to have a load of tarpaulin repaired. The accident happened on the return trip. Details are lacking but police said they believe Victor suffered fatal injuries when bounced out of the truck on a rough road.

The younger brother went to a nearby home and asked that a doctor be called. Dr. J. H. O. O'Brien of Elora, who responded, ordered that the injured man be brought here.

Hospital officials said death was due to internal haemmorhage and shock. Kitchener police said Thomas Braniff was driving the

UK Reserve Army Due To Start Summer Training

By WILLIAM BOSS

LONDON, April 10 (CP)— Its annual taste of real soldiering is just about due for Britain's spare-time territorial army — the old country's equivalent of the Canadian reserve.

More than 80,000 "terriers" will be attending 15-day camps throughout the summer, beginning in May and running through September. Last year's figures were 10,000 less.

Despite the increase, War Minister Strachey has awkward periods in the House of Commons when members press about regular and territorial recruiting. To suggestions that higher pay might produce more recruits Strachey's reply is "it is simply a question of what we can afford."

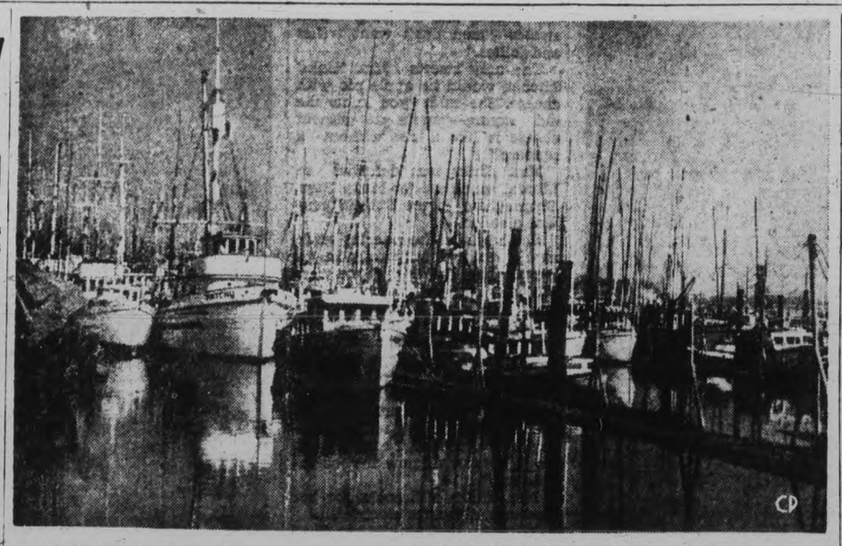
The government is offering inducements to keep up recruiting because the territorials must be its first reserves in an emergency.

Men who have gone through compulsory national service are encouraged to volunteer for T. A service, instead of having to be directed.

The young man liable for national service must do four years part-time soldiering after his 18 months whole-time are completed. During the four years he must do 60 days' training—15 days a year at camp.

The "terrier" who volunteers after his national service receives a bounty of £12 ($37.20) annually in return for which he does out-of-camp training. But he can do his 40 hours training annually in times of his own choosing—singly on parades, or on consecutive days.

The main T A camp again will be mainly at Thetford, Norfolk. In addition, armored and artillery regiments will use specialized areas and ranges near Crowborough, Dover, Sennybridge and Larkhill—all of which became familiar to Canadian soldiers overseas during two world wars.



HALIBUT FLEET—Vancouver's halibut fleet, each ship gleaming with a new coat of paint, is ready for the fishing season. This forest of mast, only part of Vancouver's big fleet, is the Coal Harbor section.

400 BC Boats Make Ready To Open Halibut Fishing

By DAVE STOCKAND

VANCOUVER, April 10 (CP)— The vast North Pacific next month will beckon a 400ship flotilla with a lucrative lure—the halibut.

The fleet, based in Vancouver, Prince Rupert and in a multitude of tiny coastal villages, is an important factor in the economic welfare of the province. Revenue from halibut is topped only by returns from British Columbia's salmon and herring catches.

For the 700 fishermen manning the B. C. Halibut fleet— anything from Indian dugouts to 80-foot craft with a crew of seven — it means back-breaking, round-the clock labor with a possible pot of gold at the end of the season.

A few fishermen, those who own boats and gear, have been known to earn $10,000 in one season.

Pursuit of the flat, white-bellied fish, which sometimes weigh 200 pounds but average about 50, is an international operation. American boats, with Seattle as their chief base, also share the catch.

Last year the total catch was worth $13,000,000 and weighed 55,000,000 pounds. This was the quota set by the International Halibut Fisheries Commission formed in the early '30s after a marked decrease in the Halibut pack. Canadian boats took 19,000,000 pounds of the 1949 catch.

A similar quota is expected to be announced this year. Tentative opening date of the season is May 1 and market conditions, fish dealers here say, are "firm."

Preparations now are under way for the race to the fishing banks—the area between Vancouver Island and the northerly Queen Charlotte chain is considered the choice hunting ground.

Mechanical trouble and net flaws can mean heavy losses to the fishermen, who work on a "shares" basis. Those able to reach port "first with the most" are the ones who walk away with the top prices. The boats must shuttle quickly between the fishing banks and port because the season closes as soon as the quota is filled. It usually runs about a month.

Proceeds from a sale are divided evenly, crew members receiving the same as the skipper, after expenses and a percentage for the boat and gear are divided.

Most of the catch, the fishermen's co-operative federation says, is frozen and shipped to eastern Canada and the eastern United States. Some is sold fresh during the season.

Prices to the fishermen vary. "Chicken," Halibut weighing from six to 10 pounds, sold for 11 to 15 cents a pound last season. Fish weighing from 10 to 60 pounds 17 to 19 cents.

This year, fishermen will be aiding science. The possibility of extracting commerical quantities of the drug insulin from Halibut is under investigation by Pacific Fisheries Experimental Station of the fisheries department.

German Villagers Rehearsing For Renewal Of Passion Play

By ROBERT PETTY

OBERAMMERGAU, Bavaria —(Reuters)—In this tiny village in the Bavarian Mountains, players gather every evening to rehearse their parts in the Passion Play given this year for the first time since the war.

By day the villagers work as wood carvers, innkeepers, cowherds and so on. In the evenings they become, as their fathers before them have done for over 300 years, the biblical characters of the world's most famous drama.

This years director, George Johann Lang, began rehearsals with the roles of Christ and the Virgin Mary, played respectively by Anton Preisinger, an innkeeper, and Annemie Mayr, pretty 20-year-old daughter of a building contractor.

Now, they are gradually being expanded to include the roles of Pilate, Judas, St. Peter, the disciples and Mary Magdalene.

All 1,400 townspeople in the cast, which includes hundreds of children, will take part in the final rehearsals. Fifty-nine-year old Johann Lang, six-foot, four-inch wood sculptor, directed the Passion Play in 1930 and the special centenary production in 1934. After that, the Nazis banned the play, which is normally given every 10 years.

At the Oberammergau travel bureau, the manager, Kirt Bauer is shuffling bundles of letters from many countries asking for tickets and reservations. Bauer estimates that attendance at the performances, beginning May 21 and closing Sept. 24, will exceed 160,000.

The Passion Play theatre, built in 1900, holds 5,600 people. Oberammergau can accommodate approximately 3,000 tourists. The remainder are lodged in villages within a 20-mile radius.

Eight-Hour Performance

Performances are given on Wednesdays, but are increased in number if attendance warrants. Each day's performance begins at 8.30 a.m. and closes at 6 p.m. with a two-hour interval for lunch.

This great eight-hour religious spectacle is the story of the life of Christ from his entry into Jerusalem until the Ascension.

No stage lighting, make-up, or wigs are used and the cast is made up of approximately 700 men between the ages of 18 and 80, and 150 unmarried women between the ages of 18 and 35. The men, in preparation for the play, have not shaved or had their hair cut since last summer.

The play is presented in fulfilment of a vow taken by the towns-people in 1633, when the "black plague" swept through the valleys of Bavaria.

Oberammergauers, blocked all roads to the village, but 84 of its 300 inhabitants died and several hundred were taken ill. The town council, meeting in the church, then took a solemn vow, if the village were spared, to enact each decade the story of Christ.

The plague lifted—and the village has ever since honored the pledge. Presentation of the play has been interrupted only three times in 310 years—once during the Napoleonic wars, once in the despression which followed the First World War and during the last war.

Anton Presinger, 37, played the role of Lazarus in 1934. Other players picked by a committee of village elders and the parish priest, include Hugo Rutz, 32-year-old village blacksmith who is to play St. Peter; Melchoir Breitsamer, 50, a sawmill hand who will play Pilate; Hans Schwaighofer, 29, a woodcarver who will play Judas; and Gabriele Gropper, 24, a salesgirl, cast for the role of Mary Magdalene.

Warkworth Stores Open Thursday Nights

WARKWORTH, April 10 (ENS) —The stores in the village will be open on Thursday nights throughout the summer beginning Thursday evening of this week.

135 Refugees Sail For Canada

COBH, Republic of Ireland, April 10 (AP)—One hundred and thirty-five Baltic refugees observed Easter on the high seas yesterday, headed for a new life in Canada.

They are part of a group of 381 who arrived in Ireland in a leaking little boat last October after fleeing Communism in Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia.

When they landed they asked only for supplies and time to repair broken down motors. But authorities refused to let them try the Atlantic crossing in their converted landing craft built to accommodate only 60.

For almost six months they have been guests of the Irish Republic, which put them up in the Rockgrove army camp.

Of the original 381, almost 200 have managed to take care of themselves with the aid of relatives and friends. Fifty-seven others were left behind in Ireland because they were refused visas, most for medical reasons.

Those who have sailed were filled with new hope. Typical were Axel Malder, 22-year-old Estonian weaver, and his 16-year-old bride, Milvi, who were married in Rockgrove camp.

Axel and Milvi were holding hands as they boarded the Samaria. Milvi's eyes were misty:

"Isn't it just like Easter is supposed to be?" she asked. "New hope, new life and Canada."

Intends to Offer British MP's GoodCheapMeals

BIRMINGHAM, England, April 10 (Reuters)—Mrs. Nora Hinks, 46-year-old housewife and cafe owner, wants to keep members of Parliament from getting tired and irritable by giving them a taste of her home cooking.

She says she can also offer them cheaper meals.

Her main criticism of catering in the House of Commons is that it is run by a committee. It needs a woman, not a committee, to look after a kitchen successfully, she said.

After Easter, she will tell her solicitors to send her references to the secretary of the House of Commons kitchen committee. She will offer £1,000 ($3,100) a year rent for use of the Commons kitchen and staff.

Mrs. Hinks proposed to offer M. P.s mainly traditional English dishes, and do away with sweets—"men don't want trifles and jellies."

The only sweets Mrs. Hinks' kitchen would be apple pie with cheese. She said: "you know the old saying—"apple pie without cheese is like a kiss without a squeeze."

Mrs. Hinks was defeated as Liberal candidate for Perry Barr, Birmingham, in the Feb. 23 general election.

She began in the catering trade at 11, making doughnuts in a Birmingham bakery. Since then she has done every job in the trade, run several industrial canteens and managed Birmingham's only vegetarian restaurant.

Catering losses at the House of Commons were £13,014 in 1947.

Mrs. Hinks said: "It is just rubbish that 625 members of parliament cannot be fed without losing all that money. I can and will do it, because I know the job inside out."

Mrs. Hinks still cooks for her husband, a theatre electrician.

What does he think of her plan? "My old man never grumbles, anyway," she said.

McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

In Canasta it is sometimes possible to encourage opportunity to knock at the door by giving the opposition a misleading picture of your hand. This can most effectively be done when your hand contains five cards of a kind and the initial meld has been established. Rather than meld all five of the cards, it sometimes pays to meld only three of the holding and freeze the pack at your next turn. If your side has only a limited number of melds showing, it is possible that the opponent on your right will eventually discard into the pair withheld from your original five of a kind, enabling you to pick up the pack.

Some of the most interesting questions placed in my mailbox recently have been:

Q—If I have a natural canasta in my hand, even though it's sixes or sevens and the individual card values total to only 35 points, does it constitute an opening meld?

A—No. Melding of a canasta does not meet the minimum meld requirements unless the value of the cards themselves totals the required amount. Only exception is when you go out concealed, when minimum meld requirements are waived.

Q—What is the principle on which singletons or doubletons are discarded?

A—It's a good idea to discard them when the pack is small, but when the pack is large, think twice. If you have not a black three or even a wild card to prevent your opponent from taking the pack, it may be a good thing to discard from one of your long suits, hoping that he will not have a match for it.

Q.—Is it a good thing to keep your hand as small as possible?

A.—No. You can have too few cards, thus making your hand inflexible.

Q.—Are red treys counted in the initial meld?

A.—No. You do not include the value of any red treys you may have laid on the table in your initial meld. The 100-point value of the red trey is a bonus only. It is not counted as a meld value.

Q.—I have two wild cards and a queen in my hand. Can I meld these three cards if it will put me out?

A.—No. Any original meld must contain at least two natural cards. You might be able to place the two deuces on another meld and discard the queen.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Woman 35 Knows Her Mind Chooses Husband Unaided

DEAR MISS DIX: I read an article of yours in which you advocated marriage where it had been opposed by the girl's parents. I think this very wrong and dangerous advice. I know a case just now of a woman of 35 who is going to marry a man much her inferior against the wishes of her parents. I suppose you would say that a woman of 35 was old enough to decide for herself, and that, anyway, it was her own life. But she is sure to bring misery on herself.

Dorothy Dix

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If you had read more of my articles you would have seen that I am very far from advising young people to marry in defiance of their parents in all cases and under all circumstances. On the contrary, I think that inasmuch as father and mother have to bear the brunt of of the mistakes that their children make in marriage, they have a right to a voice about whom John and Sally marry, and to stop a marriage that they see is headed for disaster if they can.

Can't Generalize

But just how far parents are justified in interfering in their children's marriages is one of the things about which no general law can be laid down. It all depends upon the individual case. Parents are justified in doing everything possible to prevent their children from marrying men and women who are drunkards, or gamblers, or spendthrifts, or just plain no account, but when their objection to a marriage is based on silly and frivolous grounds or inspired by selfishness, then the children have a right to marry in spite of parental opposition.

As for your woman of 35 who is going to marry a man whom her parents consider unsuited to her, I say let her go to it. It at that age she hasn't intelligence enough to know what she is doing she belongs in a home for the feebleminded. And how can any one know she will not be happy? Perhaps she has been starving all of her life for love. Perhaps she is so weary of being supressed and bossed at home that she would be happier in any kind of house that was her own than she is in her parents'.

You never can tell how a marriage is going to turn out. Some of the most promising go on the rocks and some that everyone is sure will be failures are glorious successes. And each of us has a right to take our own chance.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married for nine years and we have no children. Recently my wife obtained a position. A few things have caused me to wonder about the relationship between her and her employer. Apropos of nothing she is always asserting that there is nothing between her and him. He has several times called at the house and when he comes she is literally beside herself with delight. After his departure she is morose and sullen. When he is away from the city on a business trip she mopes around. When he returns she is gay and only then is she affectionate towards me. Sometimes for two or three days at a time she barely speaks to me. Do you think I have any grounds for wondering at her conduct?

ANSWER: Perhaps you are jealous and that makes you imagine things that are not really true. And take into consideration the fact that your wife is going through the excitement of a new experience in going to work. That is all very wonderful and uplifting to the domestic woman, and if it turns her head a bit and makes her idealize her employer as part of the glamorous adventure, don't take it too seriously. Be patient. She will get over it in a little while and find that work in an office is just as dull as work in a kitchen.

But if you are going to be jealous, get your wife to give up her job. No money she earns can pay for wrecking your marriage, and that you will surely do if you are suspicious of her and always watching her.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: The ten qualifications that a man must have to attract me are: First— Good health and habits. Second— Good looks. Third— Intelligence. Fourth— Cleanliness. Fifth— Kindness, consideration and big-heartedness. Sixth— Must be good spender. Seventh—must be good mixer. Eighth—must be entertaining companion. Ninth— Must be effecient. Good money maker. Tenth— Must be good drinker. I have found two or three like this, but haven't been able to hold them. Can you advise me how to do it? I am a divorcee, 28 years old, with two children.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: All you seem to desire in a man are all the virtues and graces and then some and that may explain not only why you are a divorcee, but why you have been unable to hold a man who attracted you. You ask too much of any mortal man. They simply couldn't make the grade. Perhaps it would be just as well for you to take stock of your own qualifications as a woman and ask yourself what you have to give in exchange to this paragon among men.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

Answer to Mrs. J. W. G Cont'd from last week):

If you are going to use mincemeat in place of applesauce in an applesauce cake, use only ¾ cup mincemeat and fill cup with warm water and stir to thin the mincemeat down and melt the fat in it a little.

The calorie chart I am sending will answer all the questions you asked about the individual foods in your first paragraph.

Cottage Cheese

When milk is sour and thick pour it into a shallow pan and stand in warm place like the warming oven or oven with door open and temperature not above 100 deg. Fahr. High temperature makes it coarse. When the curds separate from the whey pour all through cheesescloth bag wrung out of cold water. Let drain overnight; and contents of the bag are your cottage cheese. To this add salt and a little cream.

Mother's Cherry Pudding

One egg, 1 cup each sugar and flour, ½ cup milk, 2 teaspoons baking powder, another ½ cup flour, 1 pint canned pitted cherries drained. Cream egg and sugar together. Add milk, flour and baking powder, having sifted the baking powder with the ½ cup flour first. Heat the cherries (adding ½ cup sugar if fresh) in buttered pan, then pour this batter over them and bake at 350 deg Fahr. about 20 minutes. Serve with Cherry Nutmeg Sauce: Heat up to 2 cups juice from canned cherries. Meanwhile mix 2½ tablespoons cornstarch with ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg, shake of salt. Add to hot cherry juice stirring until thick Butter and lemon rind may be added if desired.

Mix ½ cup sugar, with ¼ teaspoon each cinnamon, nutmeg and salt, Grease a 1½-quart casserole and put in it ½ cup soft breadcrumbs in a layer. Put in 1 cup drained canned, or fresh stoned cherries (if fresh cherries are used they must be sprinkled with an additional ½ cup sugar) Sprinkle these with half of the sugar mixture. Repeat. Mix together ¼ cup water, juice and grated rind 1 lemon and pour it over. Cover with another ½ cup soft crumbs and do this with 3 tablespoons butter. Cover and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 1 hour, when uncover for about 10 minutes. This same method is good with raw apples, rhubarb, peaches. Serve with pouring cream or cherry sauce made as for above pudding.

I cannot conscientiously recommend using canned cherries in cake.

Rolled Cookies (12 dozen)

Two cups good quality shortening (preferably ½ butter), 4 teaspoons vanilla, 4 cups sugar, 4 eggs-yolks and whites separated, 8 cups sifted cake flour, 8 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup rich cream or milk. Cream the shortening very well, then add vanilla and sugar and cream all until light and fluffy. then beat in the egg yolks, then the unbeaten whites. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together and add alternately with the cream or milk to the creamed mixture. Roll out on lightly floured board cutting out in various shapes. Bake on greased baking at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes. Watch closely so that you do not burn one of them. Nuts or raisins or spices may be added at your discretion.

Attention Mrs. V. E. G. Would you please send me your address so that I can mail you the calorie chart you wrote for?

Food for Lesser Angels Popular When Eggs Cheap

Conducted By MARY MOORE

As long as the price of eggs stays under 50 cents I can afford to keep on making angel food cake experiments.

So far, in the past two weeks, I have made six of them, and am extra popular with a certain extra tall, extra hungry male member of our family whom I love very dearly, especially today, because he made 100 in algebra. It is a good thing there is one member of our family who can still tot up the grocery bill. (My plugs about my family are not very subtle are they?)

I have promised to give you these careful instructions for making angel food cakes, and want to emphasize the secret of successful angel-food-cake-making right here: Fold in the sugar, then the sugar and flour mixture with gentle folding motion, as described below. Don't forget this and start beating it like a batter.

Perfect Angel Food

Buy cake flour and sift enough for 1 cup, then resift it 4 times. Sift 1¼ cups fine granulated sugar. Measure 1¼ cups chilled egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ teaspoon each vanilla and almond extract. Sift half of the sugar and all of the 4-time sifted flour together. This makes the flour more granular and thus it folds into the whites more easily. Sift the salt and cream of tartar over the egg whites in a bowl or on a platter (I am not going to advise you about rotary or electric or flat wire beaters — they all turn out good cakes—for I alternated between all of them this week). Beat until the whites are stiff and will stay in peaks—but not until dry. Do not knock the beater on the sides of the bowl or platter, for this might knock some of the air out of the whites.

The important folding process now begins: Sift 2 tablespoons of the remaining sugar over the whites and fold this in. Repeat until all sugar is added using folding motion in which spoon or flat wire beater goes straight down, across, up, over and down again, with sypoon parallel to bowl. Fold until each addition just barely disappears. Sift about 2 tablespoons of the flour and sugar mixture over the white and use same folding motion to incorporate them into the whites, until all is gone. Fold in flavourings during the folding of the flour and sugar mixture. Pour into ungreased angel food tube pan. Bake at 325 deg. F. for 1 hour. Do not be tempted to open oven door until last quarter hour. If you preheat your oven with both top and bottom burners on, turn off top burner at least 5 minutes before baking time, and stand cake one-third way up in the oven in centre of rack. Turn cake upside down on rack with air space beneath and let hang until cold, then coax from pan with spatula.

Frost with Lemon Butter Icing: 3 tablespoons butter or margarine are creamed very well, then add 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, ¼ teaspoon salt and gradually 2¼ cups sifted icing sugar. When sugar is half added add 1 egg yolk and 2 tablespoons lemon juice and mix until all is very creamy and light and all ingredients are added. Spread on cake, then drizle over this 2 squares melted bitter chocolate. I think this is the best way to serve angel food cake.

Sponge Cake (6 eggs, yolks and whites)

Six eggs, yolk and whites separated, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 cup white sugar, 1 cup sifted cake flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, ¼ teaspoon almond extract. Beat whites until frothy, then sprinkle salt and cream of tartar over them and beat until stiff but not dry. In another bowl beat the whites until they are very thick and lemon-coloured. Gradually add the sugar to the yolks while beating. Sift together the flour and salt, and carefully sift them and add with folding motion to the egg yolk mixture. Then carefully fold in the beaten whites and flavourings Pour into ungreased 9-inch tube pan and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. Invert and cool on rack as you would angel cake. (I have made this cake with 5 eggs and think it is very good.) Frost with white boiled icing and flavour the icing with peppermint and, if desired drizzle melted bitter chocolate over it as described above for angel cake.

Angel Food Dessert

A wonderful dessert to be made with either of the above cakes is prepared by cutting out centre of cake, leaving enough shell to make a one and one-half inch shell which holds this filling:

Pinch the inside of cake into small pieces; add 1 cup each drained crushed pineapple and canned cocoanut, ¼ lb. marshmallows cut small, 12 maraschino cherries chopped, ½ pint cream whipped. Mix and fill cake. Let stand overnight or 24 hours. Just before serving ice cold, frost cake with an extra half pint of cream whipped and garnish with halves of maraschino cherries in crescents of canned pineapple rings. A beautiful cold desert for a spring luncheon.

Ford Workers Call Meeting

WINDSOR, Ont., April 10 — (CP). — Local 200 of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) announced today that the Ford Motor Company plant will close on Tuesday afternoon to allow the union's 11,000 members to hold a special meeting to discuss a company-union pensions dispute.

Union officials said the company sanctioned the proposal.

The general meeting is to hear "the report of results of negotiations to date," a union spokesman said. He said that the union's Stewards and Policy Committee will meet tonight.

Another company-union meeting was scheduled today at 11 a.m. for the sixth time since the union voted a week ago to strike April 12 if its demands are not met by that date.

Major demand is for $100 a month company-paid retirement pensions for men of 65 after 25 years' service. The company offers $55.

George Burt, Canadian UAW director, told reporters Saturday that negotiations are "making substantial progress."

Destroyer Rescues Four Crash Survivors

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, April 10 (AP)—The United States navy announced today a United States destroyer picked up all four survivors from an amphibian plane which crashlanded Sunday 40 miles south of Kingston, Jamaica.

Earlier the salvage ship Rescue reported to Jamaica sighting a raft today with survivors from the Caribbean International Airlines plane.

Two officials of the airline and their wives were on the plane. Four American destroyers joined other vessels and planes in a hunt for the missing plane, which sent two messages after it landed. The first said the seas were heavy and the second that the plane, a converted war surplus PBY, had sprung "a bit of a leak."

Green Avoids Politics Pending Union Merger

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP) —AFL President William Green today strongly endorsed the idea of merging all American labor unions into a single federation, but avoided taking a stand on a CIO plan for all unions to cooperate politically pending the merger.

Green wrote CIO President Philip Murray that the AFL favors formation of "one strong, well established labor organization" in the United States.

But he said he was referring Murray's idea of a political-economic co-ordinating committee to the AFL's executive council for a decision when the council meets at Philadelphia May 8.

Lakefield Man

report that the two vehicles were wrecked, Hopkins' car ending up in the west ditch and the other car on the east shoulder of the highway.

Darling was not thrown out of his vehicle but was still dazed when helped out from behind the steering wheel. He was driving a 1950 model car for the Tedford taxi company.

Easter Eggs For Family

An ironic twist was given to the accident as Hopkins was on the last lap of his way home from Young's Point with Easter eggs for his children—Leslie, 8; Sherrin, 7; Linda, 5; Stephen, 4, and Arlene, 2. Roy Hopkins, also of Lakefield, was in the car following his brother into the village and was consequently first on the scene of the accident.

The critically injured man was taken to Dr. Gastle in the car of Charles Young of Young's Point, and after a preliminary examination he was rushed to Civic Hospital. He remained in a semi-conscious condition.

Chief Constable Garnet Samis of Lakefield was also present to lend what assistance he could.

Hopkins served in the RCAF for five years as an aero-engine mechanic. At time of discharge he was a corporal. Since the end of the war he has lived in Trenton and Peterborough and in 1946 started a garage and car selling business in Lakefield.

Man, Wife Flee Burning Home

WATERLOO, April 10 (CP) — An $18,000 fire early today gutted a Waterloo home and sent two of its occupants to hospital with burns and body bruises.

Screams for help were heard by neighbors shortly before 2 a.m. Schnarr was seen making a frantic attempt to assist his wife out before jumping himself. Both husband and wife were badly burned about the hands. Schnarr also received skinned knees and legs in sliding down beside the brick wall.

When Mrs. Schnarr, in a semi-hysterical condition, said her sister was in the house, fire chief Albert Pagel attempted to get up the stairs but was driven back by he raging inferno. Schnarr however, assured firemen there was no one else in the home.

STRATFORD, April 10 (CP)—Quick action by a man who noticed a fire in a straw stack saved a barn in the Mitchell district today.

Knowing that the Stakhike residence had no telephone Mr. Mulholland notified the Mitchell fire department and neighbors from the telephone in his home. A bucket brigade had almost doused flames when the Mitchell fire brigade arrived and completed the job with chemicals.

MONTREAL, April 10 (CP)— Five ocean freighters, all of them Montreal-bound, were reported jockeying for position in the Gulf of St. Lawrence as the annual race to open the port here began to take shape.

Shipping officials here said the freighters will move into the first leg of the race to Quebec "anytime now." But ice conditions between Montreal and Quebec are expected to slow them considerably. The officials estimated that the winner would not reach here before April 20.

Arms Smuggled From Siam Into Indo-China

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

SAIGON, Indo-China, April 9—(AP)—International rings are reported smuggling about $500,000 worth of small arms a month from Siam into Indo-China to supply both the Communist-led forces of Ho Chi Minh and various dissident guerrilla groups.

Well-informed quarters which make this estimate say it is a conservative one. It covers only activities of known smuggling gangs. Others may have kept their operations completely dark.

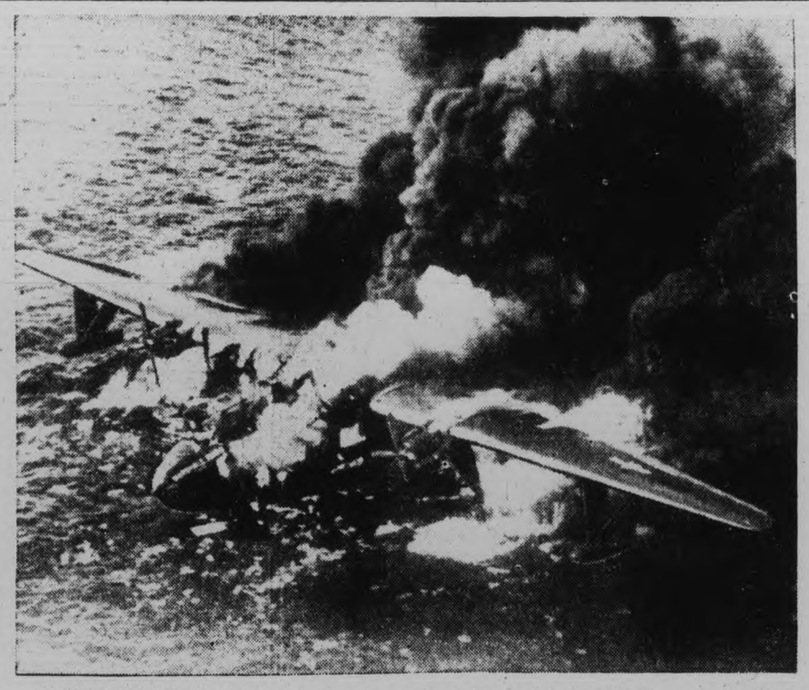
These sources say the traffic includes automatic weapons, rifles, pistols and grenades. Payment for the bulk of it is made in Indo-Chinese piastres at the rate of 15,000,000 to 25,000,000 a month. The piastre is officially worth five U.S. cents but sells on the open market in Hong Kong for two cents.

Bangkok is described as the coordination centre for the arms trade, but Manila is said to be the central supply point, not only for Indo-China but for the other disturbed areas of Southeast Asia.

Seaplanes and fast motorboats can easily land their cargoes on sections of the Thailand coast that are either unguarded or not controlled by the Bangkok government.

From there the arms move into the Indo-China kingdoms of Cambodia and Laos. Some are absorbed there by dissidents who range from simple bandits to elements of varying political affiliations.

Most shipments, however, are destined for the Communist-led forces of Ho Chi Minh's so-called "Republic of Viet Nam," who are opposing the French-supported regime of the Emperor Bao Dai, which also is called Viet Nam.



SMOKE BILLOWS from the fiercely burning Marshall Mars after a forced landing in the Pacific Ocean near Pearl Harbor. Fire broke out when the US Navy flying boat, the world's largest, was on a test flight a mile off Oahu Island. Minutes after this aerial photo was taken an explosion rocked the plane, sending it to the bottom shortly after. All the crewmen escaped.

5-Year Jail Term Judged Illegal Boy 11, Freed

ST. JEROME, Que., April 10—(CP). — An 11-year-old boy, sentenced two years ago to five years in the Shawbridge Boys' Farm and Training School, for stealing a $20 bicycle, was ordered released in a judgment handed down Saturday by Mr. Justice Cousineau.

The judgment maintained a writ of habeas corpus presented on the boy's behalf contending that the sentence was illegal.

The boy was sentenced when he was nine years old by Recorder Hale in suburban Westmount for theft of a bicycle from Mrs. Ruth A. Reid.

He had served a year of the term, when Mrs. Florence Eugenie Davis, his foster mother, petitioned last July for a writ of habeas corpus. Her counsel contended that the law provides for a maximum sentence of six months for a juvenile stealing an article valued under $25.

Mr. Justice Cousineau immediately ordered the boy's release on $50 bail, and the hearing was held here last December, with judgment being handed down on Saturday.

Since the boy's release on bail he has been attending a private school in Westmount and his teachers reported his progress as favorable.

Englishman Praised Killing Second Bull

VALLADOLID, Spain, April 10—(Reuters) — Vincent Charles Hitchcock, 22-year-old British bull fighter, Sunday won great applause when he killed his second bull with one thrust.

"Vincent El Ingles" making his first appearance in a large city, came into the ring before a holiday crowd of 9,000.

Facing the first bull, Hitchcock was caught twice by the bull's horns and was once thrown down and stamped on by the bull, but escaped injury.

He was best with the second bull, winning applause by imitating the famous Manolete Pass known as the "Monaletina" in which the fighter incites the animal with a red cloth while himself looking at the crowd.

Double Export To Canada Not Difficult

LONDON, Apr. 10 (CP) — Sir Cecil Weir, chairman of the Dollar Export Board, has said that Britain's objective of doubling exports to Canada in the next 18 months is not the most difficult task traders have had to tackle.

"There is a favorable wind blowing in every Canadian Province," he told a meeting of the Industrial Co-Partnership Association, "a wind which has its origin in joint interest."

The small proportion of Canadian imports of British capital and engineering goods— about 10 per cent of Canada's requirements — offered a challenge to Britain.

"It is a question of convincing the Canadians to change their source of supply," he said.

"We must promote our goods, we must sell them, we must deliver them on time. The prize in Canada is a big one."

What Britain wants from the dollar countries, he said, is a chance to compete and an assurance that success will not be compromised by pressure groups or lobbies.

MADRID, Spain, April 10 (AP)—Generalissimo Franco gave his only child, Carmen, in marriage today to the Marquis De Villaverde, a young and aristocratic Madrid physician.

The 23-year-old Carmen Franco Polo wore a white faille dress, designed by Couturier Balenciaca, with a five-yard train and a white tulle veil sweeping down from a diamond and pearl diadem.

The Archbishop of Toledo and Primate of Spain, Enrique Cardinal Pla Y Deniel, officiated at the rites which united the daughter of Spain's ruler to 29-year-old Cristobal Martinex Y Bordiu, Marquiss De Villaverde.

It was the nearest thing to a royal wedding in Spain since Alfonso XIII married the granddaughter of Queen Victoria in 1906.

The rites were performed in the royal chapel of the 16th century Pardo Palace, formerly the summer home of the kings of Spain 10 miles outside of Madrid. The guest list totalled 800.

British and United States charge d'affaires attended the ceremonies, but the chief French diplomatic representative was out of town.

Friends said the couple plan to spend a month-long honeymoon aboard Franco's yacht, the Azor, visiting the Canary and Balearic Islands.

Chrysler Strike Hits Like Thirties

DETROIT, April 10 (AP) — It was more than wintry blasts at Eastertide that cast a chill on hamtramck.

Much sharper was the chill from the Chrysler pension strike now in its 75th day. The strike has left some 140,000 workers idle in the United States.

Hamtramck is a city of 50,000 population in the heart of the Detroit area. Most of the people are of polish ancestry. About 8,000 of the city's gainfully employed are affected by the Chrysler strike.

Hamtramck breadwinners are employed in the strikebound Dodge and Plymouth plants and the Briggs plant, a supplier closed by the strike.

The strike has partly paralyzed business in the community. Business men, salesmen and landlords are recalling the dark days of the depression in the early '30s.

Irish Republic One Year Old Today; Few Changes Yet Apparent

By JOHN RODERICK

DUBLIN, April 10—(AP)—The name is different but the face is familiar.

That, said one Irishman, describes the Republic of Ireland a year after she proclaimed herself an independent republic.

Twelve months ago Easter Monday, Irishmen celebrated the final breaking of ties which had bound them in partnership with Britain for 780 years.

That step, it was predicted would be striking and important in the future of the emerald isle But, a year later, the impact was still largely on the surface.

Set Up Embassies

A full-fledged state, Ireland set up embassies and drew up trade agreements and treaties with a handful of countries. She participated in international projects for the economic revival of Europe.

Smartly-dressed members of her tiny army, navy and air force, strode streets which once echoed to the tread of British soldiers.

She took down the statue of Queen Victoria but the figure of Lord Nelson atop its towering pillar still dominates Dublin.

Her diplomats spoke feelingly of world peace, but she remained aloof from the Atlantic Pact.

Officially, she had broken with Britain but economic hoops of steel still hugged her to the land across the Irish Sea.

Gaelic In Schools

A republic at last, she decided to give a boost to nationalism by making Irish the national language and Gaelic became compulsory in the schools. But the country which gave the world George Bernard Shaw, James Joyce and William Butler Yeats was slow to respond.

These were some of the outward signs of the new order. But what had the republic brought in benefits to its citizens?

The most important, said Prime Minister John A. Costello, in an interview with the Associated Press, was internal peace.

"Ireland has no political prisoners in its jails and there is no longer any need for military tribunals or other extra-legal steps," said the quiet, bespectacled premier.

What were the other concrete gains?

Said Costello: "we have enhanced our prestige in international affairs.

Economically Sound

"We have gone through the process of terminating old differences created by the Civil War We have maintained, without dislocation, our trade with Britain."

"Irish goods, men and materials move freely to the United Kingdom. The Irish pound, following Britain's in devaluation, is still on a par with British sterling.

"We are doing extremely well economically."

The Independent Republic's creation has made settlement of the problem of partition or Ireland inevitable," said Costello.

This was a gain, but intangible one. The scholarly prime minister whose coalition government voted the Republic into existence admitted that ther had been no gains toward a solution.

Irish Unity

Separation of the six northern counties from the 26 southern ones remained a canker in the side of Ireland. As long as it existed, Ireland would stay away from defence organizations to which Britain belonged.

When the Republic emerged, Britain retaliated by guaranteeing to the north that it would never be forced to leave the United Kingdom without consent of its own parliament.

That, in the eyes of many government opponents, among them Eamon Devalera, 16 years Prime Minister, studed the road to union with a terrifyingly- difficult obstacle.

The new Republic's job is to convince Britain of the rightness of Ireland's kind of unity. It's the biggest assignment facing the infant state.

Canada Narrows Gulf

OTTAWA, April 10 —(CP)— Purchase of more iron and steel products from the United Kingdom and less from the United States has affected Canada's trade balance with her two best customers. The Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday that the gulf between exports and imports to and from the US and UK was narrowed during February.

WMS Presents Easter Program

OMEMEE, April 10 (ENS)—An Easter program was presented to the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church by the members in Group Two at a meeting held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. D. Vaughan.

A softly played piano interpretation of "Rejoice The Lord Is King" opened the meeting, and the president, Mrs. Harold Graham, read an Easter meditation followed by a hymn. Mrs. Vaughan read "What Does Easter Mean To You" by May Ricker Conrad.

The president conducted the business period and reports heard from the departmental secretaries were most encouraging. Arrangements were completed for the Easter thankoffering service to be held at the Sunday evening service of Trinity Church on April 16, when the film "And Now I See" will be shown. The members of the W.M.S. and the Mission Band will attend in a body.

It was decided that the next meeting of the society will be held at the home of Mrs. Vernon Lang, and in order to make it possible for some of the younger women in the congregation to attend, this meeting will be held at 8 o'clock in the evening instead of in the afternoon. Mrs. T. J. Pogue and Mrs. R. E. Brooks were named a committee to invite new members.

Mrs. Graham thanked the society and the individual members for remembering her with cards, letters and visits during her recent illness, and the corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. H. Williamson, read letters of appreciation from Mrs. S. Northey, Mrs. W. D. Weir and Mrs. D. Hicks.

The program was conducted by the group leader, Mrs. W. D. Weir, and the ladies of the group, with the worship theme "Christ Is Risen." Scripture passages, meditations and poems were read by Mrs. D. Hicks, Mrs. R. H. Williamson, Mrs. R. E. Brooks, Mrs. F. Moyer and Mrs. T. J. Pogue. Several Easter hymns were sung and an outstanding feature of the program was a solo sung by Miss Dorothy Connell.

The offering was received and dedicated by Mrs. Moyer, who pronounced the benediction following the closing hymn.

The group members served lunch.

A variety program was presented by the following pupils: Vocal solos, Randy Aldcroft, Mary Coyle; recitations, Audrey Derry, Barry Towns and Martin Carew; piano solos, Lynn Pacey, Melvyn Harvie and Carman Down; a boys' chorus; vocal solo by Nancy Carew, Audrey Derry and Lynn Pacey.

Reds Charge U.S. Plane Fired At Them

Russ Aircraft Shot Back; Don't Know, U.S.

LONDON, April 11—(AP)—Russia charged today that a United States military plane opened fire three days ago on a flight of Soviet fighters over Latvia, and said one of the Soviet planes fired back.

A Soviet protest, lodged with the U.S. Embassy in Moscow, identified the plane as a B-29 bomber, but U.S. Air Force headquarters at Wiesbaden, Germany, said the plane in question may have been a missing Navy aircraft sought since Saturday in the northern Baltic.

Air Force officials said this plane, a Navy version of the B-24 bomber, was not armed.

This plane had 10 men aboard when it disappeared on a round-trip flight from Copenhagen, Denmark, to Wiesbaden, Germany. Called the Privateer, it had four engines like the B-29. US planes have been searching for it since Saturday.

The Russians reported the shooting took place roughly 350 miles east of Copenhagen. They gave the site as Lepaya (Libau) on the Baltic Sea, and said the plane penetrated about 13 miles into Latvia, which is regarded by Moscow as Soviet territory.

Grandmother, Boy Die In Fire

BRECKENRIDGE, Que., April 11—(CP)—A 77-year-old grandmother and her 11-year-old grandson were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed a two-storey farmhouse about two miles west of this village. Dead are: Mrs. Alonzo Davis of Breckenridge and Wayne Jinkinson of Ottawa. Alonzo Davis, 75-year-old husband of the dead woman, fought his way out of the burning frame dwelling, saving the life of another grandson, Delbert Davis, 18. Breckenridge is about 15 miles northwest of Ottawa. The fire started about 4.30 a.m. and raced rapidly through the frame home. Crackle of the flames awoke Mrs. Davis who was asleep in the room above the kitchen. She awakened her husband and told him the house was full of smoke.

The two youths were on an Easter week-end visit to the Davis farm at the time. Wayne and his cousin Delbert had both arrived from Ottawa.

Davis said that after his wife awakened him they ran down stairs, but could not get into the kitchen because of flames and smoke.

"I pulled my wife back upstairs to a second-storey window overlooking a shed roof. I asked my wife where Wayne was. She broke away and ran toward the boy's room downstairs.

"Then I jumped on to the shed and roof and climbed down to the ground. I grabbed an axe and broke down the front door. Delbert ran out and then I ran around and tried to find my wife. But she had disappeared."

Fire Renders Family Homeless

ROSENEATH, April 11 (ENS)—An expectant mother whose Roseneath home was razed to the ground by fire on Monday, was rushed to the Cobourg General Hospital today.

Monday afternoon at 5:30 Mrs. Clifford Henry with her four children, all under five years, escaped their burning five-room frame house. They were left with only the clothes they were wearing. Mr. Henry, a laborer, was away working at the time of the fire.

The plight of the Henry family was taken up this morning by the Alnwick Township Council, called to a special meeting by Reeve O. J. Robbins. The Council supplied the children with new clothes and transportation to Mr. Henry's relatives in Gooderham.

Five-year-old Bobby was outside playing and noticed the roof on fire. He ran in crying "mother the house is on fire."

Mrs. Henry, expecting a new baby shortly, hurried out of the blazing home with the four children. They had no telephone and were standing outside when a car came along. The house is out of sight of any neighbors and the fire had been unnoticed.

The house is on concession one in Alnwick township, two and a half miles south-east of Roseneath and is owned by Alvin Hagaar of Toronto.

Left destitute, the family was cared for by Mr. and Mrs. Willis Timlin.

The children are Bobby 5, Shirley 3, Jean 2 and Joan 1.

Woman Goes To Jail Loaded With $50,000

ATLANTA, Ga., April 11. (AP)—A 50-year-old woman was arrested early today on charges of selling liquor without a licence, and went off to jail hugging a flour sack containing more than $50,000.

Detectives R. A. Boone and J. E. Sikes said they declined to allow Mrs. Elizabeth Spears to post a cash bond because it would be unwise for her to go unprotected with so much money. They said that one package of currency alone amounted to $10,000 in $100 bills.

Mrs. Spears spent the night in an office—not a cell—at police headquarters. The detectives said they were worried "about what might happen to that money" if they locked Mrs. Spears in a cell with run-of-the-mill convicts.

Evict 70 Families

LAKEVIEW, Ont., April 11.—(CP)—Seventy families in this Toronto suburb, facing eviction from their wartime housing dwellings, have decided to seek permission to buy the houses and make necessary repairs. As an alternative, they will ask for extension of the eviction deadline, now set at Dec. 7. One reason given for the eviction proceedings was that septic tanks used by the families are considered a threat to health.

Stomach Ulcer Victims May Get Help From Drug

PHILADELPHIA, April 11 (AP)—A chemical compound with a jawbreaker name was reported today to have opened up a new approach to the treatment of stomach ulcers.

The drug, which can be taken by mouth and makes a double-barrelled attack on ulcers, still is in the experimental stage, John W. Cusic and Richard A. Robinson said in a paper prepared for the American Chemical Society meeting here. The two researchers represent the firm of G. D. Searle and Company, Chicago.

Still Testing

The drug has not been named, but is chemically identified as beta-diethylaminoethyl-xanthene-9-carboxylate methobromide. It is being released to the medical profession only for use in carefully controlled clinical tests.

The compound also is expected to prove effective in curbing gastro-intestinal spasms, the paper stated.

Experiments indicate, the paper said, that the drug acts in two ways on peptic ulcer. It relaxes the smooth muscle on the stomach, thereby reducing spasm, and it inhibits the nerve impulses which cause the secretion of acid by the stomach.

Help By Surgery

One method of ulcer treatment in the past has been an operation to sever the vagus nerve which controls the stomach secretions and muscular contractions.

The new drug, according to Cusic and Dr. Robinson, produces similar effects by blocking the vagus nerve impulses. More specifically, they explained, it is an "anti-cholinergic" agent, that is, a drug that acts against a chemical called acetylcholine which carries nerve impulses to the stomach muscles.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, April 11. (AP).—The Norwegian freighter Geisha today reported she was in "dire distress" on the storm-lashed Atlantic 680 miles southeast of St. John's, Nfld.

Coast guard headquarters here, which reported the message from the 5,113-ton vessel, said the coast guard cutter Ingham and several other vessels were racing to the stricken vessel's aid,

The Ingham Monday went to the rescue of the burning freighter American Producer.

The message said:

"Explosion on board. Need help. We are going into the lifeboats."

Deny Air Search Hiding Survey

WIESBADEN, Germany, April 11 (AP)—Lt.-Gen. John K. Cannon, commander of the United States Air Force in Europe, denied today rumors in Copenhagen, Denmark, that the United States is using the search for a missing four-engine American bomber as a pretext for large-scale aerial reconnaissance.

"Such a claim is fantastic," Cannon told the Associated Press. "The search is not being utilized as a survey of these countries for any reason whatsoever. The sole objective of the search is to locate the missing airplane and rescue the personnel aboard."

More than 20 American aircraft and 250 airmen arrived during the week-end at Kastrup airport, near Copenhagen, which they are using as a base for the search for a four-engine American bomber missing with 10 men aboard since Saturday on a flight from Wiesbaden, Germany.

The search has started many rumors in Denmark which resolve themselves into two principal theories:

1. That the Americans produced a "missing plane" as an excuse to search the Baltic.

2. That the Americans are testing the feasibility of "occupying" a country—in this instance, Denmark — under an apparently peaceful pretext.

Too Much To Do

No Talk On Dollar Crisis

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—The United States has ruled against any detailed review of Britain's dollar crisis when the Big Three foreign ministers meet in London next month.

One of the reasons was that little progress could be made without Canadian participation.

Informed government officials said today that State Secretary Dean Acheson has notified the British government he considers any such talks to be "inappropriate" at that time.

Acheson is reported ready, however, to talk about Britain's financial outlook in general terms, as it affects the numerous political issues to be discussed.

Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain suggested expanding the discussions recently to include a new look at Britain's dollar problem.

American officials said Acheson opposed such a move for these reasons:

1. His stay in London would be too short to do a thorough job of examining the complicated British financial and trade picture.

2. A review would mean bringing over at least a score of government officials from the various agencies which must be consulted before decisions could be made.

3. Britain and the United States could make little progress on the problem without Canadian participation since Canada's economy is directly involved.

Acheson's position now is reported to be that the foreign ministers of the U.S., Britain and France will have enough "hot" political questions to deal with without venturing in detail into the dollar crisis.

The most critical of these is expected to be the future of Western Germany, including plans for the Saar and the Ruhr.

Search Ends, All Died Of Exposure

50 Mile Winds Whipped Lake, Boys Ride Raft

CLEVELAND, April 11 (AP)—The bodies of four boys who had drifted overnight on a little rubber raft were recovered today from the wind-chopped waters of Lake Erie.

All four were pronounced dead.

A Coast Guard picket boat pulled their bodies off the craft. The crew applied artificial respiration while the boat sped for Fairport Harbor.

But when it arrived, Coroner W. R. Carle pronounced them dead. He said they had died of exposure.

The group had been swept into the lake at dusk Monday night as they went after a drifting canoe.

An air-sea rescue force of a dozen planes had conducted a search for them.

Thinly clad in cotton shirts and blue jeans, they had been tossed by waves which were whipped by gusts up to 50 miles an hour.

All were members of a Boy Scout troop in suburban Euclid.

Of the four only three could swim. The boys were spotted still on the raft by a bomber, one of 12 planes employed in one of the most intensive air-sea rescue operations in Lake Erie history.

The plane dropped a 21-foot skiff equipped with two outboard motors to the lads, then a red flare to signal a picket boat. They were sighted 25 miles northeast of Cleveland.

The boat quickly picked up the boys.

Bonfires burned on the beach as more than 100 persons kept a vigil through most of Monday night while five coastguard boats zigzagged across an area up to 20 miles offshore.

U.K. Police Deny Poison In Bodies

LINCOLN, England, April 11 (Reuters)—Police Monday officially denied reports that traces of poison have been found so far in the bodies of two elderly men exhumed last week at the Lincolnshire village of Whaplode Drove, where they are probing local suspicions of murder.

Organs from the bodies are still being examined.

Wide excitement over reports that mass murder by poison might be uncovered drew a special statement Monday from the chief constable of Lincolnshire, R. H. Fooks.

"It is quite untrue that any positive results have as yet been determined from the examination of the organs removed from the two bodies nor is it likely that there will be any results, either positive or negative, for some time, possibly not for two weeks," he said. "Until the results are known, no further developments of any description are likely or contemplated."

OTTAWA, April 11—(CP)—Mysterious is the mind of a woman.

Mrs. Elsie Beswick, found guilty of allowing a dog run at large decided today she'd rather go to jail than pay the $3 fine.

"You will have to go to jail for one day," said Deputy Magistrate Sauve sympathetically. "But I'd like to know why you make this decision."

Mrs. Beswick pursed her lips and remained silent.

Gov't Attempts Revoke Bridges' U.S. Citizenship

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11.—(AP).—The United States government today moved for immediate revocation of Harry Bridges' citizenship.

Such action, if successful, would open the way for a federal hearing to deport to Australia the C.I.O. Longshore boss, convicted of perjuring himself at his 1945 naturalization hearing by denying he ever was a Communist.

For that conviction, Bridges was sentenced Monday to five years imprisonment. Two labor union aides were given two years for their testimony in his behalf at the citizenship hearing.

The government move to ask revocation of citizenship was based on the contention that the revocation was mandatory under the statute governing Bridges' indictment.

The man to decide that is the trial judge, George B. Harris, who said as he passed sentence:

"By lying, cheating and defrauding the United States government, Mr. Harry Bridges was granted a certificate of naturalization. He was aided and abetted by two co-defendants, and had bestowed upon him the priceless benefit of citizenship.

Bridges, 48, key figure in paralyzing port strikes on the west coast and Hawaii and twice victor against previous government efforts to deport him, listened in glum silence to the proceedings.

His lawyers, both of whom were sentenced for contempt during the bitterly-waged, 81-day trial, said they would carry appeals to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary, contending that the trial was conducted on a "political" and even a "patriotic" basis.

Bridges was convicted of perjury and conspiracy with his two aides to commit perjury. He was given five years for perjury, two for conspiracy, with both terms to run concurrently.

The two aides, Henry Schmidt and John R. Robertson, each was given two two-year terms, running concurrently.

All three were released on bail, but it was increased.

Commits Suicide As Wife Asks Divorce

Ford Offer May Avert Windsor Strike, $55 Pension At 30 Years

Hint Of Compromise Comes 36 Hours Before Strike Deadline
Pension Agreement Stumbling Block

WINDSOR, April 11—(CP)—A company offer that may avert a pensions strike at the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited will be placed today before the general membership of Local 200 of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.). The offer was approved Monday night by the union's policy committee and by the union stewards. These groups recommended its acceptance by the members. The Canadian Press learned that the offer provides for a company-financed $55-a-month pension payable to workers who retire at 65 years after 30 years' service. The union originally asked for $100 a month at 65 after 25 years' with the Company. The proposal also contains some 36 contract amendments and a health and medical insurance plan.

The hint of a compromise recommendation came just 36 hours before the 11,000 automobile workers at the huge Windsor Ford plant were scheduled to walk out in their first strike since 1945. It climaxes more than 12 months of bargaining towards the first company-paid retirement plan sought by Canadian labor.

Dispute Year Old

The Ford local started the pensions dispute more than a year ago by asking for $100-a-month company-paid retirement pensions for automobile workers age 65 years after 25 years' service. Ford made a counter offer of $55-a-month retirement pensions for workers aged 65 years after 30 years' service. An Ontario conciliation board favored by a two-thirds majority the company's $55 offer.

Expectant optimism greeted Monday night's 11th-hour development which promises a possible compromise.

Union spokesmen said the new recommendation was considered during day-long union meetings Monday. It was approved first by the union's inner policy committee and later by the larger stewards' body. Now it faces the general membership, scheduled to meet in a special closed meeting this afternoon.

Membership Meeting

The special membership meeting was ordered after union and company agreed, a union statement said, to lay off Tuesday at noon. The special meeting during normal working hours is reported one of the first of its kind ever held during labor disputes in Windsor.

Monday night's brief union statement was the first hint of the tack of the union-company talks. Neither had issued any formal statement in several days.

A second surprise development Monday was the announcement that Walter P. Reuther, international UAW president, came to Windsor to attend a Ford Local 200 meeting. It was the international president's first visit to a Windsor local in more than a year.

300 Eskimos, White Padre Near Starvation

TORONTO, April 11 (CP)—An Arctic traveller told today of mass starvation conditions among a grop of primitive Eskimos and their white Padre in Canada's remote Northwest Territories.

Richard Harrington, just returned after six weeks in the area said some 300 Eskimos and Fredlund Bernard, a missionary, are near starvation in the Padlei district 400 miles northwest of Churchill, Man.

The Padlermiuts, as the natives are known, missed their customary means of restocking larders when the caribou changed their fall migration route last November, he said. He predicted some will die of starvation if the spring migration, due late this month, also is missed.

Harrington, a photographer who travelled the area by dog team, told in an interview of the missionary and native guide having trailed him for miles to seek food. When they caught up, the guide "greedily gulped handfuls of raw flour from my stores."

York Strike Ends At Noon

TORONTO, April 11 — (CP) — The 36-hour strike of York township employees ended shortly after noon today. Officials of the Civic Workers' Union ordered the 230 striking employees back to work when township council agreed to discuss union demands.

An official of the township engineering department said every available man will be used to remove garbage which has been accummulating throughout the municipality since Thursday.

The employers' union asked for a 4½-cents-an-hour raise for laborers and comparable increases for workers in other classifications so that the township wage scale would be placed on a par with that of Toronto. The township has about 90,000 residents.

The strike had been described by Dr. Gordon Jackson, Toronto medical officer of health, as a "definite threat" to public health in Toronto and district.

PITTSBURGH, April 11 (AP)—A frail 45-year-old woman who admitted she killed her husband's sweetheart was sentenced Monday to eight to 16 months in jail.

Mrs. Simons testified Mrs. Benke had "kept company" with her husband, Roy Simons, for six years.

Keeps Them Alive

Drug Hope For Tuberculous Meningitis

DENVER, Colo., April 11 (AP)—A close-linked team of medical scientists on both sides of the Atlantic is nearing what they hope is a cure for a killer disease—tuberculous meningitis.

Their main weapon is streptomycin—one of the so-called new wonder drugs. With it, about six of every 10 persons stricken with the disease are being kept alive.

Only four years ago, the disease was considered certain death within six weeks to two months.

However, this small group of researchers is making no great claims of success.

They look at a patient like a curly-haired, blond boy of five here. He was brought to National Jewish hospital five months ago. His case was considered hopeless.

The new treatments and nurses caring for him like a baby around the clock have kept him alive. He even has shown a little improvement. He seems to be able to hear a few sounds. His blue eyes are open—but they don't see. He can't move, although his chubby hand gropes aimlessly around his white bed.

Will he ever get really well?

"We can't say," replies Dr. Allan Hurst, medical director of the hospital who told about the medical battle in an interview. "I'm afraid he was too far gone when he reached here. We can only keep him alive, hoping that some day a way of really curing him will be found."

The disease is the greatest cause of death from tuberculosis in children under three. It can strike at any age.

The way the disease works is just what makes it so hard to cure. A slight tuberculosis infection reaches the blood stream. It moves to the brain and out of to the minges—the tissue covering. It inflames this tissue, perhaps works down into the spinal column.

The inflammation forms adhesions and scarred tissue. These usually set up a block between the brain and the spinal column which the brain supplies with fluid.

Two dozen doctors in the U.S. and Europe have found they can stop the sudden spread of the disease if they catch it in time. Dr. Hurst says their biggest job is to find a substance which, when injected with the streptomycin and accompanying drugs, will either dissolve or prevent the adhesions.

Thus far, their only answer is quick treatment. They must catch a case before the horrible inflammations have set in.

States Gives Military Aid To Thailand

$10,000,000 Help To Fight Reds Active In Asia

BANGKOK, Thailand, April 11—(AP)—The United States has granted $10,000,000 worth of arms and other military aid to Thailand to fight Communism, Premier Pibul Songgram disclosed today.

This was the first concrete manifestation of decisions reached at the Bangkok conference in February.

Philip C. Jessup, U.S. Ambassador-at-Large, set forth the American position there of giving military assistance to Asian countries displaying the will to stand against the Communist tide.

Under Songgram's leadership, the tiny kingdom of Thailand has taken its place alongside Democratic powers in the cold war against communism.

But the war is more hot than cold in southeast Asia, which lies athwart Communist China and itself is riddled with Reds.

The premier successfully fought for recognition of Bao Dai's French-supported regime in Indo-China. The Western powers have lined up for Bao Dai while the Communist bloc supports the opposing regime of Ho Chi-Minh, Moscow-trained Red.

Thailand is the only Asian country to recognize the Bao Dai government.

The military aid is in the form of arms as well as equipment such as bulldozers to build badly-needed military roads.

KIWANIS GUEST SPEAKER, C. K. Highmoor, supervisor of the foreign department of Canadian Bank of Commerce, will speak to the club on Thursday noon about foreign exchange in relation to trade.

11 New Communicants At Easter Service

MILLBROOK, April 11 (ENS)—The auditorium of St. Andrew's United Church was filled for communion services on Easter Sunday morning. A class of eleven was received into church membership.

Miss Edith Elson took the solo part in the anthem, and Edward Hewitt sang "The Holy City". Rev. T. G. Husser, BA, BD, preached the Easter message.

More than $600 was received in the special Easter thank-offering, which had been asked for as an addition to the church renovation fund. It is estimated that the total amount needed to be added to this fund will be $2,500.

In the evening the choir, under the direction of Mrs. G. A. Spicer, put on the Easter cantata, "The Cross of the Redemption". Those taking solo parts included Homer Ouellette, Gordon Might and Edward Hewitt. Others singing in duets or quartettes were Yvonne and Marlene Richards, Betty North, Edith Elson, Beverly Patton and Don Spicer.

Miss Estelle Hetherington was at the organ, and in the musical interlude Beverly Patton assisted at the chimes.

The evening collection went to the work of the choir.

Chairman Edwin C. Johnson (Dem., Colo.) announced that Stephen S. Jackson, formerly in charge of the production code office of the industry in Hollywood, has joined the committee staff as a technical consultant.

Jackson will leave for Hollywood next week to get information for committee hearings scheduled to begin May 15, Johnson said.

Teachers To Get More Freedom

TORONTO, April 11.—(CP).—Ontario school teachers will have more freedom under the new school curricula than ever before, Education Director Dr. J. G. Althouse told the Provincial School Inspectors' Association today.

"The changes are neither peremptory nor dictatorial" he said, "and there is no intention of concocting new curricula to thrust upon the schools."

Curricula changes were designed to fulfill three major objectives, he said: Consideration of individual differences among children; establishment of continuity in the educative process, and an effort to accustom the child to make his own decisions.

THROWN FROM THE DOOR of his car when it met head-on with another car north of Lakefield Saturday night, Milton Hopkins, 30, father of five children was seriously injured. Plans Cancelled To Remove 1,000

HONG KONG, April 11 (AP)—Plans to evacuate stranded foreigners from Communist Shanghai collapsed today for the second time in a month.

British authorities called off the trip of the coastal steamer Anking. The vessel had been ready several days to sail for Shanghai.

Last month United States State Department plans to evacuate 1,600 foreigners including more than 300 Americans and several Canadians on the Gen. W. H. Gordon were blocked by Chinese Communists.

British officials gave no reason for the Anking cancellation. They did say, however, that while Chinese Communist officials in Shanghai favored the evacuation in principle, factors of timing had forced its abandonment.

They said the Reds were to have supplied shallow draft boats to ferry passengers downriver for loading on the Anking at the Yangtze River mouth.

The Anking was capable of evacuating about 1,000 persons.

Big Explosion Observed On Mars

OSAKA, Japan, April 11 (AP)—Japanese astronomers report new observations of strange cloud formations on the planet Mars, caused possibly by a "terrific explosion."

Tsuneo Saeki's discovery of the phenomena Jan. 26 set off a world wide watch of the nearby planet. Now Tsuguo Ebizawa tells of observations he started March 29.

Saki joined him in the watch and reported that clouds originally grey turned dirty yellow in two days, bluish white in another four days and dirty white but without brilliancy after a week.

Saeki said the clouds were similar to those he saw in January.

"When I first observed the clouds in January I was not wrong because my observations have been confirmed by the recent observations made by Ebizawa. However, I am still unable to establish whether the clouds were caused by volcanic ashes."

Saeki had expressed the opinion in January that the clouds were caused by a "terrific explosion."

Imperfect Drugs Possible Reason For Ill Effects

TORONTO, April 11 — (CP) — A Canadian medical authority said today any ill-effects from whooping cough-diphtheria innoculations given in Britain must result from imperfections in the substance used there.

Dr. Alan Brown, physician-in-chief at the Hospital for Sick Children, said the injections have been given in Canada for many years with practically complete elimination of the diseases "and with never any ill results."

Dr. Brown was commenting on an announcement Monday night that the British Ministry of Health is investigating whether innoculations of children against diphtheria and whooping cough can cause poliomyelitis.

"In the first place, we don't believe that this could happen," Dr. Brown said. "There is no medical evidence to support any such theory. Polio existed long before any of these inoculations."

If any ill effects result in Britain from the use of the toxoid, he added, "there must be imperfections in their preparation."

In view of the London announcement, he said it is important that Canadians be assured no imperfections exist in any toxoid used here—"all are carefully tested and no virus exists in them."

Disclaim Knowledge

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—United States officials today disclaimed any knowledge of an aerial gunfire exchange between an American B-29 and Russian planes over Latvia. But they ordered an immediate investigation after receiving a Soviet protest of the alleged incident.

The State Department declined any comment except to say that the Russian protest was the first information it had received and that an inquiry is under way to determine what the facts are.

Pending the American inquiry, the Air Force said only that it had "no official knowledge" of any such incident.

Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, in his protest to US Ambassador Alan Kirk, said the plane "bearing American identification marks" was sighted south of Lepaya last Saturday.

"Owing to the fact that the American plane continued to penetrate into Soviet territory, a flight of Soviet planes took off from a nearby aerodrome and demanded that the American plane follow it and land at the aerodrome," the protest added.

"The American plane not only failed to comply with this demand, but opened fire on the Soviet planes. Owing to this, an advanced Soviet fighter was forced to open fire in reply, after which the American plane turned toward the sea and disappeared."

Violation of Law

Vishinsky denounced the incident as a gross violation of the Soviet frontier and "an unheard of violation of the elementary rules of international law."

Tass gave the text of the protest note as follows:

"The government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics deems it necessary to state to the government of the United States of America the following:

"According to verified data, on April 8 of this year, at 17 hours 39 minutes, south of Libau, a four-engined military plane of the B-29 type, a Flying Fortress, bearing American identification marks was sighted.

"The plane penetrated the territory of the Soviet Union to a distance of 21 kilometres.

"Owing to the fact that the American plane continued to penetrate into Soviet territory, a flight of Soviet fighters took off from a nearby areodrome and demanded that the American plane follow it and land at the aerodrome.

"The American plane not only failed to comply with this demand but opened fire on the Soviet planes.

"Owing to this, an advanced Soviet fighter was forced to open fire in reply, after which the American plane turned towards the sea and disappeared.

"The Soviet government announces its resolute protest to the government of the United States against this gross violation of the Soviet frontier by an American military plane, which at the same time constitutes an unheard of violation of the elementary rules of international law."

Cycle Protest

PARIS, April 11—(Reuters)—Three thousand strikers cycled out of the great French seaport of St. Nazaire today on a 38-mile demonstration ride to Nantes in support of demands for increased wages. Free Contractor On Driving Count

A charge of careless driving against William Boyce, King St., electrical contractor, was dismissed by Magistrate W. R. Philp, today.

The charge arose out of a collision at the intersection of Margaret Ave., and Charlotte St., in which Boyce's panel truck and a taxi driven by William Hawthorne were damaged.

In dismissing the charge, his worship said: "The evidence of the taxi-driver is, to say the least, hazy. Case dismissed."

Hawthorne testified he was driving his cab east on Charlotte St. at about 25 miles an hour. He said he saw the truck on the north side of the street, and that it seemed to be stopped or "moving very slowly".

"When I was about 20 or 30 feet from it," he said, "it pulled out suddenly to make a left turn onto Margaret Ave. I tried to stop, but the road was icy, and the brakes had no effect on the car."

J. C. N. Currelly, counsel for Boyce, asked Hawthorne in cross-examination: "You would have the court believe the truck moved from a stop across the street so that you hit it, while you travelled 20 or 30 feet at 25 miles an hour?"

"I might be wrong on the distance," Hawthorne said.

Charles Martin, a witness to the accident, said he thought the cab was going about 30 miles an hour or faster. He said he saw Boyce having trouble driving his truck over a mound of snow on Margaret Ave.

Boyce told court he was travelling west on Charlotte St., and stopped on the north side of the street to make a left turn onto Margaret Ave. "I stopped there to let a bus and a car go past," he said. "I saw the taxi turn off Monaghan Rd. onto Charlotte St. and after the bus and car passed, I thought I had enough time to make the turn."

When he tried to turn, Boyce said he had trouble getting his truck over a rise of about a foot of hard-packed snow at the north end of Margaret Ave. He said his wheels spun, and just then, the cab hit him.

PC Louis Rodreque, who investigated, said he believed about $200 damage was done to the vehicles.

Provincial Cabinet Said Being Shuffled

TORONTO, April 11 (CP). — The Telegram says in a newspage story today that the Ontario Cabinet is being shuffled and several ministerial changes will be made.

Welfare Minister Goodfellow, Acting Health Minister since Health Minister Kelley's illness, is mentioned as new Minister of Health. Hon. Russell T. Kelley will remain on the executive council as minister without portfolio, the story says.

Two men are mentioned for the Public Welfare post: Rev. J. W. Foote, VC, now Deputy Commissioner of the Ontario Liquor Board, and C. E. Rea, member of the Legislature for Toronto St. Patrick.

Farm Efficiency Must Be Boosted Says OAC Head

TORONTO, April 11 — (CP) — Efficiency of production must be increased to the limit if Ontario farmers are to remain in a favorable position in future markets, Prof. G. N. Ruhnke, director of research at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, said today.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the 90th annual convention of the Ontario Education Association, Prof. Ruhnke said that with "the serious economic adjustments under way in the farming industry at the present time there is a great need for strengthening our organization and forces for agricultural education, research and extension than ever before."

He warned against thinking in terms of production by total bushels, pounds and tons of agricultural products. Noting that farming efficiency in Ontario has a long way to go before reaching the level of several of "our competitors," he said the average Southern Ontario beef production was 50 pounds of beef an acre—compared with 500 pounds in England.

"Scottish milk production," he said, "is 9,000 pounds an acre, five times our average production."

Prof Ruhnke stressed that the answer to our efficiency problems lay in "utilizing more scientific methods of management, a system that has brought 'tremendous efefcts' where put into use."

Strike Threats Mar Quiet U.S. Labor Scene

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP) —Threatened strikes in the maritime, railroad and telephone industries marred the relatively quiet scene in United States labor relations today.

Walkouts may develop in all three industries within the next several weeks.

In addition 3,500 mechanics and flight attendants of Pan-American Airways, a principal American overseas carrier, have authorized a strike but set no date as yet.

Capt. Charles F. May, general president of the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union (AFL), told reporters Monday his union plans a strike at midnight Saturday of about 4,000 Atlantic and gulf ship tonnage.

No Wage Increases

His union, May said, has abandoned demands for a wage increase and now will settle for a union shop and seniority guarantees similar to those granted to his union last fall by west coast shipowners.

Strikes have been authorized by the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen-Enginemen. A walkout by either or both of these unions, representing several hundred thousand operating workers, could bring the U.S. rail transportation system to a standstill.

The two unions want a third man assigned to Diesel locomotive crews, now composed of one engineer and one fireman.

The Communications Workers of America (CIO), representing about 300,000 phone operators, repairemen and equipment installers, is poised for a strike April 25.

On that day, a 60-day truce arranged by President Truman expires. The union has demanded a 15-cent-an-hour boost in wages and other concessions from Bell Telephone system companies.

No Radio Playing In Lancashire Parks

BOLTON, Lancashire, England April 11.—(Reuters). — Anyone who wants to hear his radio while lounging in this town's 12 parks will have to get official permission—or risk prosecution.

A 50-year-old law bans music in parks without consent of the council, and park keepers are enforcing it.

Councillor H. Woods, vice-chairman of the parks committee said:

"The law was formed long before portable radios were thought of, but I think it would be wrong to allow sets to be used in the parks.

"A park is a place for rest and quiet. If we allowed portable radios there, nothing could stop a brass band going there to practice."

Funeral of Mrs. Record

Regulate Radio Broadcasting Through An Independent Board

OTTAWA, April 11 — (CP)— Establishment of a new pattern for regulating radio broadcasting in Canada was urged today before the Royal Commission on Arts and Science by a group of privately-owned stations.

The group, comprising 11 independent stations working cooperatively under the general term of All-Canada Mutually Operated Radio Stations recommended:

1—Establishment of an independent radio broadcasting board to license radio stations and make regulations governing all broadcasting.

2—The Transport Department act as a police body and report breaches of regulations to the independent board for action.

3—There be forms of punishment besides cancellations of licences for breaches of regulations.

4—Privately-owned stations be given the right to develop regional, provincial and national networks.

The group—it uses the short title Acmo — includes stations: CJVI, Victoria, CKWX, Vancouver, CJAT, Trail, BC, CJOC, Lethbridge, Alta., CJCA, Edmonton, CFGP, Grande Prairie, Alta., CKCK, Regina, CKRC, Winnipeg, and COCH, Hamilton.

The group was the first to appear at resumed Ottawa hearings of the Commission, which has returned from sittings in all provinces, except Newfoundland.

The brief referred to the powers of the publicly-owned CBC to regulate broadcasting in Canada and operate stations to compete with privately-owned stations. ACMO found this situation "intolerable" and wished to join others in urging that an independent body be established to license and regulate radio broadcasting whether privately or publicly owned.

ACMO wanted a body that would remove from "commercial radio in Canada the constant threat of destruction at the hands of its chief competitor—the government-owned Radio Broadcasting System."

At present, there is only one form of punishment for breaches of broadcasting regulations—cancellation of a station's license.

The brief proposed a variety of punishments for different offences under the regulations. They include fines, cease and desist orders, and suspension of license for extreme cases of repeated offences.

They would provide for the forced sale of broadcasting licence rights under court direction in cases of flagrant disregard of orders to make adequate use of broadcasting facilities, and for forced public sale of part of any broadcasting enterprise engaged in monopoly practices.

Let Every Peterborough Garden Flourish

It seems premature to talk about lawns and gardens in this part of the world, even though Easter is past. There are still patches of snow beside north walls, and the springtime flowers in churches and homes have been grown under glass. But since planning precedes work—or should with conscientious gardeners—now is the time to plan, and to do some preparatory cleaning-up.

* * *

This is the city's centennial summer. Thousands of visitors will be about. What manner of place are we going to show them? The Parks Department, the Centennial Committee, the Utilities Commission (almost as noted for their fine lawns and Filtration Plant Park as for their power lines), and various factories are turning their hands to give the city a fine, green aspect. But their efforts need the supplement of well-tended private lawns, hedges and flower gardens. Peterborough has a fine setting, pleasant homes, good shade trees. All can be enhanced by the colour of flower-beds, the cushion of well-nurtured lawns. We do not call ourselves the Garden City, but we can earn the reputation, and neighbourly and tourist admiration, by a general special effort this spring.

Wider Grounds For Divorce

The question of wider grounds for divorce in Canada has been put before Parliament by David Croll, M.P., for Toronto-Spadina, but Parliament is not prepared to consider the matter. In the course of time, however, Parliament will have to widen the grounds for divorce, for at present Canada is suffering from an evil which exists in every country where the only ground for divorce is adultery; people who want divorces are forced by the state of law to commit, or pretend to commit, an act of adultery.

The circumstances attending such dishonest evidence are unpleasant. Let us suppose that a man and his wife who have found their marriage to be a failure want a divorce. They may both be people to whom the thought of adultery is repugnant, but without it a divorce is impossible. Therefore one of them (it is usually the man) falsifies evidence by engaging a hotel room which he occupies for a night with a woman who has agreed, for a fee, to help him in this piece of legal mumbo-jumbo. There need be no intimacy between the two so long as hotel employees can testify that they spent the night in the same room and that the bed showed signs of having been slept in. Lawyers and judges are expected to connive at this essentially dishonest system.

This trickery is not, however, of any avail in the case of men or women whose married partners are incurably insane, presumed dead, or who have simply deserted them. The law provides no relief for these.

This newspaper does not favour easy divorce, and does not want to see divorce mills in Canada. But a condition of law which forces some people into dishonesty, and which provides no relief for others who are in difficult circumstances through no fault of their own, should not be perpetuated.

The mention of divorce in Parliament always creates a difficult atmosphere, for members do not want to explain to those among their constituents who strongly oppose divorce the reasons why they have supported a piece of divorce legislation. The present sensible and humane provisions of the divorce laws in Great Britain are virtually the work of one courageous man, Sir Alan Herbert, who worked for several years to persuade Parliament to support his bill liberalizing divorce law. Sir Alan was a University Member (an extremely useful type of M.P. recently abolished in Britain) and consequently he did not have to cringe before a mixed and incalculable electorate. Any liberalizing of divorce legislation in Canada will have to wait for a courageous leader to persuade Parliament that our present divorce laws are productive of dishonesty and sometimes make a mockery of the law. Perhaps Mr. Croll is that leader. In any case, he has made a start.

Take A Look At The Denne Collection

At some time during Peterborough's centenary year every citizen with a hint of interest in the development of the city should pay a visit to the Public Library and take a look at the T. H. G. Denne collection of pictures of Peterborough in its early days. To understand the city's progress, and to make sure that its progress continues along the right lines, we must have some notion of the city's past. Few Canadian cities have a better record of their appearance from the days of early settlement than Peterborough possesses in the Denne collection. Let us not slight our luck, or the foresight of the late T. H. G. Denne in making and preserving this unique possession.

It is unfortunate that the provisions under which these pictures were left to the city limits their usefulness. They cannot be photographed or reproduced in any way, although they would be of great assistancet to historians and students of pioneer life. It was Mr. Denne's desire to keep them for Peterborough's use alone, and we must respect the terms of his bequest, even though we may doubt their wisdom. The pictures are displayed in the Public Library for us to look at. Let us all be sure to visit them this year.

Five-Year Plates In B.C.

For years we have been an advocate of permanent license plates for motor vehicles. The annual change-over is a nuisance to the car owner who must memorize a new set of numbers, wrestle each year with rusty nuts and bolts when changing the plates, and apply in person at a registration office for the bulky numbers, instead of being able to receive an annual small sticker permit through the mails on payment by cheque or money-order. The annual plates are a needless expense to the Department of Highways and thus to the public. Last year the State of Washington dropped them and issued permanent ones. It is estimated that the State is thereby saving $20,000 each year. The permanent plate system is in use in Britain and continental countries; its practicality and convenience are proven.

A hope that Ontario may change its ways comes from the Canadian West Coast—if Ontario will deign to learn from the West. The B.C. government has announced that it will issue five-year license plates. Presumably if this limited life of the plates proves to be as practical as the Vancouver Province (which has been another crusader for permanent plates) and the B.C. authorities expect, the period will be extended to the car's lifetime. If Ontario needs further assurance on the scheme, let it put B.C. under a year's observation; then, when its success is known, copy the coastal province.

Russia And Germ Warfare

A scaring report, originating in Britain, that the Russians are making large-scale experiments in bacteriological warfare, should not surprise the western world seared by the six years of the Second World War and steeled by three of the "Cold" war. And is it conceivable that a nation which is developing the H-bomb, and stock-piling A-bombs for its allies is allowing its military chemists to sit idle? The United States and the Atlantic Powers do not have their heads buried in the sand. More shocking than reports of Russia's experimenting with methods of germ warfare is the statement of Dr. Harold Urey of the Atomic Energy Commission that "Russia is at least one year ahead of the U.S. in the development of the H-bomb."

NOTE AND COMMENT

A scientist says that when a man finds himself at a loss for words it may mean an insufficiency of blood in the brain. Or just an insufficiency of brain.

A magazine for parents says that girls should be taught that they are the equals of their brothers. Is there a girl who doesn't feel that she has it all over him?

Referring to a talk given to a service club by a research director at the government's Chalk River atomic energy plant, the Right Honourable C. D. Howe expressed surprise at finding "one of my scientists discussing financial problems". Not 'my', Mr. Howe; our scientists—unless the mantle of royalty has descended on the Howe shoulders. But then Mr. Howe should use the Royal 'we'.

Russia Under Strain

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

COLD wars cannot be waged for nothing; and even if we had no knowledge of the internal state of Russia, it would be obvious that her aggressive policy of the past three years must be costing her a great deal. In making the 1947 decision to press on with this policy at all costs, the Kremlin deliberately threw away all hope of badly needed material aid from the West; and in forbidding the satellites to take part in the Marshall Plan discussions it gambled on the failure of E.R.P.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE Soviet leaders were thus faced with the task of pulling the country, unaided, out of its war-time ruin, rebuilding a war machine capable of dealing with any emergency, holding captive a new empire cut off from much of its traditional trade with the West, conducting a harassing offensive in Europe and Asia Minor to assist the failure of E.R.P., and, for full measure, exploiting in the name of international Communism all rebellions and nationalist movements throughout Asia and Africa. It was a large programme, and the strain on the resources of the Soviet Union has been heavy.

◇ ◇ ◇

FOR example, we are accustomed to think of the development of the Soviet Far East as pure gain for Muscovy. But capital development has to be paid for, and the cost of capital development in the Soviet Far East is the continued depression of living standards in European Russia. Even before 1914 a Russian economist could write of the Russian Far East as "a pump, draining away enormous riches from the heart of Russia." And so it goes on.

◇ ◇ ◇

AGAIN, the diversion of so many of the most able Party leaders to posts of command throughout the new Communist Empire has meant a very serious weakening of Communist leadership at home; and this, coupled with the evident deterioration of the true Party spirit among regional and local Party officials, appears to be changing the very shape of government, with a mercenary police under central direction assuming more and more the duties once performed by devoted Party fanatics. As for the concentration of material resources and superior brains in the services of rearmament at the expense of decent living standards, the consequences of this are obvious.

◇ ◇ ◇

HOW well is Russia succeeding in this immense programme for which the Government is sacrificing everything, from proper housing to the integrity of science? To judge by the oficial figures for the fourth year of the current Plan, very well. But these figures are suspect for several reasons.

◇ ◇ ◇

THEY are suspect in general because Soviet figures must always be suspect, so long as the statisticians permit themselves such elementary deceptions as comparing 1940 production with 1949 production without mentioning that in the interval the Soviet Union has acquired considerable new territories, together with their inhabitants. They are suspect in particular because even while the Central Statistical Bureau was claiming that the 1949 Plan had been exceeded by 3 per cent. the Party's Central Committee was launching a wide-spread attack, which still continues, on countless individuals and concerns for failing to fulfil their plans, for falsifying their returns, or for reaching their total production quotas only by turning out shoddy products or goods that nobody wanted.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE consolidated production figures for 1949 have not been corrected in the light of these revelations, and are therefore misleading. Thus, the rich agricultural region of Kursk won special honour for over-fulfilment of its grain production plan and was later found to have made false claims. Similarly a special commission of inquiry sent out to inquire into losses to the State by the private barter of agricultural produce found that the stocks held in the grain elevators on the lower Volga and elsewhere were heavily deficient. In industry the examples have been too many to count; they range from coal to textiles, from machine-tools to tractor spares.

◇ ◇ ◇

FOR the past eighteen months it has been apparent that things were far from well with Russia's recovery Plan. Apart from outbreaks of local discontent due to particular causes, such as the pitiful Kharkov breadriots in January, 1948, the first overt signs of a crisis were various important ministerial changes, culminating in the dismissal of Voznessensky, the head of the State Planning Commission, in March of last year; the quiet dropping of the slogan calling for the completion of the Five Year Plan in four years; and the further postponement of the greatly delayed nineteenth Party Congress, which at this time last year appeared to be in active preparation.

◇ ◇ ◇

AT the same time the Government showed a new and urgent interest in securing better food for the towns. This led to two gigantic Plans, one of fifteen years for the introduction of ley-farming and the afforestation of the steppe, one of three years for improving livestock breeding. Both Plans were calculated to benefit the towns at the immediate expense of the peasants, who were at the same time held more firmly in the collective network by the devaluation of the rouble, which took away their savings, and by the new agricultural tax, which hit at their earnings outside the collectives. The comprehensiveness of this onslaught on the peasant economy suggested a very urgent motive: the immediate necessity of feeding the town workers better if production was to be maintained.

◇ ◇ ◇

DURING the past three months the pattern of discontent has become clearer. The central Press has been attacking individuals on a very broad front, from responsible and highly-placed Ministers, such as Kostousov and Kazakov, in charge of machine tools, to individual factory managers, all charged with general inefficiency. But—and more significantly—the Party itself has come under attack, above all for corrupt practices or connivance at corrupt practices.

◇ ◇ ◇

THESE attacks range from full-scale purges of the local governments of the minority republics, as in the Tartar Autonomous Republic, where the Prime Minister himself was tried and the whole Party executive dismissed, to local reconstructions of innumerable regional Party organizations. To judge from all these reports, more than half the regional Party secretaries all over Russia have been dismissed since last autumn; and this process has spread to Moscow itself, where all five secretaries of the Moscow region Central Committee have been changed.

◇ ◇ ◇

SOME of these changes are certainly due to the vigour and efficiency of Malenkov in packing the Party with his own men as Stalin did twenty-five years ago. But, when all allowances are made for that, the situation strongly suggests that the Party, weakened by too much dilution and made cynical by too many lies, is becoming corrupt in the traditional Russian manner, and is no longer a reliable instrument of inspiration and veiled coercion. The innumerable charges of corruption and negligence range from that of encouraging direct barter between collectives and factories to the illicit diversion of collective funds and connivance in the sale of communal property. There is nothing new in these practices; but they have never before involved the Party as such, or offered a serious threat to the central economy.

◇ ◇ ◇

IF, after three years of the ideological campaign to glorify Russia and Bolshevism and wipe out the last traces of a corrupt bourgeois mentality, the rank and file of the Party officials are losing enthusiasm and even passively conniving at the perpetual concealed resistance of the people against the Government, it means that the structure of the Soviet dictatorship is being subjected to an entirely new strain. This strain must be intensified by the fierce rivalries in the highest places, which will increase as Stalin progresssively delegates his powers; and it may well produce a situation which even Russia may find it hard to take in her stride.

"...THEY APPEAR TO DISINTEGRATE"

Letters To The Editors

ABANDON RADIO LICENSE FEE

Sir: We are all familiar with the practice in some cities of sending a "welcome waggon" to greet newcomers to the community. Last week this visited O'Connell Road in the form of a Black Maria issuing a court summons to all homes but two (a little bird told me) for failure to purchase a radio license. Last year (if I recall correctly) the McKellar-Hamilton Street district came in for similar notoriety. Now, while we are extremely flattered by this sudden recognition and a chance to be in the limelight, we can't help but feel that there has been undue discrimination shown, when every one is aware that such guilt is equally prevalent throughout the country.

This prosecution is directed toward a group already taxed to the last expendible cent of their weekly income, inclusive in rent, fuel, Hydro, amusement, and on clothing and food increasing in proportion to the number in the family—to say nothing of the tremendous carrying charges we have to meet in buying on the intalment plan. About the only exemption we could possibly claim would be a tax imposed on savings, but we are denied even that satisfaction. One suspects the Government of finally resorting to placing its henchmen on a commission basis, so they naturally migrate to the areas where the berries are liable to be thickest.

Imagine my embarrassment, then, when I went to hock my battered radio in an attempt to raise funds for this latest demand, only to be told that it wasn't worth the required amount. Good old faithful! He is neither prolific (bless his little tubes), nor does he bite, while his bark can seldom penetrate to the next room,—so why the license anyway? Many an hour we have spent together romping back and forth from one end of his dial to the other, trying to dispense with the cacophony of sound, and to snatch from the ether the only two stations he is capable of producing with any clarity (namely CHEX and CKEY). In spite of his limitations, I would still hate to have to part with him, although the point is still debatable whether he will outlive the worth of a license renewal.

I certainly hope there is some truth in the rumour that this source of revenue may be discontinued next year. In which case one can count on a maximum effort to be made to rake in the fines before the expiry date in 1951. On the other hand, there is quite likely some further diabolical scheme afoot to superimpose a listener's tax per capita, and rated according to the type of program enjoyed. In future years an armchair investigation could be conducted from the studio with the assistance of a two-way television setup.

I think I could manage to cover a tax of this type after eliminating electrical interference, overlapping of stations, soap operas, advertising, repeated newscasts, women's voices, quiz programmes, political speeches, and Frankie Laine, from my repertoire. Speaking of Frankie, I forgot to mention murder stories. Sponsors pay for the advertising privileges, so surely their intermittent interruption of our services should have some offsetting nuisance value on the side of the public.

I observe that Mr. Abbott's new budget does not include even a nibble of encouragement for the hoi polloi. Perhaps the honourable gentleman, with his vast experience, would assist me to revise my family budget to cover this present deficit, incurred because "when you haven't got it, you haven't got it". As I figure it, I will already be fifteen cents in the hole at the end of my next fiscal year, barring further emergencies, and the usual threat if I can't manage my new radio license.

The question now before the house is whether this sum just forfeited may be made deductable as a charitable donation on Income Tax forms? I never was enthusiastic over involuntary subscription to unworthy causes, but since this seems to be the epitome of those arising strictly from hunger, I suppose it should be given some consideration on those merits. One can't help but wonder whether such sources of revenue are included under "donations to the Crown", or posted under some other convenient item, since they recur with such charming frequency coincidental to the annual balance of the Budget.

The consistent evasion of such a tax by people in every walk of life should be enough of a hint to the government that it is extremely unpopular and unreasonable. I move that it be abolished—and damned quick—on grounds of non-support!

As ever,
EVADER-OF-THE-LAW.

PRACTICE ROOM FOR ORANGE BAND

Sir: I wrote the mayor and aldermen a request a few days ago that there is a juvenile band composed of twenty-one members which will be increased to twenty-five, and stated they had no accommodation so they can practice and with all the city buildings in darkness every evening, I could not understand why they could not allow these children some place on Thursday evenings, to practice.

Juries Bulwark Not Out Of Date -Justice Mackay

TORONTO, April 11 (CP) — Mr. Justice J. Keiller Mackay of the Ontario Supreme Court said Monday night that he disagreed with a leading Canadian criminologist who said jury trials were out of date and citizens didn't want to be jurymen.

Commenting on a Montreal report from Dr. Rosario Fontaine, Quebec government medico-legal expert, Mr. Justice Mackay said:

"If a jury fails to appreciate the significance of evidence it might be well if counsel and judge in the case look to themselves to determine if they have properly discharged their duty."

Dr. Fontaine said it was beyond the power of the average man to follow and understand prolonged and legal technical evidence, but Mr. Justice Mackay commented:

"No judge is able, as an individual, to determine the substance of justice as well as a jury. The jury has proven to be the outstanding bulwark of democracy offering a combined wisdom in the administration of justice."

He said that under the present system a judge may dispense with a jury when evidence involves a mass of technical legal detail. "In such cases the judge has jurisdiction to set the trial down for non-jury."

Unidentified Sub Spotted Off Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11 — (AP)—A surfaced submarine was reported sighted Monday about 52 miles west of San Francisco.

The pilot of a military transport plane reported to navy headquarters he saw the undersea craft at 9:30 a.m.

Vice-Admiral George D. Murray, commander of the western sea frontier, ordered investigation of the report.

No United States submarines were reported in the area.

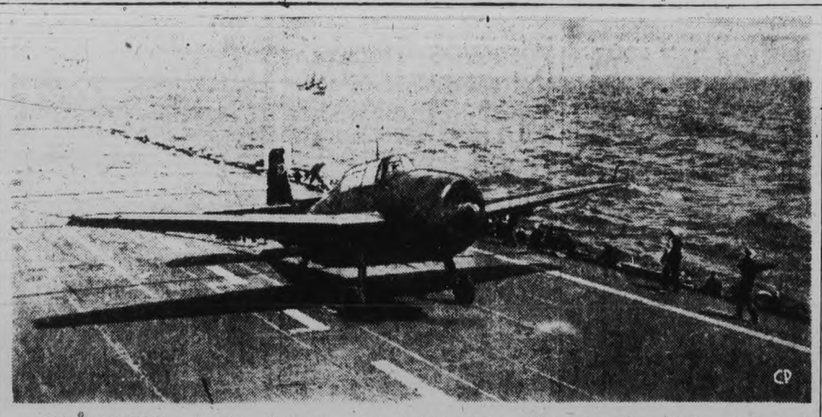
A submarine seen by an airlines pilot off Avalon, Catalina Island, April 8, was found to be a United States craft, the navy said.

4 Adrift On Lake Erie

CLEVELAND, April 11 (AP)— The United States coast guard Monday night began a search for four boys who drifted out into Lake Erie in a rubber raft, apparently while attempting to retrieve a canoe. The youths were identified as David Hahn, 14; Richard Bauer, 13; Roland Riemer, 13, and William Bonhoff, 14.

Fingers, Toes Cut Off

SUPERIOR, Wis., April 11 — (AP). — Bloody footprints in the snow led neighbors Monday to the body of Benjamin Renquist, lying dead in bed with all his fingers and toes amputated. Sheriff William Simms said he has not discounted the possibility that Renquist, 46, had been mutilated and slain.



SUB-HUNTER — The Avenger, torpedo-crrying plane, is being bought by the Royal Canadian Navy for anti-submarine work. The aircraft, which carries a three-man crew, will be used by the navy's fleet air arm on the aircraft carrier Magnificent.

Lower Standards For University Entrants

TORONTO, April 11.—(CP).—The education trend in Ontario toward practical training may force universities to modify entrance requirements and courses, Dr. R C. Wallace, principal of Kingston's Queen's University, said Monday.

Speaking to the secondary schools headmasters' section of the 90th annual convention of the Ontario Educational Association, he said educationists were interested in giving as liberal an education as possible to students.

Most High school students do not plan or don't have the opportunity to go to college and curriculums should be directed toward aiding them, he said.

Include Math, Languages

But, he added, it is necessary to include disciplinary subjects, such as mathematics and languages, in order to prepare the students who go on to more taxing studies.

He said colleges will have to admit students on a much lower academic level than normally demanded by the professions they would later enter. "Educators today are using real ability rather than subjects studied as a yardstick in grading students."

Dr. C. G. Althouse, chief director of education for Ontario, told the inspectors' section of the Association that one of the main tasks in the present school curriculum was that of "habituating the child to make his own decisions." He added:

Enjoy Freedom

"If we are to continue to enjoy freedom, we must train our young people to regard it as a hard-won boon. It is sobering to realize that great masses of humanity have bartered freedom for fancied security and that great masses of humanity long for freedom, but are condemned to live and die without it."

The first task facing educators, he said, is to give adequate consideration to individual differences in children. "Many proposed innovations call attention to these differences and they challenge teachers and administrators to detect them and to take advantage of them in planning studies."

Lack Continuity

Lack of continuity between elementary and secondary schooling are the lack of articulation in courses of study, sharp differences in organization, and ignorance on the part of school staffs, Dr. Althouse said.

These hindrances will be broken down mainly by local actions—by the joint action of local boards and local teaching staffs, he added.

"The free citizen must learn to make his own choice, but he must make them in a full light of moral duty and social obligation."

Sex Discussed

A panel discussion on sex education was held Monday, but it was closed to the press. It was sponsored by the Women's Physical and Health Education section of the O.E.A.

The convener, Jean Elder, said "there is nothing in our session which should be secret but we feel certain precautions should be taken before the articles are read by the public."

Speakers at this meeting included Dr. J. D. Griffin, medical director of the National Council of Mental Health; Mrs. G. C. V. Hewson, chairman of the Toronto Home and School Council's secondary school section; Miss Grace Docter, a teacher at Toronto Central High School, and N. R. Spiers, director of physical education for Toronto.

Men Threatened Recalling Mayor

DEARBORN, Mich., April 11 — (AP)—The head of a committee seeking the recall of Mayor Orville L. Hubbard said Monday lives of two members of the group had been threatened.

Charles A. Wagner, president of a committee circulating recall petitions, said he would ask State police protection if necessary.

Wagner said he had received reports of carloads of men following recall workers.

A citizens' action committee is seeking to oust the mayor of this Detroit industrial suburb (pop. 80,000) on the ground he has used dictatorial methods. In past political campaigns, the mayor has sharply assailed the Ford Motor Company, the main industry here.

Mayor Hubbard denied knowledge of any threats against members of the recall movement.

Investigate Graft

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP).— Mayor William O'Dwyer Monday ordered an investigation of evidence indicating that police are getting payoffs from gamblers.

Four Give Talks On Classification

Four eight-minute classification talks were the highlights of the Rotary Club luncheon Monday in the Empress Hotel. The speeches were given by Mel Turner, plumber, Doug Miller, building material supplier, Grant Miller, druggist, and Charles Pilon, salesman outboard motors.

Mr. Turner, the first to speak, gave a brief account of the origin of plumbing and how it has been developed into the vast field it is today.

The advancement made in pharmacy, oldest profession of mankind, dating back to 2250 BC was told by Grant Miller. He added that many of the ancient drugs and chemicals are used today. Mr. Miller explained some of the changes in modern pharmacy.

Douglas Miller defined his classification, building material supplier, as one who works with products other than lumber. The advantages and uses of some of these supplies such as plywood and insulation, were explained by Mr. Miller.

Charles Pilon appealed to the club members to give good service to the American tourists. In dealing with his business, outboard motors, Mr. Pilon said the first motor was made in 1909. This Evinrude production was the beginning of the Exinrude company in the United States. He listed some of the improvements and commercial uses of the outboard motor.

The four Rotarians were introduced by Syd Black and thanked by James Thompson.

Mr. Thompson reported on the receipts from the sale of Easter seals as approximately $1,600, slightly lower than last year.

A sing-song was conducted by Charles Allen, Jack Smith, and Harry Northrop.

Ship Stuck Getting In Ice-Jammed Going Out

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 11 — (AP)—The freighter James Watt, which battled a Lake Erie icefield for five days coming here from Detroit, became stuck again on its return trip.

After proceeding only about 100 yards Monday, the freighter became gripped in a heavy ice windrow. The United States coast guard cutter Tupelo tried in vain to free her, and is expected to resume efforts today.

The two vessels reached this port last Thursday. The James Watt unloaded scrap and took on a cargo of pig iron.

Legion Opens Final Series With a 6-5 Triumph Over Brantford Nationals

Edging Brantford Nationals 6-5 in the Western Ontario city last night, the Legionnaires took a game margin to open their best-of-seven OHA senior "B" final series before a big crowd. Second and third games will be played here tomorrow and Friday nights, with the fourth in Brantford on Monday. The Nats also won the toss for a fifth or seventh tilt if it goes that far.

Legion tore in to gain a 3-1 edge in the first frame and then staved off a furious Brantford attack the next two heats, the middle chukker being a 1-1 battle, and Nationals having a 3-2 decision in the hot third chapter. The visitors drew three of the five penalties handed out in a clean contest, in which a lot of holding and interference was overlooked.

A Fast Squad

The Nats proved a husky, speedy and scrappy squad, one that did not quit when behind. They made the speedy Legionnaires step all the way and gave Goalie Ross Nicholls a real busy evening. Often in the second and third periods, they piled in and kept the puck around the Legion net, but Ross was in fine form to keep kicking it out or smothering the burnt biscuit when the going got hottest. McGrattan in the home cage was tough to beat, too.

Bert Hill starred up front for the Ellis outfit, scoring four of their goals and aiding on another. Sixty Coombs had a goal and two assists, Johnny Godfrey two assists, Freddy Mortimer a goal, and Bob Parnell and Reg Stewart an assist each. The first line, though not in the scoring, played plenty of good hockey all the way. Hnatiuk led the losers in goals with two, as Linn, Campbell and Stemmler each hit the twine once. Leconte aided on three in a smart showing, as Campbell, Watson, Hewson, and Simpell—an ex-pro defenceman—helped out on one apiece.

An Early Lead

Brantford put on the pressure early in their Arctic Arena, but Legion soon found their skating legs and had an edge in the first frame. Freddy Mortimer's slap shot on Parnell's corner passout at 5:08 started them off, the drive being in close. Leconte came close and Greenlaw had a good try. Burns was gated for interference but got back in lots of time to see Hill make it 2-0 on a breakaway with Godfrey's pass-up as Nats ganged up in the Legion zone. Hill got another neat one shortly from Stewart, picking a corner coolly at close range. Simpell went off for interference, but no harm was done. Late in the heat, Linn's backhander on a corner passout beat Nicholls, Campbell and Leconte drawing assists.

Good Checking

Doug Mortimer got the finger early in the second for tripping and, as Brants ganged up, Hill broke away with Coombs to score and make it 4-1, taking a passout with neat finish. With all back, Legion's checking held the Nats safe for a time. Jamieson went over for holding, but returned with no damage done and play was hot up and down as each goalie in turn hopped to turn aside molten rubber. At 16:49, Hnatiuk hit the mark at almost point-blank range on a passout from Watson, Hewson also drawing an assist. Nats continued to press hard the rest of the route.

Coombs clicked for a nice goal with Hill early in the third on smart, fast in-close combination. Hnatiuk was robbed and Nicholls had to be good as the Nats turned it on and held an edge in the play. Legion checked like fiends, but Campbell got one goal back on a high angle shot inside, Linn and Leconte building up the play. Coombs was bumped hard but returned shortly and Brants kept tearing in there, Simpell almost tallying. Parnell went over for tripping and Hnatiuk made it 5-4 from Leconte. Legion argued that he gloved it in from over his shoulder. Hill got that one back on a rebound from Coombs after Godfrey started the play. Just before the gong, Stemmler whittled the Legion margin to one with an in-close marker from Simpell.

Legion — Goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and Burns; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, Parnell, F. Mortimer, Greenlaw, Hill, Coombs, Stewart, D. Mortimer and Montgomery.

Brantford— Goal, McGrattan; defence, Smith and Simpell; centre, Stephen; wings, Stemmler and Pigeon; alternates, Leconte, Campbell, Linn, Hewson, Watson, Hnatiuk, Messmer and Jamieson.

IN MAIN BOUT—Hi Lee, above, who meets Yukon Eric in the main bout of this Thursday's mat card at the Brock. Lee proved his right to this match by his great showing in last week's team wrestling. He was easily best man of the four grapplers. Eric has been going great guns lately, beating Watson twice in a row. Both contestants are big and powerful and the match looks well balanced. Lord Albert Mills will be making his first appearance in a local ring when he hooks up with Warren Bockwinkle in the semi-final. The opener brings together Strangler Bob Wagner and Ray Villmer. It will be the first appearance of both boys in quite a spell. It is a starry card with every contestant of main bout calibre.

GOALIE TURK BRODA of Toronto Leafs, who had a hot week-end as Detroit peppered him for two shutout victories and the right to move into the Stanley Cup final against Rangers, is seen above coming out to save a close shot from Marty Pavelich in Saturday's fray. Wings took that one, 4-0, and came back Sunday for a 1-0 overtime verdict to settle the series. Pavelich is closely watched by Bill Juzda, behind Broda and Max Bentley.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Yukon Eric, popular and powerful lumberjack, will be here Thursday in the main pro mat bout, wrestling Hi Lee, at the Brock Arena. The unscrupulous tall Texan will be facing a worthy foe this time, as the huge-chested Eric is one of the strongest men in the wrestling game today. This one should pack in the mat fans for sure. Warren Bockwinckle goes against Lord Albert Mills—his ludship, no less!—in the semi-final match, while Strangler Bob Wagner tackles Ray Villmer in the prelim. A right promising card all through, but that top bout especially looks attractive.

The 1950 annual meeting of the Ontario Lacrosse Association will be held in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, this coming Saturday aft at 1.30. Several Peterborough officials, including Ken Kingston of the OLA executive, will take in the convention. We note one suggested amendment from St. Kitts to read: "In the senior 'A' series, when there are six or more teams in the group, only the first four teams finishing highest in the regular schedule shall be entitled to compete for the senior 'A' Ontario championship. The fifth and sixth teams shall engage in a series, the winners to meet the senior 'B' champions." The Petes, of course, will be back in the OLA senior "A" series.

Petes Play IOOF-ers

A hockey game will be staged here some night next week between the Petes and the junior "B" Oddfellows, with proceeds going to the PMHA, which is some $300 in the hole. Along with this game, plans are being made to stage that skating race talked about earlier in the season. Some of those mentioned as possible competitors are Bill McMaster, Keith Montgomery, Murray Fife, Bill Crowley and Joe Blewett, but it's open to other OHA puckists. Those interested should call Ed Faux at 3068. Already $40 has been offered to the winner. By the way, the PMHA winners are the teams which went into playdowns, the IOOF juveniles, Marines midgets and the bantam Optimists.

On the prowl for another provincial title, Legionnaires last night bussed it to Brantford, fashioned a 6-5 victory and rolled back into Peter's borough at four this morn. Tired but quite tickled over getting that first big one. The opener of their best-of-seven OHA senior "B" finals. Next one is here Wednesday and then again Friday here—two tilts that ought to jam Civic Arena. Fourth will be in Brantford on Monday, as Nats don't want to play Saturday after a game Friday. They won the toss for the fifth or seventh deciding joust. The Nats are husky, fast and full of fight. They never slowed up when down three goals, but fought back furiously right to the finish to whittle it down.

Ross Right On The Job

Legion hustled, too, with some great goaltending by Ross Nicholls being a big factor in their victory. Bert Hill did a brilliant job up front to net the disc four times and help on another. Sixty Coombs was in on three and Johnny Godfrey on two, besides looking masterful out there at the blue line. Whole team worked well all through, and they had to step lively against good opponents. We viewed the game with Al (sports editor) Rose of Brantford and Joe Watkins of the CNR there, a former Peterborough fellow, whose pretty wife was voted Miss Peterborough several years ago. Remember?

* * * * * *

Legion complained several times that a photographer was shooting flash bulbs in Ross Nicholls' face just before a close-in Brantford shot—always taking his pictures at the Legion end of the ice. The refs advised the chap to change his angle but let it go at that. Jim Ellis finally gave orders for someone to bust the camera and, in the third period, Godfrey was along the boards in a scramble and his stick smashed the bulb. Several provincial police were around later and all for putting Johnny in the hoosegow, declining to listen to Jim's claim that he was responsible. However, Godfrey didn't join the chain-gang after all, the club agreeing to pay for the camera damages. They still claim it was being done to blind Nicholls in ganging-up plays.

Kinsmen Trophy To Hawks In Peewee Fray

Black Hawks defeated Canadiens 6-2 at Civic Are a in a sudden-death peewee hockey final to capture the title and the new Kinsmen Trophy. They had earlier eliminated Leafs in the semi-final. Coach Arnold Olmstead and his peewee champions will be banquetted later.

McKinney got Canadiens' first goal in the initial inning. Murphy counted a pair then for Hawks, with R. Brown and Naish also tallying, Doleman aiding on two and Druery and Scharf on one each. Dewey Vetoes Split Doubleheader Bill

ALBANY, N. Y., April 11 (AP) Governor Thomas E. Dewey today vetoed a bill that would have prevented major league baseball clubs from staging "split" doubleheaders in New York City, with double admission fees.

"This is still a free country," Dewey observed in vetoing a bill introduced by a Brooklyn Dodger fan, Assemblyman Lawrence P. Murphy.

The Brooklyn Democrat said his bill was aimed at stopping what he called "the common practice" at Brooklyn's Ebbets Field of playing morning and afternoon games, or afternoon and evening games on doubleheader days. Fans must pay two admissions to see both games.

He maintained that a doubleheader should mean two games for the price of one.

Girls May Don Skates To Defend Their Title

PRESTON, April 11.—(CP).—Preston Rivulettes Ladies Hockey Club, which has not operated a team since it took the Dominion championship 10 years ago, has been challenged by Winnipeg either for a titular series or forfeit of the Lady Bessborough trophy, emblematic of the Dominion championship.

Seven members of the championship team have signified their willingness to don skates again in defence of the title and trophy. Other members were not available for comment.

University Prof. Urges 'Sensible' Amateur Code

TORONTO, April 11 (CP) —A university professor suggested on Monday that "a sensible code of amateurism" might help to keep sport healthy."

Dr. W. G. Hardy of the University of Alberta, Edmonton, speaking to the Men's Psysical Education Section of the 90th annual convention of the Ontario Educational Association, said:

"It is not sensible, when something is taken in at the gate, to say the boys who play the game should not be reimbursed for time lost from work."

Dr. Hardy said he is opposed to "spectator sports." There was a tendency among many persons "to participate in games through the seat of their pants."

He said professionalism has "brutalized sport and brought in corruption."

"When professionalism enters a sport, there is a deterioration of athletics because people became spectators rather than participants and the prize becomes more important than the contest itself."

He considered athletics a necessary and important part of general education.

Athletics can be one of the most important character-building forces in education. But such sport should be spontaneous. The university's job is to provide the facilities for sport and then let the students organize themselves."

Montreal Wins Basketball Title

By VIC MORRIS, JR.

MONTREAL, April 11—(CP)—Montreal today is in possession of its first Canadian Senior Basketball championship. Monday night, Montreal YMHA Blues trounced University of Manitoba Bisons 57-38 to capture the best-of-five series, three games to one.

More than 2,000 persons jammed McGill University's gymnasium to see the Montrealers score an easy win over their less-experienced opponents from the west.

The Westerners, who fought every inch of the way, lacked the polish and smooth-passing combinations of the Blues. Their defeat was also due to hard luck. During the close play in the last half of the game they lost star players Stan McDougall and Carl Ridd, forced out with five personal fouls each.

Rangers Underdogs Again Start Finals With Wings

DETROIT, April 11—(CP)—Today's National Hockey League question: Which is better—a first-place club which has just struggled a tough semi-final series or a fourth-place team that's had plenty of rest?

That just about sizes up Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers as they prepare for the first game of their Stanley Cup finals in Detroit tonight—and the first All-American title game since the 1942-43 season.

The betting fraternity doesn't seem to think the Red Wings are too game-weary after the gruelling semi-final series against Toronto Maple Leafs. The Leafs forced the league champions to seven tough games, and today's odds stood at 12-5 in favor of Detroit.

But, anything can happen tonight.

Have Week's Rest

Rangers weren't given much of a chance when they met Montreal Canadiens in the semi-finals after finishing fourth during the regular schedule. They polished off the Canadiens in five games and bedded down for a week's rest.

It's the first time Rangers have been in the finals since they beat the Leafs in 1940, and manager Frank Boucher says:

"We looked very, very good against Canadiens. The team seems to be in top physical and mental shape . . . I guess we're like it."

the underdogs but we don't feel

Coach Lynn Patrick, of Rangers, said he would rather have faced Toronto than Detroit but said both clubs appeared "tired and drawn" in the game he scouted in Toronto last Saturday.

Will Use Toronto

The New Yorkers arrived here from Toronto Monday where they held a final practice session. The their home rink—Madison Square Rangers won't have the use of Garden—because of a circus and have decided to use Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens for "home" games.

Reminded that Rangers won only one league game in Toronto in two seasons, Boucher opined: "It doesn't mean a darn thing in the playoffs. Records seem to fall apart in them. Anyway, we're not playing the Leafs."

Only one Ranger is on the sidelines—defenceman Wally Stanowski who was out of action the last half of the regular schedule because of a knee injury.

Meanwhile, the Red Wings had little to say about the outcome of the series other than they were confident of winning the cup.

They have three regulars on the injury list. They are forwards Gordie Howe, Jim Peters and Pete Babando. The latter two are nursing a collection of minor bruises and may see action later in the series.

Howe, who underwent brain surgery for a head injury in the first game against the Leafs, was discharged from hospital Monday.

His only comment: "This is one series I don't want to miss even though I'll have to be on the sidelines."

Biltmores Open Series With Montreal Tonight

MONTREAL, April 11—(CP)—Guelph Biltmores, who caused a major upset by winning the Ontario Junior Hockey championship, are in Montreal today confident of continuing along the Memorial Cup trail.

The New York Rangers' farm club opposes Montreal Junior Canadiens tonight in the opener of a best-of-seven final series for the Eastern Canada title and a berth in the Dominion finals.

Piloted by Alf Pike, a former New York winger, Biltmores ended up fourth in the nine-team Ontario circuit, but came through to knock out Barrie Flyers and the favored Windsor Spitfires for the league honors.

They met with stiff opposition from the Northern Ontario titleholders, Porcupine Combines, but had enough to take the All-Ontario series in five games.

Meantime, coach Sam Pollock had his Canadiens working out daily since Halifax St. Mary's conceded a semi-final series after suffering two shellackings.

WINGS SIGN WINDSOR STAR

Officials of the Detroit Red Wings announced Monday that Glenn Skov, star forward with Windsor Spitfire Juniors for the last two seasons, has signed a professional hockey contract for the 1951 season.

We honestly believe we've got a motion picture treat that everyone should know about!
In our humble opinion "Francis" is the greatest comedy to come out of the war—period.
But the very nicest thing about the picture is that no matter how the war affected you personally, "Francis" will warm your heart with its lasting laughter... and with its wonderful, wonderfully joyous story.
Please see "Francis"... please!

Youths Protest Parade Stopped

OTTAWA, April 11.—(CP). — The Ottawa Recreation Commission Monday cracked down on a teen-age protest parade against reduction by city fathers of the ORC budget.

A monster parade, embracing youth from all city community centres, had been planned earlier Monday to protest the cutting by board of control last week of the ORC budget to $45,000. The commission had asked for $85,000.

ORC officials said the cut would drastically curtail community centre activity, but that protest parades "will not be tolerated."

About 50 youths from the Cambridge Community Centre paraded to city hall Saturday, bearing placards, but found all city offices closed for the Easter holiday. The youths immedaitely launched plans to parade again Monday in conjunction with other centres.

"The sort of demonstration is all right for the Communists in Europe, but we're not going to have it around here," said M. M MacIntyre, ORC office manager. "The proper way to object is through the aldermen in the various wards, and that's the way it will be done."

Ford Production, Profits Record

WINDSOR, April 11—(CP)—Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, today reported record production, sales and profits for 1949.

Production of 112,130 cars and trucks brought a total sales volume of $212,036,601 and net profit of $17,256,762, or $10.40 a share.

Output compares with 97,015 units, dollar sales of $178,288,888 and net of $7,969,534 or $4.80 a share in 1948.

Last year's total sales were up 42 per cent over the record peacetime year of 1947 when the company's factories built 101,185 vehicles.

The report said the increase in sales volume last year was wholly attributable to improved sales in the Canadian market. The Canadian market, it added, absorbed 84.5 per cent of the Canadian-made cars and trucks sold by the company in 1949.

48-Day Fast Continues Wants St. Laurent's Okay

QUEBEC, April 11 (CP)—Jules Sioui, 43-year-old Huron Indian from the near-by reserve at Loretteville, is due to appear in Court of King's Bench tomorrow, but his physician tonight told The Canadian Press the talkative Indian's 48-day hunger strike had rendered him too weak to go.

"They'll have to come for him with an ambulance," Dr. Gaston Jean of Loretteville said. "And even then, he is really in no condition to make an appearance in court."

Sioui is charged with obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with his activities as secretary-treasurer of an organization called The Government of the North American Indian Nation.

The Huron's hunger strike started Feb. 22 when he vowed he would not eat again until Prime Minister St. Laurent came personally to his dwelling in the reserve to sign papers acknowledging the rights he claims for North American Indians.

Dr. Jean, who is also federal government medical officer to the reserve, said Sioui has remained in bed and that he has taken nothing but a daily pint of boiled water with two teaspoons of sugar dissolved in it.

Dr. Jean added that Sioui could live up to 100 days from the beginning of his hunger strike.

He said Sioui now weighed 123 pounds, compared with 170 pounds at the start of his fast.

Sioui spends his days in bed while his wife operates the small grocery store at the front of his home.

The Crown so far has not decided what it will do if Sioui does not appear in court tomorrow.

One officer said that normally a bench warrant would be issued.

The scheduled court appearance is only a formal one, since at that time all criminal cases which have not been heard during the spring criminal assizes will be postponed to the October term and dates of trial in each case will be fixed.

Soo Ice Thicker Season Delayed

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., April 11 (CP)—The outlook for navigation through St. Mary's River appeared dimmer Monday than a week ago, due to colder weather which has thickened the ice all through the river.

The Coast Guard cutters Kaw and Mesquite, which left here at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, were making slow but steady progress bucking ice which measures 20 inches in thickness in Neebish Channel in their endeavour to reach the mouth of the St. Mary's River at Detour.

It is estimated it may be Thursday or Friday before these cutters reach Detour. Ice through Upper St. Mary's River through to Whitefish Point also remains solid, and no attempt as yet is being made to force passage through this section.

Family Court Work Commended

If he hasn't already heard about it, Magistrate W. R. Philp, K. C., will be surprised to learn that the finance committee of the council voluntarily increased his salary $100 Monday night.

He attended the meeting at the request of the council to explain several items, including an increase of $750 to the Children's Aid Society, in the budget of the Family Court.

Said Ald. Sands afterward: "It appears to me that everybody got an increase in salary except Mr. Philp. He puts more time into the work and takes more interest in it than some of the so-called social service workers. I think we should show some appreciation of what he has been doing."

Budget of $6,600.

The court budget for this year is now $6,600. It came to the council as $6,500. The Magistrate will receive $1,100 this year instead of $1,000, but it is not because he asked for it, or because the council considered that extra $100 was adequate. However, it is a token of appreciation.

Mr. Philp had told the council that Belleville has set up a Family Court, now in its first year, with a budget of $9,000. "I don't know any Family Court in Ontario that is more reasonably operated than our own," he said.

Because the $100 increase falls short of the council's appreciation of quality of service, Mr. Philp has given the community in Family Court, Ald. Doug. Miller moved that a formal letter be sent the Magistrate conveying the council's recognition of his work in quietly trying to mend homes and keep families together. Ald. Sands seconded it.

Hopkin's Condition Remains Critical

The condition of Milton Hopkins, 30, Lakefield, in Civic Hospital after a head-on car crash Saturday night on Highway 28, is still critical, hospital authorities say.

He has a fractured pelvis, cuts on the abdomen, face and ear, and other injuries. There is said to be no improvement in his condition today.

Cecil Darling, 46, also of Lakefield, and driver of the other car, is said to be improving. He has a fractured left knee cap and cuts on the neck.

Archie Sterling, 45, Lakefield, a passenger in Hopkins' car when it crashed into the north-bound taxi, was released on Sunday. He sustained facial cuts and a severe shaking up. Unlike the other two he was not thrown from his vehicle.

WILLIAM DAVIS

William Davis Descendant Of Pioneers Dies

BETHANY, April 11 (ENS) — William Davis, Bethany's oldest resident, a descendant of pioneer stock, died Monday in Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay, after an illness of two weeks. He was in his 96th year.

He was a lifetime resident of this district. His grandfather, Arthur Graham, of Cavan, Ireland, emigrated in 1818 and was among the first settlers in the township.

Mr. Davis was born in Bethany, son of the late William Davis and Prudence Graham, and he was educated in the local public school and lived in the community until his death.

Left are a son, Byron, of Lindsay; four daughters, Mrs. Harry Rogers (Ada), of Lindsay, Mrs. Harold Thompson (Myrtle) and Mrs. James Boggs (Josephine), of Manvers Station, and Miss Lila Davis, at home.

There are also five grandchildren—Mrs. Vernon O'Connor, North Bay; Byron Rogers, Toronto; Elmo Rogers, Lindsay; Morton Davis, Bethany, and Miss Madeline Boggs, of Peterborough; five great-grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. William Boggs, of Manvers Station.

His wife, the former Adeline Twigg, died 18 years ago. When his grandfather married Miss J. Morton it was the first recorded marriage in the township.

Having a very retentive memory, he was able to recall some of the early records of Bethany and district. His father was one of the board members who in 1857 decided on the name of the village and his father also donated the land for St. Paul's Anglican Church in 1876.

As a young man, Mr. Davis was employed as a mail carrier and his 32-mile route included Ballyduff, Lotus, Burton, Newry, Janetville and Lifford. During the heavy snows of mid-winter he would often be unable to complete his delivery until midnight or early morning.

On one occasion he neglected to tie his horse and it galloped away. It was recaptured by a swift-footed young schoolteacher, Major Sam Hughes, of Lindsay, then teaching at Lifford. Later the schoolteacher reached the rank of maior general and was Canada's Minister of Militia in the first world war.

Mr. Davis was also a carpenter and farmer but had been retired for the past 20 years.

A staunch Orangeman who joined the order in 1872, he took part in the annual marches until recent years. During his membership he took five degrees in the Orange and 11 in the Black. He was an honorary member of Bethany LOL 1022 for the past 22 years.

One of his recollections was the numerous Orange celebrations held in Bethany in the old exhibition grounds located near Pidgeon Creek. At one time there were 300 members in this lodge.

The body is lying at the residence in Bethany and will be taken to St. Paul's Anglican Church for service at 2.30 p.m. Wednesday. The Rev. T. S. Gault, of St. Paul's, will officiate.

Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery, Manvers.

Ball People Say $15,000 Sure For Floodlights

"We are quite confident that we can raise the $15,000 for Riverside," Vern Dawson of the Peterborough Baseball Club told the finance committee of the council Monday night.

He was accompanied by Hugh Campbell, Eddie Murphy, Dit Clapper, and George Clarke in a progress report of their canvass for funds.

"We haven't been turned down anywhere," said Mr. Clarke. "Management of our industries have recommended that grants be made but we have to wait for head office meetings in some cases, such as Canadian General Electric, Quaker Oats, De Laval."

The ball club executive is undertaking to collect $15,000 and give it to the city as their contribution toward the cost of floodlighting the park. Estimated cost is $35,000 of which $20,000 would have to be forthcoming from the city council, although the control of the park is a responsibility of the Recreation Commission.

Trend To Floodlighting

As an evidence of the trend of nightball and the reviving of the game, Mr. Dawson read a news item from the Port Arthur Chronicle of March 14 reporting that its council had provided $135,000 for flood lights, and grandstand accommodation for 2,200. Final estimate of expenditure is $170,000 by 1951.

Night games in western Ontario Mr. Murphy said, were drawing such average crowds as 2,600 at Brantford, 4,000 at London, and 3,000 at Kitchener, Guelph and Waterloo. These cities had all set up flood lights.

The installation at Guelph was completed at the middle of June, and for that season the club paid the council $4,600 on the basis of 25 per cent of the gate receipts. Kitchener contributed 33 1-3 per cent of the receipts in the beginning of its agreement, but dropped back to 25 per cent.

The question of financing the community's part of the project was left to the executive committee of the council.

Compares With Arena

"I believe the ball park will turn out a good thing," said Ald. H. Dodds. "That has been our experience at Civic Arena. I don't think it will cost the citizens anything in the long run."

Ald. E. C. Braund sugested that the ball club should take the responsibility of seeing that the $20,000 came back to the council.

"The ball club would be using the park only two nights a week," said Mr. Clarke. "This investment isn't just for baseball."

Ald. Sands: "I don't think we should be arguing with these men. This is a matter that rests between the council and its Recreation Commission. The ball club is giving us $15,000."

Ald. Dodds: "They came here tonight to tell us how they are getting along with financing their contribution and equipment."

Good Business

Mayor Swanston said he agreed that Riverside floodlights were a bigger matter than the ball club. "We might remember that the first winter our rink didn't amount to much. It was not until we put in artificial ice that it paid off. I think lights at the park would be good business, and that the management of the park should be in the hands of capable committee such as we have for the Arena."

Ald. Doug. Miller recalled that the council was unable to clip $19,000 off the budget to reduce the tax rate to 49 mills, "but now we are being asked to find $20,000 and we haven't got it. What I am concerned about is a definite financial plan which would justify our help in the eyes of the ratepayers."

It was sugested that possibly the community financing might be arranged through the Utilities Commission, but that possibility and other details were left to the executive committee "to iron out."

REPAIR INCINERATOR

Finance committee of the council accepted Monday night the tender of J. K. Sheehy at $877 for repairs to the incinerator. Mayor Swanston presided in the absence of Ald. H. F. Waddell. City Engineer Chalmers had recommended that the work be done by Mr. Sheehy because he had constructed the building, and knew its details of structure. The general circumstances recommended that tenders be dispensed with.

Director of Unemployed Flays Ottawa; Worst Ahead

Increasing unemployment, despite federal government claims to the contrary, can be expected within the next few years. That was the gloomy prediction made Monday night by Joe Mackenzie, director of the newly-created National Federation of Unemployed Workers, who addressed the constitutional meeting of the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL).

He accused the federal government of "lagging" on its public works program but conceded that Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario was "moving" on the provincial level.

"Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent has said that free enterprise would be able to look after the slack in the employment situation," said Mr. Mackenzie. "But I think the figures belie his statement. Instead the situation is getting worse, mainly in industrial sections."

Also president of the Ontario Federation of Labor and former director of the "Rubberworkers" URWA (CIO-CCL), Mr. Mackenzie earlier this year was given the job by the CCL leadership of forming unions of unemployed. The locals would be affiliated to the district CCL labor council.

To Exclude Communists

They would include union and non-union members but would prohibit the membership of known fascists and communists. This latter provision has been one of the most controversial features in the organization of the unemployed workers' union, still in its infancy.

"The federal government announced that the number of registered unemployed on March 2 was 375,900," he said, "but this doesn't begin to list the number of people out of jobs, and this is admitted. The regional director estimated the number at better than 400,000."

When the unemployed begin to nudge the 500,000 mark it will mean a reduction of about 10 per cent in the working force of Canada. And this will mean a corresponding decrease in domestic production.

He cited the opinions of economists to show that the maintenance of full employment means a slight increased capital re-investment each year for the next few years. A Bank of Nova Scotia report recently predicted only the same sized re-investment for 1950, he said, and in the final analysis this means unemployment.

Purpose of the National Federation of Unemployed Workers was twofold, the speaker indicated: to help implement the present program of full employment, and assist those out of jobs to get all benefits they are entitled to.

Sought Government Action

The CCL and the Trades and Labor Congress made joint representations to the federal government in January asking them to begin the public works program.

Reform Term For Hotel Theft

Donald E. Heather, 323 King St., was sentenced to four months in reformatory today by Magistrate W. R. Philp when he pleaded guilty to the April 3 theft of $823.00 from the Queen's Hotel, Simcoe St.

Heather, at the time of the theft an employee of the hotel, was arrested the same day. A parcel of money, containing more than $700, was found in the basement of his King St. home.

Heather's brother-in-law, to whom Heather gave $100 of the money, was given suspended sentence by his worship and put on probation for two years.

Det. William Clarke told court he went to Heather's home, where his sister admitted she knew Heather had stolen some money. "I found a parcel of money hidden under a pile of shutters in the cellar," the detective said. "It contained $707.45. His sister's husband gave me $100 he said Heather had given him."

Heather told court he came to Peterborough a month-and-a-half ago, after working in Toronto for four years. He said he had been in the army during the war, nad was married shortly after his discharge.

Looking at accused's record, Magistrate Philp commented: "It strikes me you have had no convictions since you returned from England."

Crown Counsel John Bradshaw pointed out: "His convictions ceased at the time of his marriage."

In sentencing Heather, Magistrate Philp said: "You will be sentenced to four months defer e in reformatory. I hope you realize this is a light sentence, and is given in view of your excellent record since you were married."

Council Committee Favors 5-Ft. Set-Back

To the finance committee of the council, the request of Noel Rishor that the proposed set-back of 20 feet be reduced to five feet, on the west side of George St., 150 feet north and south of London St., appears to be reasonable.

That opinion was expressed on Monday night to town planning committee in a motion by Ald. Herbert Young, seconded by Ald H. Dodds.

"Would the city pay for the 20 feet?" Ald. E. C. Braund enquired.

"No," was Mayor Swanston's answer.

"'Tisn't right," said Ald. Braund.

Carbon Monoxide In Cellar Traps Two Using Gas Pump Both Revived By Fire Squad

Two Peterborough men had a brush with death Monday evening when they were overcome with carbon monoxide fumes in the basement of 507 Stewart St. Neighbors arrived to rescue the trapped men and the Fire Department sent an inhalator crew to revive them. Exhaust from a gasoline engine being used to pump water from a flooded basement caused the accident. The water had seeped in from nearby Jackson Creek.

Recovering from the effects of the fumes are Lansley B. Hartley, 82, of 507 Stewart St. and his son-in-law William Wight, 48, of 167 Adeline St.

An inhalator squad consisting of Captain Albert Mason and Firemen Grover Deck and Ray Harrison worked on Mr. Wight for 12 minutes and on Mr. Hartley for 13 minutes. Although he had not inhaled as much of the carbon monoxide fumes as his son-in-law, Mr. Hartley, presumably because of his age, was extremely groggy and ill.

Couldn't Get Out

The gasoline-powered pumping machine was set on the basement steps, the basement windows were opened and the pumper turned on. Most of the water had been drained out when Mr. Wight became groggy and tried to get out of the basement.

So did Mr. Hartley who was watching the operation.

However the large engine blocked their exit up the stairs. When found by a neighbor, Don Flett of 576 Stewart St., the younger man had collapsed at the bottom of the stairs and his leg was caught under one step. He was lying in several inches of water.

Mr. Hartley had not collapsed completely but was hanging to the staircase unable to save himself.

Carried To Verandah

Together with another neighbor C. Murray Newton of 503 Stewart St., Mr. Flett carried the helpless pair out to the verandah and they began artificial respiration.

It was Mrs. Hartley who first sensed something was wrong and asked the aid of the two men. Her husband had tried to assist Mr. Wight by lifting his head above the water.

Firemen then took over with respirator units. Originally they were told a motor was on fire and when they found out what was the matter, had to send back for the respirator equipment.

Dr. Robert Bell attended. It was not necessary to take either man to hospital.

Fire Chief George Smith added the comment that persons using gasoline engines for pumping should put the unit outside the house in the open air. And the water can be sucked out by letting down a pipe.

An open window is not sufficient protection, said Chief Smith.

1,500 Take Part In Lions Bingo

Over 1,500 persons attended Monday night the bi-monthly Lions Club Bingo in the Summer Gardens. The attendance was down on the record-breaking bingo held two weeks ago when over 2,300 people jammed the Gardens to help the club raise funds for the $50,000 swimming pool at Riverside Park.

The main drawing card, an English-manufactured car, was won this week by Mrs. G. Wood, 492 George St. south. This car was the second of three to be given away at the bingos by the club. The last car will be given away at the next club bingo in two weeks.

Monday night's crowd entered the building without waiting. Two weeks ago the people started to line-up about 6.30 for the bingo. This week there was room for another 500 in the building.

Champion Muskie Fisher Joseph Micolucci, 59, Dies

Joseph Micolucci, Charlotte St. tailor, will not be here to see his picture in the 1950 Vacation Edition of the Examiner and read the story about him as the champion muskie fisherman of Little Lake. He died Monday at St. Joseph's Hospital of a lingering illness.

The photograph shows him holding a 25-pound maskinonge, one of many mammoths he had hooked and hauled out of Little Lake in some years of following his hobby of fishing only a short walk from his place of business.

Mr. Micolucci was born in Italy 59 years ago, son of Vincent Micolucci and his wife, Sabina Tinaglia. He came to Peterborough 43 years ago.

He leaves two brothers, Charles in Pittsburgh, Pa., and Nicholas in South America, and a sister, Mrs. Torrasantucci, in Italy. The funeral will be held Thursday at 8:45 a.m. from the Lane Funeral Home, Hunter St., to St. Peter's Cathedral for requiem mass. Burial will be at St. Peter's cemetery.

The Vacation Edition story posthumously confers on Joseph Micolucci the evidently merited title of champion of the maskinonge fishermen in local waters. He had amply proved that some of the biggest fish in the Kawarthas were to be caught within the central waters of Peterborough, in the river and Little Lake. The tribute to him was that he was a loyal conservationist, which in simpler terms meant that he strictly adhered to the game law, and would not think of landing under-size fish. In 1946 he reported some 30 strikes, but only nine of them were added to his count of catches. The others he dropped back into the water "to grow up".

The Officers and Board of the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Assoc. extend a cordial invitation to attend Their Annual Meeting and Tea to be held in the Young Women's Christian Association Wednesday Afternoon, April 12th, 1950 at 2.30 o'clock

Reds Top Brain Directing Longshore Union

HONOLULU, April 11—(AP)—An avowed former Communist says Communist party members were the brains of Harry Bridge's CIO Longshore Union in Hawaii.

The House of Representatives Committee on Un-American Activities heard this testimony Monday from Ichiro Izuka, who said he was a member of the party for 10 years until he quit in October, 1946.

The congressional group is investigating alleged communist activity in this island territory which soon hopes to become a 49th state of the U.S.

Izuka named Jack Hall, regional director of the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, as a dues-paying member of the Communist Party through June, 1946. He said he himself collected dues from Hall, Bridges' lieutenant in Hawaii.

In compliance with the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, Hall signed a non-communist affidavit last Feb. 27.

After asserting he knew that communists formulated ILWU policy in 1946, Izuka said:

"And even today they are in the saddle. They are dictating the ILWU policies."

Izuka, who said he was treasurer of the party's Waikiki cell, estimated there were about 130 party members in Hawaii in 1946. Of these, 90 per cent were ILWU members, he testified.

E P. RANCHHOUSE — This is the 12-room ranchhouse on the Duke of Windsor's 4,000-acre ranch near Pekisko, Alta., 65 miles southwest of Calgary. The ranch was purchased by the Duke while still Prince of Wales. At present only about 200 head of purebred cattle and sheep are owned by the Duke. This photo was taken when the Duke and Duchess last visited their foothills retreat in 1941. This week they are visiting the ranch again. There have been rumors the ranch may be sold.

The ranchhouse has not been occupied since 1941 when the Duke and Duchess last visited the E.P. ranch in the Rockie foothills. This week they were visiting the ranch again.

Films, Music And Mining Easter Program

HAVELOCK, April 11—(ENS)—An Easter service was held in Knox Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening, when a talkie film, "The First Easter Morn," was shown by the Rev. R. D. Duncanson. The recently organized junior choir sang under the direction of Donald Pollock.

Havelock and Belmont Branch No. 389 of the Canadian Legion, BESL, paraded to Knox Church on Sunday afternoon, led by the Havelock Pipe Band under the direction of Piper Major Harry Anderson, where the service in commemoration of Vimy Ridge was conducted by Mr. Duncanson.

The senior choir rendered an anthem "Hail Mighty Victor" and a quartette comprising Beverley and Shirley Bennett and Elaine and Joan Graham, sang "Dear Spirit Lead Me."

The cantata "Matthias Ben Ezra" was performed by the young people's choir in the evening at Havelock United Church, under the direction of W. Platt, with Mrs. Platt at the piano, Mrs. R. Campney at the organ and Mr. Harry Anderson, violin.

Mime Easter Story

A large green hill erected on the west side of the choir loft made a very fine setting for the pantomime, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross " which was mimed by Edith Thompson and Helen Robinson, the choir singing the hymn. The story in connection with the cantata was told by the Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh and was interspersed with six anthems.

Two duets were sung, "Wonderful Message of Jesus" by Beulah Chase and Mrs. F. Oliver and "Above the Hills of Time" by Shirley Bennett and Joan Graham.

A sextette comprising Mary Vanderburgh, Beverley Bennett, Edith Thompson, Mrs. T. Ellis, Earl Agnew and James Watson sang "In Joseph's Lovely Garden."

Object To CBC, Radio Stations "Do As We Like"

OTTAWA, April 11 — (CP) — The Canadian Association of Broadcasters today took sharp issue with a statement that private stations were spending money on campaigns to have the laws of the country changed—money that they might better spend on the development of live radio talent.

The statement was made last September by the CBC in a brief submitted to the Royal Commission on Arts and Science. At that time the CBC said:

"Private station interests have spent much money and energy on campaigns to change the laws of Canada. It would appear to be more in the public interest if the same money and energy were applied to developing better live broadcasting by private stations and a greater use of Canadian talent and opinion."

Reply Today

Replying today in a supplementary brief to the commission, the CAB said the CBC should be censured for its statement.

"Generally speaking, we feel that such a statement requires no answer and as a matter of fact, answers itself. The continued existence of democracy in Canada will be guaranteed by the fact that any individual or group of individuals can, if they so desire, attempt to bring about change in the laws of the Dominion of Canada.

"The changes that have been recommended in the laws of Canada with respect to radio broadcasting stations are designed to bring to an end the monopoly of certain phases of radio broadcasting by a government-owned corporation.

"We have suggested . . . that the monopoly that has been given to this government-owned corporation has resulted in control of listening. We believe that we are working in the public interest, convenience and necessity when we attempt to change any law that would seem to restrict the freedom of listening."

The CAB brief said that in the 1848-49 fiscal year the CBC spent $243,353 for press and information.

CBC Using Funds

"We believe that it has already been demonstrated to you in evidence presented before you in Toronto, that some of the public funds of the CBC have been used to convince the public of the superiority of certain CBC programs, or of programs of American origin over CBC stations at the expense of those of free enterprise stations in the same city," said the brief .

"We believe that some of these public funds have been used to criticize the operations of the free enterprise broadcasting stations. We believe that some of these public funds have been used to prevent the operators of the free enterprise broadcasting stations from securing from the government of this country equality with the publicly-owned broadcasting system . . ."

CBC Censorship

"We further suggest that the CBC have used the broadcasting act to reserve unto themselves the exclusive authority of censorship of radio broadcasting in Canada and set themselves up as the exclusive authority of what type of broadcasting Canadians will listen to," said the brief. "It's our suggestion that this is a complete measure of authority and and in complete contradiction with the Canadian democratic way of life . . .

"There should be no regulations which would control program content of any radio broadcasting station except the laws of the land with respect to such as libel, defamation, sedition and the lotteries act, etcetera.

"The free enterprise broadcasting stations should be granted licences without expiration and cancellable only when it has been established before the radio broadcasting regulatory board and on appeal before the Supreme Court that the trust given has been misused."

At present, the power to cancel radio station licences rests with the CBC.

Private TV Stations

The brief reiterated the CAB's views that television licences should be granted to existing privately-owned stations first and that the CBC should remain out of the commercial television field.

Referring to previous evidence before the commission, the brief took issue with the CBC's statement that broadcasting is a public utility and therefore should be under the control of a system supported and owned by the public.

The brief said that as a medium of mass communication, radio broadcasting falls into the same category as newspapers, magazines, motion pictures and the like. It was the belief of C.A.B. that a free press and a free radio are essential to the protection of the personal freedom of Canadians.

No Kicks

In evidence placed before the Commission, the C.A.B. was impressed with the fact that no group, with the possible exception of the CBC, had suggested any "shortcomings on the part of free enterprise stations with respect to community service."

"The criticisms of free enterprise radio stations have been that we do not use sufficient live talent and that we use too many transcriptions and recordings of American origin.

"The problem of the use of live talent in such areas where live talent of sufficient calibre does exist is entirely an economic one. The broadcasting of large symphonic groups, of operatic societies, of philharmonic orchestras or major dramatic groups is a very costly one, and one which cannot be borne by an individual broadcasting stations except under very unusual circumstances."

Negroes Will Sing In Met 'In Few Years'

VANCOUVER, April 11 (CP)—Kenneth Spencer said Monday in an interview he is more confident than ever that he and other Negroes will sing lead roles at the Metropolitan Opera "soon—and by that I mean in a few years."

The 38-year-old baritone is in British Columbia for a radio recital here and a concert in Victoria.

Mr. Spencer said wealthy backers of New York's Met still are doggedly opposed to letting Negroes appear in principal roles. But he said he felt the day is measurably nearer when public demand will force them to give in.

Toys Go Modern Jet-Propelled At Trade Fair

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The Trade Fair season is coming up and three of them are of particular interest to Canadians.

They are the British Industries Fair at London and Birmingham May 8-19; the third Canadian International Trade Fair at Toronto May 29-June 9; the first United States International Trade Fair at Chicago August 7-19.

Word from the first of them, the British Industries, describes it as the "biggest ever" featuring industrial developments of the post-war era. However, it will have a lighter side, even if somewhat fearful in its own way, and that's the 72,000 square feet devoted to toys and games.

Here are some of the things you may expect from the small fry in the future if they can get their hands on them:

A "radio-controlled" target plane which a boy can fly by remote control. "Jet-propelled" cars powered by a chemical rocket.

A submarine which dives to the bottom of the bathtub, travels beneath the water and finally surfaces on an even keel.

A walking toy puppy which can be "steered" by a handgrip control attached to a flexible lead.

A swing which needs no pushing; pressure on a foot-rest sets it going automatically.

Dolls with life-like skins which walk and sit down.

A water pistol which gives 50 quick-fire jets of water with one filling.

Guess that's enough to scare you!

From Belgium come details of the Liege International Fair in mining, metallurgy, mechanical and electrical engineering April 29-May 14. Among the exhibitors are the United States, Britain, France, Western Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Sweden, Holland, Austria and Norway.

WITHOUT A NAIL—This circular three-storey stairway at Wolverton, Ont., is probably without equal in Canada. Enos Wolverton, well-known Southwestern Ontario flour miller, built the three-storey home in 1853 and then searched two years for someone who could build the staircase. He found an English millwright who took two years to complete the job. There isn't a nail in it. The pieces were steamed to the correct curves and joined with wooden pegs.

Woman Found In Hotel Dies Of Alcoholism

LOS ANGELES, April 11 (AP) —Sally Oswald, 39-year-old divorcee whose nude body was found in a hotel room last Wednesday, died of acute alcoholism and pneumonia, Dr. Frederick Newbarr, county autopsy surgeon, reported Monday after completing an autopsy.

At first police thought Mrs. Oswald, a waitress, might have been slain. Strange notes, with some of the words undecipherable, were found penned on her breast and back.

Tea Company Raises Price Four Cents

TORONTO, April 11—(CP)—The Salada Tea Company of Canada Ltd., Monday increased its wholesale prices by four cents a pound. It was indicated other tea companies would follow suit.

"Tea costs in producing countries have risen 200 per cent since the war, yet the price to the consumer has increased only 65 per cent," said one representative of a tea company.

The four-cent increase will bring the wholesale cost of one pound of Salada Orange Pekoe tea to $1.05.

Boy, 16, Freed Of 7 Years Jail

PORTLAND, Me., April 11 — (AP)—Franklin Wade, 16, convicted last February of manslaughter in the shooting of his high school sweetheart, Monday was ordered freed by the Maine Supreme Court. He was serving a seven-to-14 year term.

The tribunal found he had been confined illegally; that the Municipal Court should have considered the case one of juvenile delinquency.

Wade was convicted of shooting Katherine B. Furbish, 16, in her bedroom last November. He testified the gun went off when she grabbed it during a lovers' quarrel.

Royal Navy Chief Visits Canada On Subs

OTTAWA, April 11 (CP) — Lord Fraser of North Cape, the United Kingdom's top sailor, arrived in Canada Monday for a three-day visit with government and military leaders.

Britain's First Sea Lord, and Chief of Staff of the Royal Navy, arrived here by air in a United States navy plane, following a tour of United States defence centres.

Although his visit is described as a "courtesy call," it is understood Lord Fraser has come prepared to discuss any matters the Canadians may wish to take up with him, particularly aspects of anti-submarine warfare—expected to be Canada's chief naval role under the North Atlantic Pact commitments.

McCarthy Asks Senate For Mystery Witness

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP) Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) Monday asked Senate spy hunters to subpoena a mystery witness who will swear, he said, that Owen Lattimore is or was a member of the Communist network in the United States.

There is speculation that the witness is Louis F. Budenz, former managing editor of the Communist Daily Worker, now a member of the Fordham University faculty.

Budenz renounced Communism in 1945 to re-enter the Roman Catholic Church.

Lattimore, 49-year-old Johns Hopkins University professor and occasional State Department consultant on far east affairs, has testified under oath that he was never a Communist. He has denounced McCarthy as a contemptible liar for making the accusation.

Liquor Board Hopes To Start Help Alcoholics

TORONTO, April 11 (CP) — Rev. John W. Foote, Deputy Ontario Liquor Commissioner, said Monday night the provincial government hopes to develop a rehabilitation program for alcoholics.

It will be patterned after Connecticut's program for prevention of alcoholism, he said in an address prepared for delivery on an Ontario network in the CBC's free-time series, "Provincial Affairs."

"The scope of (the Connecticut) commission includes the care, custody, detention, treatment, employment and rehabilitation of alcoholics and—what is most significant in the long run—the prevention of alcoholism."

Mr. Foote said representatives of the government, churches and other interested groups will visit Connecticut soon for a first-hand study of the project.

Financial Worries Blamed For 5 Deaths

FAIRHAVEN, Mass., April 11—(AP) — Housing and financial troubles were blamed Monday for the deaths of a family of five.

Medical Examiner William Rosen said Walter Golas, a 30-year-old machinist, bludgeoned to death his wife, Barbara, 27, and then asphyxiated himself and his three children. The family was found in its gas-filled cottage Saturday night.

Dr. Rosen said the Golas home had been sold and the family had been given an eviction notice.

Opposes King

BRUSSELS, April 11 (AP)—Former Premier Paul - Henri Spaak Monday told his Socialist colleagues that the party's stand against the return of King Leopold III might lead to years of "merciless fight." Earlier, the Socialist party's president, Max Buset, had stated that the only acceptable compromise would be the abdication of the king.

Political Boss, Pal Of Kansas City Buried

KANSAS CITY, April 11 (AP) —Charles Binaggio, local political boss, and his henchman were buried in the same cemetery here Monday after a priest had defended Christian services for them and condemned conditions permitting an underworld.

Separate Roman Catholic services were held for the 41-year-old politician and his muscle man Charles Gargotta, 49, both slain in gangster fashion early last Thursday in their Democratic club headquarters.

At Binaggio's funeral, Rev. Raymond E. Jackson denounced the supposedly-respectable forces which allow the underworld to flourish.

Man Electrocuted

KENORA, April 11 — (CP).—Albert Leadbeater, about 21, died Monday a few hours after coming in contact with a live wire carrying 6,900 volts. Leadbeater, believed to be from Kingston, Ont., was installing rural power lines few miles north of here for the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

Ranch Only Land Ever Owned

MOOSE JAW, Sask., April 11 (CP)—The man who once ruled the world's largest empire said here Monday night he will keep his Alberta ranch because "it is the only land I've ever owned."

The Duke of Windsor, who as King Edward VIII ruled the British Empire for part of a year until he abdicated in 1936 to marry a commoner, issued the statement in an informal press conference. His private car, bound for Calgary and his EP ranch, stopped for an hour between trains.

Rumors of the possibility of the sale of the ranch preceded his visit.

The Duke and his Duchess, the former Mrs. Wallis Simpson talked at first from the platform of their car. When they were told that more than 1,000 persons were waiting in and about the station to greet them they left and walked through the crowd.

Canadian Pacific police escorted them.

The Windsors last visited the Duke's 4,000-acre cattle ranch in 1941. They left Chicago Sunday en route to Alberta after a brief visit in Florida.

Story of Western Settlers One With River Chronicle

By JEAN THOMPSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO—(CP)— Thousands of miles of travel, and study of 200 years of human activity along one of Canada's great rivers have gone into the making of a 100,000-word book, "The Saskatchewan."

Mrs. Marjorie Wilkins Campbell of Toronto, a former magazine editor, spent more than three years writing the book, 41st in the series Rivers of America.

The idea behind the series, Mrs. Campbell explained, was to tell how Europeans pioneered North America as they penetrated the continent along its rivers, for geography has determined the history of North Americans.

Novelists and poets, rather than educationists and historians were chosen to interpret the lore of the rivers. To them the restless questing rhythm of rivers reflected the beautiful country and the young and vital life along their banks.

Interviewed in her city apartment Mrs. Campbell talked enthusiastically about the prairies and foothills. By careful scheduling of her time, she has been able to keep up the roles of housewife, author and active clubwoman since her marriage to Dr. Angus Campbell, an eye, ear and nose specialist.

"Writing the book was hard work," said Mrs. Campbell, a fair, youthful woman. "It was something I just couldn't help doing, and I would rather have written it than anything else. She is the first Canadian woman to contribute to the series, of which only three others have been written by women.

Mrs. Campbell is well fitted by background and experience to write about the mighty prairie river, the great interior highway of the fur trade.

On Western Farm

Born in England, she came when quite young with her family to Canada to a farm north of Qu'Appelle, Sask. She attended school in Swift Current and eventually came east, where she did free lance work for magazines, and became editor of "Magazine Digest."

"The Soil is not Enough," a book she wrote about her father's first seven years in the West, influenced the publishers of the Rivers of America series in commissioning her to write about the Saskatchewan.

"From childhood the river has been almost an obsession with me," the author said. "And as I grew up I visualized rivers in Canada as being responsible for the Canadian point of view, carrying Canada both actually and mentally outward.

By bus, car, plane and on foot, Mrs. Campbell covered the route of the river from its two sources in the Columbia icefields to its mouth on Lake Winnipeg. In a fire ranger's plane, as guest of the Saskatchewan government, she flew the length of the main river from Prince Albert to The Pas, and on to its mouth at Grand Rapids, Man.

"Reaching the mouth of the river was probably the most dramatic and exciting moment of my travelling," said Mrs. Campbell "For after following the meandering river that is like white rick-rack braid on a green carpet, the river suddenly gathers its forces and courses through a rocky cut into Lake Winnipeg My one regret is that I did not shoot those rapids. But I am going back some day to shoot them."

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Men Like Talkative Women Gossips Make Best Wives

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been going steady with a young man and we get along very well together except for one thing which I am afraid will break up our friendship, which I value very highly, and that is my lack of conversation. I talk very little. I am intelligent, well educated and a great reader, but I enjoy listening in preference to talking. This silence on my part is a bone of contention between us. He feels that I am too introspective and that I not only do not talk enough but that I am so shut up in myself that I drive people away from me. Is reticence on a person's part an asset or a liability, or just unnatural?—GRACE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It is all three, according to the way you look at it. Certainly the woman who talks little is kept from saying many foolish things, and if she never discusses her private affairs she save herself from much bitter repentance, and so far reticence is an asset.

Listeners Rare

There is a lot to be said in favor of lending your ears instead of giving your tongue. Good listeners are such a rarity in a world filled with monologists that it appears to me your boy friend does not appreciate the blessing he has in you. Personally, I can think of nothing so delightful as having a companion who would let me do all the talking without even desiring to retaliate.

However, the truth is that most men are conversationally lazy. They don't want to make any effort to entertain a woman. They don't want to have to bother to think up subjects to talk about. And so they pick out a girl who can babble on, like the brook, forever and forever.

And men like chatterbox wives. They like a wife who is overflowing with the news of the house and the neighbourhood and who can't go to the corner grocery without picking up a funny little story. Stevenson rated being a good gossip as the most important quality a wife could have, and he wasn't far wrong.

And certainly we must all admit that reticence is a cloak of ice about an individual that chills any friendly impulse we may have toward her. We never seem to get close to such a one. We never feel really acquainted with her because we never know what she is thinking or feeling, or anything about her private affairs.

So I think learning to talk is a necessary accomplishment for women, and no line they can carry is as good a line as one of innocuous chatter.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Five years ago I married the girl of my dreams and until some six months ago she continued to be just that is my ideals and affections. Then she admitted to me that she liked another man very much and had had several dates with him. She says she feels no love whatever for him, just a desire to be dated by an other man occasionlly. We have three fine children and she has been a wonderful mother and does not neglect the children, our home or me. I have done everything possible to make my wife happy and we live comfortably, but I have known for years that I have not been her ideal but her necessity and it is bitter knowledge. What shall I do? Shall I let my wife go out with other men or what?

AN UNHAPPY HUSBAND

ANSWER: Men are possessive by nature and it is easy to understand how a man who is as devoted to his wife as you are would find it a heart-breaking experience to discover that he was not all in all to her. But, your wife is as she is made and you have to take her on that platform.

Perhaps she married too young, before she had ceased to thrill at the thought that she was attractive to men. Perhaps she is one of the women who can never love one man very deeply, but who will always crave the admiration of many men. Perhaps she is actuated by a little of all of these motives. However that may be, there she is, bored with you, bored with her children and her home, wanting to have a little fling, and what are you going to do about it?

I think you had best make a virtue of necessity and make the grand gesture of giving her free permission to have dates with other men. Thereby you will also do much to rob the situation of its glamour. She won't find half the kick in an affair that is chaperoned by husband, as she would in one where she was deceiving husband and outwitting him and expecting every moment to be discovered.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Every time I get a pretty maid I catch my husband kissing her. What can I do to stop it?

G. L. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I should think the best remedy for the situation would be to employ only old and homely maids. That probably wouldn't stop him from kissing pretty girls, but it would prevent your having to change servants so often.

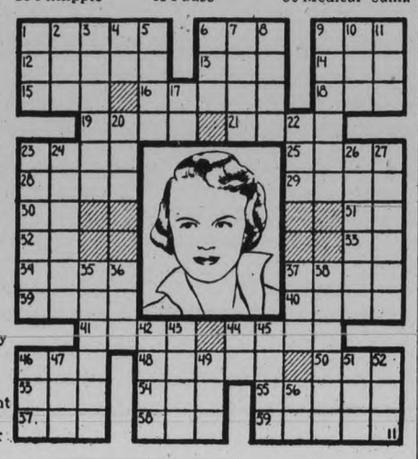
Answer to Previous Puzzle



McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

A number of readers have recently written in requesting the important points on partnership play.

Probably one of the most important facets of teamwork is the alert observation of your partner's discard. By keeping mental track of the cards he does not want, you increase your chances of saving cards that will match his meld. This is particularly advantageous when your side requires 120 points for an initial meld. Also if you discard the same cards as your partner, they are apt to be picked up by your left-hand opponent. Cards not held in your combined hands are likely to be in one of the two opposing hands.

A reader asks:

Q—When I am in a position to take the pack, should I do so immediately?

A—Not necessarily. If there are only a few cards in the pack, it generally pays to wait until it's worth taking. However, timing is very important. If you wait too long someone else may beat you to the punch. Conservative players prefer to take a pack of 10 cards rather than wait in the hope of hitting the stock pile jackpot.

Q—Is it wise to play for a concealed hand?

A—Definitely not. In four-handed canasta, all good things do not come to him who waits. Not only are you likely to get caught with a fistful of wild cards but you may be forcing your partner to ruin his hand by refusing to start the ball rolling with a meld.

Q—Is it possible to freeze the pack by discarding a red trey?

A—No. The red trey freezes the pack only when it is the first card turned up on the stock pile by the dealer. You may hold the red trey in your hand, but if you get caught with it, the penalty will be 500 points.

Q—When is best to go out without asking your partner's permission?

A—When your partner has only a few cards and you have reason to believe that he cannot make a canasta from his hand, or when the element of surprise can be used to catch your foes with unplayed wild cards.

Q—If a player has completed a canasta, mixed or natural, can he continue to play a natural card of the same kind from the discard pile on this same canasta, then take the rest of the discard pile into his hand?

A—Yes. When the pack is not frozen, you may add the up-card of the discard pile to one of your melds or completed canastas. The balance of the pack can then be added to your hand.

Hollywood Takes Kicking Around Deserves It

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, April 11 (AP).—What's wrong with Hollywood's public relations?

The most obvious answer is contained in the front-page antics of Ingrid Bergman, Rita Hayworth, Robert Mitchum, and others. But scandal is not the whole answer. Many observers claim Hollywood has worked too hard for publicity and hardly at all for public relations.

Publicity is concerned with selling products — in the movies' case, stars and pictures. Public relations means making friends for the industry as a whole.

Feller Needs Friends

Hollywood has been lax at answering its critics. The town gets knocked everywhere from Pravda to the U.S. Senate, and not all the pans are worth reply. But many of them are, and the industry as a whole has usually answered too late, too little or not at all.

Much of Hollywood's bad publicity come from the town itself. There are 325 press correspondents, 91 foreign press, 45 news photographers and 12 radio people registered with the Johnston office. The majority of them want their news to be exclusive.

Manufactured

Naturally there can't be enough real news and feature stories to supply all of them. Other material has to be manufactured and some of it does not reflect well on Hollywood.

Supplying this tremendous news need are 170 press agents employed by the studios. The press agents are competing for news space, and some of them pass along bad news about another studio in order to get a puff for their own.

And there are scores of other press agents who work for individuals. Some of them have standards, but others will do anything to get their clients in print.

All of this does not add up to making Hollywood appear to be the sane place that some of its steadier inhabitants claim it is.

What's Right

You don't smoke yourself but you know that some of the guests you have invited to your home do.

Wrong way: Don't provide cigarets assuming that the guests who smoke will bring their own.

Right way: Provide cigarets, matches and ash trays for those who wish to smoke.

6—In Memoriams

GRAHAM—In ever loving memory of a dear husband and father, Bert C. Graham, who died April 10, 1948
Eternal rest grant unto him O Lord
And let perpetual light shine upon him.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by wife Betty and little daughter Marie.

KELLY—In loving memory of our dear Jackie, who passed away two years ago:
God knew that he was suffering,
The hills were hard to climb,
So they closed his little eyelids
And whispered peace be thine.
—Sadly missed by mother and daddy, Bobby, Viola and Joyce.

READER—In loving memory of Ephriam Reader who passed away April 11th, 1944.
Sweet memories will linger forever,
Time cannot change them, it's true.
Years that may come cannot sever
Our loving remebrance of you.
—Ever remembered by Gordon, Gertie and family.

YOUNG—In fond and loving memory of my dear sister, Hilda Young, who passed away April 11th, 1949. Also of my mother, who died February 24th, 1943; my sister Florrie on November 16th, 1945, and my father on February 15th, 1949:
It seemeth such a little way to me
Across to that strange country, the beyond,
And yet not strange for it has grown to be
The home of those of whom I am so fond
As journeying friends bring distant regions near
For me, there is no sting in death.
And so the grave has lost its victory.
It is but crossing with abated breath
And white set face, a little strip of sea
To find the loved ones waiting on the shore
More beautiful, more precious, than before.
—Always remembered by Ethel.
